Mr. Lowry's 15-year-old Ford couple left the highway and travelled some distance along the ditch, entered the creek, struck a submerged log and rolled over on its side. Neither of the two occupants were severely injured, although Nellie Cavell received a couple of minor cuts. The car came to rest in four feet of water in the centre of the creek, and the two wet occupants waded ashore.

Provincial constable Donald Erskine investigated.

THE DRIVER ESCAPED

Dumfries, Scotland (CP) — A truck skidded, crashed through a bridge parapet, fell 20 feet on to a railway track and was hit by an oncoming train. The truck was a total wreck, but the driver escaped with a grazed chin.

WEDDINGS

SHARPE—KNOX

A pretty Autumn wedding was recently solemnized in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Belleville, by the Rev. J. G. Hornsby , pastor of the church, when he united in marriage Vera Marie, daughter of Mrs. Isobel Knox, of Belleville, to William Sidney Sharpe, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Sharpe, also of Belleville. The ceremony was performed before a lovely background of gladioli and asters.

The church organist provided the wedding music.

The bride was becomingly gowned in pink silk faille with insert of lace and white gardenia corsage. She was attended by Miss Elaine McTaggart, of Belleville, who wore turquoise silk faille with corsage of yellow 'mums.

Mr. Ewart R. Mullin, of Montreal, attended the bridegroom, and the ushers were Mr. Hack Raycroft and Mr. John Bradden.

Following the reception, which was held at the home of the bride's parents, where the bride's mother, wearing pale blue crepe and lace with corsage of garnet roses, assisted by the bridegroom's mother, gowned in navy blue crepe with corsage of pink roses, received the guests, the young couple, left for Montreal, Ottawa, and points east, upon their return they will reside in Belleville. For travelling the bride wore a cerise ensemble with black velvet accessories, and corsage of white gardenias.

'MOTHER MAC' DIES

Thessalon, Ont., Oct. 10. (CP) —Mrs. J. G. McCartney ,widely known in Northern Ontario as "Mother Mac" died here Sunday. Connected with the hotel business in this Northern Ontario town for more than 40 years, Mrs. McCartney earned her affectionate nickname through her care for commercial travellers and tourists during the 1918 influenza epidemic.

Jemima is Hostess At Mackenzie Home

Toronto (CP) — Jemima, current first lady of the William Lyon Mackenzie homestead here, is 125 years old and was wearing seven petticoats when she arrived in town.

Jemima is 15 inches high, with jet black hair, and is a Polish doll who has captivated A. C. Kyte, curator of the homestead.

"She is just loaned to us for the present," says Mr. Kyte, "but she is the only doll we have and we hope she will be able to live here permanently."

In her short span of years, Jemima has seen much of the world and has quite a history.

A Prized Possession

She was bought originally for the daughter of a Polish-English family in Poland, and became one of the girl's most prized possessions. In the Polish revolution of 1848, she was among a few things that the daughter was able to take out of the country.

Her owner finally settled in India, where she married and had a son. Jemima was given to the son, Charles Potten, and was regarded by this time almost as an heirloom.

Charles Potten grew up and became a river pilot on the Hooghly River in India. Recently, he came to Canada, bringing the doll with him. Now she is on indefinite loan to the Mackenzie homestead.

Her clothes are as old as she is, and representative of the early 19th. Century in Poland. Her dress is of muslin, and the seven petticoats are all hand-made, with intricate rows of tucking. Girls' petticoats of the time were provided with the tucks, so that they could be let out as they grew. Although Jemima reached her full growth early in life, she also was provided with the tucking.

Trim-Looking Women Impress Czech Girl

Winnipeg (CP) — Irene Kankova says quietly: "I've always been lucky."

And the 23-year-old Czech, now assistant director of the Y.W.C.A.'s junior division here, needed luck. She was expelled from Charles University at Prague, arrested by the secret police, escaped from jail and fled her country.

Within two weeks of her arrival in Germany — that was in 1949 —she got a job with the World Y.W.C.A. Finally she arranged to come to Canada.

"One day I hope to become a Canadian citizen," she told a Winnipeg reporter. "But first I want to learn to speak perfect English and perhaps finish my education." She started work toward her Doctorate of Philosophy at the Sorbonne, Paris.

Four things impress her about Canada, she said: The automobiles, the food, the hospitality and the youthful, smart appearance of the women.

Vickie O'Neil V.O.N.

The girl was crying now, and Vicki said nothing for the moment. "Better let her relieve her pent-up feelings," she thought, "then I can tell her all these troubles are just apart of having a baby that there is nothing unusual about all this." But the upset young mother's query of "Why do I tire so easily after having been home a day or so from the hospital? and Why do I feel so much weaker at home when I was all right in the hospital? Why didn't I know ahead of time that I'd be so tired when I did get home? Why does the baby cry so much?" were still ringing in her ears.

Vicki glanced about the untidy apartment the unmade bed, the dishes stacked high in the sink, the crying baby all told a too familiar story to the little V.O.N. But this was a part of her job, and it always gave her a sense of having really helped, whenever, after a call like this, she would be able in a matter of a few days to help organize a distressed mother to enjoy her baby fully in the care of him.

Skillfully, quietly, she gave the baby his bath. In a little while the infant was sleeping soundly. The mother more eased and calm, and anxious to learn all she could, followed Vicki's smooth movements with intent interest.

"You see, Mrs. Holden", Vicki spoke softly as she went about her efficient methods, "you've got to give your body a chance to catch up. The well equipped hospital looked after your every need so simply that you figured, by the very fact that you had been released from there, that it was a green light signal to carry on your housework as before. The truth of the matter is," and Vicki pushed back her curly blond hair from her own face and put an understanding arm about the slight mother, "you, being what we call an "ambulatory patient" need just as much nursing care, help and guidance as any bed-patient."

"Well," smiled Mrs. Holden weakly, "being one of what you said, I can honestly agree. I never was so bushed in all my life. What I'll never understand is why didn't anybody tell that the V.O.N. would help me get over the blues!"

"By the way, how did you happen to call?" Vicki asked interestedly.

"Oh, a friend once wrote me about the help she had received from the V.O.N. when her mother was ill. I'd forgotten all about it, until I became so desperate. What a dream picture I had of it all caring for the baby, wearing clothes I hadn't been able to get into for so long; having my friends drop in to see the baby. Instead, everything seemed to blow up in my face, until I thought I'd drop with weariness and exhaustion."

"It's a lucky thing you did call," declared Vicki, "otherwise you might have had to return to the hospital for care."

"What I can't get over," Mrs. Holden went on, with a very real gratitude, "is how I might have had you to welcome me home from the hospital. It would have meant so much to all of us. But now that you have been found, please don't ever go far from Dalebrook."

"You can always count on the V.O.N." Vicki said happily, proudly, and added, "Remember, 'always!' "

If ever you are in need of nursing care or help, call 1125 for the V.O.N.

FOXBORO W.M.S.

Foxboro.—Members of the W.M.S. held their Thank-offering meeting on Thursday afternoon in the church, when a large number of ladies from visiting auxiliaries were entertained. After quiet music was played by Mrs. Eggleton the worship service was conducted by Mrs. G. Priest and Mrs. W. Hodgen.

Mrs. Rombough rendered a solo "Sweet Hour of Prayer" to her own guitar accompaniment and after the offering was received by Mrs. E. Sills and Mrs. C. Bamber, it was dedicated by Mrs. Walter Wickett, The address of welcome was ably given by Mrs. Mrs. J. G. Sills and Mrs. Bertrand gave a reading. Mrs. Westerhof in her native tongue contributed a solo "Breathe on Me" and Mrs. E. Tummon introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Barnett of Tweed. She asked "How interested are we in W.M.S. work? How have we witnessed to His power and do we practise faith and love. Let us remember the Watchword: What kind of Christians are we? Do we think too greatly of material things?. This was followed by a solo by Mrs. Connor of Tweed.

The ladies then assembled in the S.S. rooms where refreshments were served and a social time enjoyed.

Fashion Flashes

VERY SPANISH is the mood pervading several collections. Black velvet for a suit in the Spanish mode, the square bolero trimmed in black silk braid that edges the front, the curving back hem and the easy bracelet sleeves. The built-up skirt is full at the hem, where it is faced with brilliant red satin. With the suit is a white cotton bullfighter's blouse.

SLICE UP popular gray flannel with brilliant color, as do the designers. A grey flannel box jacket, double breasted and reversible, is lined with moleskin dyed a bright orange. Good with matching gray or black skirt and an orange turtleneck woolknit blouse.

GOOD THEATRE is achieved by this season's theatre suits, many with strapless or shoestring-strapped tops. Black woolen, with a beautiful velvety surface, for a slim suit, the high buttoned jacket trimmed with collar and gauntlet cuffs of black lace over gold lame to match the separate halter top bodice. An alternative bodice might be of black lace or gold lame.

A FULL SEASON ahead for the black suit cut on tailored lines. Hairy woollen for a handsome black town suit, the horseshoe neckline indented at either side. Cut on very slim lines, and worn with a white silk faille weskit with rhinestone buttons and pointed, collarless neckline.

FIRST FAVORITE with many women selecting a hat for early Fall is the cloche fashioned of silky fur-felt in rich pastels with jewelled crown band. Same models in hatter's plush are liked also.

War Breeds Love, Weddings Boosted in United States

(By The Associated Press)

The marriage rate in the United States has been climbing since the Korean war started June 25. In many places it has risen 20 per cent, an Associated Press survey shows.

A check was made of 20 marriage licence bureaus scattered across the country. Every one reported "business" in July and August, 1950, was greater than in the same period of 1949, when war was still cold and the draft only standby machinery.

One bureau reported the midsummer parade to the altar broke all previous records. Kent County, Mich., had 408 applications during August.

This is not typical of the nation, but cupid was consistently reported to have been given a shot in the arm by the fighting in Korea.

New York, Detroit, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Minneapolis and smaller cities reported 20-per-cent increases over last summer. Philadelphia had the biggest wedding boom since 1946. Los Angeles which had a 14-per-cent rise, reported its "marryingest" August in two years.

In one two-day period in Saginaw, Mich., 36 draft-age men appeared at their draft board to announce their status had changed; they were no longer bachelors.

Several wedding-ring manufacturers with national distribution said their July sales doubled those of July, 1949. The average gain among manufacturers, however, was 20 per cent.

June traditionally is the month for weddings, but this year it was August in many places. This was true of San Francisco, which issued 834 licences this June, as compared to 915 in June 1949; 725 licences in July, compared to 654; and 877 licenced in August, compared to 777.

The marriage rate in San Francisco, as in many places, had been falling since the late years of the Second World War.

David Dunn, head of the San Francisco marriage licence bureau said many of the girls coming into his office say: "Well, he's going to be called up - - maybe in November or December - - we don't know when. Anyhow the war has changed our plans, so we decided to go ahead and get married now."

More younger people are getting married. In Michigan a girl under 18 must obtain parental consent before getting a licence. County clerk Edgar M. Branigan of Wayne County reported that the number of parental consent applicants has at "least doubled" since the outbreak of the Korean war.

Baltimore issued 1,179 marriage licences in July as compared to 980 in July last year. However, at least one of the weddings was called off.

A young fellow came in, paid his dollar and applied for a licence, for which there is a two-day waiting period. Next day he came in to get his buck back.

"It's no use now," he complained. "I've just been to my draft board. They're calling me up soon."

P.S. - - He didn't get his money back.

Skunk Gets Into Washer

Sayreville, N. J., Oct. 10 — (AP) — A skunk in a washing machine causes just about as much trouble as you would expect.

Special Police Officer Joe Kupsch received a call yesterday from a householder who said a skunk was wandering around his basement.

Kupsch looked into the matter in the afternoon. By that time the skunk was in the washing machine, nestling on a pile of dirty clothes.

Kupsch shot the skunk.

Then he buried the clothes.

He went home and tried to air out his own clothes.

He thinks he'll have to bury them too.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

What do you quarrel about?

Even in the halcyon days of [illegible]urtship, there are few couples [illegible]o make the grade all the way to the altar without a quarrel now and then. Those who make the grade from altar to golden wedding with nary a violent disagreement are far, far fewer.

For, whether single or wed, whether in the first ecstasies of early romance or the familiar doldrums of marital middle-age, human beings still remain human, which means that they are almost certain to get angry at each other every once in awhile.

Just because a man and a maid, or a wife and a husband, have their occasional quarrels, therefore, it's not necessarily a cause for serious alarm. Most such differences of opinion blow over in good time without leaving behind any traces of real bitterness. The most sensible thing to do about [illegible]m is to take them in stride, [illegible]cepting them as an inevitable part of life and dismissing them as of little real importance in the whole scheme of man-and-woman relationships.

The trick is to learn to recognize the difference between a quarrel that should be casually dismissed, and one that has a significance it would be wiser not to overlook between one arising from a trivial cause and one that has its inception in differing attitudes toward fundamental principles. And the time to learn to make this distinction is before you start planning the wedding. For many a marital disaster might be forestalled if two people in love could use the insight such knowledge would provide as a means of sizing up each other's character and personality in advance of definite commitments. In this way they would be in a position to decide, on the basis of certain known facts, whether a given individual would be likely to make a lucky or an unlucky [illegible]ital partner.

[illegible]he young man who writes me that he and his girl had a quarrel in which he became so angry that he broke off with her, has this to say about the situation:

"Now I realize that what we quarrelled about didn't amount to a row of pins, and I feel very badly about the whole thing. I believe everything could be straightened out, but I don't quite know how to go about it."

Here, no doubt, is a typical lovers' spat, a disagreement over some trifle which, as is usually the case with lovers' spats, took on an emotional coloring far beyond its worth, simply because the feelings of people in love are particularly sensitive and intense. In the course of an engagement even so small a thing as one or the other being late for an appointment can build up into a major episode in which the delinquent may be accused of anything from bad manner to actual loss of love for the injured one.

As a rule, quarrels over trifles soon end in a blissful reconciliation, in which all hard feelings dissolve in fervently renewed protestations of devotion. For the one at fault to be mature enough to say: "I was to blame and I'm sorry,' should dispose of the issue once and for all. Hence, a box of flowers, and a loving note of apology, should be all that is needed to mend matters between the young man and his financee —provided he watches his step from now on, and provided she's not a girl who likes to cherish a grudge.

When it comes to the other kind of quarrel, however, it is something else again. Things can not be handled so easily if the trouble involves a matter of principle, standard of conduct or a moral question. In such a case, there is far too much at stake for a mere apology to do any permanent good.

A situation in point concerns a husband and wife whose six-months-old marriage has been one long and bitter argument over practically everything.

"My wife never wants to spend an evening at home," the husband complains, "and in fact has stayed home only two evening since we've been married. If I don't go out with her, she goes alone. I can't go out alone, though, not even to a movie. She won't visit any of my relatives, and doesn't like it when I do. She dislikes all my friends, and won't have anything to do with them, but I have to like hers.

"I have it right here"

BEAUTY

Im[illegible]ce of deep breathing

Those smart old Greeks of ancient times believed that individuals who had good breathing motors, and made it a practice to draw in the air deeply, were more talented, energetic, aspiring, hopeful, vivacious and spirited than those of feeble respiratory powers. We know now that deep breathing strengthens abdominal muscles, aids the digestive organs, often brings relaxation and sound sleep, puts roses in your cheeks.

The athletic girl nearly always has a complexion of fine texture and good coloring. Life in the open air is vitalizing. Deep inhalations mingle fresh air with the fluids of the body and purify the blood, upon which the coloring of the skin depends. Whenever you are feeling low and fancy that the world is kicking you around, stand before an open window and drink in the ozone. In five minute's time your outlook may chance. You will be aware of a glow all over your body.

A good complexion comes from within. A wholesome diet, plenty of outdoor exercise, plenty of water inside and out, sound sleep and a cheerful disposition will ward off any number of good-looks sorrows. The roads to beauty are travelled via personal hygiene and splendid health.

Proper breathing is necessary to maintain the elasticity of the lung tissues. It is only when the chest expands that thorough ventilation of the lungs takes place. A full supply of oxygen chases out the stagnant residual air and cleans the cells of respiratory secretions. Air thrown out by the lungs carries impurities of which the body should be rid. Some of our demon housekeepers —who are forever sweeping and dusting, but are shallow breathers —should clean out their lungs.

Respiratory exercises will improve stooped shoulders and will help one to maintain correct posture, so necessary for health and good appearance. When the chest is expanded, drawing the air into the very cellars of the lungs, the head is balanced, the spine straightens and shoulders repose naturally and gracefully.

A narrow chest and undeveloped breast are often due to shallow breathing. It is possible to inhale fully at any time— while lying in bed before going to sleep, while walking, while having that restful warm-water soaking in the bathtub.

Inhale through the nostrils, pulling in the abdominal muscles. Exhale through the lips with a whistling sound. This practice will make your lungs laugh. You will experience a sensation of exhileration and renewed energy.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

He rebels about giving engagement ring "in public"

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

We're engaged, I've bought the ring, and the engagement is to be announced at once (before I leave for camp) at a party her mother and father are giving at their home. My fiancee thinks I should wait to give her the engagement ring in front of all the guests at the engagement party. I think this would be terrible. I want to give her the ring in private, saying what I want to say to her only, not to her before a mob of relatives and friends. Besides I never heard of giving the engagement ring in this public way, and my parents said they never heard of this either. Who is right about this?

George L.

You are right . . . and I'm sure you can gently persuade "herself" that this ceremony of the giving-of-the-engagement-ring should be in private, just you and she together. I'm sure, too, that she'll be persuaded if you tell her you "have something you want to say to her only" as you put the ring on her finger, something you two will always remember. . . she'll be eager to hear those sweet words, sir!

There should be no recriminations when engagement is broken

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

About six weeks ago my fiance broke our engagement. I was terribly hurt and disappointed about this, because I loved him and still do. I did not return the engagement ring. Now he has sent word indirectly, through my cousin, that he thinks I should return the ring. I have told my cousin to tell him that he had a nerve to ask this, because I had gone to quite a good deal of expense in making plans for an apartment and for some furniture and so forth for our forthcoming marriage. Please advise me what I should do about this.

Beth M.

You should return the ring, my dear girl, because the reason it was given to you no longer exists, and because it will always be to you the symbol of the unhappiness and humiliation you are suffering. There is not, nor can there ever be, any happiness for you connected with that ring. No matter what is the reason for a broken engagement, a girl who has a proper sense of values returns the engagement ring to the man, with no unattractive comments or recriminations. If she shows the bad taste you are showing, your ex-fiance will feel that he was really justified in breaking his engagement to a girl of such unsure taste. Return the ring to him at once. . .do the returning yourself, not through your cousin. . . enclose a brief, courteous note saying that since the ring stands for an engagement that no longer exists you feel that it should be returned to him . . . . close the book on this engagement. . . and fare forth high-heartedly to "new fields".

An informal toast is drunk together

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I know that on a formal occasion, at a dinner or wedding reception for instance, the one to whom a toast is proposed does not drink the toast. But how about when, say, two people are having a drink together and one says to the other, raising the glass. "Here's to you", or "Here's to your health" or any other simple toast. Is it proper to drink at once with the one proposing the toast?

S. Y.

Yes. . .the rule for formal occasions does not apply on such informal, casual occasions.

MARIO

. . . in his distinctive feature about Food . . . What's Cooking ?

The world's unshapliest vegetable is native American. Although sweet potatoes when grown in the tropics produce a lovely flower that looks like the morning glory, the tuber itself is not exactly a beauty winner.

The 60 million bushels of sweet potatoes now maturing, biggest crop in 4 years, will be short and chunky, long and rangy, pudgy, twisted, curled and knotted.

Needless to say this diversity of form doesn't affect the sweet moist flavor of golden sweet potatoes brought steaming hot from the oven on a dinner platter. Nor does it dim the appetites of those who know that in a few weeks they can eat limitless quantities of fried thick sweet potato slices or sweet potatoes candied with molasses and apples.

For rich moist flavor buy golden sweet potatoes with slightly reddish skin and red or orange flesh. For dry mealy sweet potatoes buy "Jerseys" with a light grayish yellow skin.

If sweet potatoes are to be baked, as in today's recipe, select short chunky ones as uniform in size as possible. In any sweet potato dish the natural sweetness of this vegetable should be pointed up with brown or white sugar. No matter what their shape, 2 pounds of sweet potatoes will provide 5 generous servings as a rule.

Baked Sweet Potatoes Stuffed with Ham—Serves 4.

Wash 4 large golden sweet potatoes. Place in a hot even 450 degrees and bake 50-60 minutes. Turn potatoes during baking to cook evenly on all sides. Cut the baked sweet potatoes in half lengthwise.

Remove insides of potatoes, allowing enough potato to remain so that shells do not break. Mash the pulp with a ricer. Mix the mashed sweet potatoes with 2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine, 1-4 cup cream or rich milk, 1 teaspoon sugar and 1-2 teaspoon salt.

Cut 1-4 pound boiled or baked ham into very small cubes. Combine ham with 1-2 cup undiluted canned cream of mushroom soup.

Fill the potato shells half full with the ham mixture. Pile the sweet potatoes on top the ham, forming large mounds on each shell. Smooth with the back of a spoon or a spatula. Sprinkle potatoes very lightly with cinnamon and sugar. Dot with butter or margarine.

Place the potatoes upright in a baking pan. Bake in a moderate oven 375 degrees 15-20 minutes or until brown. While potatoes are browning, place 4 canned pineapple slices in a shallow pan, sprinkle with sugar, and place under a broiler flame for a few minutes to heat through. Serve pineapple slices with potatoes.

Women's Institute

MOUNTAIN VIEW W.I.

The October meeting of Mountain View Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Ben Anderson with twenty-four members and two visitors present. The visitors were Mrs. Ross Burr and Mrs. Ronald Burr.

The president, Mrs. E. Hall, presided.

The meeting was opened in the usual manner. A great many business details were discussed and decision made regarding them. The roll call was responded to by naming new ways of preparing vegetables,

Mrs. Stanley Barber had on display a vegetable and fruit salad which she had made. This salad was very pleasing to the eye as well as being also very pleasing to the taste as it was served with the lunch and everyone had an opportunity of sampling it. Mrs. Barber also gave the recipe and explained how the salad was made.

The topic for the afternoon was Agriculture and was in charge of Mrs. Clarke Sprung. Mrs. Sprung gave a very enlightening reading on this subject.

As it was very near Thanksgiving, Mrs. J. D. Keeble gave a very lovely reading describing the first Thanksgiving.

The meeting was then brought to a close after which the hostess assisted by Miss Lillian Sprague and Mrs. Alfred Poste served refreshments and a social half hour was enjoyed.

500 Attend Dinner in Honor Of WS Thompson

Montreal, Oct. 10 (CP) —Some 500 publishers, newspaper men radio men and public relations officers Saturday night attended a dinner in honor of Walter Scott Thompson, director of public relations for the Canadian National Railways, who retires this month.

The Montreal Men's Press Club which sponsored the event, presented him with a life membership in the club, a distinction he shares only with Viscount Alexander, Governor-General of Canada. Mr. Thompson was also presented with a new automobile.

Mr. Thompson, who covered about 50,000 miles a year maintaining personal contacts in Canada, heard some of Canada's top newspaper men and publicists laud his work over the last 30 years.

Herve Major, managing editor of Montreal La Presse and president of The Canadian Press, said:

"George Bernard Shaw once advised Walter to get out of the newspaper business. If that was responsible for his coming to Canada we have one more reason to be grateful to G.B.S."

Mr. Thompson said in reply:

"I am and have always been a newspaper man. There have been no tricks, no magic in my job. I have tried to create an atmosphere which will recognize the cardinal fact that the newspaper shall get the news.

"I will leave this business with the same simple idea with which I entered it. That is that there is a basis on which the management of great industries can meet with newspaper men. That basis is one of honesty, understanding, common sense and a certain amount of intelligence.

"I have no business plans whatever. Now that I have retired I intend to try to find some occupation that will be helpful to Canadians. I am going to try to be a useful member of this country of mine."

Thanksgiving Day Saw Customary Family Reunions

(By The Canadian Press)

For the earth's good things, Canadians gave thanks yesterday while celebrating the Thanksgiving holiday in traditional fashion.

There were the customary family reunions and big dinners. Sports events highlighted the entertainment bill of fare.

Thirty-two violent deaths marred the long holiday weekend with traffic accidents accounting for 21 on highways jammed with travelling motorists.

There were 12 fatalities in Ontario, 10 in Quebec, three in New Brunswick, two in Nova Scotia, one in Manitoba and four in British Columbia, a Canadian Press compilation showed.

Generally, the weather was fine for outings to the country for a view of Autumn's many colors, or sports programs which found baseball, hockey and football seasons overlapped.

In Ontario there were high winds and heavy rains. Storm warnings flew along Lake Ontario and Lake Erie. There also was some rain in Nova Scotia.

Besides the sports programs, hunters were out in large numbers.

Churches were crowded for Sunday services.

Ethiopians Fight To Enter Schools

Ottawa (CP) — It is hard to imagine Canadian children fighting to be admitted to high schools or travelling several hundred miles to be enrolled, but that is what is happening in Ethiopia.

Ephraim Borrou, one of Ethiopia's two deputy directors of education said the desire for learning is so great that the ministry of education can hardly cope with the situation.

Frequently they announce by radio that no more students will be admitted to government schools.

In Canada recently for a short visit, Mr. Borrous said: "Children even run away from home to go to school."

Fees Based on Means

He explained that educational fees are based on the student's ability to pay. All schools are the boarding type and are operated by the government. Therefore, the students are housed and fed in addition to being taught.

The big push behind Ethiopian education, he said, is Emperor Haile Selassie. The emperor established the first school in Addis Ababa—the capital — in 1890 with his own money and every year sends students abroad to train as teachers.

"Whenever a new school is built, Haile Selassie is the man who lays the corner stone. He personally attends every school function in Addis Ababa.

Previously, anyone desiring a formal education had to go abroad, but now with the construction of two universities in the capital, this situation is expected to be remedied.

Fire Destroys Petawawa Stores Loss $100,000

Pembroke, Oct. 10—(CP)—Loss was estimated at more than $100,000 in a fire which destroyed quartermaster's stores of the 2nd Royal Canadian Regiment at Petawawa Military Camp, 10 miles north of here, Sunday.

Equipment used for the training of Canada's special force was destroyed in the fire, and the possibility of sabotage was investigated by a court of inquiry which sat several hours Monday afternoon.

In Ottawa, Defence Minister Claxton asked for a full report as soon as possivble.

Col. D. J. Todd, officer commanding the camp, said "sabotage was the first thought which occurred to me. But as far as I know. . . the fire was accidental."

Two witnesses at the inquiry testified the blaze started where the power line entered the stores building over a front porch.

"It might have been a short circuit or a bare wire," Col. Todd said.

Big City Dairies Combining Says C.C.F. Leader

Toronto, Oct. 10—(CP)—E. B. Jolliffe, leader of the C.C.F. opposition in the Ontario Legislature, said Monday night that big cities dairies "constitute a combine and a first-class racket" which should be exposed and stripped of their poower to impose exhorbitant prices on the public.

In a radio address on a free-time political broadcast over the CBC's provincial network, he said Canada has started on a dangerous runaway inflation and that price controls, federal or provincial or both, are necessary at once.

Referring to the high price of milk—20 cents a quart—in the Toronto area he said the situation had resulted in lower consumption which was a blow to agriculture and health.

Mr. Jolliffe said that in Montreal, Edmonton and Calgary the farmer gets more for milk than in the Toronto market and the consumer pays less. He said one reason for this was abandonment of milk control prices by the Ontario government in 1948.

INTERFERENCE APPROVED

I don't like to interfere, but when I found that my youngest daughter-in-law didn't know that blueing is the only safe way to keep clothes white, I felt I just had to say something. 'Reckitt's Blue prevents clothes turning yellow', I told her. 'Just a swish or two in the final rinse and your wash will be sparkling white.' Blue is necessary to obtain true white. At the same time she takes no chances with anything that may damage fabric.

13 New Canadian Teachers Now In Ethiopia

Addis Ababa, Oct. 10—(AP)—Thirteen new Canadian teachers have joined the Ethiopian school system.

There now are 51 Canadian teachers in the country—the largest group from any western country employed here.

They are outnumbered, however, by teachers from India, who are paid smaller salaries. Those from Canada receive salaries comparable to what they were paid at home.

Roy E. Smith, of Sudbury, Ont., one of the new arrivals, has been named headmaster of the Menelik school, oldest in the country and named after the former emperor Menelik. He replaced another Canadian, Findley Barnes of Edmonton, who has returned to Canada.

Other Canadians occupy teaching positions in the Addis Ababa schools. Because of difficult living conditions in the provinces none have been appointed to schools outside of Haile Selassie's capital. Indians usually get the provincial assignments.

Canadian teachers here from Ontario include:

John Benson, St. Catharines; Carl King, Brighton; M. Clark, Sudbury; Earl Armstrong, Peterborough; Walter Schmidt, Kitchener; Gordan Ringler, Larder Lake; J. K. McDougall, Milton; and H. D. Wells and Mrs. Wells, John Dempster and W. G. Lee, all of Toronto.

Allen Winston-Barwood of Halifax is the other member of the group.

They were engaged by Frank Patten, Toronto, deputy-director of the Ethiopian ministry of education, who made a teacher recruiting trip to Canada this summer.

IN 50 YEARS ALUMINUM HAS GROWN TO BE A LARGE PART OF CANADIAN LIVING
Aluminum plant - Kingston, Ont.

ALUMINUM
ALCAN
The MODERN METAL

Half-way House

between Aluminum Ingot and You

With an axe and a few other hand tools, our ancestors could chop down trees and make houses, chairs, bowls, canoes — lots of things. But all these were heavy and had many other disadvantages. It's different now that we have aluminum — which is light, rustless, won't burn, doesn't rot . . . is practically everlasting.

It takes a whole series of unusual and complicated "tools" to make things of aluminum. To start with, it takes ships to import the ore, ports for unloading, powerhouses for electricity, smelters . . . all these to produce the aluminum itself, still only in ingot form.

Next, it takes a plant like the Alcan one at Kingston to receive these ingots from the smelters and to shape the metal into tubes, sheets, extrusions, forgings and foil. Finally, it takes more than 1000 Canadian manufacturers to form all these into chairs, kitchen utensils, building materials, aeroplanes, etc. — things Canadians use every day.

So, you see, this Kingston plant is "half-way" house between ingot and finished article, between the original aluminum and you. It is a link in the chain of "tools" with which, over the last fifty years, Canadians have equipped themselves to make aluminum articles — creating work and wages for thousands, bringing greater convenience and comfort to modern living.

Prince Declares He Still Loves Barbara Hutton

Paris, Oct. 9 (AP) — Barbara Hutton's current husband thinks if the Woolworth heire[illegible] a fifth time, it would [illegible] grotesque" that her [illegible] should "form a society[illegible]

Prince Igor Troubetzkoy suggested it in an interview at the Ritz Friday. He avowed that he still loved his wife — who has been saying that his love was dollar-inspired — but that "apparently I mean nothing to her any more."

He said "she wants to crystalize her desire for something new" and left him in search of "absolute happiness." And now "she is trying to crucify my reputation."

The prince declined to say if he plans to sue Barbara, but added that "people can't walk on me forever."

Heatedly he denied Barbara's accusation that he wed her for her money — estimated between $20,000,000 and $40,000,000 — and insisted it was Barbara who had asked him to marry her "again and again and again." So he did, in 1947.

The heiress' first husband was the late Count Alexis Mdivani of Russian Georgie (1933-35), her second Count Kurt Maugwitz-Reventlow of Denmark (1935-41), and her third screen star Cary Grant (1942-45).

"I think she loved me," reminisced Prince Troubetzkoy. "She's always been sincere about everything she's done. Even if she married 20 times, she'd be sincere every time."

Still "I should never have married Babs," he went on. "It was my mistake, not hers. I was only a stockbroker. She loved high society." He gave her age as 37, his as 38.

If he married her for her millions, he asked, "where's the money? Unfortunately I never took any." His own resources were "very moderate — I am trying to get along with my little motorbike factory in a Paris suburb."

Shaw Thinks Verdi's 'Requiem' is Greatest

Winnipeg, Oct. 9 (CP) — Here's another little fact about George Bernard Shaw: he thinks Verdi's Requiem surpasses all others.

The Shavian comment on music was made on one of the postcards he sends to his correspondents around the world — this one to Frank Morriss of the Winnipeg Free Press staff.

Morriss asked if Shaw still was as scathing in his criticism of Brahms as in the 1890's when he was a music reviewer.

"I pitched into the (Brahms) Requiem," Shaw replied, "because the Brahmins considered it so sacred that they took all the Mendelssohnic melody and contrapuntal champagne out of it, making it unberably dull.

"All requiems were false and dull until Verdi's swept everything before it."

Tomb of Pocahontas Falls into Neglect

Gravesend, Eng. (Reuters) — Pocahontas, dead these many years, threatens to put the Indian sign on one aspect of Anglo-American relations.

Pocahontas died in England and was buried at Saint George's Church here. The church has fallen into disrepair, the congregation has dwindled away and there is talk of closing it.

Word of all this has got back to Virginia, Pocahontas' old stamping grounds, and residents of the old colony have taken to making long-distance phone calls to protest any action that might mean that Pocahontas' tomb be desecrated or obliterated.

What with time differences, the phone calls generally wake up Rev. Richard Daunton-Fear, rector of the church.

He has gotten so tired of being aroused to hear a southern drawl ask what's with Pocahontas that he has even gone to the American embassy in London.

"They said they were too busy with the Korean war," he reports.

Then he adds: "If the Americans want to make it a shrine why doesn't one put down, say, $200,000 to maintain the church? It's their move — if they want to make one."

Meanwhile, he begs, no more midnight phone calls so that he, like Pocahontas, can rest in peace.

Western Diplomats Skeptical Of Surprise Soviet Acceptance Of Parts of Anti-Veto Plan

Lake Success, N.Y., Oct. 10 — Western diplomats were skeptical today of Russia's surprise acceptance of some parts of state secretary Dean Acheson's four-point anti-veto peace plan.

They speculated on the Soviet Union's motives.

Was it one of Russia's startling diplomatic shifts, or was the tentative embrace which Andrei Y. Vishinsky, Soviet foreign minister, gave the plan in the 60-member political committee intended as the kiss of death?

Puzzled diplomas waited for a major Vishinsky policy speech to clarify the situation.

The plan itself, called "United action for peace," is a formalization of Acheson's Sept. 20 proposals, which the state department's republican adviser, John Foster Dulles, called the "logical sequence" of the lessons learned in Korea. its main points are:

1. Emergency sessions of the veto-free general assembly whenever the Security Council, which has the primary responsibility for preserving peace, is hamstrung by a veto.

2 Peace patrols of observers to report to the assembly on acts of aggression.

3. Designation by U.N. members of specific units of their armed forces to be placed at the disposal of the U.N. in times of crisis.

4. Establishment of a commission to report to the security council and general assembly next year on specific means which might be used to enforce peace.

Introduced By Dulles

Co-sponsors with the U.S. are Canada, Britain, France, the Phillippines, Turkey and Uruguay.

The plan was introduced to the political committee yesterday by Dulles. Vishinsky immediately took the floor and astounded delegates by declaring Russia favored some of the points in the sweeping program. He added, however, that there would have to be many amendments and alterations.

Most observers had expected outright Soviet opposition.

Dulles, in a radio interview later, said speculation about Vishinsky's motives for his latest stand might be "dangerous" or "unkind."

Britain's Minister of State, Kenneth D. Younger, sitting next to Vishinsky in the crowded committee room, suggested that outright Russian opposition might seriously have alienated world public opinion.

Feeling Echoed

Many diplomats echoed this feeling. They speculated that Vishinsky had not dared to oppose openly any proposal whose aim was world peace.

They felt, however, that the Soviet Foreign Minister may try to water down the plan, or change its meaning by a series of amendments.

In this connection much study was being given to which points Vishinsky might find acceptable and those which he would want changed.

The consensus was that the Soviet Union definitely would demand there be no weakening of the Security Council, where it has the veto power. Russia has repeatedly referred to the council as the "main organ" of the United Nations and considers the Assembly merely an advisory body.

France Will Ask U.S. For Funds

(By JOHN SCALI)

Washington, Oct. 10—(AP) The French government has begun to lay the groundwork for a detailed request for American funds to help finance the first year of France's stepped-up rearmament program.

French financial experts have started presenting initial figures to the state department in preparation for the arrival Thursday of Finance Minister Maurice Petsche of France.

Petsche will sum up France's case during a round of conferences with top American officials, including Treasury Secretary John Snyder and State Secretary Dean Acheson.

The French request is reported to cover the amount of money France believes she will need during the 1951 fiscal year to start her on the self-imposed task of creating, equipping and maintaining 15 new army divisions.

The French government, responding to an American plea for bigger defence spending, has announced its readiness to undertake a $5,710,000,000 rearmament program to strengthen western Europe.

The French plan would add some 250,000 men to the 650,000 in the French armed forces now. A good part of this present army is tied up in Indo-China fighting the communists. What the United States is expected to contribute to make this expanded rearmament program possible has not yet been spelled out.

By comparison, Britain has called on the United States to pay half of the cost of the extra 3,000,000,000 she plans to spend for defence during the same period.

'Big Bird' Invades Montreal Woman's Apartment

Montreal, Oct. 10 — (CP) — Janitor G. Downie yesterday morning was thinking of the traditional fowl dinner that celebrates Thanksgiving Day.

His reverie was broken by Mrs. Richard F. Porter, a tenant, who said a "big bird" had invaded her apartment.

Downie found a long-tailed bright-tufted pheasant, alive and full of fight and mischief.

The bird had flown through a closed window and was cavorting around the apartment.

After a tough chase the janitor ran the pheasant down.

Regretfully — thinking of Thanksgiving dinner — he turned it loose.

Prodigal Pashas Big Aid to Reds Magazine Claims

By ZEIN NAGATI

Cairo (AP) — Egypt's lavish living class is chiefly responsible for the growth of communism in the Nile kingdom, says Egypt's most widely read weekly magazine.

The independent Akhbar El Yom (News of the Day) said in an editorial that Egypt is known abroad not for its rich history, but for sexy dancers and the open spending of wealthy Egyptians on trips abroad.

The editorial, written by publisher Moustapha Bey Amin, is the most forthright comment seen in the Egyptian press in recent months.

News stories about Egyptian personalities on holiday in Europe and elsewhere usually are carefully screened by censors before distribution to local newspapers. But radio Tel Aviv in Israel and stations in nearby Arab countries, not subject to Egyptian censorship, don't pull any punches in their stories of free spending Pashas on holiday.

All you have to do is sit around a Cairo coffee shop to find that out. It's the gossip in the bazaars.

The wide spread between Egypt's rich and poor long has been one of communism's chief talking points. The rich own most of the land. The Fellaheen (peasants) who till the rich Nile soil work for incredibly small pay. The average income in Egypt is less than $45 yearly. That's according to official statistics.

The sharp social and economic class distinction, the extreme poverty of the masses, is an open invitation to communist propagandists.

That's why observers attach significance to the Akhbar El Yom editorial at this time.

Except for Egypt's recent English Channel swimming victory, the magazine said, an Egyptian in Paris or London today "couldn't walk with his head up."

It said that pictures of Samia Gamal, Egypt's most famous dancer, appeared on front pages of the world's press with the title "Official Dancer of the Egyptian Government." This was after Samia danced at Deauville, France. (Egypt's King Farouk has been holidaying on the French "Gold Coast.")

"It's ridiculous," the magazine said, to attribute the gossip abroad about Egypt to Zionist propaganda, "unless the Zionists now control everything in Europe, including the tongues of hair-dressers, waiters and street boys."

It is ridiculous, too, the magazine added, to say that workers and students are the ones spreading communism in Egypt.

"The real leaders of communism are Egypt's wealthy men and Egypt's upper class. Their bad behavior is the most efficient propaganda for communism. If you want to stop communism you must put some restrictions on the upper class."

The Akhbar El Yom editorial said American and British diplomats are disturbed over the "wave of frustration" affecting the common people of the country.

The writer quoted one British official as saying "the real fifth column in Egypt is not your poor, hungry lower class but your lavish upper class."

IF THEY'RE WELL FED, THEY'RE SUSPECTED

These Koreans stand and squat in front of a sign beaming "Welcome U.N." after their village near the 38th Parallel had been occupied by U.S. troops. However, their expressions are less joyful because the Allies have good and sufficient reason to suspect anyone who has come through the red occupation in good health. So they are awaiting screening to determine whether they are really friend or foe. — Central Press Canadian.

French Troops Still Fighting To Cut Way Through Red-Led Guerrillas in Indo-China

(By SEYMOUR TOPPING)

Saigon, Indo-China, Oct. 10 — (AP)—French troops withdrawing from a key Chinese frontier post were still fighting to cut their way through communist-led guerrillas far outnumbering them.

A military spokesman said "some hundreds" of the crack Foreign Legionnaires and Moroccans surrounded by Ho Chi Minh's Viet Minh fighters had succeeded in breaking through to the French post of Thatkhe, near the Chinese frontier.

The spokesman indicated the remainder still were battling along a 15-mile stretch of highway between Dongkhe and Thatkhe, but added that after five days of fighting some units may be out of ammunition.

Bad weather had grounded French planes, hampering the securing of information on the encircled forces.

The troops under attack are the garrison from Caobang, key frontier post abandoned by the French last week, and a column from Thatkhe sent to screen them.

The French forces earlier had placed the encircled force at "several battalions" in size. Today a spokesman said they were outnumbered 10 to one by guerrillas in the "several tens of thousands."

Thatkhe, meanwhile, has been reinforced by fresh French troops. The garrison there had been dangerously depleted by the attack on the column sent to screen the withdrawing Caobang garrison, but observers say the reinforcements have eased the danger to the post—one of the few points still held by the French along the Chinese frontier.

Should the remainder of the encircled group not succeed in escaping the Viet Minh trap, observers consider it would be a disastrous defeat to the French. Their troops already are spread thin along the Chinese border, while Viet Minh forces—reported to be supplied and trained by the Chinese communists—have been increasing steadily in numbers and fire power.

17-Year-Old Boy Fatally Shot At Crowe River

Havelock, Oct. 10 (Special)—The first hunting fatality of the season in the district took the life of a 17-year-old boy Saturday.

Patrick F. S. Hill of Havelock and Oshawa, was instantly killed at Flat Rapids in Crowe River, about five miles east of Havelock. The boy was alone at the time, and his three hunting companions found him dead, partly in the water and partly in a boat. One barrel of his 12-gauge shotgun had exploded, hitting him in the right hand and his right side under the arm.

Hill had gone hunting with his brother Bob, 19, and Glen and Ross Varty, cousins, also both 19. The three were out of the sight of Hill when they heard the blast. It is believed that Hill had beached the boat and had reached for the barrel of the gun when one of the hammers caught, causing the gun to go off.

The gun is believed to be a borrowed one. The two Hills had come from Oshawa, where they both work for a lumber company, to open the duck season. The fatality happened about 12.30 p.m.

Patrick F. S. Hill was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Hill, Ottawa street, Havelock. There are nine brothers and one sister in the family, ranging in age from 16 to 35. He was employed at the Gall Lumber Company, in Oshawa, and boarded at 220 Cord street in that city.

The funeral was held this afternoon (Tuesday) at 2.30 p.m. from the United Church in Havelock.

Travel Funds

New regulations covering travel funds were announced by the Minister of Finance on Wednesday, October 4th.

The main point to remember is that Canadian residents require Form H Permit to take out of Canada more than $50 U.S. or more than $100 of Canadian and U.S. currencies combined. Form H Permits will continue to be available at banks.

The regulation covering the use of Form H for the export of currency is a safeguard against the export of capital sums where such export would not be permitted through other channels.

Authority has been given to banks and other agents of the Foreign Exchange Control Board to approve applications for U.S. travel funds without reference to the Board for amounts up to:

1. $500 per trip for bona fide business travel.
2. $500 per person in the calendar year for other travel.
3. $2,000 Canadian per year, or its equivalent, for attendance during a full academic year at a university, college or boarding school in the United States.

Applications in excess of these amounts may be referred to the Board and will be approved for reasonable amounts, having regard to the duration of the proposed journeys.

Border Travel:—Individuals may obtain up to $50 U.S. in any calendar month for use on a trip to the United States where the applicant will not be taking out of Canada more than a total of $100, of which not more than $50 is in U.S. funds.

Detroit Red Wings Look Good On Eve of N.H.L. Season

(By The Canadian Press)

The National Hockey League starts Wednesday and the other coaches can't be blamed if they throw apprehensive looks at Detroit's powerful Red Wings.

The Stanley Cup holders took the N. H. L. All-Stars into camp 7-1 Sunday, the first time the All-Stars have lost in the four-year history of the annual benefit game.

And it takes nothing away from the powerful Wings to say that the All-Star team that took the ice in the Detroit Olympia was probably weaker than the one picked by N. H. L. coaches at the end of last season.

Coach Tommy Ivan of Detroit said himself after the game: "We were just in better shape, physically than they were."

The game put some $11,675 into the N.H.L. players' pension fund.

The league schedule opens tomorrow when New York Rangers play in Detroit. In other games this week, Montreal Canadiens are at home to Chicago Black Hawks Thursday and to Boston Bruins Saturday. Chicago plays the Maple Leafs in Toronto Saturday.

The All-Star game showed that Detroit's great line of Ted Lindsay, Sid Abel and Gord Howe has lost none of its scoring punch. And it indicated that young Terry Saychuk, starting his first NHL season in goal, probably won't have too much trouble sticking in the big league.

Lindsay scored three of Detroit's goals, one of them in the first 19 seconds of play. Sawchuk was robbed of a shutout with less than two minutes remaining when Toronto's Sid Smith scored from Boston's Johnny Peirson.

Played with Toronto

Maurice Richard of Montreal and Gus Mortson of Toronto were the only members of the All-Star first team to line up against the Wings. Abel and Lindsay, picked for the All-Stars, played, naturally, with Detroit. The other two—goalie Bill Durnan and defenceman Ken Reardon of Montreal, have retired.

Of the second team, only Chuck Rayner and Tony Leswick of New York and Ted Kennedy of Toronto were available. Red Kelly and Leo Reise stayed in the Red Wing camp.

Five of the goals were scored on Turk Broda of Toronto, who took over from Rayner half way through the game after Lindsay had scored twice in the first period.

Howe scored from Lindsay and Kelly just after Broda went in the net. Jimmy Peters added one from Kelly and Metro Prystal 7 minutes later. Less than a minute after that, Prystal and Peters teamed to set up a goal for Marty Pavelich.

Prystal Scored Early

Prystal, playing his first game as a Red Wing after coming from Chicago, scored early in the third period from Pavelich and Lindsay fired one past Broda unassisted.

The weekend also wound up the round of pre - season exhibition games.

Montreal Canadiens tied 4 - 4 Saturday with Springfield Indians of the American Hockey League at Springfield, then beat the Indians 4-1 at Montreal Sunday.

Chicago Black Hawks tied 2-2 with Ottawa Senators of the Quebec Senior League in Ottawa Saturday, then beat the Quebec Aces of the same league 11-3 in Quebec Sunday.

Toronto Maple Leafs beat Buffalo Bisons of the A. H. L. 5-1 Saturday in St. Catharines, Ont., returning to Toronto Monday for the club's annual Blues-Whites charity game. The blues, captained by Ted Kennedy, beat the whites, led by Harry Watson, 5-2.

Adanacs Hope To Break Out In Rash of Goals

Toronto, Oct. 10 (CP) —Adanacs of New Westminster, B. C., have substituted determination for the disappointment that followed their 8-7 loss to Owen Sound Crescents in the opener of the Mann Cup lacross final here Sunday.

"We're going to break out," Coach Bob Lee said last night. "Our team has the scorers —and they're certain to break loose some time. Maybe they'll start clicking Wednesday, maybe not until the third game.

But with the top goal-getters like Mike Munro, Jack Proctor and Jack Northup, they're bound to get hot sooner or later, and the sooner the better. They're capable of much betetr lacrosse than they played Sunday."

Confidence abounded also in the Owen Sound camp which was full of praise for the work of Don Campbell, 28-year-old forward who scored four "clutch" goals to send the Ontario Lacrosse Association champs away to a flying start in the best-of-seven series.

"We were pretty tired after that seven-game series with St. Catharines," said Coach Doug Gillespie. "But we've shaken the jitters with which we went into Sunday's series opener and feel much better about our chances now."

One of Campbell's goals gave Crescents a 4-4 half time tie and another was the winning counter with a little more than three minutes to go.

The Fergus, Ont., product was the big gun as Adanacs suffered their fourth straight loss in Mann Cup finals. The coast champions, after winning twice, dropped three straight in relinquishing the title to Hamilton Tigers in 1948.

Dressing Room Chatter

New York, Oct. 10 (CP)—Maybe its because New York Yankees did what comes natural to them ! world series play, but their dressing-room victory celebration and get-together later in a downtown Manhattan hotel couldn't exactly be described as hilarious. Its old stuff to the Yanks.

And there wasn't the wailing and weeping, long faces and utter dejection by Philadelphia Phillies, choked off in four straight after waiting 35 years to get a cut of this post-season baseball classic. They figured a break here and there might have made a different ending

"The Yankees are a pretty good ball club, but not much better than we are," Philly Manager Eddie Sawyer told newspaper men in the Whiz Kids' dressing room.

"I thought it was a whale of a series," Casey Stengel of the Yanks observed.

There weren't the general mob scenes of previous victory moments in New York's dressing room. Only those accredited were admitted to the clubhouse and would-be gate-crashers were denied entry by strong-armed special police and city police.

The back-slaps and verbal bouquets were aimed at rookie pitcher Whitey Ford, the young lefty who slammed the door on the Phils until a last-inning, two-run error; Yogi Berra, the clubber who festooned the finale with a home run that was tagged all the way; Allie Reynolds, who throttled the Phils in four pitches against pinch-hitter Stan Lopata; and Joe DiMaggio who hit the only other homer of the series.

And, of course, the 60-year-old Stengel, who returned from the minors to pilot baseball's most valuable property into two successive American League pennants and as many series triumphs.

Ducking Banquet Circuit

And Casey talked of giving it all up and enjoying the ease people seek with advancing years.

He was sure of only one thing for the winter: "I'm going to duck the banquet circuit." His future plans? "If I feel all right, I'll be back next year. I don't expect to have any trouble over contract matters with my bosses if I decide to come back...I imagine they'll want me back, but it will depend upon my health."

Congratulated by Sawyer, the Yankee manager said "three of those games could have gone your way as easily as ours" and he added: "I'm only sorry we had to beat a swell gang like yours."

The only sad note of the Yankee celebration was supplied by outfielder Gene Woodling who dropped Andy Seminick's long fly which kept Ford from a shutout victory. He brushed off teammates and reporters for a few moments and then explained: "It got in the sun, that's all. A guy can't catch what he can't see..."

The Whiz Kids showered and dressed methodically while Sawyer talked to reporters. He summed up the series with one word: "Pitching" and added:

"Our pitching as well as theirs ...we just haven't been hitting the last month. It wasn't because e kids were jittery.

"Every mistake we made hurt us, but you can't win many games without runs We got five runs—that's one and a quarter a game You can't win on that."

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS' BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

ALL OVER!

These Whiz Kids, now the Got-the-Biz Kids of the Phantastic Phillies, can now remove their National League diapers, put on their winter rompers and ask Santa Claus to bring them, come Christmas, a few bats with a punch in them.

* * *

The not-so-yammering Yankees whose potent batting punch remained in mothballs throughout the series, except for spasmodic and unprolonged outbursts, can lick their wounds, if any, uncross their fingers, and count their world series shekels while throwing the occasional glance in the direction of that fickle wench Lady Luck.

* * *

According to the experts neither team was of world's championship calibre, in the series just ended, at least. The pitching of both clubs provided the outstanding features of what baseball's greybeards termed a "dull series". According to some of them, the four games did not provide the thrills that were dished up in some of the games played in the stretch run to the wire.

From our box seat in the Lee T-V Basement Stadium it would appear they are right. The games were ordinary affairs, garbed in the glamor and color of world series raiment and not productive of the brilliant plays and episodes of series of other years.

* * *

The big question is: Was it the good pitching or the hitting weakness of both teams? Casey Stengel, says he cannot answer that one. The record would seem to be in favor of the pitching department, for the clouting was nothing to wire the folks back home about.

However, it is all water under the baseball bridge and another world series passes into history. The Phutile Phils made a gallant stand against more experience garnished with smart youngsters, but they failed in the clutches and thereby hangs the tale.

* * *

NOW, IT'S SIX!

"They won't get us in the ring again with that pair unless there are TWO REFEREES IN THE RING WHO CAN SEE", stormed Whipper Watson in his dressing room after the "we was robbed" wrestling bout in Memorial Arena last Friday night.

"And sure, melad, 'tis that goes double", warbled Timothy the Geohagen, rubbing his well-formed body briskly with a towel.

Watson and Geohagen were fighting mad after Referee Bunny Dunlop gave the third-fall decision to Lee (the Leer) Henning and the Masked Marvel after that pair of worthies had been helped by the "Wasp", alleged manager of the Mask. The "Wasp" reached through the ropes and yanked Geohagen's feet from beneath him, enabling the "Mask" to win the fall and match.

"To tell the truth, and I want to be fair about the thing, I did not see what happened," said the Whip, after cooling off a bit. "But, he added, "nearly 2,000 fans can't be wrong, nor can Timothy."

* * *

"Bunny" Dunlop pattered down the dressing room corridor in his bare feet as gently as a young elephant in a china shop.

"I did not see what happened," he said. "How could I? My back was turned while trying to remonstrate with the Whip to stay out of the ring. I later realized what had occurred and I ran to the dressing room to order Henning and the 'Mask' back to the ring."

"They laughed at me" the rotund arbiter spluttered through a heavy towel. "They refused to go back. Said they had won and I had awarded them the decision. What could I do?"

Toronto Argos and Winnipeg Bombers on Top of Football Heap After Heavy Weekend

(By The Canadian Press)

Toronto Argonauts and Winnipeg Blue Bombers came out on top of Canada's two major football leagues after standings were shuffled during Thanksgiving weekend play.

But they each lead — Argos in the Interprovincial Union and Bombers in the Western Conference — by only a single game. However, Bombers still have a game in hand over their nearest rival.

Sarnia Imperials dropped their first league game of the year in the Ontario Rugby Football Union senior loop but still hang on to first place. The onrushing Toronto Balmy Beaches, however, have a game in hand.

The weekend also saw the first games of the Intercollegiate schedule, with McGill and Varsity winning their games.

The Big Four wound up in a three - way tie for first place among Argos, Hamilton Tiger - Cats and Ottawa Rough Riders after Saturday's games when Hamilton smashed Argos 29 - 23 in Toronto and Ottawa downed Montreal 18-8 in the capital. But Als came back to win 18-14 in Montreal Sunday and Argos slipped past Hamilton 20-19 in Hamilton Monday.

That left Hamilton and Ottawa tied for second, 2 points behind Toronto and two ahead of Montreal.

In the west, Saskatchewan Roughriders and Winnipeg each won a pair of games while Edmonton Eskimos and Calgary Stampeders both dropped two. The double loss dropped Eskimos from first to second place and shunted the Stamps, defending western champions, out of playoff contention.

Saskatchewan edged Edmonton 8-6 Saturday and then smashed Stamps 21-0 Monday. Winnipeg beat Calgary 25-13 Saturday, then trampled Eskimos 28-6 Monday.

Sarnia Wins, Loses

Sarnia, handed Windsor Rockets their fifth straight loss—a 21-6 drubbing—Saturday but fell 29-16 before the made-over Balmy Beach Club Monday in the two O.R.F.U. senior games.

Amid the usual collection of bands, colors and cheer leaders, McGill Redmen, favored to take the intercollegiate circuit, swamped the defending champion University of Western Ontario Mustangs 22-6 in Montreal. The inexperienced University of Toronto Blues, whose coach admits they're "a year away" downed Queen's 7-1 at Kingston.

In the big four, Montreal held even with Ottawa during the first half of their Saturday game. Howie Turner and Bruce Cummings kicked singles for the riders while Benny MacDonnell barged across for a touchdown which Eric Chipper converted. Rod Pantages replied with a single for Montreal and Virgil Wagner went across on a pass from Frank Filchock which was converted by Nick Scollard.

In the third quarter, Ottawa broke loose with another single by Cummings, a major by Paul Gibson, and a convert and a field goal by Chipper. Pantages kicked a final Montreal single in the fourth quarter as Ottawa knocked down Filchock's desperate passing.

Als Win on Sunday

Montreal got its own back Sunday when Tommy Manastersky ripped off a touchdown and Scollard converted in the first quarter. Alouettes went on to a field goal by Scollard and a single by Cummings. Bill Larochelle went across for a major for Ottawa in the third quarter but Ralph Toohy scored one for Montreal in the last period with Bob Simpson getting a late touch for the Riders.

Tiger-Cats grabbed costly Argo fumbles Saturday while the Hamilton line tied up the Argos. Big Bill Gregus bulled through for two Hamilton touchdowns, Eddie Bevan went for another when an Argo pass went wild and Edgar Jones went over for a major in the last quarter and converted all four Hamilton touchdowns. Fred Kijek punted four single points for Hamilton.

Ulysses Curtis, Al Dekdebrun, Billy Bass and Rod Smylie got Argos' touchdowns, with Nick Volpe converting three of them.

In Monday's game, time ran out on Hamilton as they roared back to bring a 20-6 deficit to within one point of a tie. Jones missed a 42-yard field goal on a second last play of the game, after having scored two touchdowns and converted one in the thrilling drive.

Volpe Converted Three

Dekdebrun, Doug Smylie and Curtis went over for major scores for the Argos, with Joe Krol kicking two singles. Volpe converted all three majors — making his record for the season 28 out of 32 attempts.

Edmonton lost to the Riders Saturday on a third quarter touchdown by Al Bodine, converted by Jack Hartman. Hartman also kicked singles in the first and last quarters. The Riders trailed 6-1 at the half after a touchdown by Doug Pyzer converted by Edmonton coach Annis Stukus.

Against Winnipeg Monday, Edmonton trailed from the first two minutes when Bombers scored on a fumble. Joe Aguirre scored a touchdown and kicked three converts, two singles and a field goal for 13 of the Winnipeg points. Tommy Ford and Sleepy Knowles each had a touchdown. Jack Jacobs kicked three singles and Tom Casey and Bud Korchak scored one each. Mike King got the lone Edmonton touchdown, converted by Stukus.

Winnipeg's offensive had been just as strong against Stamps Saturday, with Knowles, Casey and Brown all getting touchdowns. Jacobs kicked four singles and Aguirre notched two converts, a single and a field goal. Norm Kwong got Stamps' touchdown, with a convert and two field goals by Vern Graham and a single by Keith Spaith.

Stamps were snowed under Monday by the Riders as Sam Pierce, Nellie Greene and Mike Yakymik went over for major scores. Hartman converted all three and punted two singles. Ken Charlton kicked to the deadline for the other point.

Sault St. Marie Esquires Win Ont. 'A' Honors

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Oct. 10—(CP)—Coming through with twin victories, the Sault Ste. Marie Esquires Monday captured all-Ontario Intermediate "A" softball honors, downing the visiting Stratford Army and Navy nine in straight games in the best-of-three final playoffs.

The double-barrelled triumph came in a morning twin-bill played at the Sault's North Street field with two Sault hurlers copping the lion's share of the laurels.

Guido Parissenti and Tony Paolucci turned in standout pitching performances against the invading Stratford crew, both Sault chukkers going the route in game winning efforts.

Parissenti spun a neat six-hitter in the initial tilt as the Eskies edged their opponents 3-2 in seven innings.

Paulucci returned in the second tusle, holding Stratford to two safeties. The Sault won the game and the championship, pinning a 6-1 defeat in the southern Ontario titlists.

It proved to be the end of the road for the fighting Stratford outfit, who had battled their way to the all-Ontario finals, eliminating teams from Toronto, Hamilton, London and Windsor along the way.

The Esquires won the right to represent northern Ontario by defeating the Sault Ste. Marie Columbians in a best-of-three series.

Frankford — The Frankford Bowling League finished out the first month of bowling, with the distinction that every team except the first place Monarchs altered their position in the standing from a week ago. Alley Cats took five from the Screwballs, who were saved from a whitewashing by Captain Jack Farley's 314, high for the night. Next week, the Hornets and Royals tangle on 1 and 2; Lucky Strikes and Screwballs on 3 and 4; Alley Cats and Monarchs on 5 and 6 and Sharpshooters and Aces on 7 and 8.

Front Office Takes Over From Players as $500,000 Is Returned to Fans

New York, Oct. 10—(CP)—The front office took over today where the players left off as $500,000 was returned to fans who expected the 1950 World Series to run to seven games instead of a four-straight victory for New York Yankees over Philadelphia Phillies.

That sum represented money sent in by fans who purchased tickets for a full-blown series.

The quick ending came Saturday when the Yanks scored a 5-2 victory over the Phillies to win their sixth series in four straight games. But only in the final game did Yankees at any time own a lead of more than one run.

It was the Yanks' ability to keep up the pressure that brought them their 13th world championship in 17 tries. Never for one moment did they indicate they could be beaten, no matter how slim their lead was at any point.

In that final encounter, the Yankees held a 5-0 lead in the ninth inning behind their 21-year-old left-handed Eddie Ford. The end might have been even more decisive but for an error by outfielder Gene Woodling.

The Yankees had opened with a rush in the first inning, routing the Phils' youthful Bob Miller with a two-run splurge. Then, stalled for a time by Jim Konstanty, they finally got around to ripping into this ace relief specialist, and three runs came over with the aid of a homer by Yogi Berra and a triple by Bobby Brown.

The Yanks gave nothing until the top of the ninth, when Phils' catcher Andy Seminick came to bat with two out and two Phils on the base paths. It appeared to be all over when Woodling moved over near the left barrier to grab Seminick's high fly. But Woodling dropped it and two runs flashed across.

Called in Reynolds

A few minutes later it appeared that the Phillies meant to take some more liberties. But Yank manager Casey Stengel called in Allie Reynolds, who had hurled the American League champs to victory in the second game of the series at Philadelphia.

He blazed three strikes across on pinch hitter Stan Lopata and the series was over.

Nearly every mistake the Phillies made proved costly. Except for Woodling's muff, Yankee lapses always were followed by Yankee brilliance that stopped the National League winners in their tracks.

Philadelphia manager Eddie Sawyer best explained the Yanks three-run uprising against Konstanty in the sixth.

"The only honest run we handed the Yankees was Berra's home run in the sixth," he said. Eddie Waitkus should have had an easy double play on Mize's grounder. But he missed the ground ball and Bobby Brown followed with a triple."

In game one, Yanks won 1-0. They scored on a sliced hit by Brown, good for a double, and successive flies by Hank Bauer and Gerry Coleman. Vic Raschi allowed only two singles in winning a mound duel from Konstanty.

In game two, won by the Yankees 2-1, Coleman walked, Reynolds singled and Coleman scored when Woodling beat out an infield hit that could have been turned into an out with better third-basing by Willie Jones. Joe DiMaggio's homer in 10th off Robin Roberts broke that one up.

In game three, a 3-2 win for New York, Rizzuto walked, stole second, went to third on Seminick's bad throw and scored on a single by Coleman. Walks to Coleman, Berra and DiMaggio and Gran Hamner's fatal boot of pinch-hitter Brown's roller furnished the second Yankee run.

Army Takes Over Number One Spot In U.S. Football

New York, Oct. 10 (AP)—Army took over the No. 1 spot among United States college football teams today as Notre Dame dropped to 10th place, its lowest position in the memory of the younger generation.

Purdue's 28-14, upset the fighting Irish last Saturday, shook up the football ratings like an earthquake.

Notre Dame has finished no lower than ninth since 1941 and almost always has been 'way up during the season.

Army, with an unbeaten string of 22 games vaulted from fourth to first. The West Pointers received a total of 2,101 points by a national panel of 241 sports writers and sportscasters. They were named first on 115 ballots.

Southern Methodist moved into second place followed by: 3-Oklahoma, 4-Texas, 5-Kentucky, 6-Stanford, 7- California, 8-Maryland, 9-Purdue and 10-Notre Dame.

Waterloo Tigers Two Games Up On Niagara Falls

Niagara Falls, Ont., Oct. 10—(CP)—Scene of the Ontario Baseball Association senior final shifts back here today with Niagara Falls Fords down two games to Waterloo Tigers in the best-of-seven series.

Rain washed out the scheduled third game at Waterloo yesterday.

Waterloo, Intercounty champions, won the series opener 7-0 here last Friday night, and also won the second game, 12-8 at Waterloo Saturday.

Waterloo won Saturday on the five-hit pitching of soutspaw Cy Bricker and reliefer Marve Meyers.

The Tigers jumped on the Fords' ace highthander, Johnny Worrall, for six hits and seven runs in the first two innings for a commanding lead.

Successive errors by second baseman Bobby Lavelle and centrefielder Riggs Stephenson put Worrall in a jam. The Tigers followed through with a triple by Alex Kvasnak, a single by Auggie Herchenratter and a double by Johnny Fornari to take a 4-0 lead in the first.

They added three more runs in the second. These came on a walk to Jim Muldoon, a stolen base, singles by Don Oberholtzer and Fornari and a triple by Bobby Fisher.

Jack Sampson came in from the bull pen to fan Red Kane and retire the side.

Then the Tigers scored singles in the sixth and seventh when they combed Sampson for a triple, two doubles and a single.

The Fords tallied four runs in the top of the eighth when Bricker became wild. He walked three men and hit two batters.

Meiers replaced him and gave up one hit before retiring the side. The Fords added four more in the ninth inning on three hits and an error.

About half way across, he ran into the side of a switching engine and was dragged 200 feet. He was dead when fellow workmen reached him.

Fine Weather Predicted For Plowing Match

Alliston, Ont., Oct. 10. (CP)—The 37th annual International Plowing match starts today—and the weather man has predicted fine weather. Alliston is 40 miles northwest of Toronto.

Officials feared Monday's heavy rain might wash out the opening day program of intercountry events as it did last year at Burford, Ont. But forecasters came up with the right forecast.

Scene of the famous four-day competition is the nearby Nottawasaga farms. If the weather is good and the sandy soil drains well, officials hope to have everything in good shape when international competition starts.

Federal Immigration Minister Harris will open the international competition at 2 p.m. E.S.T. Wednesday. Final banquet and presentation of prizes will be made Friday at Beeton, five miles southeast of here.

Top intercounty prize today will consist of a conservation and agricultural tour of the United States. Four Ontario youths, all less than 20 years of age, will make the trip. They will be accompanied by a manager appointed by the Ontario Plowmen's Association, sponsor of the competition.

Top awards of the international meet will go to the winners of special horse and tractor classes. Two plowmen will be given the opportunity of representing their country at matches throughout the United Kingdom. Winners last year were Ronald K. Marquis, of R.R. 1, Sutherland, Ont., and James M. Eccles, Brampton, Ont.

In spite of the inclement weather last year, an estimated 25,000 persons were on hand each day. O.P.A. officials are hoping for an even bigger turnout this year. While no announcement has been made yet regarding total prize value, it is expected to equal 1949's $15,000.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Oct. 10 (AP) — "I'm sorry Sam couldn't show up. He's not very reliable, you know. Probably out on a case."

This was Howard Duff jesting about Sam Spade, the radio sleuth Duff has been playing on the air. He admitted feeling a little lonely without Sam, from whom he parted company three weeks ago. The program was yanked off the air.

"It was very simple," Duff explained. "The sponsor wanted a cheaper show."

But what seemed a simple cancellation of an air show has created something of a furor. It was reported the sponsor has been flooded with a wave of letters, many of them of a threatening nature. The NBC offices here have received protest letters which executives say total 45,000 with others parts of the network not yet counted.

NBC, which has no further connection with the show, is reported peeved over what to do with the mail. The network was further upset by zealous members of the Howard Duff fan club, which set up a picket protest at the studio after Sam Spade was cancelled.

Film Fame

All this amazes and no doubt delights Duff, who confessed an affection for his late friend, Spade.

"I'd hate to see the old boy die off forever," he remarked. "After all, we've been together 4 1-2 years without a vacation or summer layoff. You can grow fond of a person in that time."

Duff can credit Spade for bringing him to film fame.

His radio fame led him to the movies, and the late Mark Hellinger picked him for "Brute Force" and "The Naked City."

Sam has been the most popular "private eye" on the air and Duff offered his theory: "I think it's because Sam doesn't take himself seriously. He can always see the humor in a situation."

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

In a recent regional bridge tournament were bridge players from many states. My partner in one of the matches was a stray wolf. I forget where he came from but remember where I wanted to tell him he could go.

Ordinarily, mistakes in a match are seldom made by my partners. If anything goes wrong I am usually to blame. But in this case my conscience does not hurt me in refusing to be the fall guy.

The partner in this tale had more curves than a razzle dazzle. Every standard bid was a source of deep mystery to him. The only time I knew what he had in his hand was when he picked up a pencil.

The only time we got into the right contract was when neither of us could make a bid. But there was one deal in which we got a bigger score than any other pair in the room. See the cards here:

NORTH
♠4 3
♥A Q 7 5
♦K J 9
♣A J 7 3

WEST
♠A K Q 10
♥K J 10 3
♦Q 4
♣K 6 4

EAST
♠J
♥8 6 4 2
♦10 8 6 5 2
♣10 9 8

SOUTH
♠9 8 7 6 5 2
♥9
♣Q 5 2

West was the dealer and opened the bidding with one spade. My partner sat north and doubled. This double was a signal that asked me to bid something if east did not intervene with a bid.

Such a double says: "Partner, my hand is at least as good as an opening one bid. Mention your long suit and it may be just what I like. With the good cards I have you need not be afraid of what you bid."

East passed the double. Instead of bidding something, I passed. So did the opener. And the look on the face of my partner was worth the price of admission. If he was a two-gun man he would have given me both barrels.

But we tore the west hand into little bitsy pieces. All the declarer got was his four trump tricks. We defeated him three tricks doubled when vulnerable for a down of 800 points.

When opponents were too numb to talk, I expected partner to compliment me on the pass. But the only words that came from my partner was: "My double asked you to bid. We might have made a game in no-trump."

And you think you have troubles.

BANCROFT

Coe Hill School Wins N. Hastings Softball Title

Bancroft, Ont., (Special) — A light smooth softball team from Coe Hill Public School won the elementary schools championship of North Hastings when they defeated a heavier outfit from Bancroft Public School in Bancroft on Saturday afternoon.

Taking advantage of a number of Bancroft errors the Coe Hill boys shoved through thirteen runs in the third inning to get a lead that kept for the nine innings. The final score was 29 to 22.

In the semi-final game Bancroft won the right to advance into the finals when they took Hermon 26 to 21 in the first nine-inning game. This game followed the same pattern as the final, as a third inning spurt by Bancroft gave them the margin that was the deciding factor in their victory over another heavier team.

Saturday's games were the end of the trail when team from Glen Alda, Apsley, Ormsby, Coe Hill, Paudash, Vardy Settlement, Bancroft, Maynooth, Maple Leaf, Hermon, Fort Stewart and Boulter started this league, with Howard Gunter of Coe Hill as co-ordinator, early in May. Coe Hill, Hermon, Bancroft and Maynooth emerged as winners of their respective sections early in September and the original plan was to have the four teams play the semi-final on Saturday and the final on the next. However, Maynooth were not able to field a team and the other three drew for a bye.

Immediately after the affair the C. T. Rollins trophy, the newest and largest trophy in North Hastings, was presented to Murray Crosby, captain and pitcher of the Coe Hill team, by D. W. Simpson, inspector of public school for North Hastings.

The teams:

Coe Hill: Murray Crosby, Grover Crosby, Bob Rollins, Parry Whitmore, Buster Landon, Charley Finnigan, Grenville Crosby, Doug Marin, Lyman Landon and Kenneth Foreacre, manager.

Bancroft: Carman Griggs, Tom Tryon, Bob Easton, Tom Tripp, Cyril Cutler, Marilyn Glenn, Mary Tomasini, Floyd Bruce, Tom Loney, David Armstrong, Dean Laundry, Bob Delyea, Max Burgess and John Bleecker, manager.

Hermon: Harvey Kelly; Helen Loney, Stanley McEathron, J. Kelly, Gordon Whyte, Norman Dellabough, Carleton Peacock, Leroy McEathron, Earl Kerr and Beatrice Fulton, manager.

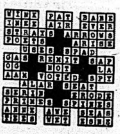
Answer to Saturday's Puzzle:



Little Benny's Note Book

I had a milk bottle top that chicked like a cricket when I bent it a little and let it go again, and today in school I made an experiment to see how loud it sounded when I cricked it inside my pockit.

Being pritty loud but not as lound as outside, and I cricked it gain to see if anybody could hear it besides me, and some of the fellows terned their heads around to see where it was coming from, but Miss Kitty kept rite on with the spelling lesson, and I thawt, G, she didn't hear it.

And I cricked it twice more and some more of the fellows looked, but not Miss Kitty, and I thawt, Jimminy roozlem, maybe she's getting deff in her old ago. Oh boy, is she only gets deff enough the whole class can wisper and laff and evrything elts and she wont know the diffrence, so everybody will be happy.

And I cricked it 3 more times [illegible] everybody was looking except Miss Kitty, and I cricked it once more for luck, and Miss Kitty said, Benny Potts, stand up.

Which I did, and she said, There's an old proberb that says if you give certain peeple enough roipe they'll hang themselves, and you seem to be a case in point. I was curious to find out just how long you would persist with tta noise if you were left to yourself, but in the public intrist I'm afraid I shall have to abandon the experiment while the question is still unsolved. Can you possibly have anything to say for yourself? she said, and I said, Yes mam, I was proving another old proverb that says if a thing is werth starting it's werth finishing.

Very well, I'll start and finish detaining you after school as long as it takes me to mark the spelling papers, Miss Kitty said.

Only taking her about 20 minutes and making me feel partly lucky, on account of it could of [illegible] longer.

Pipe Major Jamie Clark, resplendent in busbie and white highland kilts with pipes followed. The Union Jack and the famous battle colors of the regiment and the color party were next. Battle honor flags were carried by six members of the "Duffy" Club of Peterborough.

Like the Old Days

Companies of Hasty Pees, marching like the veterans they are, swung along in "threes" reminiscent of those days when they wore the khaki, in a manner that would have evoked praise from the "toughest" sergeant major.

At the Cenotaph, a large crowd awaited the arrival of the parade. Automobiles lined nearby streets and packed available parking places. City police, here as well as at other points of the parade did an excellent job in handling the traffic.

A reverent hush fell over the assembled crowd at the Cenotaph after the parade had taken up its position. Flag-draped drums were placed in front of the east side of the monument. Sentries with arms reversed stood with bowed heads at the east and west corners.

The organ-like muted music of the first hymn played by the Belleville Municipal Band under Bandmaster Ted Robins, sounded softly in the afternoon air, as the service opened.

Hon. Capt. A. S. McConnell, MBE., padre of the Second Battalion (Reserve) Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, conducted the memorial.

Day of Remembrance

"This is a day for remembrance, reverence and resolve," he said in a brief address. "Remembrance, because we recall their gallantry, courage and spirit in a great adventure. It will be a sorry day if the regiment ceases to honor its gallant dead."

He urged the veterans to "stay with the regiment" even through its second battalion. "Your interest, support and participation will complete the history started by those who served before."

"If we want to remember them who passed on, we must be comrades in life and death. We should be better Canadians because of those of us who lie in foreign soil," the padre concluded.

The haunting notes of "Last Post" rang from the massed bugles of the Queen's Own Rifles Band. Following the memorial silence, the "Reveille" sounded.

The regimental wreath was deposited at the foot of the Cenotaph by Sgt. Irvine Chambers of Toronto. He was escorted by Capt. Van Koughnet, Peterborough, and former RSM. Harry Fox, Toronto.

The parade, following the service, swung back over the former route along Station to Front Street thence to the Armouries for dismissal.

Minister Takes Salute

The Hon. Milton Gregg V.C., flanked by ex-commanding officers of the regiment stood on the reviewing stand in front of the post office and took the salute as the veterans swung by, eyes turned smartly to the right. Nearby stood the regimental mascots, the famous Indian chief "Petawawa-Much" and "Minnehaha."

Later in the armouries, the Hon Mr. Gregg who with Major General Howard Graham, was forced to cut short his visit due to duties in Ottawa, spoke briefly to the "troops" from atop a table on the drill floor.

He congratulated the survivors of the regiment on the quality of their service and expressed his pleasure at the steps they were taking to lessen the burden for the dependents of those who had given their lives. He said he was particularly interested in the plan for providing scholarships for their children and felt no finer monument could be conceived.

He spoke briefly of Canada's rehabilitation effort during the past five years. "It has been the success it is," he said, "mainly due to the fact the veterans themselves co-operated fully with the undertaking with buoyant determination and hard work."

The minister spoke of the increasing importance of Canada's reserve force in today's world situation, and the importance of maintaining the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment of the Reserve Army at a high state of efficiency.

He referred to the role of the Special Force of the Canadian Army and the Prime Minister's recent announcement that it would be used as a part of an integrated United Nations Force for wherever it may be needed to resist aggression and safeguard peace.

Members of a Team

"The main reason you have come together in reunion," the Minister concluded, "is because as member of a team, in mutual trust, you went full out on behalf of an unselfish cause. Today you are rightly proud to recall those efforts and by so doing gain inspiration for the difficult tasks that face our country."

The armouries rang to sustained cheers as the Minister stepped to the floor. He was surrounded by veterans and shook hands and chatted with several before he left for Ottawa.

Hon. Captain A. S. McConnell acted as chairman at the banquet. Lieut.-Col. Kennedy told the 350 veterans and guests that the reunions were getting bigger and better each year. "He was glad", he said, "to see the old faces. He brought special greetings from former Padre Goforth.

Presented With Key

Mayor Jack Allin extended official greetings and welcome giving the veterans the freedom of the city. He presented the Hon. Milton Gregg, with a golden key of the city, through Lieut.-Col. Reg. Abraham, of Ottawa. Lieut. Angus Duffy proposed the toast to "The Regiment" and later the scholarship draw was conducted by Captain Bob Scott.

Miss June Newton drew the lucky ticket which was held by Mr. S. R. Halton, Armouries, Peterborough.

Capt. McConnell paid special tribute to Captain Scott and Lieut. Duffy for their untiring efforts in making the reunion the success it was. Major Bill Graydon and other officers were also complimented for a fine job of work. Tribute was also paid to the splendid efforts of the Queen's Own Rifles Bugle Band of Toronto, the Belleville Municipal Band and the Peterborough Civic Band.

Tribute was paid to the ladies of the Women's Auxiliary of the Belleville Branch, Canadian Legion, for the splendid dinner served.

During the banquet, wives of out-of-town ex-members were entertained at luncheon at the Queens Hotel.

Informal Reception

The Hon. Mr. Gregg, and Maj.-Gen. Graham were special guests at an informal reception tendered by regimental officers at the Belleville Club on Saturday night.

No program was arranged and the guests of honor moved among officers of the regiment and other guests in a chatty informal manner. Refreshments were served prior to the retirement of the Minister and Maj.-Gen. Graham.

Present were Lieut.-Col. Kennedy, Lieut.-Col. Renison, Lieut.-Col. Max Porritt, M.C., Lieut.-Col. B. C. Donnan, Lieut.-Col. W. A. Davern, Lieut.-Col. Reg. Abraham, Brig. J. Genet, Rossmore; Lieut.-Col. J. Fisher, Commanding Officer R.C.A. School of Artillery, Picton; Lieut.-Col. D. C. Cameron, D.S.O., Camp Borden; Maj. Bill Graydon; Maj. Gordon Walmsley, Picton; Maj. WANT TO TRADE HORSES?

Before the advent of the automobile there used to be (instead of car dealers)—HORSE TRADERS.

- People used to try to get the better of the horse traders.
- The Horse Traders usually came out on top.
- THE REASON? — The horse traders never advertised the prices of the horses they had for sale and consequently the public never knew exactly how much they were being allowed for their trade-in.

WEST END MOTORS NEVER advertise a car in this or any other newspaper, without clearly advertising the selling price. In this way you always know, not only the price, but how much you are being allowed for your trade-in.

IF YOU WANT TO BE KIDDED INTO BELIEVING YOUR OLD CRATE IS WORTH A FORTUNE —

Blood on the Stars

By Brett Halliday

Shayne returned with a cup in his hand and urged Randolph to drink it, holding it to his mouth and letting him sip until it was cool enough to drink. Randolph caught the cup in shaky hands and said "thanks. I'll take over."

Shayne reseated himself and said "getting back to the rubies, suppose the purchaser discovered that he'd been gypped. So he pretends to have them stolen, and then collects the full insurance."

"It's stretching coincidence pretty far to think a purchaser would immediately become aware they were synthetic after buying them. If he did, the natural thing would be to accuse Voorland of fraud and demand restitution. And it's difficult to believe the Kendrick robbery in New Orleans was faked. Mrs. Kendrick was murdered, God knows how you think Dustin could have discovered the rubies were fakes when they'd been in his possession only a few hours. If he arranged the robbery, he certainly went to great lengths to make it look like a real job."

After a moment of silence, Shayne said "looks like you've knocked the props from under my synthetic theory. It's funny how many coincidences pop up in these cases," he went on casually. "After all the ones you mentioned last night, Mrs. Dustin adds another one by getting herself murdered just as Mrs. Kendrick was."

Earl Randolph drank the last of the coffee and set the cup down. He stared at Shayne with dazed eyes then exclaimed "Mrs. Dustin murdered? When? How?"

"I think you know as much about it as I do. Maybe a lot more," said Shayne coldly.

"I don't. I swear I don't. I didn't have the radio on last night. I haven't seen a newspaper I passed out soon after you left here this morning. In the name of Heaven, Mike, tell me what happened to her?"

"She got herself bopped over the head by someone who was afraid she knew too much for his own safety."

"Don't look at me like that," Randolph panted. "I don't like it."

"Didn't you?"

Randolph ran his tongue around his dry lips and laughed nervously. "I thought you were serious for a moment. I'm in no shape for kidding."

"I'm not," said Shayne harshly, "kidding."

The nervous smile slowly faded from Randolph's face. He sat up a little straighter and said in a strained voice "I think I can use a drink."

Shayne didn't say anything. He lit a fresh cigarette and watched Randolph cross the room to a whiskey decanter, pick it up and carry it into the kitchenette. He came back a moment later with a jigger in his hand. "You've been acting queerly ever since you found me passed out here. I think you'd better tell me what's gnawing at you."

"Several things I'd like to know." Shayne ticked them off on his fingers. "I keep remembering that you appraised the rubies for a whopping big policy and that the stolen gems never turned up again."

"Not the Kendrick pendant," Randolph protested. "I was out of town when it was insured."

"You and Stanley Ellsworth could have been in cahoots to defraud your companies—"

"How, Shayne? How do you figure that?" Sweat was streaming from Randolph's face.

"I don't know Shayne admitted readily. "That's the only angle I can't get straight in my mind. Unless you over-appraised the rubies," he went on meditatively, "in order to help Voorland hook a sucker—and then split the profit with him."

Randolph's ruddy face was flushed an angry red. "That's the first time in my career I've been accused of anything like that." He kept his voice calm with visible effort. "Suppose I did arrange a deal like that with Voorland—what would be gained by having the rubies stolen later?"

"That's the point I don't get. Unless you were conscience stricken and preferred to have your company lose instead of the individual purchaser."

Randolph tipped the glass up and emptied it. He threw it across the room and said violently "I never knew you to go haywire like this before Shayne. Do you honestly believe any of this stuff you're saying?"

"I'm afraid I honestly believe you murdered Mrs. Mark Dustin."

Randolph's pudgy body became placid. His mouth dropped open and his eyes became glassy. "What gives you that idea?" he asked in a strangled voice. He put both hands on the daybed and pushed himself erect.

Shayne took the automatic from his pocket and rested it on his crossed knee. "Don't get up," he said dispassionately. "I can take the murder of Mrs. Dustin in my stride, but I'd love to shoot the rat who tried to kill my secretary last night."

Amazement and disbelief shone in Randolph's eyes as he looked at the gun in Shayne's hand. He sank back on the daybed, muttering "you don't mean me, Shayne. You can't mean me. I haven't tried to kill anybody."

"I think you have. First my secretary and Mrs. Dustin later. You didn't quite succeed with Miss Hamilton, and that's your tough luck. She can identify the man who came in my apartment and took Mrs. Dustin's message over the telephone—the man who left her lying on my bed to die."

"This is all utterly impossible, Shayne. I can't believe you're serious. Why would I do any of those things? How can you possibly suspect me?"

"I don't know why," Shayne admitted. "Your motive is the only thing I lack. But Lucy described her attacker Randolph. She saw him clearly and her description fits you like a glove. And she heard you talking over the phone, and can recognize your voice. Why did you pretend you'd been here in your apartment all evening when I came up here?"

"I had" panted Randolph. "I swear. . ."

"Swearing won't do you any good," Shayne told him angrily. "Tim Rourke will testify you didn't answer your phone all evening. Your one mistake," he went on viciously "was in not polishing off Lucy while you had the chance."

"I don't know what to say, Mike," he stammered.

"A full confession would do very well."

Earl Randolph shook his head dispiritedly and moaned. He said "we've been friends a long time. How can you possibly—"

"Talking is no good. Get on some clothes and we'll go over to my apartment. You'll know the jig's up when Lucy identifies you."

Randolph compressed his lips and his eyes roamed around the room as though searching for some means of escape. "I'm not going on any such absurd mission. You have no right—"

The trenches in Shayne's gaunt cheeks deepened. He got up and moved toward the insurance man, saying implacably "you're going to my apartment if I have to carry you on a stretcher. Make up your mind fast." He stood in front of the seated man with the automatic swinging loosely in his hand.

Randolph wet his lips again and said despairingly. "I can't get over the idea that this is one of your jokes."

"I don't joke with a murderer. Get your clothes on."

Randolph's murky and slightly distended eyes showed fright. He got up slowly, went hesitantly toward the bedroom, glancing over his shoulder at Shayne who followed him to the doorway.

The detective kept his cold gaze on him every moment as he dressed hastily and silently. His gray suit was rumpled, but with a clean shirt and colorful tie, Randolph was fairly presentable when they went out into the living room. Shayne toook his hat from the hatrack and put it on, picked up Randolph's Panama and handed it to him when they were outside the door. "You'd better wear this. I wouldn't want you to catch cold."

Randolph accepted the Panama apathetically and put it on. He appeared dazed and speechless. They went down the self-service elevator and out into the bright sunlight to Shayne's car. The detective had put the gun in his coat pocket, and neither of them said anything as they got in the car and drove away."

During the short drive to his hotel, Shayne was aware that Randolph kept glacing aside at him, furtively and speculatively, as though trying to nerve himself for further argument, but was evidently repulsed by the grim set of Shayne's jaw. Not a word passed between them when Shayne parked beside the hotel and they got out, went through the lobby together, and straight to the elevator without stopping.

The night clerk was no longer on duty and the elevator boy, too was different from the one who had been on duty the previous night. He had seen Randolph visiting the detective on previous occasions and now he looked at the two men curiously as they got in the elevator. He appeared to sense that something was wrong, and discreetly refrained from making any casual remarks as was his custom, as he took them to the third floor.

They went down the hall together and Shayne knocked on voice called "who is it?"

She opened the door and smiled at him, competently holding Blackie's heavy .45 by her side. "Dr. Price phoned that he would be down in a few minutes. Miss Hamilton hasn't stirred since you left."

Shayne nodded and motioned Randolph inside. He told the nurse quietly "this is the man who left her to die last night. Don't let him get close enough to that cannon to grab it."

Miss Naylor flashed Randolph a keen and crutinizing look. "Of all things! He doesn't look like that kind."

Shayne said "murderers seldom do."

HAD TO CIRCLE FIELD

Syracuse, N.Y., Oct. 10. (AP) —A power failure that darkened all lights at Hancock airport last night for 25 minutes forced an American Airlines plane to circle the field for about 15 minutes before it could land. The plane, on a flight from New York to Buffalo, landed after lights had been restored. The cause of the power failure was not disclosed.

Drifting Youths Have to Abandon Companion's Body

Panama, Panama, Oct. 10 — (AP) —Adrift a month in the Caribbean, two youths were forced to push the lifeless body of their companion overboard only two hours before they were rescued.

The story of their ordeal was told here by Simon Maduro, 20, and Jose Weaver, 21, of Aruba Island, after they were rescued Friday by the United Fruit Company ship Morazan.

Their companion, John Arms, died Thursday night.

The trio left Aruba four weeks ago for a pleasure cruise along the coast in a small sailboat. Adverse currents and winds drove them into the open sea.

Shah of Persia Will be Wedded

Tehran, Iran, Oct. 10 (AP) — The 30-year-old Shah of Iran announced today that he is engaged to marry Saroya Esfandiari, 19-year-old half-European daughter of an Iranian tribal leader.

An official court communique announcing the engagement gave no date for the wedding. It will be the Shah's second marriage.

Iran's young Shah Reza Pahlevi has been one of the world's most-eligible prospective husbands since he was divorced two years ago from Empress Fawzia, the sister of King Farouk of Egypt. Fawzia during the couple's nine-year marriage had borne the Shah a daughter but no sons.

500 Shops Burn In Old Delhi Fear Lives List

New Delhi, Oct. 10 (AP) — Nearly 500 shops, including a bank and a post office were destroyed in an all-night fire which raged until early today through old Delhi's downtown bazaar district.

Police had no reports of deaths, but thought it possible that some women and children may have perished in the blaze.

Cause of the fire was unknown, but an electrical short circuit was suspected. Property loss was estimated unofficially at 10,000,000 rupees ($2,000,000).

Six firemen, four police constables and six other persons were injured. Looters quickly descended on the ravaged shops despite a 200-man police cordon thrown around the area.

Old Delhi is just north of British-built New Delhi. The old city of 520,000 inhabitants could marshal only 11 fire engines to combat the flames.

PLEADS INNOCENCE

Dayton, O., Oct. 10 (AP)—Alex. J. Phillips, 45, a tavern owner, pleaded innocent yesterday to a charge that he killed a robin. Game Protector Karl Keller said he found the robin, dressed apparently for cooking, in a dish on Phillips' window sill Sept. 20. The specific charge is "catching, killing and having in his possession a non-game bird." Phillips was remanded.

N. Korean Premier Spurns Surrender, Wants Finish Fight

Maj.-Gen. Gay Says Capture Of Pyongyang Not Far Off

Tokyo, Oct. 11. (AP)—North Koreans fought bitter no-surrender actions today against three Allied forces striking toward the communist capital, Pyongyang.

The highest-ranking American on the fighting front, Maj.-Gen. Hobart R. Gay of the 1st Cavalry Division, said the communist forces are doomed and the taking of Yongyang is only a matter of time.

"These cookies are beaten", Gay told War correspondents at Cavalry headquarters.

The Allied forward groups comprising four South Korean Divisions and most of the U.S. 1st Cavalry were inside red Korea less than 100 miles from Pyongyang. They were driving on the capital from the south, southeast, and east.

Communist Premier Kim Il Sung told the 10,000,000 people of North Korea in a broadcast message that they must not surrender.

"Our Motherland is face to face with a grave crisis," Kim said, ordering his shattered troops to "fight until the final day of victory. . . . overcoming all difficulties."

Kim's message was obviously an answer to Gen. MacArthur's second and "last time" surrender ultimatum of last Sunday, but the red premier did not mention it.

On the Allied side, President Truman was scheduled to leave Washington late Wednesday for a weekend conference with MacArthur in the Pacific somewhere west of Hawaii—on an island or a warship. The place was not specified.

Will Discuss Situation

The president told a press conference Tuesday in Washington he would discuss what actions are needed in the final phase of the Korean War to assure "a unified, independent and democratic Korea."

As the momentous talks drew near, this was the front-line situation in communist Korea:

On the east, two South Korean divisions were mopping up small holdout forces in the strategic east coast industrial port of Wonsan, 95 airline miles east of Pyongyang.

Southeast of Pyongyang about 100 miles, two other Republican divisions were driving ahead on a 30-mile front. The South Korean 6th Division captured Kumhwa, a major road centre, and drove several miles northwest.

Meet Strong Resistance

West of this force, the U. S. Cavalry drove several miles inside red Korea on the closest approach to Pyongyang. Spearheads were within 80 miles of the capital but were meeting strong resistance. Other cavalry columns fanned out to the east and west, seeking out holes in the reds' border defence.

The broadcast of Kim's message, heard in Tokyo, again contended that South Koreans invaded communist North Korea June 25 — the day the reds invaded South Korea.

The U. N. decision to go into North Korea, he said, was "reached unilaterally (one-sidedly) . . . without allowing the participation of representatives of the Korean people."

South Koreans quickly denounced Kim's decision to continue the fight.

The vice-minister of defence at Seoul, Chang Kyung Keun, said: "It is a pity that Kim Il Sung cannot accept Gen. MacArthur's surrender terms because Russia would not allow him to do so.

"The North Korean communists are not fighting for Korea but for Russia."

THE WEATHER

Toronto, Oct. 11—(CP)—Synopsis: The unsettled weather that has persisted over southern and central Ontario for the past few days is gradually moving eastward. Precipitation is now reported from only the eastern part of the province and it is very light and intermittent. However, any clearing of the skies today will be short-lived as a new storm centre is pushing into northwestern Ontario bringing increasing cloudiness and some light rain to that section of the province. This cloud will move into southern regions later today but it will be accompanied by little or no rain.

Five French Batts. Nearly Wiped Out By Red Guerrillas

Hanoi, Indo-China, Oct. 10 — (Delayed) — (AP) — The French Army is feverishly pushing work on a web of permanent fortifications to hold 500 square miles of newly-conquered territory north of Hanoi.

In a 12-day offensive just ended, six battalions — about 4,200 men — cut a swath through a triangular region of flat ricelands 40 miles north of this chief city of North Indo-China.

(This action was south of the Caobang - Thatkhe border region where five French battalions were almost completely wiped out during the weekend by communist-led Viet Minh guerrillas.)

Viet Minh forces dug pits and wide gaps in the road to block the French advance, and succeeded in making the route impassable for rolling equipment. The French had to make long hauls to replace the filler material.

Heavy mobile guards with automatic weapons and 40-millimetre guns were used to protect the construction gangs. About 1,000 villagers voluntarily helped, hauling dirt in straw baskets to fill the holes in the road.

Army construction units have started to build 30 medieval-type brick fortresses in the new territory. Five of the main positions are along the roadside. The others are four and five miles back from the road, located to cover each flank.

Peasants who fled and hid in the face of advancing French columns last week now have started to return to villages and are reappearing in the fields.

Comes to Life

What appeared to be a deserted countryside a week ago has suddenly come to life in the last two days. There is no cheering for the French. No French flags are shown. There is no display of emotion one way or another by the Viet Namese.

The French Army today circulated leaflets telling the populace of the capture of Thai Nguyen and of the French intention to occupy it permanently and protect the local people.

For the first time a foreign correspondent was allowed in the advance area in North Indo-China during a French offensive. The operation was typical of a series during the last year that has driven the main military force of Ho Chi Minh's guerrillas from the ricelands to mountain strongholds.

Successful as it was, its importance is limited because the new territory will be as difficult to hold against the elusive hit-and-run guerrillas as it was to take. No real dent was made in Ho's forces.

49 S. Koreans Forced To Dig Graves, Shot

Tokyo, Oct. 11 (AP)—U. S. intelligence officers said today communist troops forced 49 south Koreans to dig graves and then shot and sabred them because they refused to fight against Americans.

Capt. Jack P. Lansford said 38 bodies were found in two mass graves. The story of the massacre was by Kim Mun Kwon, a wounded survivor.

SAILING DATES FOR SPECIAL FORCE HAVE BEEN SET

No One Knows Where Brigade Will be Sent

Ottawa, Oct. 11 (CP) — Arrangements have been made with the United States to ship Canada's special force across the Pacific, and even the sailing dates have been tentatively set for next month.

But the current feeling in cabinet circles is that the force won't be going to Korea, at least not all of it.

The cabinet meets tomorrow to have another look at a paradoxical situation fast approaching a head, but there is no sign that it will make any new decision about the destination of the force's 10,000 men.

Delay arises from continued fighting in North Korea— which could end any day—and the fact that the United Nations haven't yet informed Ottawa whether or not Canadian troops will be needed for an occupation role. In the meantime, the plan to send them to Korea stands.

The feeling here is that the U.N. will want at least a token Canadian force in the occupation for political reasons. Informed quarters say key cabinet ministers now feel the whole force won't be going to Korea, but that Canada would comply with a request for a small occupation force.

Meanwhile army headquarters is going right ahead with the original plan to send the force to Okinawa next month for final training, but is on notice to expect a change in that plan at any moment.

Advance Parties Ready

Advance parties are slated to leave for the Far East next week, but some people at defence headquarters doubt that they will. A Canadian army staging camp has been established at Fort Lewis, Wash., and staffed with officers and soldiers who, once the force has gone, will return to Canada.

Advance parties from the force itself are due to reach there shortly. As one high officer put it, once the momentum for a large military movement is started, it isn't easy to slow down without causing all sorts of trouble.

The plans have been carried to the point of arranging with the U. S. to transport the Canadians across the Pacific after Nov. 15 on American troop transports. But officials say the fact that the situation is up in the air has led to arrangements to postpone the actual chartering of the ships until the last minute.

Sudbury Council Turns Down Member's Motion

Sudbury, Oct. 11—(CP)—The city council last night voted down a motion that the Ontario Municipal Affairs Department be asked to investigate the city treasury department's system of handling money.

This proposal was made by Alderman L. Lamoureux and Jack Anderson during discussion of the disappearance Sept. 30 of $1,200 from a vault in the treasurer's office. The majority of councillors thought it better to await the results of police investigation.

Mayor W. S. Beaton, who has said it is possible the money was "misplaced," told council the Provincial Attorney - General's Department might be asked to help if current investigations do not turn up the cash.

Earlier, a thorough search of municipal offices produced no trace of the money.

Children No Longer Fear Fathers, Most Dread Dark, Survey Shows

Alderley Edge, Cheshire, Eng., Oct. 11 (CP) — Children no longer fear their fathers the way they did in Victorian days, says Rev. Kenneth Jinks.

Jinks recently investigated the fears of children. Reporting on the survey in a quarterly review he wrote:

"None mentioned a fear of father, but none could say: "I'm not afraid of anything.'"

Dogs were feared by nearly one-fifth of the children. Lions, Tigers rats and mice were common fears, but "not one child mentioned being 'afraid of cats."

Most children said they were afraid of darkness —a dark room going past dark places, going to bed without a light.

Truman-MacArthur Parley Seen as Prelude to Clean-Up In North Korea, Stronger Policy

Tokyo, Oct. 11 (AP) —President Truman's forthcoming meeting with Gen. MacArthur is seen here as the prelude to a final clean-up in North Korea—and perhaps the birth of a broader and stronger American policy in the Far East.

This was the general interpretation placed today on the announcement of the forthcoming meeting this weekend somewhere in the Pacific. MacArthur's top assistants, however, declined to comment.

In his first meeting with Truman, the U.S. commander in the Far East is expected to re-emphasize his long-standing views on the seriousness of the communist threat in Asia.

Communist pressure has intensified in Indo-China, which top military men here long have regarded a critical area. Communist heat is apparent also in other parts of Asia—an important target of the Kremlin, in the view of these commanders.

Announcement of the projected meeting recalled the 1944 conference of President Roosevelt, MacArthur and Admiral Chester Nimitz in Hawaii, when the final strategy of the Pacific war against Japan was decided.

The "final phase" of the Korean war, which the White House said will be discussed, appears clear.

As generally expected, red Premier Kim Il Sung called on his people for a fight to the finish in answering MacArthur's demands for surrender.

A powerful United Nations force already has begun the climatic military drive into North Korea. All political barriers to the crossing of the 38th parallel into communist territory have been removed.

The conclusion of the campaign will produce a host of political and economic problems throughout Korea. The pattern for occupation appears to have been fixed by MacArthur's set up in Japan.

But in themselves, these problems do not appear to require a presidential journey to the Pacific.

This leads to the belief that military policy in the Far East will be discussed at the Pacific conference.

In general, American defence problems in relation to Formosa, Indo-China and other Asian areas may be covered at the meeting. It was noted that the White House announcement said Truman and the general will discuss "other matters within his (MacArthur's) responsibility."

MacArthur has advocated a strong defensive policy in Asia. He has told numerous visitors that the communists, repulsed in one part of the world, will strike again in another.

U.S., Allies Double Efforts To Give Assembly Military Powers Despite Opposition

Lake Success, N.Y., Oct. 11—(AP)—Undeterred by Russian opposition, the western allies redoubled their efforts today to give the United Nations General Assembly military power to repel aggression whenever the Security Council is deadlocked by Soviet veto.

Although disappointed that Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky's promised "partial support" turned out to be almost-complete opposition, they planned strategy for an early vote. The expected adoption would mean the U.N. could never be caught short again by an emergency such as the Korean war.

They wrote off Russian obstruction as no more than they had expected. U.S. delegate John Foster Dulles, who is guiding the resolution through the U.N., said:

"The important thing is to have armed units in readiness to act promptly to repel aggression. That Vishinsky rejects. This will disappoint all people who want positive action to strengthen the United Nations for peace."

Objects to Point

Vishinsky based his objection to this point—and to most of the rest of the resolution on the claim that it would undermine the authority of the Security Council, which he called "the foundation stone of the United Nations."

Only the Security Council, he said in the course of a 92-minute speech, has the power under the U.N. charter to control armed forces.

Almost half of the speech was devoted to a ringing defence of the Soviet use of the veto in the council.

Maintaining that the council is controlled by "an Anglo-American bloc," he declared that the veto "is a method of self-defence against a 'diktat' which other states, considering themselves all-powerful and glorious, attempt to foist on others."

Attempts of this bloc to impose its will on the rest of the U.N., he said, and not the Soviet veto, was the reason the security council was often impeded in exercising its functions.

Vishinsky went on to demand that the seven powers sponsoring the anti-aggression resolution—Canada, Britain, the United States, France, Uruguay, The Phillippines and Turkey—admit openly that its real purpose is "to liquidate the veto."

An overwhelming majority of the U.N. favors the resolution, first made public by State Secretary Dean Acheson Sept. 20. They are not believed to have been swayd by Vishinsky's speech.

Appointment Strengthens Head Of Licence Bd.

Toronto, Oct. 11 (CP) — J.G. Spragge, newly appointed chief administrator of the Ontario Liquor Licence Board, said today there will be a "general tightening up" of all the board's services.

Mr. Spragge's appointment is designed to give the three-man board a stronger hand as a court hearing applications for licences and complaints about operation of liquor outlets. The appointment will free the three-man board from some of its inspection work and link it more closely with the Liquor Control Board which handles distribution and sale of liquor.

"There will be a general tightening up of all the services of the commission," he said. "There will be a review of all the affairs of the commission with the idea of putting into open view an efficient and satisfactory service and administration."

U.S. Blasts Plan One-Ticket Vote In East Germany

Berlin, Oct. 11 (AP) — The United States today blasted the scheduled one-ticket election in the Russian zone of Germany as a new obstacle to German unity. and accused the Russians of attempting to "consolidate the Soviet empire in Germany."

The broadsides, fired by High Commissioner John J. McCloy, came as Soviet authorities prodded 13,000,000 voters in the communist people's republic to cast a unanimous endorsement Sunday for the hand-picked single slate of candidates, 70 per cent of them communists.

LOST MAN FINDS WAY

Rouyn, Que., Oct. 11 — (CP)—Phil Gormier, 34-year-old store clerk, walked out of the bush to safety yesterday after spending 42½ hours lost in rugged country 20 miles west of Rouyn. He became separated from a hunting companion Sunday night.

He had no food during his wanderings but was in good spirits when he reached a highway about 12 miles from the point where he entered the bush.

BANK MANAGER FOILS ATTEMPT OF LONE BANDIT

Fires Twice at Robber Who Makes Escape

Toronto, Oct. 11 — (CP) — A bank manager traded shots with a lone bandit today and foiled an attempted holdup at a suburban branch of the Imperial Bank of Canada.

The gunman ordered Manager William H. G. Smith out of his office in a small bank at Avenue Road and Fairlawn Avenue in North York township.

Smith reached into a desk drawer for his own weapon. He fired at the bandit and missed. The gunman shot back. A second shot from Smith and the bandit fled. No person was injured by any of the shots.

The thug entered the bank shortly before 1 P. M. EDT. First reports were that there were no customers there at the time.

He pulled a gun on the teller-accountant, W. H. Boyce. Nearby was a junior clerk, Douglas Hurd.

Covering Boyce and Hurd, the bandit ordered Smith out of his office, apparently in an attempt to crowd the entire staff into one corner. Seconds later the gunman was fleeing.

He got no money.

Policing Methods 'Primitive' Says Council Member

Oshawa, Oct. 11. (CP)—The Oshawa and District Labor Council (C.C.L.) voted Tuesday night to ask the city police commission to make sure that a doctor examines all men arrested for drunkenness to avoid the possibility of fatalities.

Secretary-Treasurer Michael Fenwick told the council policing methods in the city are 'primitive'. He said "two men have died here because there was no immediate medical attention when they were arrested.

He referred to the death of John Mackin who died in hospital Sept. 27 after he had been locked up the night before on an intoxication charge. Council President Ed Cline said that on another occasion an elderly man was "sick and staggering" along the street and police threw him into a cruiser and when they took him out at the station he was dead."

Choir Once Objected To Use of Violin

Port Credit, Ont., Oct. 11. (CP) —First United Church, where a choir quit years ago when the choirmaster came to church with a violin under his arm, today begins a two-day celebration of its 125th anniversary.

It was founded with three Indians and two white men on its first board of trustees.

The choir incident is part of the long and colorful history of the church, which began as a mission chapel on the banks of the Credit River. The choir objected to the violin because it felt it was an instrument usually heard only in taverns. The choirmaster protested he only wanted to provide an accompaniment.

Eight Carloads of Armed Searchers Close in on Fugitive in Dense Forest

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Oct. 11 (AP) —Eight carloads of gun-carrying searchers closed in today on fugitive Donald Cole.

Tracking the 18-year-old youth through dense forests, State Police said a capture may be near.

The elusive Cole has dodged posse patrols since last Saturday, when he shot two young girls and then fled into the woods.

The girls, Pauline Parady, 14, and Myrna Benson, 12, both of Sault Ste. Marie, are in hospital with critical wounds. Pauline was shot in the abdomen and Myrna is paralyzed with a bullet in her spine.

No reason was advanced for the shootings.

The hunt narrowed to a forested area near the tiny community of Dollar Settlement, 34 miles east of here, after Cole slipped into a grocery store at dusk last night, loaded up on food and again vanished.

The elderly proprietor of the store, Mrs. Bessie Van Luben, told State Police Cole appeared just before dark.

He walked silently to the rear of the store, picked up a package of six buns, took 10 candy bars, stuffed them in his shirt front paid 75 cents and left without speaking.

On his way out Mrs. Van Luben's son, Ed, encountered Cole and recognized him.

Dollar Settlement is four miles east of the camp at Pendell's Creek where the girls were shot last Saturday.

New Rail-Union Negotiations Fail Govt. is Notified

Appointment of Arbitrator By Cabinet Likely Next Week

Ottawa, Oct. 11 — (CP)—The government received formal notification today of the collapse of new railway-union negotiations ordered by Parliament in its legislation ending the August general rail strike.

Appointment of an arbitrator to lay down settlement terms was expected to follow, and government sources indicated one would be appointed by cabinet next week.

Notification of the latest failure in the long negotiations came to the government today.

Cabinet met in a regular session shortly after, but authoritative sources said it was unlikely to appoint an arbitrator today.

Under the back-to-work legislation that ended the nine - day strike Aug. 30, the arbitrator does not have to be appointed until after a statutory time laid down for negotiations between the disputants. This period — which has been extended once by cabinet — expires Saturday.

The arbitrator will have power to settle points still at issue between the railways and the unions representing the 124,000 employees who walked out Aug. 22. However, his powers will be limited only to the area still at issue, since the emergency legislation specified that he could not push back concessions granted by the railways or unions in their final negotiations.

Within that field, his decisions will be binding on both parties and must be written into their new contracts.

Statement Says Attack Made Before Stabbing

Toronto, Oct. 11. (CP)—A statement read in court Tuesday quoted John Bigelow, 20, as saying he stabbed John McRae, 38, while resisting a "homosexual attack" but McRae testified that the stabbing was unprovoked.

Bigelow is being tried for the attempted murder of McRae, University of Western Ontario professor stabbed three times with a butcher knife July 30 in his residence here.

Bigelow's statement was admitted as evidence by Mr. Justice E. R. E. Chevrier after lengthy argument with the jury excluded. It was taken by Detective-Sergeant William Mulholland a few hours after the stabbing which doctors testified was nearly fatal.

The statement quoted Bigelow as saying he told reporters shortly after the stabbing: "It's just a case of homosexual attack and I tried to defend myself."

The statement said Bigelow met McRae in a downtown hotel and they went to the latter's house to have a few drinks and something to eat. It added that McRae "started feeling my body. I hauled off and gave him a sucker shot. . .I went down to the kitchen and grabbed a butcher knife. He went at me and I stabbed him. He got the knife and came at me. I got it and stabbed him again."

Unwed Mother's Child Subject Of Long Trial

Toronto, Oct. 11 (CP) — A prolonged dispute over the custody of an unwed mother's child will be taken to the Privy Council in London this month.

Arthur Maloney, Toronto lawyer, leaves today for England to petition the high court Oct. 23 to hear the case of Baby Duffell. It will be one of the last cases from Canada to go before the Privy Council under the government's ruling that no cases started after Dec. 19, 1949, may be appealed beyond the Supreme Court of Canada.

The child was adopted in April of 1949—three weeks after birth —by Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Martin of Dunnville, Ont. The mother, an English immigrant, launched an action in Ontario to regain custody but it was turned down on grounds she had signed consent to the adoption.

The Ontario Appeal Court reversed the judgment ruling that the best interests of the child demanded that it be returned to the mother. The Supreme Court of Canada rejected an appeal by the foster parents, holding that the mother of an illegitimate child is not bound by any agreement to give it up to a stranger.

Mr. Maloney, appearing for the foster parents, argued that adoption legislation empowered a mother to give up her child to strangers. To take any other view, he submitted, would tend to destroy the adoption system because foster parents would not want to adopt children if they could be taken from them.

BELLEVILLE FAN ENJOYS GAMES OF WORLD SERIES

Grant Badgley, one of the city's hottest baseball enthusiasts has returned from the U.S.A. after viewing two or more games of the world series. Badgley laughed at the so-called scarcity of tickets. He paid one dollar for standing room at Shibe Park, Philadelphia and $4 for the same accommodation at the Yankee Stadium. The ball that jolting Joe DiMaggio hit for a home run sailed over the Belleville fan's head.

The Nagels had been East on a delayed honeymoon trip and were returning to Western Ontario when their auto crashed into the Slavin car atop a knoll on the highway.

Mr. Nagel suffered a fractured leg, lacerations and shock, but his condition was not said to be critical. Mr. Slavin suffered a fractured knee and lacerations of the face and neck.

David Wellman Of Bonarlaw Instantly Killed

David Wellman, 42, of Bonarlaw, was instantly killed Tuesday night when he lost control of his truck on Highway No. 7 three miles east of Havelock. The truck went into the ditch where it plowed up the dirt for several feet, then swung back onto the highway where it overturned on its top and skidded to a standstill.

A veteran of the last World War, Mr. Wellman served five years in prison camp at Hong Kong. He was the son of Mrs. Jennie Wellman and the late David Wellman. He is survived by his mother and three brothers, Clarence, of Havelock, and Charles and Ralph on the homestead at Allan's Mills.

Wellman had been working at the runway extension project at Trenton air station and was driving a truck belonging to his brothers at the time of the accident.

Walter Bent Named Program Director YMCA

Walter Bent has been appointed program director of the YMCA according to an announcement made over the weekend by Norman E. Edwards, president of the Board of Directors and Al. J. Davis, General Secretary. He enters upon his new duties this week.

Out of a wide experience in recreational work with boys and young adults, it is expected that Mr. Bent will greatly strengthen the local association in leadership of organized programs in a diversity of fields. He commenced boys' work in Saint John, New Brunswick where he was sports director at the Boys' Training School. He also gave leadership to one of the large Trail Ranger groups in one of the city's leading churches, and was also convener for adults' and young people's work for the Maritime conference.

During the war years, he served overseas as an auxiliary officer in the armed forces, being responsible for the organization of entertainment and sports for the troops.

Organized Choir

At the Bowmanville Training School he was responsible for the sports program, entertainment and social activities. Transferring to Galt, he organized a boys' choir and was band master of the Boys' Bugle Band which won the Silver Medal at the Waterloo Music Festival. His Sunday evening fireside song-fests in Galt attracted great crowds of young people.

Going to Peterborough in 1949 he became director of the Optimist Club's Boy Town, where he organized hockey and softball leagues, a boys' choir, public speaking, craft groups, and a full recreation program.

More recently he directed the Trojan Boys' Club of Peterborough and Legion Boys' choir which was one of three boys' choirs from Ontario invited to compete at the Canadian National Exhibition.

Plans for the Fall program call for the organization of activities during the week of October 16th when interest groups, clubs and instruction classes will get underway. A variety of activities to interest boys, girls and adults from ten years to the more mature adult of 50 or 60 will be scheduled. This is the time when persons interested in a purposeful program of gymnasium, social activities, instruction groups, etc., should be making inquiries at the Y.M.C.A. for the fall and winter season.

Veterans Mired In Sea of Mud, Want Sidewalks

Mired in a sea of mud as result of recent fall rains, residents of the Veterans' Home Project in the southeast end of the city are protesting against conditions.

Their biggest complaint is that while residents across the street from them who are paying the same rent enjoy new concrete walks there are no sidewalks on the east side of the street and none are planned by Central Mortgage and Housing, who own the houses.

City council was asked last night to do something about the matter but after considerable discussion no action was taken other than directing a special committee to investigate with respect to cost and as to whether the city or Central Mortgage would be expected to pay if the sidewalks were constructed.

Alderman Armstrong said it was entirely up to council whether or not the walks were built but he recommended they be built as soon as possible to beat frost conditions. Alderman Liddle was of the same opinion and urged actin as soon as possible.

But council balked on proceeding with the matter until the matter of financing was ironed out. It was pointed out that the Central Mortgage contract called for walks only on one side of the streets. On the other hand residents in other parts of the city had to pay for their own walks and it would be unfair to have additional walks in the rental area paid for out of the general rate.

Company Ready To Supply Natural Gas to City

Possibility that natural gas may be supplied to this city within a five-year period was suggested at city council Tuesday evening when members were addressed by J. E. Stewart, representative of the Eastern Gas Syndicate.

It was asked that council consider the proposition and ascertain the wishes of the ratepayers with respect to the supply of the natural gas. If sufficient outlets are obtained the above firm plans to construct a 16-inch gas main from Windsor through Ottawa to Montreal.

In addressing council on the matter, Mr. Stewart stated that there was a big demand for natural gas in Eastern Canada but unfortunately the main available supply was in the Canadian West making transportation costs prohibitive. The logical solution was to trade Canadian gas for American gas which could be more economically supplied to Ontario. On the other hand Canadian gas would be used in the American Northwest.

The speaker said that approximately 20 centres were being contacted across Ontario with the view of ascertaining whether natural gas was wanted. The advantages of natural gas over oil or coal for heating purposes was stressed. Such gas would supplement electricity, rather than compete against it, it was stated.

Later discussing the matter council agreed that a special meeting should be called when further details with respect to the supply of gas could be obtained.

Fire Fighting Equipment Will Be on Display

Practically every piece of fire fighting equipment owned by the Belleville Fire Department will be on parade tonight in a special event to be staged in connection with the observance of Fire Prevention Week but this does not mean that the city will be without fire protection.

A special demonstrator radio communication unit, with walkie talkie units in addition will have been installed at the fire station before the parade. If a fire occurs while equipment is away on parade the radio will transfer the alarm to the fire fighting personnel taking part in the parade.

Some weeks ago council voted to ask for tenders for the installation of a two way radio communication set for use by the fire department. Several units have already been demonstrated and one is presently installed.

Heading the parade tonight will be the 9th Anti-Tank Regimental Pipe Band.

Thursday night the local Kinsmen Boys' Band will parade from the collegiate grounds down Victoria Ave., and up Front Street to the new fire station on Moira Street. At the station commencing at 8 p.m. there will be fire fighting demonstrations as well as showing of movies on fire prevention.

DRAG LAKE FOR GUIDE

Peterborough, Oct. 11—(CP)—Police were dragging Chrystal Lake today for a 60-year-old legless guide, Dennis Sheehan, whose abandoned boat was found Monday. The boat was found drifting about two miles from where he started out late Sunday to return home.

Sheehan, a bachelor, may have lost his balance when trying to restart a defective outboard motor and fallen overboard. The starting cord was not in the boat.

Houses Nothing More Than Traps Says Delegation

A delegation of Frank Street residents protesting against the "deplorable" state of affairs existent on their street, appeared before city council Tuesday evening asking that something be done to eliminate the health menace and other obnoxious conditions in the area.

Spokesman for the delegation stated there were several two room shacks in which families with from one to four children were living; many of these dwellings were not connected to sewers and were but fire traps with no chimneys. In lieu of chimneys smoke pipes were shoved through the roof or walls.

"I don't know where the city building inspector is that he permits such conditions," the spokesman continued. "Many of the dwellings are without foundations."

The street also needed repairing as well as proper drainage. Two garbage collections per week were asked instead of the one being received at the present time.

In reply Mayor H. J. Allin stated that the health matter had been turned over the local board of health while he also promised something would be done to improve street conditions.

Colored Cheese Not Superior Experts Say

Toronto, Oct. 11 — Even the cheese experts are baffled when asked to explain why many people feel that colored cheese is superior to the so-called "white" or natural cheese. Natural cheese, to which no coloring has been added, may range in color from a pale cream to a deep amber because cheese produced from summer milk has a deeper shade than that produced from winter milk. Coloring is added for eye appeal only, due to the public preference, and has absolutely no effect on the flavor. As a matter of fact, the cheese manufacturers say that it is difficult to age colored cheddar to the same degree as natural cheddar without getting a mottled product, so the cheese connoisseur who likes his cheese aged to develop the maximum flavor, mellowness and nip, prefers the natural product. Very choice natural cheddar is available in quantity at most food stores — mild, medium and well-aged, to suit all tastes. A taste for cheese grows with the tasting and the National Cheese Festival, October 16th to November 15th, will tempt Canadians to try many of the varieties that are available, thus developing a keener appreciation for our fine Canadian cheeses.

The Armories is being thrown open to the public next Tuesday evening. Col. McGregor said last night. "We are making special arrangements for the accommodation of a large crowd and I hope the people of Belleville will turn out to see their regiment on this important parade."

ON ANNUAL JAUNT

Brockville, Oct. 11— (CP) — Dr. and Mrs. Henry Hudson of Timmins, arrived here by plane Tuesday for their annual visit with J. R. Radford, manager of the Brockville radio station (CFJM). TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Oct. 11 —(CP)— The market settled into a narrow price path as the session progressed on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. Prices started on a firmer trend following yesterday's declines but couldn't gain much ground.

Gains and losses were about balanced in industrials. A handful of market leaders were among the gains. Papers, refining oils and utilities brightened in the groupings. McColl Frontenac jumped ⅜ to 17⅝ in brisk dealings following news of an extra dividend of 35 cents. Steels, liquors and constructions weakened fractionally.

Western oils slumped sharply with losses ranging up to 35 cents. Some recovery signs appeared in mid-session and a few losses were reduced slightly.

Losses tripled gains in base metals. Golden Manitou, a feature in recent sessions dipped sharply in early dealings but recovered most of the loss.

Golds showed gains ranging up to 15 cents among junior producers. Sullivan, Campbell, Red Lake and Central Patricia attracted considerable attention.

45-Pound L. Trout Caught in Gill Net

Owen Sound, Oct.11—CP— The largest lake trout to be captured by the Tobermory fishing fleet in more than a decade was netted this week by O.C. Vail, a commercial fisherman. It weighed 45 pounds and measured 46 inches in length. Its girth was 28½ inches.

It was caught in a conventional gill net and tore a large gap in the meshes before it was landed. It was not the largest lake trout ever taken at Tobermory, 70 miles north of Owen Sound on the Bruce Peninsula. A 53 pounder was taken on a troll several years ago.

WILL FILE APPEAL

Toronto, Oct. 11—(CP)—A Toronto lawyer was engaged Tuesday to file an appeal against the death sentence imposed on Herbert McAuliffe, 32, for the machine gun slaying of Arthur Lierman after a bank robbery. McAuliffe is sentenced to be hanged Dec. 19.

Arthur Maloney claimed in his appeal that the trial judge, Mr. Justice R W. Treleavan, should not have instructed the jury that it could not bring in a verdict of manslaughter.

Lierman, 31, an Oxford county tobacco farmer, and William Goddyn, 24, were shot down after they chased a robber from the scene of a bank robbery at Langton, Ont., last June. McAuliffe was arrested a few days later after an intensive manhunt.

'Big Steel' Opens Wage Talks Monday Next

Pittsburgh, Oct. 11 (AP) — United States Steel Corporation producer of one-third of the country's steel, agreed today to open wage negotiations with the United Steel Workers (C.I.O.) Monday, Oct. 16.

Wage talks already are under way between the 1,000,000-member union and about 35 big and small companies. But those sessions are not expected to settle any issues until after "big steel" and the union reach some agreement.

The steelworkers union wants "a very healthy and substantial wage increase" this fall. President Philip Murray of the C.I.O. and the U.S.W. says his workers need a fourth-round post-war pay increase to meet higher living costs.

The amount of the wage demand is not known.

Steel mill workers now earn an average of $1.70 an hour.

Smart is also known as James Jordan, William Patrick and William Bell.

Police said they spotted an automobile reported stolen in Montreal and questioned the driver, Mrs. Jane Wilson, 26, of Delhi, Ont. She told police the car was loaned to her by a man she was to meet in downtown Hamilton. Mrs. Wilson pointed out a man and woman standing on a corner. They surrendered after a chase in which police fired warning shots. The man identified himself as Smart and the woman as Olive Vautiu, no address.

Subsidy on Gold Will Continue View at Ottawa

Ottawa, Oct. 11—(CP)—A government subsidy to encourage accelerated production of gold in Canada will continue to be paid in 1951, it is learned in informed quarters.

The form and amount of the subsidy have not been disclosed, but it is indicated that there will be "little change" from the subsidy currently in effect.

A government announcement is expected shortly, and with it a statement indicating a steady increase in gold production in Canada during the three years in which the government assistance plan has been in effect.

It is indicated on a preliminary basis that gold production in Canada has climbed from 3,500,000 ounces in 1948, the year in which the subsidy was first introduced, to 4,100,000 in 1949 and an expected 4,600,000 ounces this year.

More than 85 per cent of that gold was produced by gold-mining companies receiving government assistance.

The subsidy is paid to those companies obtaining 70 per cent or more of their revenue from the production of gold. Some 111 mines have participated in the payments scheme, and it is indicated that these mines produced 3,143,825 ounces in 1948, 3,673,971 in 1949 and an expected 4,050,000 ounces this year.

It is indicated, too, that the assistance payments, which totalled $10,500,000 in 1948 and $13,000,000 in 1949, this year are expected to decline to about $9,200,000, principally because of the fact that payments were cut when Canada devalued the dollar in September, 1949.

Even though Finance Minister Abbott announced Sept. 30—when the dollar was freed — that the gold subsidy would be fully restored, the net effect, this year, is only a small increase of about $2,000,000 over the $7,200,000 which was expected to be paid out in 1950.

Paid out under a complicated formula basis, the subsidies averaged to about $3.34 an ounce during 1948, $3.55 in 1949 and approximately $2.27 in 1950.

They ranged in 1948 from a high of $16 an ounce to a low of 49 cents; in 1948, from $16 to 46 cents. The 1950 range is not yet available. It may range from a high of $12.50 to below 40 cents.

Tidal Wave Causes $1,000,000 Loss

Jakarta, Indonesia, Oct. 11 — (AP) — Radio Amboina said today the tidal wave caused by Sunday's earthquakes swept away two villages with estimated damage of $1,000,000. No casualty figures were given.

The radio station, voice of Amboinese rebels who are fighting Indonesian Republican government forces, repeated an earlier appeal for speedy Red Cross aid "preferably by plane."

It said the coastal villages of Galala, 2½ miles from the capital, Amboina, and Hutumuri, on the southeast coast, vanished when tidal waves crashed 200 metres (656 feet) inland. Galala has a population of 1,000 and Hutumuri 2,000.

Amboinese informants here said the villages, which are both in rebel-held territory, probably had been evacuated before the disaster struck. They said practically all men of the island are fighting the Indonesian government force and most of the women and children have taken to the mountains because of the military operations.

Main Competition Opens at Int. Plowing Match

Alliston, Ont., Oct. 11 (CP)— Major competition in the 37th International plowing match gets under way today with a number of British and United States plowmen vying with Canadian champions.

Today's international card includes nine open classes in stubble plowing with jointer plows, both horse and tractor.

The competition, sponsored by the Ontario Plowmen's Association, continues until Friday at nearby Nottawasaga Valley farms. Events offering top prizes for Ontario plowmen— free trips to the United States and the United Kingdom—will be held tomorrow and Friday.

For a while yesterday it appeared that rainy weather might force postponement of the matches, but the intermittent rain turned out to be a blessing for the plowmen, damping down the sandy soil to the right consistency for good, clean furrows.

Some 6,000 spectators were on hand to view yesterday's special "local county" competitions. Eligible were competitors of any age or sex from the counties of Dufferin, Grey, Ontario, Simcoe and York, with winners advancing into international divisions.

Len Job, this year's Alberta champion, is here from Edmonton and has entered matches for each of the three days of international competition.

Former British and Irish champions living in Canada now also are in evidence.

Among the first to appear was a former Irish champion, Pat Minnock, now 27, who won the Eire championship at the age of 21. John Lindsay Brown is an Irishman of another color, three-time champion of Ulster, whose cups now decorate his home near Bradford, Ont. From across the Irish sea comes R. L. Batey of Newcastle-on-Tyne, former winner of several British intercounty contests. Batey now spends much of his time trying to convince Canadian farmers of the value of the Ransome plow.

While the plowing is the main item on the program, the exhibits of farm machinery and other equipment command their share of attention. Farm welding competitions also continue through the four days.

WAR ON DISEASE

Few days pass without news of some discovery which may be of moment in the field of medicine and health. Health organizations are tireless in their drive against disease. Scientific progress is getting at the source of illness and the solution of mysteries is unrelenting in its advances.

Cancer as one of the scourges of the world is prominently before the people's minds. In the drive to conquer this mystery money and energy are being expended at a rate which is producing results in throwing light on the sources of this malady which afflicts so many of mankind. All the while the new knowledge is bringing health to many who might otherwise have been carried off in earlier years by one of the diseases which harass the race.

To these men who give their lives in the study of such problems there is owing a debt beyond the world's ability to pay except in gratitude for what investigation and the experts have been able to bring to those in suffering.

This tireless bombardment of the disease by science brings new light to bear on the problems of many diseases, so that today the work of research already has a vast body of medical facts at its hand to aid in pressing forward to a possible solution of the mystery associated with disease.

This stressing of health and constant reference to the solution of problems of disease has created an informed public which is ready to support the efforts of the scientist to solve some of the mysteries.

One of the subjects under relentless bombardment is cancer. New facts are being brought to light which give mankind hope that this scourge will some day be controlled or removed.

UNSOLVED MYSTERY

How to explain the instinct of direction possessed by the domestic cat and other animals still baffles students of natural history. Hamilton Spectator tells a story of a cat owned by a Chataugua County, N.Y., family which again raises the question. It is the story of a cat owned by a Chatauqua County, N.Y., family. Mr. and Mrs. Lundmark of Stockton, N.Y., gave the black and white cat called Clementine to a sister of Mrs. Lundmark, Mrs. Louis Knoll, last year when the former were moving to Denver. Three months ago the cat vanished leaving three kittens.

In time the cat turned up at the home of the Lundmarks in Denver. It bore signs of travel and was not in good shape. It was photographed and the photograph was sent to Mrs. Knoll who was convinced that it was Clementine.

The Spectator asks: "How did the cat know that the Lundmarks had moved to Denver? How did the cat know when she reached Denver and where the Lundmarks lived in that city?"

The Spectator gives up trying to solve the mystery by saying that only Clementine can give the explanation. "She is the only one who can explain it all — but she's not talking. Just purring in a rocking chair by the kitchen stove after averaging about four hundred miles a month."

Along with the cat in the class of creatures which have a sense of direction is the dog. That is one of the secrets he holds along with the cat and the migrating birds and the unexplained trek of animals.

RIVER THAT MEANS HOME

There is no Swanee River, but there is a stream called the Suwanee, which rises in the Okefenokee Swamp in Georgia and flows through Florida 250 miles to the Gulf of Mexico. At the river's source, in Fargo, Ga., there stands a monument to the man who made it "immortal in song" and this week a memorial building was dedicated to him at White Spring, Fla. Legend has it that Stephen Foster selected the "Swanee" for his verse because he had visited its banks in 1850, the year before the song was published, but it seems more likely that he put it in, omitting one syllable to fit the meter, because he liked the sound of it. Others liked the sound, too—words and music.

It was Foster's tragedy that he was pressed for funds in 1851 and did not realize that he had produced a classic that would endear him to multitudes for generations to come. His greatest song (or are there those who would prefer "My Old Kentucky Home?") was first published, as Mr. Howard has shown, as "written and composed" by E. P. Christy of the Christy Minstrels. Mr. Howard inclines to the belief that Christy paid five dollars extra for this privilege, or fifteen dollars in all. Later Foster received about $2,000 in royalties on the song. It seems, all things considered, worth even more than that.

Florida, like California (whose San Joaquin, Sacramento or Angeles Rivers didn't make the grade in popular song), has justified Foster in one respect: it is a place "where de old folks play." But Swanee River is everybody's and every state's river; it is, to cite Mr. Howard's remarks at White Springs, "a river that flows past the place man calls home, whether that river flows in Georgia or Florida or the Congo." — New York Times.

STILL THE BEST LAND

There are many troubled and weary here
And the poor are sore beset,
But none has a tyrant's power of fear
Or a bullet or bayonet.
And when sorrow comes, as to all it must,
The saddest of us has God to trust.

The plenty we boast is to some denied
And many a home seems bare,
To add to the anguish there.
And the man who does what he knows is right
Won't be snatched away in the dead of night.

There are evils here which we can't deny,
And much that we ought to do,
But wiser we grow as the years go by
And fairer and kinder, too.
And the poorest here are richer far

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Most of us expect presents from our families and friends on our birthday. Except in the case of small children, it ought to be the other way round. Adults should celebrate their birthdays by giving gifts to their family and friends. No grown man or woman should fail, on the natal day, to give flowers to mother, and a box of cigars to the old man. It stands to reason.

People of intelligence and imagination have been doing just this since ancient times. An Indian friend of mine came along with a fine basket of blueberries which he gave me with considerable ceremony.

"It's my birthday," he announced. "I am glad I am alive, and I am glad to have been alive. I got up early and picked these berries for you. I gave my wife all the money I had which was $3.60. I gave a box of candy that costs $1 to my two daughters, and my pocket knife to my son. The pocket knife cost $1.75. I hope you will enjoy the blueberries. They are fresh. I picked them this morning."

Blueberries were $4 a basket at that moment.

"By a strange coincidence," I said to my old fishing friend, "this is my birthday too. I am glad I am alive, and glad I have been alive. I would like you to take all the money I have in my pocket."

And by a little skilful fingering and fumbling in my pants pocket, I manipulated exactly $10.35 out of it. A very strange coincidence indeed.

I am not sure if it was his birthday; but I am certain it was not mine. At any rate, we both felt pleased about the whole thing, and about being alive.

Recently an executive resigned from a business to take a bigger job elsewhere. His associates clubbed together for the usual parting gift. But before they could present it, he called them all together and gave every one of them an attractive little leather cigarette case with the recipient's name stamped in gold on each. The memorable gifts are those which involve surprise, and perhaps a little mischief.

BULWARK AGAINST SKEPTICISM

There is no Christian doctrine to which men cling with more earnest hope than to the doctrine of the immortality of the soul. Without that, the whole of life loses its objective. The sacrifice, suffering, and disappointment through which we all have to pass is nothing but a tragic nightmare, unless beyond the veil there is a perfect order where the scales balance, where light of truth shines with a steady flame.

St. Paul declared that if in this life only we have hope in Christ, we are of all men most miserable. Yet think what a great thing it is to have hope of Christ in this world. He has transformed home life, and He is fast building new foundations under the life of men in every sphere. If we could undergird the whole of human life with His principles, we should live in a transformed

Yet Paul says that if we did all this and yet failed to believe that this same Christ can take us on to a life of eternal glory with God the Father, still our earthly joys would be nothing but restlessness and misery. We have nothing unless we believe in life after death. If we do not have this faith, then there is nothing left for us but skepticism. And that indeed is a dificient diet for any man to feed his soul upon. Contentment of heart and health of spiritual life de-

RIDING THE GHOST

The other midnight, after 15 hours of making like Joe Executive, I felt I could use a little fresh air, and so I stepped into a cab and asked the hackie to drive me around Central Park.

"How's business" I small-talked.

"Pretty fair," said the cabbie, "but people are funny - - soon as us hackies start making an extra buck they act we was profitteering or something. They forgot about all those years when we had to ride the ghost in order to keep our jobs."

"Ride the what,"

"The ghost," said the hackie. "That's what we used to call it when we threw the flag down and let the clock run without a customer inside. During the tough times there were fleet owners who would fire a guy if he didn't bring in a certain amount of business, so we used to run it up on the meter and pay for it out of our own pockets. And we had to watch ourselves when riding the ghost or an inspector might nab us. The way I used to do it was to cruise around Central Park until I clocked up enough to satisfy the boss - - and do you know something? The biggest tip I ever got was on one of those nights when the ride was on me."

"Unconfuse me," I said.

"Well it was like this," said the hackie. "About a month after the stock market crash in '29, I'm cruising around Wall Street one afternoon, figuring that if a broker threw himself out the window I might get a chance to rush him to the hospital. But Wall Street's like a graveyard that day, and so finally I get disgusted and go into a speakeasy for a couple of shots.

"When I climb back into my cab a few hours later, I'm feeling no pain, and so I decide I might as well take the ghost for his usual joyride. And that night, Central Park is really something to see - - you know, full of snow and icicles like a kid's fairy book.

"After making the circuit a couple of times, I'm about ready to call it a night when suddenly I get a feeling I'm being watched. And so I turn around, and sitting in the back is a little old geezer wearing one of those high collars and what they call a homberger hat. Naturally, this gives me quite a jolt, but when a guy is potted he's liable to get some pretty funny ideas, and so I figure out that this is the ghost I been riding around night after night. Brave-like, I crank open the window between us and start to talk to him.

"How you enjoying the ride?" I says.

"I'm enjoying it fine," says the ghost.

"Where can I take you?" I ask him next.

"To St. Patrick's Cathedral. And close the window - - it's getting cold."

"This strikes me as kind of a peculiar remark for a ghost, but I do like I'm told, and when we get to St. Patrick's the ghost gets out and I'm surprised I can't see through him like you're supposed to with ghosts.

"I'll never forget you for what you did," he says, "and especially the way you did it - - pretending not to hear what I told you and driving me through the park on this beautiful night so I could see there was something in the world besides my own miserable problems."

"For the first time I begin to suspicion that maybe this ain't no ghost after all, so I says to him, "When'd you get in my cab?"

You know darn well I was waiting in the back when you came out of the bar," he says.

"That explains it," I says. "I didn't see you because it was dark and I was kind of loaded, and I didn't hear you because the window between us was closed."

You're a gentleman and a scholar," says the little old geezer. Saying which he fishes out a hundred-dollar bill and hands it to me.

"He starts to go away but I stop him. 'Just for the record,' I says, 'where'd you ask me to take you first?'

"As if you didn't know," he says. "The middle of the Brooklyn Bridge."

CHARGE WITHDRAWN

Whitby, Oct. 11. (CP) — A charge of manslaughter laid against 30-year-old Bruce Jemmett of Oshawa was withdrawn Tuesday. He pleaded guilty to dangerous driving and was remanded for sentence to Friday.

Jemmett was the driver of a car which struck down and killed John Hodgson, 14, while the boy was walking on the highway. Police testified Jemmett had been drinking.

DRAGNET OUT

Ottawa, Oct. 11 — (CP) — A police dragnet is out for three youths who last night held up a used car dealer and stole $300 in cash and $175 in cheques at gun-point.

The bandits made their get-away in a car stolen from the lot after trussing the dealer, Lorne Hall, to an office chair. The car was recovered by police a short time after the robbery.

Hall was released by five 'teen-age youths who heard his muffled cries.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

WINDOWS

I would not want to live in a house with few or small windows. I care not at all for the finest castle, with its darkened windows. I want the light! Happily architects and builders are putting more and bigger windows in most of their planned houses and business blocks.

We should want to get as large a look at this beautiful world as possible, no matter where we may reside. Great windows are a storekeeper's best advertisement. They are forever, in silence, talking to the public, and the more attractive they are made, the more customers there will be inside the store.

There was a time when most houses had blinds that kept the light out of the so-called choicest rooms, but happily few remain. People have learned the value of light and sunshine, and the cheer and health that both give. Workers in an office do far better work in a sunlighted place, with its cheer ever about them, than in an artificially lighted office.

I like to think of the mind as something with windows all about it, where everything is noticed of beauty and interest. Many people see little because they have all their blinds drawn. An expert photographer was my guest this summer, and he never went anywhere that he did not carry his camera. He saw pictures in all directions—almost out of the back of his head! His mind was full of windows, and he saw beauty out of them all.

The eyes have been called the windows of the soul. Perhaps they are. Especially can this be true where the eyes see nothing but beauty and the opportunity to be helpful to others. To look out upon life hopefully we must have clean windows out of which to look, and many of them. Most birds build their homes out in the open, with the whole world as a window, so that their young's first sight is the sunshine.

Windows looking out upon a garden, or a bit of water, are always inspiring. It is a good sign of happier times, as the larger cities have learned that decent, well-lighted apartment buildings are an investment rather than the liability of poorly lighted tenements.

TOXIC GOITER — SURGERY OR RADIOACTIVE IODINE?

Up until the present time, the standard treatment for toxic goitre was first, preparation for operation and second, surgery. In experienced hands, this form of treatment is highly successful and the hazard involved is very slight. Nevertheless, patient resistance to this procedure is evident in the number of delayed or neglected cases which finally come to operation.

Not every goitre is toxic. A toxic goitre is one which results in rapid heart action, loss of weight, nervous instability and sometimes, protruding eyeballs. The degree of toxic effect of the goitre is not always related to its size. Occasionally very large goitres occur without producing any toxic symptoms whatever.

Any goitre, large enough to be seen, detracts from one's physical appearance, a thing which most normal persons dislike. A goitre may be removed surgically for no reason other than that its size any prominence detracts from the appearance of its possessor, but usually when it becomes that large it produces local pressure symptoms in the throat which is added reason for its removal.

A toxic goitre may be so small as to not be noticeable on ordinary inspection. Many persons who become highly irritable, emotionally unstable and who lose weight rapidly become a bit indignant when told their trouble is due to toxic "goitre" when no goitre as such is apparent.

Perhaps very few persons can be found who would enjoy the experience of undergoing operation for the removal of a goitre, even though under modern methods no great ordeal is involved. The possibility of causing a goitre to disappear by means other than surgical has intrigued the mind of surgeon and patient for years. Now it can be done—but there are a few strings attached.

When medicinal iodine is taken into the body, it is deposited to a large extent in the thyroid gland. Note that I make a distinction between "medicinal" iodine and "iodin" which is exactly the same thing, the former being used in medicinal doses, the latter occurring naturally in foodstuff and used purely as a nutritive principle.

When iodine is made radioactive, the thyroid gland concentrates it the same as it does the original substance. When the radioactive iodine is concentrated in the thyroid gland, it bombards the surrounding glandular tissue with the result that the functional activity of the gland is decreased as is its size. This is precisely what surgery accomplishes. However, the question of what else happens as the result of the presence of the radioactive iodine has not been fully settled and probably will not be for several years.

Reports to date indicate that a very large percentage of those who have undergone treatment with radioactive iodine have secured excellent results. The poor results have been comparatively slight and evidence of damage has been almost totally lacking. However, this type of procedure is only nine years old and it has been but very recently that significant statistics have become available, covering large groups of cases.

Cancer has occurred as the result of "burns" by radiation. Thus far no case of cancer has been attributable to treatment of goitre with radioactive iodine, but what the future may bring forth in this connection is unknown. Those who undergo treatment with this new therapy are distinctly experimental subjects. However, experimentation is always involved in any treatment, no matter how old, well tried or well known.

Treatment of goitre by radioactive iodine may in time largely supplant surgery, if the future reveals no drawbacks. It seems likely that very hard or large glands will always respond better to surgical treatment, however.

In the meantime, it is well to bear in mind the fact that very few "unknowns" are involved in the surgical treatment of goitre. Having once recovered from the operation, it is very unusual for any further complication to appear. Occasionally, a goitre has to be re-operated upon even thus constitutes no great hazard.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Calcium and Eczema

When I supplement my diet with calcium and D as you suggested, my eczema clears up almost entirely. But after several weeks it comes back, unless I resume taking calcium and D. Is this a must for the rest of my life? (L. J. M.)

Answer—Perhaps so, if you haven't the gumption to correct your everyday calcium-poor diet. Send stamped self-addressed envelope for pamphlet on Eczema (Salt Rheum). Inclose twenty-five cents if you would like also the booklet the Calcium Shortage.

Likes Lettuce

Two years ago developed great craving for head lettuce. I eat two good size heads a day, without dressing. Will this do any harm? (D. L.)

Answer—No. It gives you the benefits of vitamin E, vitamin A, vitamin C, vitamin B complex, calcium and, in areas other than the Great Lakes basin, iodin — all of which are essential for health and vite and commonly deficient in the everyday refined American diet.

St. Michael's High School Holds Graduation Exercises

The graduating exercises of St. Michael's High School were held in the academy auditorium last Friday. During the singing by the high school choir of the processional, "To Christ the King", the graduates took their places on the stage which was tastefully decorated with ferns, autumn leaves, and flowers.

Thomas Lally welcomed the guests, extending a special greeting to the Very Reverend Dean L. B. Garvin who was presiding for the first time at the high school graduation. The chairman also thanked the Catholic Women's League, the Knights of Columbus and the Holy Name Society for the donation of prizes which were presented by Mrs. Kathleen Doyle, Mr. Robert Kitchen and Mr. Leo Callaghan, respectively. The announcement was made that Miss Teresa Murphy, senior matriculation graduate who is now attending Peterborough Normal School has won a Dominion-Provincial bursary $250.

Expresses Feelings of Graduates

Miss Genevieve Tracey one of this year's graduates, sang "Bless This House," a selection which she dedicated to her alma mater. Following the conferring of diplomas by the Dean L. B. Garvin, the high school choir sang the very appropriate sacred song "Lady of Fatima." Gerard Flurey as valedictorian, expressed the feeling of the graduates as they said farewell to the team on which they had played so long, with its capable captain the principal of the school; its coaches, the teachers, its players, the graduates; its supporters, their parents, and its sponsor, the late Right Reverend Monsignor Nicholson.

A vocal duet, "The Wind and the Harp," by Miss Carolyn Forhan and Miss Helen Grant delighted the audience.

In the address to the graduating class, the Very Reverend Dean Garvin, referring to the 'motto, Doce me disciplinam, banitatem, scientiam', spoke of the foundation already laid in the lives of the graduates and of the need to continue building on it. Dean Garvin stressed the fact that without discipline or orderliness there will not be goodness and knowledge.

Following the graduation, tea was served to the graduates and their friends by the ladies of the Catholic Women's League who also sponsored the At Home held later in the evening.

'Jasper Park' Also Other Films Enjoyed at W.I.

The ladies of Unlondale W. I. held their regular monthly meeting in Scott's Church on Thursday evening last, and sponsored the showing of films to a crowd of 58.

Mrs. Milton Grills called the meeting to order. The roll call showed 14 members present.

Mrs. J. Scott gave a reading, also Ann Herrington. Mrs. K. Faul ably dealt with the topic "A faithful friend is better than gold," giving good advice to the boys and girls present to be sure and choose "good" friends.

A sing song followed with Mrs. C. Frost at the organ.

The films "Jasper Park," "The Opening of Canada's Parliament," and "Let There be Light," were shown with Frank Moon and Harry Lott operating the projector. These pictures were much appreciated.

Bounteous refreshments were served by the members, Mr. M. Sine who had gone for the projector returned it to Foxboro.

MARMORA

Thanksgiving Service Church Holds St.Andrew's United

Marmora—St. Andrew's United Church, Marmora, observed Thanksgiving Sunday with a service at 11 a.m., which was well attended. Rev. G. D. Young, B.A., B.D., officiated.

The choir rendered as the anthem "We Plough the Fields and Scatter". Choosing as his text the words of Christ to the seeking multitude, as given in the 6th Chapter of St. John, "Ye seek me not because ye saw the miracles, but because ye did eat of the loaves and were filled."

The preacher counselled his hearers that full thanksgiving to God meant more than a harvest home. He also stressed the fact that as the leaves fall to the ground to become of further service to the soil in playing their part in another harvest, so do they remind us of the continuity that God has marked out for our life, the everlasting life of which Christ spoke of to the seeking multitude. In the harvest of life there is this glorious prospect.

Elements of the material harvest appropriately graced the frontal of the communion table.

Mrs. Claude Clarke reported a meeting held for the Baby Band and their mothers. It was decided that she order whatever necessary as gift boxes and birthday cards. Mrs. Scott announced that the Rally would be held next Wednesday at the Tabernacle United Church, Belleville, the auxiliary would have charge of the worship service.

Following a lovely poem read by Mrs. MacFarlane, the meeting was dismissed and delicious refreshments were served by the hostess, and her assistants, and a social time was much enjoyed.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Charles Woodson, on November 2nd.

CANNIFTON W.M.S.

The October beeting of Cannifton W.M.S. was held at the home of Mrs. G. Brenton with a good attendance. Mrs. Williams opened the meeting by extending a cordial welcome to all.

The various reports were given by the secretories, while Mrs. G. Brenton had charge of the worship service with the theme, "Christ's Disciples Bring Light." Miss Furmidge presided at the harp.

A poem by Dr. Kagawa was read by Mrs Empson, followed by prayer by Mrs. Brenton for the new missionaries appointed to Japan this year by the United Church, as well as for Dr. Kagawa, his work, Christian leaders, and for the W.M.S. that their faith in Christ and in His power to bring resurrection to Japan may be deepened and that all may give generously, and that the light of Christ may shine forth from His disciples in Japan.

Mrs. Farnham gave a selection on the record player, "It Is Jesus In My Life". This was followed by a reading, "October", by Mrs. G. Brenton,—a time to count your blessings.

Mrs. Williams had charge of the study book and remarked that for over 75 years those in the United Church of Canada have sent missionaries to Japan. Today Christianity is a universal religion, for in every land, including Japan, there are bands of loyal Christians. From Japan came the words of Kagawa, "without the spirit of the cross, Japan can not be saved." In this belief, reinforcements are being sent to strengthen the Christian witness in Japan.

Mrs. Philip and Mrs. Mills each gave readings on "Missionary Work in Japan," explaining how the call to missionary service there came to one of these new missionaries, and the social service work which was established there by missionaries.

Mrs. Williams presented a lovely piece of costume jewellery to Mrs. Tice on the occasion of her moving to Belleville, and whose activities in the society will be greatly missed.

After the close of the meeting, refreshments were served, and a vote of thanks extended to the hostess and to all who had assisted in making the meeting so interesting.

Club Activities

GOOD COMPANIONS CLUB

The Reverend F. R. Harback, guest speaker at the Good Companions Club spoke first on tithing and gradually leading the group to the subject of consecration, reading from the 14th chapter of Deuteronomy, bringing out some interesting facts with reference to tithing. He spoke of the results that had been obtained in a church where tithing had been practised, but went on to point out that a Christian was expected to give his whole life to God.

President Morris Smith conducted the business meeting, and Lou Andrews, co-convener of recreation, tested would-be detectives on their ability.

Tasty refreshments were served under the direction of Mrs. Harry Brodie, Senior.

Women's Catholic League Holds Graduation Dance

On Friday evening last the league entertained the graduates of St. Michael's High School, their friends and guests at a formal dance. The auditorium of St. Michael's Academy was colorfully decorated for the occasion with baskets of ferns and fall blooms of every hue.

At midnight refreshing beverages were served by Mr. W. Foley and Mr. Wm. Grant.

The splendid music supplied by Bill Arnold's orchestra was greatly appreciated. The young ladies in their enchanting gowns of every color with their escorts danced gaily on and were loath to leave as the last strains of the "Home Waltz" were played, bringing to a close another successful C.W.L. annual graduation dance.

Mrs. Toombs Returned Indian Missionary Addresses W.M.S.

Madoc.—Mrs. George West offered her home for St. Peter's W.M.S. meeting which was well attended.

The president presided and opened the meeting. The Bible reading chosen from Chapter 16 of Mark's gospel was read by Mrs. G. Alvey, followed by prayer by Mrs. Dave Blakely.

Mrs. Heslip introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Toombs, a missionary, recently returned from India, whom Mrs. Heslip had known for many years.

The speaker gave an inspiring and instructive address based on the verse of Scripture, "Thine eyes shall see the King in His beauty, they shall see the land that is afar off".

She told of the customs of India and said superstitions show lack of faith. When sincere prayer is made for the far-off land and for the girl missionaries who are going out there, more liberal giving will be made to their support.

The thanks of the society were voiced by Mrs. Field Allen.

Four members of the Junior choir rendered a quartet "A Thanksgiving Prayer", accompanied by Ronnie Robertson. The offering was received by Mrs. Kilpatrick and dedicated by the president. A pleasant social half-hour was spent with the Rev. and Mrs. Toombs. The hostess was assisted in serving afternoon tea by Mrs. Allan, Mrs. Blakely and Mrs. Sharpe.

Girl Guide Activities

October 3 found the Guiders and local association members from the districts of Belleville, Bloomfield, Frankford and Batawa, Tweed and Trenton collecting at Canterbury Hall in Trenton for an informal meeting with Mrs. Bruce Wilson, the Provincial Commissioner for Ontario. Mrs. Wilson talked about her trip to Europe this summer and all the Guides she met there; she told a little of the organization of the executive of Girl Guides, and stated that Canada was the third country in the world for Guide population, that there was an increase of 5,000 during 1950 and that of the total number there were 35,000 Guides and Brownies in Ontario. After the meeting the Guiders were introduced to Mrs. Wilson by Mrs. Oliver, Division Commissioner for Hastings. Refreshments were served by the Trenton Guides and all reported a very enjoyable evening.

1st Belleville Brownies

It was a most encouraging sight on registration day to see all the old Brownies of the 1st Belleville Pack turn out to make sure that their names were on the new list for the coming 1950-51 season. Brown Owl and Tawny Owl were amazed to see how much some of them had grown, and all were eager and anxious to start off the new year. Of course, there were a few old faces missing, the older Brownies who are now going to become Guides, and with these Brownies alone there was a full pack, but along with the Brownies came 16 new Tweenies, several of whom had returned for the second year, this time to convince Brown Owl that they were really at last old enough to join Brownies. It would be a very hard-hearted Brown Owl who would turn these little folk away, but she is wondering very seriously how she is going to successfully run such a large Pack, 48 at the moment, and for this obvious reason has had to declare the Pack closed for this year. The meeting of last week was a happy one, and there was such grand co-operation from the Brownies who were trying so hard to be really good Brownies, and help Brown Owl and Tawny Owl, that we already feel like one big family and are ready to settle in and learn how to "lend-a-hand". Brown Owl and Tawny Owl would welcome parents at any meeting — (Tuesdays 4.15 to 5.30) and especially those who feel they could spare a little time to help.

"IT'S A DELIGHTFUL PLACE TO SHOP"

MARIO . . . in his distinctive feature about Food . . . What's Cooking ?

In Siam people on the streets eat hot bananas instead of hot dogs.

Vendors walk along, carrying two trays hanging from their shoulders like a balance scale. One of the trays is filled with burning coals and the fruit grilled to a turn.

If your meat courses are a little small these days, you can enlarge them easily with fried, broiled or baked bananas as a garnish.

Cooked bananas seem lighter than in the raw state. They are slightly more sweet, less starchy. For cooking purposes choose bananas that are fairly firm not green. They may be breaded and fried, cooked under a broiler or baked as in today's recipe.

In selecting pork chops ask for centre cut loin chops. Avoid end chops which often have excessive fat that merely melts during cooking. Trim off any excess outside fat, and melt over a slow flame. Such rendered fat can be used for frying purposes.

The secret of tender pork chops is long slow cooking. They may be fried quickly, but for best results, they should be kept in a slow oven for 1 hour.

Pork Chops, Baked Bananas.

Order 4 centre cut loin pork chops, 3-4 inch thick. Put chops in a paper bag with 1-4 cup flour, 1 teaspoonful salt and 1-8 teaspoon pepper. Shake bag well to cover chops with flour mixture.

Melt fat to a depth of 1-4 inch in a heavy frying pan. Brown chops well on both sides. Transfer chops to a deep baking dish.

Cut 2 medium size green peppers crosswise into thin rings. Remove seeds of peppers. Arrange pepper rings over chops. Remove stem ends of 2 large tomatoes. Cut tomatoes into quarters. Place tomatoes in baking dish. Sprinkle salt over tomatoes and peppers.

Add 1 can undiluted consomme to pan. Cover pan with a tight lid. Bake in a slow oven 325 degrees for 1 hour or until chops are very tender when pierced with a meat fork. Spoon liquid over chops several times during baking.

Peel and cut 2 bananas in half crosswise. Sprinkle bananas with brown sugar. Add bananas to baking dish 10 minutes before cooking is completed.

Arrange bananas, tomatoes and pepper rings over chops on serving plates. Gravy may be thickened with cornstarch if desired. Skim all fat off gravy. Pour over chops on serving dishes.

Women's Institute

WALLBRIDGE W.I.

Mrs. M. Reid entertained the Wallbridge Women's Institute, at her home for the month of September with an attendance of 15. Mrs. A. Fisher, president, presided and opened the meeting.

In the absence of the secretary-treasurer, Mrs. E. Phillips read the minutes of last meeting and all correspondence, also a letter from the department about a short course to be held in March. The subject chosen for this course "Now They're at School" with Miss McBride as leader. A place for the meeting was also suggested.

An invitation from River Valley Women's Institute to attend an afternoon meeting and tea on Oct. 12 at Mrs. Percy Utman's home, Stirling, was read and accepted.

A donation of $10 was granted to the Canadian National Institute for the Blind. The Girls' Club work was brought up, but a leader would have to be chosen before any further planning. A letter from Mrs. B. Finkle was read on universal declaration of human rights also a few pamphlets on the same were distributed, and it was decided to study these before sending for more literature.

Mrs. Fox, Reg.N., has offered her services for the inspection of the school children's eyes and teeth. The W.I. gladly accepted her offer.

The roll call was answered on "Helpful Hints in Gardening", and "Preparing vegetables for Winter Storage". The October meeting will be held at night at Mrs. A. Wood's, Belleville, the meeting changed to Thursday night instead of Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Frank Jeffrey taking the topic on "Agriculture", chose as her subject, "The Growing of Cotton". She gave an instructive and educational paper of cotton fields from seed time to harvest.

On their tour south last Winter, they visited the cotton fields and demonstrated the cotton bolls in their natural form with their locks and seeds and also showed pictures of whole families at work picking the cotton also a snapshot of their own group in the cotton fields.

Eli Whitney invented the first cotton gin. Cotton is one of America's largest yearly cash crops. She also demonstrated some beautiful hand crocheted pot holders made by herself.

A vote of thanks was extended to Mrs. Reid as hostess and to Mrs. Jeffrey for her paper and talk. The lunch conveners served refreshments.

Abroad With Me

By Dorothy E. Futcher

Paris, Saturday, Sept. 23.

Please excuse my abruptness! Last night I left you stranded in the beautiful formal gardens of Versailles. I hope before you wended your way home alone, you took time as I did, to drink in the wonderful ensemble of the gardens, its long vista like nothing else in this world, the exquisite bronze statues, the finest group to be seen any where, around the formal water garden, the wide flight of steps leading down to a long canal, ornamented by box borders and bright colored flower pots in complex design, and beyond all this, the woods on the hills far away in the distance.

We left the sublime for the rediculous for we had tickets for the ballet. We though it not nearly so colorful or artistic as the ballet we had seen in Stockholm or Copenhagen, but the opera house was packed and the applause was deafening. It evidently appealed to others, but then, that's Paris.

This morning we shopped and found that as the guide had promised that the Rue de Honore suited our tastes and our pocketbook. Traffic is wild in Paris, there are not enough traffic lights on busy intersections. At the rush hours, traffic cops try to guide traffic from boxes in the centre of the street, or by swinging their white sticks—but there is continual scurrying and dashing to and fro. The pedestrians here need a few lessons in obeying traffic and safety measures. All along the main streets are many stalls filled with gorgeous flowers, dahlias, carnations, chrysanthemums, asters—there is no need for the Paris housewife to go without flowers to brighten her home—they must be reasonable in price, they are so abundant.

It is truly "paper money" in Paris, and although you have a bag full of it you haven't much—for the French franc has the value of one-third cent and a 100 franc note is worth about thirty cents in our money. You give at least a 100 franc note to the taxi driver, it is the only thing cheap in Paris. You have a 5,000 franc note in your purse but its value is just around $15, so although you talk thousands in money here, with us it is just so many dollars and it disappears like snow in the sun. Not many could afford to spend a long holiday in Paris.

Did I tell you about French bread? They practically buy it by the yard. It is sold in long sticks about the circumference of the rolls we are used to in Canada, and housewives go along the streets with one of these, tucked under their arm, unwrapped. Certainly Paris is behind any other city we have visited in sanitation—food is not covered or protected. We saw a milkman pouring milk from a can into a housewife's pitcher—so bottles cannot be compulsory. But Paris is thrilling and gay and interesting and we are thankful we can work it into a busy itinerary.

Before three we are off by plane to London. It was a beautiful day as we leave, although it had showered continually, and the Paris airfield is a hive of activity with planes taking off every few minutes for some corner of the earth. The city is beautiful from the air—the Seine forming a loop around it—the last we see of it is the Eiffel Tower peeking through fleecy clouds, that look just like wads of cotton wool, below us. Then over the dark green of forests, the dark brown of ploughed lands and the fresh green of meadows to the North Sea and the Straits of Dover.

When we saw England underneath us with her neat fields boxed in with hedges, we felt as if we were home, and what a relief it is knowing that here people will understand you and you will understand them, for we've had weeks of visiting in countries where we couldn't speak a word of their language. There's something about this "right, little, tight little isle" that makes the heart sing and the eyes lighten if you have British blood in your veins, and you take time to be thankful that you were born in Canada, beneath the British flag.

Council Committee on High School Area Will Discuss Question With County Council

The special committee of city council set up to consider formation of the proposed Bay of Quinte High School district, will meet with county council to discuss financial arrangements before the present high school district is disbanded.

Alderman Charles L. Hyde as member of the special committee brought the matter in for discussion at Tuesday night's council meeting when he said that it was imperative the Board of Education know soon whether the city would approve of the formation of the proposed high school district.

"It is a matter of high school accommodation," Mr. Hyde said as he presented his recommendation for action to be taken. "If the new district is not formed then the Board of Education must notify the county that rural students can no longer be accommodated."

If this were the case the local collegiate would then lose the non-resident student fees as well as the government grants on such students. There was also the matter of goodwill with the rural areas. If the new high school area is not formed the rural area must build their own high school.

Discussed Several Times

Mayor Allin felt that matter should receive more attention and suggested that the recommendation be referred to the next committee meeting. Alderman Argue countered with the statement that the matter had been discussed "several times" in council. "The city" he said, "has nothing to lose if all objections are ironed out and if a satisfactory agreement can be worked out with the county paying a fair share on a per capita basis."

Alderman Clarke said that the proposition was that the special committee meet with county council and see if a satisfactory agreement could be reached.

He noted that there are two sides to the picture. "If we are to earn $50,000 from county students in a year, then certainly it must cost us something to earn this amount," he said. "Without county students we could fill the collegiate with city students in five years' time."

Recreation Committee Asked To Prepare By-Law for Council

The local recreation committee which operated playgrounds in the city last Summer will be asked by city council to prepare a by-law for submission to council authorizing the formation of a recreational commission here.

Council passed the recommendation at committee meeting last week and the motion received ratification at the regular meeting Tuesday night.

Other recommendations passed included one authorizing the public works department to provide city street numbers for hydro and telephone poles to correspond to adjoining house numbers. This, it was felt, would materially assist strangers in the city, as well as local residents, identifying street numbers.

The T. J. Holland Company was awarded the contract for heating equipment for the city yard barns at a cost of $2745. This was the lowest guaranteed tender. Repairs for the floor of the city butter market were authorized, the repairs to be of a temporary nature and to be completed in time for the annual cheese show.

Police Instructed

City police will be instructed to enforce the early closing by-law now in existence. An additional school guard will be hired to work at the corner of College and North James Street, to direct traffic at the new Holy Rosary Separate School.

William Ford, as spokesman for the local Army, Navy and Air-force Veterans appeared before council asking that the veterans' organization be assured of control of their present Front Street premises. The premises were now too small to accommodate their membership and extensive renovations were planned.

Mayor Allin replied that the trustees of the property would see that the veterans were amply protected, and that a by-law giving council approval would be passed in council.

When the by-law came up for passing however Alderman Duffy wanted to know why the trustees of the property had not got together with the Army and Navy Veterans and the Canadian Legion to iron out all difficulties.

The outcome of the discussion was that the by-law was given two readings and will await final settlement of the matter by trustees before the third reading is given.

By-laws Passed

Other by-laws passed were for the debenture issue for $300,000 for the construction of the new school in East Belleville, and the by-law with respect to the works agreement between the city and the public works department employees.

The question of building restrictions in the area east of MacDonald Ave. came up for discussion when Alderman Fred Deacon as chairman of special property inquired as to the city ruling. The Mayor replied that he had understood the building restrictions carried on past MacDonald, but he had been recently informed this was not the case.

Inquires About Delay

Alderman Argue inquired as to the delay in the expense account reports of the various city departments which had been asked some weeks ago by the chairman of finance. It turned out that the request had been made to the mayor who until two weeks ago had neglected to request the city clerk to write to the various departments for the information. The city clerk was directed to secure the information.

Under notice of motion Mayor Allin said that at the next meeting of council he would move a resolution asking "for an expression of opinion from the electorate of the City of Belleville be obtained at the next general election as to their wishes regarding the forming of a health unit for the city and the solicitor be instructed to prepare the necessary by-law."

Canada Savings Bonds on Sale Next Monday

The fifth series of Canada Savings Bonds will go on sale October 16 in Belleville. The sales campaign will last three weeks until Nov. 4, and officials have already reported that local industries seem "much more enthused" this year than last.

The slogan for this year's drive will be "Everyone Has Something to Save For," and you'll soon be seeing it on the billboards around town and in this newspaper's ads.

Authorities said that the industries in this area last year did an excellent job, with a large percentage of the employees participating. Their experience in the 4th series was that there was a substantial increase in employee participation, up to 96 cent. "There is a general feeling," they said "that a number of industries which formerly have had a lower percentage will this time increase their participation."

Everyone has something to save for.

Improvers, Apprentices Will Be Assisted in Night Classes

On the past two Thursday evenings, the bricklayers, carpenters, plumbers, and electricians, as represented by the masters and the unions concerned, met with representatives from the Belleville Collegiate Institute in the persons of the principal, Mr. Geo. Currie, Mr. Norman Smith, director Vocational Training and Mr. James Musgrove, director of Vocational Guidance, with the idea in mind of setting up night school classes for the fall and winter months that would assist improvers and apprentices in their respective trades.

At the meeting last Thursday evening, Mr. George Simmons, Assistant Director of Apprenticeship, Provincial Department of Labor, was present and gave the group considerable information relative to the Apprenticeship Act and the regulations pertaining thereto. It was decided at this meeting that a local apprenticeship committee be set up for Belleville and district to work in conjunction with the Provincial Apprenticeship committee, which is an advisory board to the Director of Apprenticeship. The local committee would be in a position to advise the provincial committee relative to various matters pertaining to Belleville and surrounding area. It was also pointed out that all apprentices to any particular trade would have their application for apprenticeship approved by this local advisory committee before it was forwarded to the Apprenticeship Board in Toronto.

Distinct Lack

The meeting felt there was a distinct lack of apprenticeship factors in the various trades. This was caused by the excessive demand during the war period for peak production and the lack of time to properly train skilled mechanics. In the building trades particularly, the demand for building since the war had militated against the apprenticeship system as there was a crying need for housing particularly, and personnel was trained to do one factor in building only.

Numerous employees, who are more or less in the improver class, feel the need of further training and it was recognized that our Vocational School could lend wonderful assistance in this regard if classes were set up to assist these young men, and older men who had some knowledge of the trades in which they were working but lacked further knowledge which they could get by attending these night classes. The school authorities advised the meeting that they could set other classes up on this basis and that teaching could be done along the lines of giving these workers practical theory where they could use it in their days' work. This was completely aside from the more or less hobby type of classes that had been prevalent in the past for certain specific classifications such as woodworking.

Need For Such Classes

The National Employment Office, through the local manager, pointed out to the meeting that they felt that there had been a need for such classes for several years and were happy to see that the move was getting the wholehearted support from the masters and through their union bodies alike. This would be a long-term plan and would take several years to bring to top production but the bricklaying and general construction classes now on at the Collegiate Vocational School on Tuesday and Thursday evenings of each week from now unto the end of March, 1951, will be set up to take care of just such a situation and the union representatives, as well as the employer group, will see that all their personnel are immediately advised so that they can take the opportunity of improving their knowledge in their respective trades. It was also felt that, within the next week or two, a course for plumbers and another course for electricians could be set up along the same plan.

This week's meeting is called for Thursday evening at 7:30 in the National Employment Office at 161 Front Street when a local advisory committee will be formed and other matters pertaining to carpenters, bricklayers plumbers and electricians will be discussed. It was felt also that, at this meeting, other prospective apprenticeship and improver classes could be looked into and checked with employer groups. A full representation of masters and employee groups are welcome at these meetings.

Mayor Limits Special Committee To Month Before Asking for Probe

A public investigation into conditions at the Belleville General Hospital will be asked if within one month there has been no progress toward rectifying present operational difficulties at the institution.

This was stated by Mayor H. J. Allin at Tuesday night's meeting of city council when he said he would ask for the investigation if within the month the special committee appointed to investigate had failed to make satisfactory progress or no report had been received from the auditor from the Department of Health.

Two weeks ago city auditor F. A. R. MacFadden presented a report on the hospital to a combined meeting of council and the board of governors. There was no discussion of the report at the meeting.

Two Resolutions

Alderman Haig brought council up to date on what had transpired since the report was received from the auditor. He said there had been a special meeting of the board of governors to deal with the report and out of that meeting had come two resolutions.

One was for an auditor from the Department of Health to make a survey of the hospital the other being for a special committee of C. B. Morgan, Clarence Jewell, Frank Domenico and A. M. Haig to go over the report with the auditor.

Alderman Haig said that in his opinion nothing further should be done by council until this committee had had the opportunity of making a report. "This situation should be approached in a constructive manner," he said "To have any public washing of linen would be an injustice."

Would Resign

The alderman said he would resign from the Board if there was any attempt, as rumored, to make the hospital an election issue. He felt the hospital board should be given every opportunity to do something before any outside action was taken.

Mayor Allin said he had been criticized because there had been no discussion of the auditor's report since it was given. He thought, however, that the hospital board should be afforded the opportunity to do something themselves.

The auditor's report on the hospital was too long for publication but the Mayor stated if any citizen desired to read the report it was available at the city hall.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

HOW ABOUT IT?

Out of the meeting of the Arena Commission yesterday there emerged a bright star in the hockey firmament but later investigation revealed it to be nothing more than a comet, something with a luminous head, a tail of sparks that blazes a fiery way momentarily then fades into nothing.

From what we can learn by sneaking around corners disguised as the "Shadow", hiding in garbage cans and listening to the gurglings of some supposed to be in the "know", nothing definite has been done thus far as regards a Senior "B" team in this village.

A few weeks ago, a "spokesman" of the Northern Electric Company said that the firm was taking up the franchise cudgels. On the heels of this announcement, a "spokesman" of the CNRAA telephoned this corner's good lady and left a message to the effect that the railroad organization had decided not to exercise the franchise this year.

Both spokesmen are generally regarded as, in newspaper parlance, "autheritative sources".

It would appear from the appearance at the Commission meeting yesterday of representatives of the CNRAA that that organization has changed its mind and decided to exercise the franchise.

But up pops another "spokesman" who states that nothing definite as yet has been decided by the CNRAA, and there won't be any definite stand taken until certain meetings have been held. And don't be surprised if there is some sort of a merger between Northern Electric and the railway organization.

However, if it is true that the Ontario Hockey Association intends operating groups early in November, somebody had better start mounting Dobbin and getting matters organized. Or is history going to repeat itself and we'll ice a squad a couple of days before the group opening?

The Senior "B" Group hereabouts appears on paper to be a husky chunk of a youngster. Queen's University have tossed their gauntlet into the figurative arena, since the Gaels are not taking part in intercollegiate hockey this year.

The 'fabulous' Nylons, who "thundered" through to the playoffs last year, will again see action as will the Peterborough Hockey Club and the champion Legionnaires. Gananoque has also entered the lists and these teams with the Belleville entry will round out a neat if not gaudy sextette of squads.

Friday night sees the swan song of wrestling for the season as Manager Walter Gerow will start ice-making immediately the pachyderms have packed and kissed a reluctant farewell to the Belleville faithful.

* * *

NOT HAY, BROTHER

Casey Stengel, winner of two world baseball championships is as many years, was hired yesterday as manager of New York Yankees for two years. The terms were not disclosed.

There have been estimates his salary would be anywhere from $65,000 to $80,000 a year.

* * *

AT LAST!

Bill Ezinicki of the Toronto Maple Leafs signed a contract today to play with Pittsburgh Hornets, a Toronto farm team in the American Hockey League.

An announcement by Hap Day, assistant general manager of the Leafs, said Ezinicki agreed to play for "minor-league pay."

He will do so until he gets into condition, Day told reporters. If he does no, he will return to Toronto at a major-league salary.

* * *

SO THAT'S WHY HE LIMPED!

Andy Seminick of Philadelphia Phillies, played the final week of the season and all four games of the World Series with a bone separation in his ankle, it was disclosed.

Andy's left leg was encased in a plaster cast.

"I thought it was just a sprain," the 30-year-old catcher said.

Personal Problems Reason Ezinicki Did Not Report

Bashing Bill Ezinicki came back to Toronto Tuesday, but his stay was brief.

The sturdy winger checked in after an unexplained absence from the training camp of Toronto Maple Leafs. Last night he checked out for Leafs' Pittsburgh farm club in the American Hockey League.

Bashing Bill's return to his familiar right-wing spot at Maple Leaf Gardens will depend on his ability to play himself back into shape with the Hornets against A.H.L. opposition.

When Ezinicki signed his contract Tuesday for an unannounced sum, it brought to an end one of the most unusual holdout cases in hockey.

Three weeks ago, when he failed to report to the Leafs training camp for pre-season conditioning, Ezinicki said in an interview he wasn't feeling in shape for hockey.

Tuesday, the Toronto club's managing director, Conny Smythe, said: "Ezinicki had some personal problems that have worried him. But now he's ready to play hockey for Maple Leaf Gardens."

Ezinicki was smiling broadly as he emerged from a four-hour contract conference with Smythe and Hay Day, the Leafs' assistant manager. "It's up to me now," he said. "I guess I'll have to go to work."

Alan McFater of Toronto, one of Canada's leading lightweights, won a unanimous eight-round decision over Jean Richard of Montreal in the rubber fight between the two Tuesday night.

McFater weighed 138¾, Richard 136.

McFater, fighting his 13th professional match, floored Richard for an eight-count with a short left hook to the stomach in the seventh round. The blow came out of nowhere at a time when Richard was fighting his best round of the bout.

It was the fourth meeting between the two claimants for the vacant Canadian lightweight title. Each had won a previous bout and one was drawn.

Two soccer officials have filed assault charges against a Hamilton player as the result of a dressing-room fracas after a game in Toronto Saturday.

The charges were laid by referee Robert Crawford and lineman William Clarke against George Campbell of the Hamilton Westinghouse Club.

The incident occurred after Crawford ordered Campbell and Hugh Suttie of Hamilton from the field for disputing his decisions during a game between Toronto Canadians and Hamilton. The two officials claimed Campbell entered their dressing room with Hamilton goalie Malcolm Love after the game and attacked them.

Inaugural of N.H.L. Season Finds Plenty of Competition In Crowded Sport Picture

(By The Canadian Press)

The annual autumnal practice of big-time sports crowding each other for attention—post-mortems on baseball's world series and post-season trades competing with the exploits of rugged footballers— starts in earnest tonight. The National Hockey League horns in with a face-off on its 70-game schedule, earliest inaugural in history.

It's a United States opener — Detroit Red Wings are hosts to New York Rangers —but all six clubs swing into action before the week is out. The sideline experts figure Detroit's talent-rich Red Wings to clean up in championship style again, but the coaches, including freshmen pilots at Toronto, Chicago and New York, aren't going out on a limb.

Another opener is carded for Thursday at Chicago, where Ebbie Goodfellow unveils his revitalized Black Hawks against Montreal Canadiens.

It seems, at this point, that there just isn't a team strong enough to challenge Tommy Ivan's motor-city skaters, who beat the blue-shirted Rangers in the Stanley Cup finals last April. But the Detroit coach predicts no runaway as last season.

"The league is better balanced" Ivan said, "and we can expect a six-team race. Our club is in good physical condition. I don't think the trade with Chicago has made us any weaker."

One of hockey's greatest player swaps sent veteran defenceman Jack Stewart, goalie Harry Lumley, forward Pete Babando and farmhands Don Morrison and Al Dewsbury to Chicago. In return, Detroit received centre Metro Prystai, wing Gaye Stewart, defenceman Bob Goldham and goalie Jim Henry.

Bolsters Both Teams

The deal apparently has bolstered both teams. The Red Wings have added extra scoring power to their already-fearful attack, and the Black Hawks have plugged their porous defence, a long-standing weakness.

Johnny Gottselig of the Chicago front office is extremely high on the trade. The one-time stickhandling great says the Hawks "will launch the season with the best defence in the league. Why, in eight exhibition games we've held the opposition to 20 goals while scoring 65."

Neil Colville, rookie coach of the Rangers, is less optimistic.

"I don't think we'll finish first or second," he said. "We have a good chance for third. It'll be between us and Boston, but that Detroit is the team to beat."

Colville, Goodfellow and Joe Primeau of Toronto all are in their first year as NHL coaches. Dick Irvin is a hold-over at Montreal, while Lynn Patrick shifted from New York to Boston.

Primeau, successor to Happy Day, who has moved up to assistant general manager, naturally won't go out on the limb..

"I'm a new coach in pro hockey," he said, "and I don't want to predict where we will finish.

"I will say this though. The Leafs came within an eyelash of eliminating the Red Wings from the playoffs and we have strengthened our club at two or three positions. Yes, I like our club."

The Canadiens' Irvin agreed with Ivan that the league is better balanced, "The league will be tougher," Dick said, "with Chicago strengthened and Boston better. Then there's Detroit's showing on the all-star game. We've lost Durnan and Reardon, otherwise there is little difference in our team and I recall when they came up people were wondering if they would make good. Our youngsters can do the the same in time."

Bettor's Mistake Realizes Profit Of $1,849

Bowie, Md., Oct. 11 (AP) — An unidentified man, obviously in a hurry, rushed up to the $10 place window a few minutes before the second race yesterday bought a ticket on No. 3 and waited to see how Hocky Play ran.

He had the right number, but the wrong race. Rocky Play had already finished out of the money in the first.

The bettor had a $10 place ticket on Merry Nymph, who was beaten by 18 lengths in her previous start.

But yesterday, Merry Nymph finished second to Great Hope and paid $371.80 for each $2 place ticket and $126 for $2 to show. Officials said it was a record place and show payoff for Bowie.

By his mistake, the bettor realized a profit of $1,849.

Special Delivery Jones on Top Of Scoring Parade

Toronto, Oct. 11. (CP)—Edgar (Special Delivery) Jones, formerly of the professional Cleveland Browns, is back on top of the scoring heap in the Big Four Football Union.

Statistics compiled by The Canadian Press show that the 23 points Hamilton Tiger-Cats' versatile half scored in two weekend games brought his season's total to 60, 10 more than the total of Ulysses Curtis of Toronto Argonauts.

Curtis, Negro half from Florida A. and M. is still the Union's top touchdown man with 10. Jones has six but he has kicked three field goals, four singles and 17 converts to fatten his total.

Bill Gregus of the Tiger-Cats and Virgil Wagner of Montreal Alouettes are tied for third place with 40 points apiece. Bill Bass of the Argos ranks fifth with 35 points..

Canadian-born players get into the picture at sixth place in the lists where Nick Volpe of the Argos and Bill Larochelle of Ottawa Rough Riders are tied with 30 points apiece.

In the Ontario Rugby Football Union, Johnny Chorestecki, of Sarnia Imperials is far out in front with 73 points in five games. He got 22 in the two weekend games.

Bob McFarlane, for years a scoring power in the Inter-Collegiate, was the top scorer as the College Union opened its schedule Saturday. The Western Mustangs' half was six points on a touchdown and a single. Four players—three from McGill and one from Varsity—share second place with five points apiece.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

New York, Oct. 11 (AP)—New York Yankees will have more than a dozen college graduates on their roster next spring, and here is Casey Stengel already talking about a "school." . . . The Yankee plan for advanced baseball education, tried out last spring, apparently is one of those "added obligations" Stengel took on, along with a whopping salary raise, for next year . . . About 15 players came in for a look and some extra coaching last spring. One of them, Hank Workman, came up before the end of the 1950 season. Infielder Jim Brideweser, Hank's former Southern California University team-mate, and catcher Lou Berberet will stick next year. They're bonus players . . . But the idea is to have them stick, if they can . . . Says Stengel: "The main thing is to see if we can push along about 15 men in our organization who have shown improvement. We don't want to hold them back six or 7 years. We now have some openings on this club for young fellows who can make it."

Hialeah's Ev Clay, who has seen left-handed pitchers, golfers, football passers and tennis players, now has discovered a "southpaw" race horse. From the trainer of Piet, the Detroit-owned stakes winner, Ev hears: "He will dash forward when stung by a whip on the left flank, but eases himself up if whipped on the right. As a result, I must use a left-handed jockey."

Timberrrrrrrrr!

After the Michigan football team was trimmed by Michigan State, athletic director Fritz Crisler was in the press box, watching the victorious students rip up the goal posts . . . One scribe asked: "Fritz, what are the latest quotations on goal posts?" . . . Smiling ruefully, Crisler replied: "I don't know. We haven't had to price any lately." . . . The way things have been going, maybe Crisler and Frank Leahy should get together and place a wholesale order.

Sydney, N.S., Oct. 11 (CP) — Sydney Millionaires, building for defence of their Maritime Senior Hockey crown, announced addition of two new defencemen Tuesday night.

Team President Denies Rumor About Rickey

New York, Oct. 11 (AP) —The Daily Compass said today that Branch Rickey "is going to the St. Louis Browns as the new president and club owner in a deal financed by the American League."

In St. Louis, however, Bill Dewitt, president of the Browns, asserted: "You can put this down. We don't plan any changes in the operations of our club and Branch Rickey isn't buying it. It's not for sale."

Rickey, president of the Brooklyn Dodgers, recently contracted to sell his Brooklyn stock to William Zeckendorf, New York real estate man. Since then there have been many rumors as to his future plans.

In the story written by Herb Goren, the Compass said: "American League tycoons, sensitive to the basic second-division weaknesses in their structure, in spite of top-level superiority, are ready to purchase a controlling interest in Brownie stock and turn it over to Rickey in order to acquire his services.'

Ottawa Wins Two Semi-Finals Loses One

Peterborough, Ont., Oct. 10 (CP)—Ottawa won two Ontario Baseball Association semi-final series over the weekend but lost another. The Capital City Juveniles downed Peterborough in two straight games, winning Saturday in Ottawa 19-2 score and taking the return contest here Monday 19-5.

The Ottawa Peewees lost to Peterborough 15-9 here Saturday but took the second one of the twin bill 5-1. When ordered by the O.B.A. to play the deciding game in Ottawa—instead of Perth as first decided—the Petes forfeited the third game since they were unable to get transportation that far.

Down a game last week to Ottawa Bantams, Peterborough won 9-4 here Saturday and then took the deciding game Monday 16-2 in Perth to go into the provincial finals.

Cleveland Barons Still Looking For First Win

(By The Canadian Press)

Cleveland Barons, who romped to the American Hockey League's Western Division flag last year, are off on the wrong foot in their bid to repeat.

Last year the Barons won their first five games, and after a week of play were in first place to stay. But they played their second game of the young 1950-51 season last night and are still looking for their first victory.

Cleveland battled St. Louis Flyers to a 4-4 tie. The Barons lost the season's opener Sunday night to Cincinnati.

The Barons enjoyed a 4-2 lead over St. Louis shortly before the half-way mark of the final period, when they folded. Gordon Pearson tallied for the Flyers a little past the 10-minute mark to cut the Barons' edge to 4-3. Hank Backor then smashed home the equalizer with less than six minutes to play.

The game would have gone into overtime under a new league rule, but both clubs agreed in advance to dispense with overtime as the Barons had to catch a train.

Geo. Hainsworth Leafs' Ex-Goalie Dies in Crash

Gravenhurst, Ont., Oct. 10 — CP)—George Hainsworth, one of hockey's all-time greats, was killed last night in a highway accident near here.

For 14 years he was an outstanding goalkeeper, mostly with Montreal Canadiens and Toronto Maple Leafs of the National League.

Three times he won the Vezina Trophy, which goes to the N.H.L.'s best goalie. One year he scored 22 shutouts in 44 games.

Hainsworth died when his automobile was in collision with a light panel truck. Four other persons, including his wife Alma, were injured.

Heart Punctured

Hainsworth lived in Kitchener, Ont., where we was an alderman. A doctor pronounced him dead at the scene of the accident from several broken ribs which punctured his heart.

Mrs. Hainsworth was taken to hospital in Bracebridge, 10 miles north of here, for treatment of head cuts.

Noreen Hoover, 20, of Bracebridge, driver of the truck, was treated at the scene for bruises. Her companion, Teresa Thompson of Bracebridge and an unidentified girl suffered similar minor injuries.

Hockey's Vezina Trophy, awarded annually to "the goalkeeper who has played the most games for the team with the fewest goals scored against it," was won in three successive years by Hainsworth while playing for Montreal Canadiens.

Those seasons were 1926-27, 1927-28 and 1928-29.

He held the record for the least number of goals against a goalie —43 in a 44-game season in 1928-29.

Stiff Workout Given Mustangs By Coach Metras

London, Ont., Oct. 11 — (CP)— Still seeking their first win, the University of Western Ontario Mustangs, defending Intercollegiate football champs, ran through a stiff workout Tuesday night in preparation for Saturday's home opener with the Queen's Gaels.

Coach Johnny Metras, slightly peeved at the way his boys threw the ball around down in Montreal last weekend, had the backs running through play after play.

Jack Matthews, Peterborough booting star who missed last week's game, was going full steam and will be ready on Saturday. Bobby Pierce, Jimmy Carroll and Elmer Quintyn, three other injured Mustang players, also were out Tuesday night and should be ready to go against the tricolor. That means the Mustangs should be at top shape for their home opener.

The line, bright spot in the 22-6 loss to McGill, was out in full force, coming out of the Montreal game with only minor bruises and a few cuts. Insides Milt Cork and Jack Wyatt were tossing blocks right and left and kept the rest of the team on its toes. Line Coach Earle Zeigler, who saw the Gaels drop a 7-1 game to Varsity, closely watched the team, pointing out a few things to watch for on Saturday.

Sharpen Passing

George Arnott and Doug Gray sharpened up their passing, a notable weakness against McGill. The Mustangs completed only 4 out of 17 tosses and Metras wants to make sure the same thing does not happen this weekend.

A capacity crowd of over 12,000 is expected to witness the Mustangs London debut and a sudden rush for tickets Tuesday indicated that all reserved seats should be sold before Friday. The attendance will be swelled by over 1,000 Western Alumni from all parts of Canada and the United States who will be in London for the big Alumni Reunion.

A new stand to the left of the main grandstand will be completed in time for the game and extra track seats will be constructed for the expected overflow crowd.

While the Mustangs prepped for their game with Kingston, Bill L'Heureux' Colts ran through plays for Saturday's tussle with O. A. C. in Guelph. The Colts dropped the intermediate opener to McMaster 14-6.

Paul Richards Named Manager Of White Sox

Chicago, Oct. 11 (AP)—Paul Richards' first task as the new Chicago White Sox manager,—the fifth in five years—will be selection of a coaching staff.

If Richards reshuffles, one of those who might get the ax is the White Sox perennial, Luke Appling. What to do with Luke, who has been with the organization since 1930, may prove to be Richards' most touchy task in his debut as pilot.

The 41-year-old Richards apparently is the type who gets what he wants. Appreciating the fact that Sox managers seem to serve short terms, Richards demanded and finally received a two-year contract. A two-year pact was not offered him a year ago when the Sox were thinking of luring him away from Seattle in the Pacific Coast League to replace Jack Onslow.

General Manager Frank Lane and Vice-President Chuck Comiskey of the Sox emphasized in announcing Richards' appointment yesterday that the veteran minor-league skipper will have free rein.

The Sox turnover of managers started after Jimmy Dykes served from 1935 until May, 1946. Ted Lyons, long-time Comisky pitcher and favorite, took over and survived the next two seasons. In 1949 Onslow was brought up from the Memphis farm club under a two-year pact. He remained until his coach, Red Corriden, relieved him last May.

Corriden, who guided the Pale Hose to sixth place last season, is expected to return to the Sox coaching lines.

Darling of Fans

Appling, the darling of the fans, set a record for number of games played at shortstop. This year young Chico Carrasquel replaced him and Appling served as a player-coach. He is reported to be in some disfavor with the Sox front office because of his hesitancy to fill in at first base early in the campaign.

There have been rumors Appling will be offered his release, if he isn't claimed on waivers. But such a step may be avoided and Appling retained as protection at the shortstop spot.

Richards piloted Buffalo in 1947-1948 and 1949, taking one International League pennant. Last season his Seattle team landed in sixth place in the P.C.L.

In addition to his baseball chores, Richards finds time in the off season to serve as sports editor on a daily newspaper of which he is part owner, in his home town of Waxahachie, Tex.

Relief Hurler Has Been Sold To Toronto Leafs

Cincinnati, O., Oct. 11 (AP) — John Hetki, Cincinnati Reds' right-handed relief hurler, has been sold for an undisclosed sum to Toronto Maple Leafs of the International League, officials of the Cincinnati baseball club announced today.

In 1950, the 28-year-old pitcher had a record of one win and two losses, all in relief roles.

Hetki was with the 1950 sixth-placers of the National League since 1945, except the year 1949, when he pitched for Syracuse, also of the International League.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

The word double in bridge has several meanings. Its meaning depends on the situation. When partner has not yet bid, a double of not more than three in a suit is for takeout; asks partner to bid.

This signal demands a bid from partner if no bid intervenes .One exception exists. Partner of doubler may pass if he can defeat the bid that was doubled. Which is logical and practical.

Look again at this deal:

NORTH
♠4 3
♥A Q 7 5
♦K J 9
♣A J 7 3

WEST
♠A K Q 10
♥K J 10 3
♦Q 4
♣K 6 4

EAST
♠J
♥8 6 4 2
♦10 8 6 5 2
♣10 9 8

SOUTH
♠9 8 7 6 5 2
♥9
♣Q 5 2

The bidding went like this:

West	North	East	South
1 S	Dbl.	Pass	Pass
Pass

The double by north was for takeout. Ordinarily, when east does not intervene with a bid, south must bid something. It is expected of him. In fact, the doubler practically demands it.

The pass by south should tell north that the one spade bid can not be made. In other words, with what north has promised by his double, south has enough trumps to help defeat the contract of one spade.

North started out with the opening lead of a trump. This is a very good lead under such circumstances. The sooner the declarer is out of trumps the better chance north has of making his big cards.

The dummy east won the first trick with jack and returned a heart. North won the west finesse of heart ten with the queen and came back with another trump. Which, of course, west took.

Now, no matter how desperately west tries, he is unable to take more than four tricks. These are with his top trumps. Being vulnerable at the time he is thrown for a doubled three trick loss of 800 points.

Although the doubled bid was only one, the loss was greater than the worth of a game contract. In bridge we strain for the greatest gain.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Oct. 11 — (AP)— After next Christmas, James A. Fitzpatrick will say farewell to his home in Beverly Hills, gateway to Hollywood.

This is a paraphrase of Fitzpatrick's famed closing line in his movie travelogues. Usually it is something like this: "And it is with this thought that we say farewell to people, not places. For when he takes his next journey (to Australia) he will be starting a new film series, "People on Parade."

I asked if he had run out of places to say farewell to.

"Goodness, no," he said. "The world changes so much that I can return to places I had visited not long ago and find many new things to film. Why, already I'm anxious to return to Palestine, Greece and Italy, which I saw last summer.

Make Change

"No, changing from the straight travelogue to study the people was not my idea. My distributor thought it would be good to make a change. I am willing to accept their judgment."

And so, for the umpteenth time, Fitzpatrick will be leaving the home where he has spent an average of three months a year, during the two decades of his film travels.

Fitzpatrick doesn't mind kidding about his closing line, "we say farewell to . . ." He once wanted to drop it, but theatre men convinced him it was a good trade mark.

Crew Member Horrified by Sights Seen

With Canadian Destroyers off Korea, Oct. 11 (CP)—A 22-year-old Canadian Japanese, member of the Canadian naval force in Korea, has witnessed scenes that will live long in his memory.

He is the ordinary seaman Jack Kobyashi of Fort William, Ont., serving aboard the destroyer Cayuga. He acts as interpreter whenever his ship intercepts junks off the Korean west coast.

His job has given him a close-up of the hardships and privations experienced by refugees fleeing from the communists.

Kobyashi recalls one night when his ship came on a junk and swung a searchlight in its direction.

"I have never in all my life seen so many scared faces. It was a pitiful sight."

Some of the junks he has boarded "were hardly fit to live in."

"They were badly overcrowded and the sails were full of holes. Why, there might be more than 40 peolpe—mostly women and children—on a 35-foot junk."

Many of the junks the Canadians intercepted had been at sea for more than a week and were without food and water. Grateful hands accepted the supplies the Cayuga could spare.

University of Toronto Takes Firm Stand Against 'Pro' Players in College Football

Toronto, Oct. 11 (CP) — The University of Toronto led Canada's eastern universities Tuesday in a firm stand against "professionalism" in college football.

The move followed disclosure by President Sidney Smith of an abortive alumni plan to lure "promising football players" to Toronto with cash. He said the university "officially opposes" any such scheme.

He was backed by heads of the Intercollegiate Rugby League's three other members—McGill, Queen's and the University of Western Ontario. All denied any university backing of player-subsidization plans.

Dr. Smith said a group of unnamed Toronto "old grads" wrote to a select list of graduates asking contributions to "persuade" football players to enroll at Varsity. He said the sponsors declared they had no official connection with the university.

"Any project to subsidize players, however unofficial, will be officially opposed," Dr. Smith said. Football is an accepted part of college life, but we of the university must never forget that it is an educational institution."

"We have an amateur team and the university intends to hold the line against professionalism."

The university must also consider good high-school players from outside centres. They must never turn out to practice "only to find that many of the places on the team have been filled with pros, semi-pros or subsidzed players carefully handpicked beforehand."

He lauded the performance of the inexperienced Varsity team which won its first game of the schedule Saturday by downing Queen's 7-1 in Kingston. The 1949 Toronto team finished last in the league.

"I am confident that the staff, the students and a vast majority of the graduates and public will support what may be a last-ditch stand against the forces of professionalism which have obscured the true objectives of student athletics in many American universities," Dr. Smith said.

Dr. F. Cyril James, President of McGill University, Montreal, said he agrees "entirely" with Dr. Smith. He denied that professionalism "in any form" existed in McGill athletics.

No athletic scholarship system exists at Western, and university heads there are "wholeheartedly opposed to the subsidization of athletes in any way," President G. E. Hall said. "Professionalism would be very much to the detriment of university athletics."

R. C. Wallace, principal of Queen's University, said "Queen's has never had and as far as I am concerned never will have any kind of athletic scholarships."

"Of course an individual can help a student to get to college. That happens in every university where someone wishes to aid a man or woman with fees or expenses. But the university itself is definitely not contemplating any action to assist football players."

Little Benny's Note Book

'After supper ma said to pop, anybody is planning to ring me p on the telefone, I sincerely ope they call rite away and get over with, because tonite is nite on the radio from 8

Yee gods, 2 solid hours of hooting, strangling and stabs in he back, pop said. It's a woman's werld. If anybody wants me I'll e over at the bowling alleys, and nobody wants me I'll probably e back sooner or later just the ame, he said, and ma said, Oh, ou dont need to think I've been attisfied with the merder mysries lately. In fact I've got a good mind to write in some letters and ex^ress my views in detale, she said.

You can express mine too while you're on the subject, pop said. Tell them I've got a wife who associates with nobody after dark except throat cutting, poisoning gunmen, and whose idea of music is a row of blood cerdling screams agenst a background of pistol shots, he said, and ma said, Really William, I mean really, something should be done about it. The last Crime Incorporated show had 2 merders in it, and the Killers Club program had 3 people killed in it, and to cap the climax, 4 people were killed in the Intrigue show, she said.

I'm glad you're getting fed up on it, pop said, and ma said, Well I should say so. I really think I'll write to the broadcasting people and suggest having a legal limit on the number of merders, because any more than a single killing in any one show blunts the edge of the excitement and cloys the appetite. It acts exactly the same as too mutch sugar in coffee, she said.

Yee gods, give me air, pop said.

And he went around to Peets bowling alleys for his Wensday nite exercize!

OUR TOWN

By JACK SCOTT

THAT IS THAT

Halifax, N.S.—At Peggy's Cove yesterday Judy upturned her small bottle of Pacific Ocean into the Atlantic. This more or less means our trip is at an end.

I say more or less because we still have that long voyage home. Looks as if we'll be dragging the tin box behind up. We'd hoped to sell the trailer here in Halifax and make a quick dash back across the continent. But the trailer market in Halifax is something less than lively. "You'd do better tryin' to peddle the Brooklyn Bridge," one authority said.

We are waiting now for the Foreign Exhange Control Board to release a few of those precious U.S. kopeks. If all goes according to schedule, as it never once has in the past four months, we should be headed south within a couple of days.

Plan is to run down the coast through Maine, New Hampshire and Massachusetts to Boston and then across the country by the most direct route to Southern California, north to San Francisco and on up the lovely coast road through California. Oregon and Washington. Should be home early in December. And very glad to be there, too.

The Southern California destination is not entirely a self-declared dividend. It's the advice of a number of American trailer bums we've met. Their convenient opinion is that the northern highways, particularly through the Rockies, might give us trouble with such a heavy caravan. This is the story I am sticking to.

It is very nice to sit in chilly Halifax, Nova Scotia, with winter definitely in the air, and think about San Juan Capistrano and Santa Barbara and all that fresh orange juice.

The Grab Bag

I hope that the readers who have been along with us on our cross-Canada trip will continue with us.

Besides The Vancouver Sun the columns have been appearing in the Edmonton Bulletin, Ottawa Citizen, St. John's (Newfoundland) Telegram, Brockville Recorder and Times, Stratford Beacon-Herald, Peterborough Examiner, Belleville Ontario Intelligencer, Quebec Chronicle-Telegraph, Buffalo (New York) News, the Portage La Prairie Graphic, Cornwall Standard - Freeholder, the Saskatchewan Farmer and 30 or 40 weekly papers.

We are hoping these publishers and editors will have liked the stuff and will stay on for our non-travelogue column. Reasonable rates supplied on request.

(While I am on the subject I should report that the column was not sold to all these splendid papers entirely on its merits, but by a tall, terrific gal named Ann Meltzer who charms editors into such a state of pink confusion that they will buy almost anything.)

On the trip westward the column will probably resume its old aimless gait. We don't plan on any "discovery" of the United States. We're interested mainly in getting through them in the shortest possible time. However, I expect there'll be some notes on what seems interesting to us along the way.

I mention this because, frankly, I'm a little weary of writing the travel kind of stuff exclusively. A whole bunch of tantalizing subjects have been cropping up which I've been aching to maul around. So now we're taking the date-line off the copy and getting back to just writing about what comes along, or the much-ado-about-nothing that is the columnist's stock in trade.

Which doesn't mean that this coast-to-coast assignment hasn't been interesting. It's been that all the way and given us an outlook on Canada that only this kind of first-hand investigation can bring. It's just that I'm never very happy confined to one subject for very long. So it's a relief to get back to the grab-bag kind of scribbling.

Not So Easy

I might mention—I will mention—that a trip of this kind, for all its rewards, is doomed from the beginning to be something less than altogether successful.

In the first place it's pretty close to impossible to keep readable on a five times a week basis and still keep on the move, making the arrangements necessary, facing up to the small emergencies and so on. Put yourself in the shoes of such a traveller who drives all day, comes into a strange town at dusk, sets up camp and then realizes he has 800 words of copy to get away to maintain his schedule. Takes a little of the joy out of it.

If I were doing it again (and we want to do it again when the trans-Canada highway is complete) I'd write only when I knew I had a story. It's kind of silly to press the trigger when you know the gun isn't loaded. Which is what this rigid, Tuesday-through Saturday routine means.

We're sharply aware of a sense of failure in many respects, notably in our timing which meant we had to hurry things far too much at this end, had to skip Prince Edward Island and Newfoundland and which gave us no more than a fleeting look at the maritimes which are loaded with stories. And it's true, too, that the deplorable road conditions we encountered across the prairies kept us too occupied to really savor that part of the country.

Next time we'll know better. Meantime our thanks to those of you who came along and didn't ask for too much and to all the friends, in and out of the business, who helped us along.

PICTON

Milk Consumers Assured of No Further Increase

Picton—Picton milk consumers are assured of no further increases in the price of milk for another year. A meeting of producers and consumers was held last weekend when it was decided to renew the contracts of the past year. It was felt that there is already a wide spread between the price received by producers of whole milk for the dairies and that received by cheese factory patrons. Milk retails here at 17 cents a quart and nine cents a pint.

FACES NINE CHARGES

Toronto, Oct. 10 (CP)—As a result of a Saturday night traffic accident in which 63-year-old Samuel Shanoff was fatally injured, Hugh Kirby, 40, today faced nine charges ranging from dangerous driving to a liquor act breach. Police charge that a truck driven by Kirby struck Shanoff at an intersection.

Kirby was accused of stealing the truck Saturday soon after he was hired as a watchman for the vehicle and 44 others used to haul dirt from the Toronto subway project.

CAMPBELLFORD MAN DIES

Campbellford, Oct. 11. (CP)—John L. Hoover, 83, who retired two years ago after 50 years with the Trent Valley Woollen Mill and its successor, the Campbellford Cloth Company, died at his home Tuesday night. A daughter, Mrs. Thomas L. Church, lives in North Bay, Ont. A son, Ray, lives in Toronto.

AYPA Diocesan Conference Held At Christ Church

Margaret Poole of Trinity Parish, Brockville, was re-elected president of the Ontario Diocesan Council of the Anglican Young People's Association at the third annual conference held on Monday at Christ Church. Other officers elected were: Chaplain, Rev. Henry Hill, St. Thomas', Belleville; vice-president, Gord Anderson, Gananoque; secretary Betty Hinchey, St. George's, Kingston and treasurer Jean Greene, Christ Church, Belleville. All officers were elected by acclamation.

The celebration of Holy Communion under the direction of the retiring chaplain, Rev. H. C. Secker, opened the conference. The sermon at this service was delivered by Rev. T. E. Downey of the Diocese of Ottawa. The topic of his talk was "Let Your Light Shine", the motto or theme of the conference.

Delegates Welcomed

Following the service the president welcomed some 70 delegates representing nearly 10 parishes in the diocese. The reports of the various officers occupied the balance of the morning session after which a lunch was served by the Napanee branch.

Harold Baron, of St. Luke's Parish, Hamilton, having worked his way up through the ranks of A.Y.P.A. and being immediate past president of the Dominion Council of A.Y.P.A. was an excellent choice as guest speaker.

Mr. Baron depicted a rule of life which is necessary to be a successful A.Y'er. He urged young people to turn from what they are doing, as did the disciples of old, and follow Christ.

"So many of us in church today are only half turned," he stated. "We do so much and no more."

Overlooking Divine Leader

He pointed out the world today seemed to be looking for some great international leader to show the way to world peace, but that the world was overlooking the only leader, Jesus Christ.

The next step in this rule of life is learning. "If we are to follow Christ we must learn and know His life through the gospel," declared Mr Baron.

The speaker pointed out that 'to pray,' getting home to God and talking with Him was the next important step

"We have a part to play—a daily job to do in the world," declared Mr. Baron, "and it should be of service to other people, not only a means of livelihood.

A panel discussion discussed the theme "Let Your Light Shine". They concluded that by application of the four-point program of work, worship, edification and fellowship in the daily life of each member with a definite plan, the position of "Let Your Light Shine" would be achieved.

Wins P.S. Contest

The winner of the public speaking contest was Kathryn Bass of Lombardy, who chose as her topic the A.Y. motto of "For Christ and the Church."

Following dinner, which was prepared and served by Christ Church A.Y.P.A., the host branch, an informative talk was given by Mr. Good, incumbent of Madoc. Mr. Good spoke on the Irish youth in the church outlining their difficulties, problems and restrictions as compared with Canada.

In conclusion Mr. Good read a letter which he said was written by an Irishman to his sweetheart in 1845. Although not quite so informative, it provided a jovial conclusion to a successful and inspiring conference.

Blood on the Stars

By Brett Halliday

"Stop it, Shayne. Stop it!" Randolph's self control suddenly broke and his voice was thinly shrill. "I can't stand any more of this. I tell you. .

"Shut up and sit down over there." Shayne pointed to the couch. He asked Miss Naylor, "do you think it would harm Lucy to waken her long enough to make an identification?"

"Probably not. But I'd have to have Dr. Price's permission. He should be here any moment."

Randolph slumped down on the couch and buried his face in his hands for a brief time, then raised his head to cast a wretched glance around the room.

There was a knock on the door and Shayne opened it to admit Dr. Price. He came in briskly, nodded to Shayne and said "Miss Naylor tells me our patient is reacting splendidly." He looked from the gun in the nurse's hand to Randolph and raised his brows inquiringly.

"I'm pretty sure this is the man who attacked Miss Hamilton said Shayne, "If you think it's safe to arouse her, we'll try to get a definite identification."

"I see. Of course. I'll have a look at the patient and let you know at once." The doctor and Miss Naylor went into the bedroom and closed the door.

Randolph sat with his head lolling against the back of the couch. He looked straight across the room, avoiding Shayne's eyes. "I simply can't believe this is happening to me," he said in a flat, dead voice. "I do believe you're serious about this."

"I was never more serious in my life," Shayne assured him.

"I've read about things like this happening to other men," Randolph said. Being caught up in a net of circumstances. Innocent men, like myself. Going along and minding their own business. Suddenly accused of murder."

Innocent men can generally prove their innocence."

"But sometimes they can't" Randolph exclaimed, throwing out his hands wildly. "Suppose this girl does not think she recognizes me. Suppose I do resemble the man you say attacked her. I can't prove it wasn't I. You know how faulty such identifications can be. If she only caught one glimpse of the man."

"How do you know she caught only a glimpse of him?"

"Why—you said so," faltered Randolph. "Over at my place."

Shayne shook his red head grimly. "I didn't say anything of the kind. The only way you could possibly have known that is by having been here last night."

"You implied it. Something you said gave me the impression—"

"I didn't even imply it. I said that Miss Hamilton had a good look at the man who attacked her," Shayne said flatly.

His telephone rang. He went over and took the receiver down keeping his gaze on Randolph. "Hello. Oh Tim—that's fine. Fast work. Read 'em to me." He listened and a frown began to crease his forehead. A worried frown of disbelief. He caught his earlobe between thumb and forefinger and tugged at it.

"Both of them?" he exclaimed after a time. "That should mean something, but I'm not sure just what. Listen, Tim. Get both those men on long distance and tell them it's vitally important dig up every bit of information available on both King and Kendrick. As far back as they can dig in a hurry.

"Sure it'll cost money," he continued impatiently. "I'll take care of the expense if your miserly paper won't pay out a few bucks for the inside dope on one of the biggest stories of the year.

"Lucy's doing fine but I'll be tied up here for a while. When you get those men on long distance, ask particularly for any information that connects either King of Kendrick with Walter Voorland or Earl Randolph."

Again he listened, then said. "That's right. Voorland or Randolph. Outside of the known connection here in Miami, of course. And Tim—after you do that, call Worldwide in Denver and get the same dope on Dustin. Find out everything you can about him, his background, and so forth." He hung up and turned to Randolph, his face bleak and his eyes morose.

"Both King and Kendrick seem to have disappeared completely."

"You don't think they were—murdered.

"They seem to have been very efficiently disposed of," Shayne grated. "Do you suppose Mark Dustin is in any danger, Randolph?"

"How would I know. About this background stuff," Randolph went on. "I've got all the dope on King available in my file. You know we checked back on him thoroughly before we paid the claim. And I'm sure Stanley Ellsworth has the same stuff on Kendrick."

"No doubt," Shayne assented drily. "But Worldwide might dig up something you folks missed."

"I don't understand why you suspect any connection between those two men and Voorland and me."

Shayne shook his head slowly, " don't know what I hope to dredge up. It becomes clearer and clearer that there's a pattern to these three sales of star rubies which were stolen immediately afterwards—and which never reappeared. It's still vague and I haven't put my finger on the motivation behind it. When I do that, the whole complicated plot will emerge clearly. And I think you can do that for me," he added.

"I know nothing," Randolph disclaimed violently. "Absolutely nothing."

The bedroom door opened and Miss Naylor said "it's all right to come in now, Mr. Shayne."

Shayne stood up. "This is it, Randolph. Put on that Panama and walk in that door in front of me."

Earl Randolph's hands shook as he put the hat on and adjusted the brim. He got up shakily and went slowly toward the bedroom door, hesitated like a swimmer pausing on the brink before diving into an icy stream, then stepping inside.

Shayne was close behind him. Dr. Price and Miss Naylor stood back near the window and watched the scene with intense interest.

Lucy looked up at Randolph with wide eyes. Her gaze stayed on his face for a full thirty seconds, then shifted to Shayne.

Canada's Armed Forces Have Over 60,000 Men in Uniform

Ottawa, Oct. 12 —(CP) — The armed forces now have more than 60,000 men in uniform.

Defence headquarters announced today that the three regular forces have taken in 4,008 men since they launched a Korea-inspired recruiting drive July 20.

That would raise their total strength to more than 51,000.

In addition, the army's special force has enlisted 9,367 men.

The figures for the three regular forces run up to Oct. 7 and don't include "thousands of others" who were found suitable and are in the process of joining up, headquarters said.

A breakdown shows that the army got 2,016 of the newcomers, the navy 873 and the air force 1,119 including 471 potential air crew and 648 ground crew.

Truman Calls White House

St. Louis, Oct. 12 — (AP) — President Truman came back to his hotel after a meeting here last night and decided to telephone Mrs. Truman in Washington.

"Operator, this is the president," he said. "I'd like to call the White House."

There was a pause, while the operator got her breath.

"Charles," he said, turning to his press secretary, Charles G. Ross, "What's that number?"

Ross filled him in — National 1414, a number known to practically everybody else in Washington.

Tibet Invasion Branded False By Indian Govt.

New Delhi, Oct. 12 (AP)—India's government today described the latest report of a Chinese communist invasion of Tibet as a seeming "hodgepodge story based on refugee stories."

The statement added, however, that Indian officials at the Tibetan capital of Lhassa and the communist Chinese capital of Peiping had been asked for information on the report published in a Calcutta newspaper, the Statesman, yesterday.

The Statesman, quoting its correspondent at Kalimpong in the Himalaya mountains, said the Chinese communists had crossed Tibet's eastern border through the 15,000-foot Dongma Pass and had penetrated 50 miles into Tibet.

A member of the Tibetan delegation here negotiating with communist China's ambassador to India said today his group has no information of any invasion attempt. This delegate suggested that the Statesman report was an "old story" dealing with a border incident at the town of Chiamdo, near the Dongma Pass, several months ago.

THE WEATHER

Toronto, Oct. 12 (CP)—Synopsis: Blue skies appeared briefly over Southern Ontario Wednesday. The clearing, however, was shortlived as a new storm centre developed rapidly over Michigan during the day. This new storm combined with a disturbance moving into northwestern Ontario from the prairies to bring a return of dull skies and extensive rain to the entire province. The west rain area is now edging eastward indicating a forecast of slow clearing from the west during the day. Friday will be sunny and mild over Southern Ontario. cloudy and a little cooler in the north.

LUGGAGE MIXUP

Guelph, Oct. 12. (CP)—Welcoming committees mixed up the luggage of Rt. Hon. Francis M. Forde, Australian High Commissioner, and Mr. Justice P. E. F. Smily when the two men arrived here on the same train this week.

The Judge noticed the mix-up when a bellboy was carrying the Commissioner's bag upstairs in a hotel. He disclaimed ownership of the bag and it was left for two hours in the hotel lobby before the Commissioner's hosts found it.

TRAIN CREW EXONERATED

Niagara Falls, Ont., Oct. 12—(CP)—A verdict of accidental death was returned last night by a coroner's jury at its inquest into the death of Ardeana Cronk, 10-year-old Stamford deaf-mute, who was run over by a train on the Wabash railroad tracks Sept. 19. The jury exonerated the train crew of all blame.

Anti-Aircraft Guns for U.S. Made in Canada

Ottawa, Oct. 12 (CP) —Canada will supply the United States with a large quantity of naval anti-aircraft guns, it was announced Wednesday.

The $10,000,000 order has been placed by the Canadian Commercial Corporation on behalf of the U.S. with the Sorel Industries Limited, of Sorel, Que.

Trade Minister Howe, announcing the contract, said the U. S. order is "concrete evidence" that recent negotiations for reciprocal arms production agreements is paying off. The Canadian government has argued in these negotiations that this country must sell more arms to the U.S. if the Dominion is to buy normal supplies of armaments in that country.

The Sorel firm which will fill the new order already had a Canadian naval order worth $2,100,000 for similar guns —three inch, 50 calibre weapons developed during the Second World War.

A Canadian Commercial Corporation spokesman said the term "three inch, 50-calibre gun" means a gun with a bore three inches in a diameter and of a length 50 times this distance, or 150 inches. The guns presumably will be used on escort work

HITCHHIKING SOLDIER HURT

North Bay, Oct. 12 — (CP)—A Canadian Army Special Force soldier was severely injured in a hit-and-run accident here early today. Pte. Donald George Roworth, 21, of Toronto was found unconscious at the side of Highway No. 17 near here.

He was hitch-hiking to Petawawa about 125 miles east of here.

Comets Big Snowballs Formed at Same Time as Planets of Solar System

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
(Associated Press Science Editor)

Schenectady, N. Y., Oct. 12 — (AP) — Comets are big snowballs, formed at the same time as the earth and the other planets of the solar system.

Both comets and the planets were formed in much the same way as raindrops from a summer shower.

These new conclusions of astronomers were reported today to the National Academy of Sciences. The comets were described by Dr. Fred L. Whipple of Harvard Observatory. Dr. Gerard P. Kuiper, of Yerkes Observatory, University of Chicago, told how they were created.

Dr. Kuiper explained how moisture gathers into drops in a rain cloud. The drops never get large, he said, because the earth's gravitational pull drags them to the ground.

But put a similar cloud, made of dust and gas, the same sort of cloud that telescopes now see, out in space by itself. Each particle will attract others by gravitation, and the particles will coalesce into solid bodies, which may be the size of comets or of planets.

He said the sun formed first, and afterward the planets where the dust particles were far enough away from the sun that their attraction for each other was stronger than the pull of the sun.

Far out at the edge of the dust cloud that condensed into planets, much smaller clouds coalesced into comets.

There are possibly, Dr. Whipple said, hundreds of millions of comets. They average two miles in diameter, too small to be seen even if they come close. The biggest, he said, probably are not much over 10 miles in diameter.

He told numerous scientific reasons why comets were largely of water — in the form of snow. Second in their composition, he said, is probably frozen ammonia and third, frozen methane, or marsh gas.

Gases form in comets when they approach the sun. The gases glow and sunlight reflects from the snow, making the comet visible. Close up, a comet would look like a huge snowball. You could dig off pieces with your fingers.

TRUMAN HOPING TO FIND WAY FOR WORLD PEACE

Thinks Good Will Come Out of Conference

St. Louis, Oct. 12 (AP)—President Truman held out hope today that he and Gen. Douglas MacArthur may find a wa yto counter the explosive threat of communism in the far east.

He contended that the free countries are "making progress" toward peace "in spite of conditions which are prevailing in the far east."

Out of his weekend conference in the Pacific, the President, predicted, may come "some contribution to the peace of the world."

Truman's talk last night, to a meeting of the Missouri Order of the Eastern Star, highlighted his stopover here en route to the spectacular rendezvous with MacArthur, 6,500 miles away.

Although some 12,000 persons heard the President's speech, to a closed meeting of the Masonic affiliate, newspaper men, were barred.

Typewritten transcripts of his remarks were made available to the press later.

That Wake Island will be the scene of the weekend conference —the first face-to-face meeting of the President and the United Nations' commander—was the opinion of most members of the President's party.

Charles G. Ross, presidential press secretary, declined to comment.

Speaking after seeing his sister, Miss Mary Jane Truman, installed as Missouri Worthy Grand Matron of the Order of the Eastern Star, Truman declared, in his neighborly, off-the-cuff fashion:

Labored Diligently

"Now I am on my way to have a conference with Gen. MacArthur, and I hope that out of that conference will come some contribution to the peace of the world.

"For five long, hard years as President of the United States I have labored diligently to attain a peaceful world. I think, in spite of conditions which are prevailing in the far east, that we are making progress toward that point."

The President scheduled a 4 p.m. EST takeoff from Lambert-St. Louis airport in the "Independence" on the second lap of his flight to Honolulu.

The meeting with the general after MacArthur's spectacular victory in Korea may figure heavily in the congressional election campaign.

Truman will make it the basis for foreign policy speeches at San Francisco Oct. 17 and to the United Nations general assembly in New York Oct. 24. The White House has labeled both of these talks "non-political."

Dispatches out of Tokyo quote informed officials as saying MacArthur is expected to warn the President that future communist attacks can be headed off only by a powerful U.S. force.

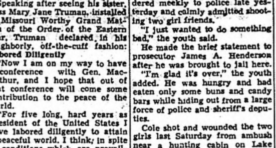
Durham, Oct. 12. (CP)—When Kate McFayden went to feed her chickens, she found a banded pigeon making himself at home. She believes the bird—banded No. A.U. 50, Buffalo 10125—escaped from its loft and just can't find the way home.

AIM FIVE-PRONGED ATTACK AT PYONGYANG



A five-pronged attack pointed at the North Korean capital of Pyongyang is meeting stiff resistance following communist president Kim Il Sung's refusal to surrender. The advance of the South Korean units on the east flank has turned westward and is now within 90 miles from Pyongyang. British, Australian and U. S. troops, advancing 12 miles over the 38th Parallel, are within 75 miles of the capital. —Central Press Canadian.

General Graham Will be Head Central Command

Ottawa, Oct. 12 (CP) — The army announced Wednesday it is shuffling the men in three of its senior posts in a move that puts colorful Maj. Gen. Chris Vokes in charge of the vast western command, including the vital areas of the Arctic and the Pacific Coast.

Maj. Gen. Howard D. Graham, 52, a former Trenton, Ont., lawyer turned permanent force soldier after a distinguished war career, is leaving the job of Vice Chief of the General Staff to succeed Gen. Vokes as head of Central Command, embracing Ontario.

His job at Ottawa headquarters will be taken by Toronto-born Maj.-Gen. Herbert A. (Sparky) Sparling, 43. Gen. Sparling is the only man involved to get a promotion, moving up from Brigadier.

The moves, effective early in the new year, arise from the retirement of Maj.-Gen. Matthew H. S. Penhale, 55, of Edmonton after 36 years of military service, including two World Wars.

Youth Admits Shooting Two Girl Friends

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Oct. 12 —(AP)—After hiding out in the north woods for four days and nights, Donald Cole, 18, surrendered meekly to police late yesterday and calmly admitted shooting two girl friends.

"I just wanted to do something bad," the youth said.

He made the brief statement to prosecutor James A. Henderson after he was brought to jail here.

"I'm glad it's over," the youth added. He was hungry and had eaten only some buns and candy bars while hiding out from a large force of police and sheriff's deputies.

Cole shot and wounded the two girls last Saturday from ambush near a hunting cabin on Lake Superior, 30 miles west of here. Most critically wounded was Pauline Parady, 14, paralyzed by a bullet that lodged in her spine. The other girl, Myrna Benson, 12, was shot in the abdomen.

When state troopers captured Cole, he told them he was headed towards the Soo to give himself up.

Cole still had the .22 rifle that felled the girls, police said he had taken the gun apart and was carrying it wrapped in a coat. He carried nine cartridges.

Wounded by Stray Shotgun Pellets

Windsor, Oct. 12—(CP)— Ray Dumochelle, 19, is Essex County's first victim of the current hunting season. He was wounded yesterday by stray shotgun pellets, which struck him over the right eye.

Hospital officials said the pellets narrowly missed his eye, but said the injury is not serious. The person who fired the shots was not found.

U.S. SUSPENDS PASSPORT VISAS TEMPORARILY

Recheck Aliens Who Plan Coming to U.S.

Washington, Oct. 12. (CP)—United States officials today were ordered to suspend temporarily passport visas issued to aliens—including Canadians—planning to come to the United States.

The suspension order went out to U.S. officials all over the world in a move to permit a recheck of individual records because of the tight new inter-security law.

It does not apply to official representatives of foreign governments.

It does not affect Canadians coming to the United States on visits, since they do not have to have visas. But it does apply to Canadians coming as immigrants since they must have passports and visas.

Washington, Oct. 12, (AP) — United States officials all over the world have been ordered to suspend temporarily passport visas issued to aliens planning to come to the United States.

It was not immediately determined whether this order applied to Canadians.

Officials said today the State department telegraphed the orders yesterday to embassies and consuls to permit a recheck of individual records because of the tight new internal security law.

The law, enacted over President Truman's veto, bars the entry of aliens who have been at any time members of the communist "or other totalitarian" parties.

Its inforcement has resulted in the detention of several hundred aliens who already had been granted entry permits when the law went into effect.

More than 200 were being held yesterday at Ellis Island, N.Y. Germany and Italy have protested against the detention of their nationals.

Super-Govt. For World Urged By Churchill

Copenhagen, Denmark, Oct. 12 (Reuters) —Winston Churchill called Wednesday night for the rapid creation of a whole super-government with Russia as one of its pillars.

Speaking at the climax of his three-day visit to the Danish capital he said:

"Unless some effective world super-government can be set up and brought quickly into action, the prospects for peace and human progress are dark and doubtful."

Churchill said the "four main pillars of the world temple of peace" are the United States, the Soviet Union, the British Commonwealth and a united Europe with which Great Britain is profoundly blended."

Let us make sure that they will all bear the weight which will be imposed and reposed upon them," he said.

Claims Unrecorded Canoe Voyages Made to America Before 1,000 B.C.

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 12. (AP)—It was not to a new world that Christopher Columbus sailed the ocean blue in 1492, a Johns Hopkins University geographer believes.

A well-beaten track between Asia and the Americas probably existed two or three thousand years before Columbus made his epic first voyage, Professor George F. Cater writes in the current issue of the Southwestern Journal of Anthropology.

Dr. Carter suggests the Asiatic peoples made contact with the western hemisphere sometime before 1,000 B.C.—perhaps as early as 2,000 B.C.

His theory is based on the fact that plants such as the sweet potato, cotton, Mexican poppy and certain weeds existed in America and Asia and some Pacific Islands long before "any written record of man's having travelled between the two points."

Plants can't originate twice, the geographer says.

"The answer to this puzzle", Carter concludes, "is that man did make such unrecorded ocean voyages—probably in elaborate, giant canoes.

Russian Material Passes Thru Port For Korean Reds

Three Allied Prongs Driving To Red Capital, Pyongyang

By RELMAN MORIN

Tokyo, Oct. 12 (AP) — Big guns of Allied warships and naval planes set fire today to Chongjin a far northern port on the east of North Korea.

The industrial port city of 190,000 is 34 miles southeast of red China's Manchuria border, 49 miles from Russian Siberia and 220 miles upcoast from the nearest Allied South Korean ground troops at Wonsan.

Chongjin is about 140 miles southwest of Siberian Vladivostok, through which much Russian material is believed to have poured down to the Korean reds by rail.

A similar Allied fleet bombardment and rolling air strike pounded the Korean west coast ahead of the Allied amphibious landings at Inchon in mid-September that turned the tide of war.

The west coast landings led to the general Allied counter-offensive now striking with three prongs inside red Korea toward the communist capital, Pyongyang, on the west side of the peninsula.

First dispatches from the U.S. battleship Missouri, flagship of the United Nations task group off Chongjin, gave no indication that a landing was being made.

Canadian, British and Australian warships joined in the Chongjin bombardment.

Shore Targets Softened

AP photographer - correspondent Gene Herrick, aboard the Missouri, reported the bombardment started Thursday with indictations that it was continuing.

It was the northernmost point in red Korea to come under the Allied big naval guns.

Carrier planes softened up the shore targets Wednesday.

Allied ground troops far south of the bombarded city pushed steadily ahead on three fronts toward Pyongyang—from the south southwest and east.

Those approaches to the nest of Premier Kim Il Sung's regime are fiercely defended by the reds in some spots. In other sectors they were reported withdrawing.

Stark defeat appeared in the offing for the staggering reds, but Prime Minister Joseph Stalin of Russia wished the North Koreans success. He messaged Kim that Russia hopes for "establishment of a united, independent Korea—Soviet style.

Stalin's message— described by the communist newspaper Pravda as an "historical document" —was in reply to Kim's expression of thanks to Stalin for the friendly support given by the Soviet Union." against enemy aircraft.

The U.S. order was indicated as far back as Aug. 8, when the Canada-U.S. joint industrial mobilization committee met in Ottawa. At that time Hubert Howard former chief of U. S. munitions board, said that further orders would be placed in Canada by the U.S. as armament planning developed.

Favors 'Sweeps' In Canada to Aid Hospitals

Windsor, Ont., Oct. 12—(CP)—A resolution favoring government sweepstakes in Canada to assist the maintenance of hospitals and "relieve overburdened taxpayers" was carried unanimously by the Essex County Council yesterday.

The resolution was originally passed by the Welland County Council.

Robert Bondy, deputy reeve of Riverside, said that "money from sweepstakes tickets now sold in Windsor in a year would pay for a wing on Metropolitan Hospital. What you can't stop you might as well legalize."

Teaching Fellow Faces Charge Of Setting Fire

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 12—(AP) —Twice restrained in attempts to take his own life, a brilliant young University of Michigan teaching fellow faced arraignment today on a charge of deliberately setting a fire that destroyed the University's Haven Hall last June.

Robert H. Stacey, 30, of Gowanda, N.Y., admitted in municipal court yesterday that he touched off a fire that burned down the university building June at a loss of $618,000.

His arraignment, first fixed for next Tuesday, was moved up to this morning after Stacey twice tried to commit suicide yesterday.

George Bujea Named Athletic Director of Y

George Bujea of Regina has been appointed to the staff of the YMCA as director of physical education and takes over his duties this week according to an annoucement made by the general secretary Al J. Davis and president of the Board of Directors, Norman E Edwards.

This is the second addition to the YMCA staff announced within the last few days. Walter Bent has been appointed to the position of program director effective October 11th.

Mr. Bujea has been a teacher of Health and Physical Education at the Collegiate Institute at Yorkton, Saskatchewan and the Consolidated School at Eston, Saskatchewan. A native of Regina, Mr. Bujea received his Bachelor of Arts degree at the University of Montreal and pursued further studies at the Regina Normal School obtaining his First Class Teaching Certificate for the province.

During his college course he was coach of the basketball and football teams and specialized in track and field, gymnastics and volleyball. In addition Mr. Bujea has had special training in psychology, guidance and counselling fitting him for duties as director of physical education and health as well as instructor of gymnastics and supervision of games, leagues and recreation.

POLICE BLOTTER

Although occurrences in the police blotter ordinarily are complaints of some sort, there is occasionally a bright spot which has nothing to do with thefts or missing articles. Just one of these occurrences appeared today.

Shortly after 8 o'clock this morning police from Kingston called the local police station asking if an officer would check at a certain restaurant. It appeared that a woman tourist two hours previously had left her shoulder bag containing personal articles and cash.

The officer called at the restaurant, picked up the bag and the tourist was notified her bag was waiting for her.

Misinterpretation of the other motorist's intention caused a motor mishap at the intersection of Front and Bridge Streets late last night. Barbara Holmes, Hotel Quinte, was driving a friend's car south on Front Street with Joseph Champayne proceeding north. In making a left hand turn the Champayne vehicle crashed into the other causing about $150 damage to both vehicles.

Fred Symons, Front Street tobacconist, complained that his morning papers were disappearing. The papers disappeared some time between the time they were dropped off and the opening of the store.

Fire Equipment Shown in Parade On City Streets

The Belleville Fire Department with all of its seven fire fighting trucks, was on parade last night as part of the program arranged for the observance of Fire Pevention Week.

Promptly at 7:30 with the 9th Anti-Tank Regimental Pipe Band leading the way, the parade shoved off from the Upper Bridge and traversed the length of Front Street. Then the parade swung along Dundas to Pinnacle and back to Front Street by way of Bridge Street.

A large crowd lined the business section of the street as with sirens sounding intermittently and beams from spotlights crisscrossing overhead the fire wagons moved slowly down the street. The trucks ranged in vintage all the way from the comparatively ancient hook and ladder wagon purchased back in 1927 to the latest type pumper and aerial truck acquired by the department little more than a year ago.

A Flashback

There was even a flashback to the previous century with a number of firemen dressed in the garb of three quarters of a century ago hauling a hand pulled hose cart.

But the real purpose of Fire Prevention Week was brought more to the mind of the casual observer by a make-believe fire raging inside a small shack transported on a platform truck. Flames flared up inside the shack and volumes of smoke rolled out through the doors and windows. A big sign on the side of the house warned onlookers that "This might have been your house."

All in all it was a really bang-up parade and it served its purpose of bringing to the mind of on-lookers the importance and purpose of Fire Prevention Week.

Architect's Work Topic of Talk To Y's Men Club

With vice-president Gordon "Bud" Trill in the chair, W. A. Watson addressed members of the Y's Men's Club at their weekly meeting in the YMCA on the topic of "An Architect." Mr. Watson explained that an architect designed buildings and supervises their construction as an impartial judge between the owner and the contractor. He indicated that the profession was an ancient one as expressed in the many historic buildings in which strength, utility and beauty were required.

The varied types of buildings made it necessary for the architect to appreciate art as well as to be fully trained in origin and design and engineering, the speaker stated. He must have a comprehensive understanding of the use of space, the strength of materials, proportioning and beauty.

Student Essentials

For this reason the various schools of architecture have prescribed courses leading to a degree, in which students enroll for university training. An interest in art, an ability to draw and ability in mathematics are among the essentials which a student should possess to be successful as an architect.

There are 960 architects in Canada, mostly located in the larger centres, the speaker reported. Four hundred and fifty-three of these are located in Ontario and 341 in Quebec. Responsibilities of the architect were indicated by the speaker as the interpretation of the need of the customer in terms of rough sketches, the preparation of working drawings and specifications, the calling of tenders and the supervision of material and workmanship.

Mr. Watson was introduced by Y's Man Don Williams and received the appreciation of the club from Y's Man Ron Cass. Jack Wilson and Linton Reid provided the music.

Announcement was made that Radio Auction plans, the club's third annual money raising project, were well advanced for the November event. A Hallowe'en party for children of the community is being planned for October 31st. A ladies' night will be held on October 26th. A large delegation will attend the regional conclave in Hamilton October 21 and 22.

NIGERIAN STUDIES FARMING IN BRITAIN

London businessmen are accustomed to seeing turbans, fezzes, burnouses and other exotic costumes worn by visitors to capital, and the Oba Alaiyelowa, head man of the Nigerian town of Owo, even in his native dress may cause little curiosity. But the Oba and his wife intend to visit Britain's rural sections to study farming methods and there Nigerian dress may excite stars of curiosity. — Central Press Canadian.

Carrier Boys and Girls Will Enjoy Splendid Program Arranged For Their Visit to Niagara Falls

With two days thrill-packed holiday ahead, 68 carrier boys and girls of the Ontario Intelligencer leave tomorrow for Niagara Falls as guests of the management.

The carrier contingent in charge of circulation manager Dick Cowan, and staff member Miss Florence Walden, will leave the city in two chartered buses [illegible] returning Sunday afternoon.

At Niagara Falls they will be joined by carriers from the Peterborough and Kingston newspapers. In all some 168 boys and girls will make the trip.

A special added feature to the variable program of entertainment already arranged will be a luncheon at the General Brock Hotel, Niagara Falls, Ont., on Saturday noon when the carriers will be the special guests of the Ontario Hydro Commission. Mr. Robert Saunders, chairman of the commission will be present.

Taken on Tour

Following the luncheon the carriers will be taken on an escorted tour of commission property near the gorge.

During the holiday the guests will be taken on a trip on the "Maid of the Mist"; through the tunnel beneath the falls; to the Burning Springs and on the Aero Car. On Saturday night they will visit Niagara Falls, N.Y. They will also visit the General Brock monument among other points of interest during their stay.

En route to and returning from the Falls, the carriers will be "fed" at the Bowles Restaurant in Toronto. Other stops will be made during the trip when refreshments will be served.

The contingent is the largest to represent this newspaper since the annual cavalcade came into being. Last year some 58 guests qualified for the holiday, and this years party notes a considerable increase.

Following is the list of the boys and girls who will enjoy the holiday.

Two Army Men Not Grateful For Kindness Shown to Them

Some people are rather short on gratitude. Just as the manager of a local electrical appliance and repair shop has found out.

Wednesday two Army members passing through the city were stuck for a place to stay for the night. The manager of the electrical shop took them in and, Good Samaritan, that he was, agreed to allow the two men to stay at the shop overnight.

But early Thursday Sgt. Roy Milligan of the local police force in patrolling along Catherine St., noticed two men carrying a large box. He demanded to see into it.

Like the magician's little black bag, the box carried by the two soldiers revealed a series of articles. Included were two electric clocks, an electric iron and coffee percolator, a pop-up toaster and a mantel radio.

Today the two men, Robt. Williams of Petawawa and Wilbert Moon of the R.C.R. were charged with theft and remanded for court appearance.

Bakelite Company Featured in Two Magazine Articles

The Bakelite Company (Canada) Limited plant on No. 2 highway just east of Belleville has been getting lots of publicity lately. Two trade magazine articles have appeared telling about the new plant, one in "The Trefoil", a monthly publication put out by the employees of the Bakelite Division, Union Carbide and Carbon Corporation, at Bound Brook, New Jersey.

The other article appears in "Canadian Plastics", published bi-monthly in Toronto. The "Trefoil" article is written by R. E. Peterson, a member of the Bound Brook engineering staff who came to Belleville on assignment to assist in the construction of the local plant.

Of Latest Design

Describing the Belleville industry as "of the latest design", Mr. Peterson pinpoints the plant's advantages as 100,000 square feet of floor area, airy rest and lunch rooms, plans for outdoor recreational areas, landscaping, unlimited water supply from the Bay of Quinte, and enclosed loading platforms. Construction was started on October 15, 1947, and the first product of the plant, a sheet of laminated material, was turned out in May, 1949.

The first batch of resin from the new still was made in June, 1949 and the first molding material made in September, 1949. Besides the story, the magazine has a one-page layout of pictures showing construction progress and the ground breaking ceremony.

New Industrial Child

"Canadian Plastics" calls the Bakelite plant "Belleville, Ontario's New Industrial Child". This writer calls the local industry "the most modern of its kind in North America", and continues to tell of the elements that make up the plant.

The elements are a water-pumping system capable of pumping 2,500,000 gallons a day; a unit for production of inert gas, available as a fire-preventative in grinders and ducts; facilities to store 150,000 gallons of liquid and 1,500,000 pounds of solid material; 25 miles of piping, including a pneumatic conveyor system; a unit to recover chemicals from waste water to prevent pollution in the Bay of Quinte; automatic timing devices and thermostatic controls on mixers; and a refrigeration system equal to 20 tons of melting ice, to cool resins for shipping in insulated or refrigerated tank cars.

Coyote Interested In Boy's Lunch

Fort Worth, Tex., Oct. 12—(AP)—The wolf in Folk Lore was more interested in Red Riding Hood than the goodies she carried, but a coyote here was more interested in Charley Harrell's lunch than the boy.

"I was carrying my lunch in a sack and it stole the sack right out of my hand," the 12-year-old said yesterday. Charley took out after the coyote. It turned and jumped at his neck, but he knocked it down. James Cole, 25, came up and drove off the animal. He was bitten on the hand.

Charley Hurd, who hunted down the coyote in his automobile, killed it with a .45 calibre pistol.

NEW FIGHT ON HANDS

Burbank, Calif., Oct. 12 (AP) —James J. Jefferies, one time world's heavyweight boxing champion, has a new fight on his hands—against a Burbank city gambling ordinance.

His business associate, Richard Parker, was arrested Monday at Jefferies barn, a boxing arena, and charged with operating a game of chance.

Freighter Keels Over on Side At Halifax Pier

By JACK BRAYLEY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Halifax, Oct. 12 (CP) — The flame-eaten Spanish freighter Monte Inchorta careened over on her side at her pier today and waves broke across the bow of the doomed 3,500 ton vessel.

As she heeled over, the ship came to rest on solid bottom and her superstructure bashed itself against the pier. Meanwhile, firemen still pumped tons of water into her holds in the hope of saving her cargo.

Two fireboats, along with the city fire department, battled the stubborn blaze which broke out anew early today after smouldering for two days as the ship raced for port. She arrived yesterday, escorted by the tug foundation Lillian.

Firemen said they feared the vessel, now leaning against the pier, may lurch outward and block the navigation channel.

Preliminary examination of the 32-year-old coal burner when she arrived yesterday indicated the fire was under control and longshoremen prepared to go below. But after they opened the hatches the flames roared out anew.

Her crew abandoned ship. At first, red hot decks prevented firemen from boarding her. An indication of the pressure below decks was shown today when tarpaulins over the after holds were held distended like balloons.

Several other vessels also were in distress on the North Atlantic.

Search and rescue officials reported the motor vessel Thomas J. Hodder, believed out of Newfoundland, drifting helplessly near Arichat, N.S. Both engines of the vessel were broken down and air force officials said they were trying to arrange a tow for the disabled vessel.

A small fishing smack reported overdue earlier off Nova Scotia's southwestern tip, was believed in no immediate danger.

Today's dying winds came as a relief after yesterday's autumn storm sent scores of smaller ships into port for shelter.

Sir John Slessor Will Inspect Air Station

Trenton, Oct. 12 (Special) — Sir John Slessor, Marshal of the RAF, G.C.B., D.S.O., M.C., and Chief of Staff of the RAF, arrived here just before noon today to inspect RCAF Station, Trenton.

Sir John is at present making a tour of Canadian and American defence establishments, and made the stop at Trenton this morning to inspect training facilities of the Air Armament School and the Central Flying School. The RAF Chief of Staff arrived by plane, and after a luncheon at the station, will move to Kingston with his party to address the Canadian Defence College.

Authorities said that a point of keen interest to Sir John was the memorial gate which commemorates the Commonwealth Air Training plan. The gate was presented to RCAF Station, Trenton, in 1949 by the governments of Great Britain, Australia and New Zealand as a memorial to the men who trained there.

British Pilots to Train

Montreal (CP)—Sir John Slessor, Marshal of the Royal Air Force, and Air Marshal W. A. Curtis, head of the Royal Canadian Air Force, stopped on their inspection trip here long enough to announce that on Jan. 15 the first British pilots to be trained in Canada under a peacetime version of the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan will arrive in the Dominion.

There will be 25 trainees in this first group. They will remain for six weeks, taking flight training.

At the same time, the two airmen said, there are plans afoot to make this pilot exchange a two-way one. Early next spring a Canadian fighter squadron, as yet unnamed, will be sent to Britain to join the fighter command of the R.A.F. for training.

St. Catharines, Oct. 12. (CP)—Formation of a Society to Sidestep Stepladders and Stepmothers is announced by Douglas McLean. Devoted to the "Propagation of Superstitions", the Society's first move will be an attempt to ban a Y.M.C.A. Friday 13th dance.

Man Questioned In Attempted Bank Holdup

Toronto, Oct. 12—(CP)—A 32-year-old man was held by police for questioning today in connection with an attempted bank holdup at suburban Avenue Road and Fairlawn Avenue. Police said he was so drunk when arrested he was unable to stand in a police line-up.

The man—whose name was not disclosed — was charged with theft of a revolver, receiving a stolen revolver, having a gun without a permit and possessing a weapon dangerous to the public peace.

Yesterday a lone bandit traded shots with branch manager William H. G. Smith of the Imperial Bank of Canada. The bandit fled without getting any money. The getaway car, previously reported stolen, was found abandoned, a mile from the scene.

IMPRESSED BY U.N. ACTION

United Nations have proved to the world that they will and can protect the peace, former Defence Secretary Louis Johnson of the United States stated the other day in Los Angeles while speaking to the American Legion. His view was expressed in these words, "Had North Korea realized that in 100 days we would wreck the military machine it had taken more than four years to build, it might have been deterred from aggression," he said. "Had North Korea but known that even without using the atomic bomb we had the capacity to inflict such devastating punishment upon them and their cities they might have hesitated even at the expense of antagonizing their revolutionary sponsors."

There can be no doubt that the decision and swift retribution in defeat brought upon the North Koreans through their outrage against their southern neighbors must have surprised the communistic world, especially the North Koreans.

The former Defence Secretary was outspoken in his reference to communism and expressed the hope that the results in Korea will convince the Soviet satellites everywhere that their is no glory in "dying for communistic doctrines."

The United Nations forces are moving swiftly northward deep in the heart of North Korea. Major-General Gay sees the red armies of the northerners doomed and the taking of the red capital, Pyongyang, as only a matter of time.

MUSIC SCHOOL FESTIVAL

Twenty-one years ago in Britain a group of country boys interested in folk dancing were wondering how to get violin lessons cheaply, so that they might take turns accompanying their dances. As a result, class lessons for violin and piano were arranged at the village hall.

From these modest beginnings a mighty movement grew and, today, 1,400 musicians and choral singers from villages scattered all over England are planning a trip to London and the Royal Albert Hall. There, in November, they will celebrate the 21st anniversary of their organization — the Rural Music Schools Association — at a music festival which Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth will attend.

The Rural Music Schools Association now has 700 groups, 200 teachers and 7,000 students aged 7 to 70. Purely voluntary at first and relying on public subscription and the goodwill of professional musicians, the Association now has the financial support of the Arts Council of Great Britain and Britain's Ministry of Education.

Miss Mary Ibberson, who founded the first group, feels that her years of hard work have been well rewarded. Many of the boys and girls who had their first music lesson in that village hall 21 years ago are now teachers for the movement — some of them graduates of the Royal College of Music.

The Schools operate from area headquarters in a central rural town, the teachers going out to the villages in the area to instruct classes or individuals. Every summer groups come together at each area's centre to give concerts or choral recitals.

Sir Adrian Beult will conduct the massed choir of 1,000 voices and the 400-piece orchestra at the Albert Hall Festival. Included in the program is a Concerto Grosso for strings, specially written for the occasion by Dr. Ralph Vaughan Williams.

JARGON

Language of specialists in any subject, from sport to religion, tends to grow away from common speech. Sometimes this is necessary. The physicist and the theologian, dealing with matters and processes not directly present to the senses, are almost forced to develop a language of their own to avoid the confusion that would ensue if they used everyday words to express something out of the ordinary. —The Printed Word.

When any of the four pillars of government, religion, justice, counsel and treasure, are mainly shaken or weakened, men had need to pray for fair weather. — Bacon.

Fewer consider how much we are indebted to government, because few can represent how wretched mankind would be without it. — Addison.

Of all virtues and dignities of the mind, goodness is the greatest, being the character of the Deity; and without it man is a busy, mischievous, wretched thing. — Bacon.

"DOPE"

When little children start to walk
For weeks their steps are slow,
But when they first begin to talk
At faster pace they go.
They'll pick up words we hope they'll miss
To use with proper emphasis.

That I'm a "dope" I've now been told
In language plain and flat
And wonder where a three-year-old
Picked up a word like that ?
With this I'm seriously concerned,
Why is the bad so quickly learned?

If it is something impolite
Once after it is heard,
Beyond a doubt they'll have it right
And clearly speak the word,
But parents all know pretty speech
Is far more difficult to teach.

Now I'm a "dope" And right is he
To make that statement grim,
But this is what is puzzling me:
Who taught that word to him?
Who such a word to him once said
And put that notion in his head?

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Youth gets all the publicity. If you glance at the current magazines, listen to the radio, or duck into the odd movie for a quick one, what is it all about? Young people.

The magazines have gone farthest. Their fiction features are all about tiresome teenagers. Their articles concern the feather-brained and fictitious problems and interests of high school and college fledglings. The fashion sections of the magazines, growing thicker and thicker, are unaware that there are any ladies in the land larger than size 16. As far as magazine fashion is concerned, a size 40 lady is as extinct as the dinosaur. And the multicolor food ads are being slanted to a lower and lower age group.

Yet 5,500,000 of Canada's counted population are over 24 years of age, whereas only 4,750,000 are under 24 years, several million of whom are in diapers and rompers. The actual number who are between the ages of 16 and 24—which are the ages to which so much of the publicity of these times refers—must be very trivial in comparison with the whole.

The only conclusion we can come to is that publishers, movie directors and radio producers believe youth to be more interesting than all other ages combined.

They may be right. But I would not trade my fifties for my twenties, thirties or even forties. And I venture the opinion that most people in their late fifties—even the ladies—will concur. The fifth decade is the main course of the whole feast of life. All that goes before it is good—the canapes, the soup, the fish, the salad of life. But for the roast abeef, baked potatoes, turnips, beans and brussels sprouts of life, together with the salt, pepper and horse radish, give me the sensitive, aware, ironic, intensely conscious fifties.

OUR ONLY HOPE FOR SECURITY

"If any man would come after Me," said Jesus, "let him . . ."

Let him what? Let him be assured that he will always have security and happiness? Let him be certain that no ill will ever befall him? Let him go along in perfect confidence that good luck will be his portion as long as he lives

Jesus never made such promises.

"If any man would come after Me," said Jesus, "let him deny himself, and take up his cross daily and follow Me." Is it any wonder that His hearers turned away from Him? Or is it any wonder that in the end He captured the Roman Empire and that He was destined eventually to conquer the world? Manhood at its best is not seeking security—that is, external security. Men and women who are worth their salt are putting their reliance on the everlastings—on an internal security that the world can neither give nor take away.

Jesus did not promise to make life easier for anyone who followed Him. What He did promise was to make life significant, to fulfill its powers until that life would be fitted for eternal fellowship with Almighty God Himself.

This gift of internal reinforcement is our only hope for secur-

OUR TOWN

By JACK SCOTT

NONE LIKE PEGGY'S

Peggy's Cove, N.S.—Couple of years ago when Brown Eyes and I were looking around Hollywood we came upon an outdoor set at the Metro - Goldwyn - Mayer studios used for harbor scenes.

A plywood tugboat nudged a plywood pier on which artificial barnacles grew, all of it set in a shallow tank that was dead calm or, if one flicked the switch on the wind machines wild and stormy.

The effect was enormously theatrical, especially since the adjoining set was the suburban home used for the Andy Hardy pictures. Yet this fabricated illusion somehow seemed to distill all the authentic atmosphere of a small seaport. So we sat down in a busy Culver City and sailed away on a magic carpet of Hollywood make-believe.

We both remembered that experience today when we joined the Peggy's Cove Cult. For Peggy's Cove looks too dramatic, too completely picturesque, to be altogether true. It's like walking into a set designed by some genius.

With the possible exception of some of the small harbors along the coast of Cornwall, I've never seen a place that looked so much like it ought to look as Peggy's.

The Cult is composed largely of painters and poets who swarm over Peggy's granite face each summer, crouching at their easels or simply sitting on a rock to sponge up inspiration.

The Halifax painter, William Degarthe, a charter member, has said, "A person who doesn't feel his blood tingle when he sees Peggy's has no heart for art." Fact is, nobody is known to have visited this barren little place without coming away a lifelong bore on the subject. And that goes for us, too.

Danger Ahead

Something is happening now at Peggy's that its oldest admirers have always feared and predicted as far back as 1935.

In that year T. Morris Longstreth wrote a book about Nova Scotia and said it was inevitable that Peggy's Cove would some day be discovered by the mass of tourists and that its rustic, honest beauty would fall before the hot dog stand and the motel.

Next year Peggy's may face this test because a broad new road is being built in to the cove. In the past—and, for that matter, right now—you get in over a kind of wagon trail, in some parts right over naked rock, and this has discouraged the mob, but with a modern road completed, it's almost a sure bet that the hamlet will become a tourist mecca and perhaps, as the Cult fears, some of the charm will go.

At the moment it's all here and all pretty wonderful, especially at this time of the year when even the painters and poets have gone away, leaving only the 60-odd permanent residents.

To get to Peggy's Cove you drive about 20 miles south from Halifax along the main highway to Yarmouth and take a gravel road down to the sea. You dip and turn with the Atlantic flashing into view off to your right and past places with names like Frostfish Cove, Seabright, Hackett's Cove, Shut-In Island, Modesty Cove, Paddy's Head and Indian Harbor.

This is the country I nominated the other day as the most scenic we'd seen. But on that day the torn-up road prevented us from actually reaching Peggy's. And Peggy's, as we discovered today, is truly the gem of all.

Here is a swelling, bald rock shouldering against the open Atlantic. It is treeless and only a few gnarled shrubs and a thick tough moss can survive the salt spray and the wind that always blows. All along this stark shore are gigantic boulders, most of them looking as if a good shove would set them rolling. They give an eerie, Salvador Dali aspect to this wild and rugged coast.

As you crawl in low gear along the ruts of a lane that winds over the rock and through the prehistoric boulders and gores you see ahead, dominating the point, a lovely white lighthouse (whose lamp is fired nightly by tall, stringy Rupert Manuel, also the Cove's outstanding violinist). It is very much like driving into an oil painting.

No Hurry

The cove itself is a tiny tongue of the sea that somehow found its way into a deep crevice in the granite.

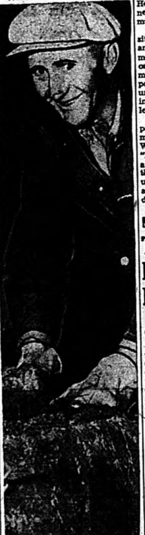
Members of the Cult often try to analyze the charm that draws so many artists here. It seems to me there may be some deep symbolism involved for in all this fierce seascape the little cove is truly the snug harbor of safety we're all seeking.

Certainly it is the world's most peaceful and nerve-soothing spot. Mouse-grey fish shanties stand on barnacled piles along the shore and above on the steep rock are the simple neat home of the residents, all facing down to the little cove. The bright orange and blue hulls of anchored boats are mirrored in the cold, clear water. Here and there are lobster traps, nets and tubs of brine for pickling mackerel.

You need not be an artist to sit, as we did, and let your mind and nerves slow down to this mood and feel—as Ian Sclanders, one of Peggy's staunchest admirer, has written—"a magic compounded of light and shadow and unchanging stone and everchanging sea; of sun and fog and silence and booming surf."

Whether all this will be impaired by a tourist boom is a matter only the future can tell. We noticed one sign that read, "Parking, 10 Cents," that seemed a small blot on the scene. Still, the things that make Peggy's so unforgettable are probably durable enough to resist any of the degredations of man.

WESTERN PLOWMAN



Smoothing the tops of his furrows is L. A. Job of Edmonton who travelled farther than any other competitor, to attend the 37th International Plowing Match at Alliston, near Toronto. Winner of the Alberta crown, he had to learn to use a smaller plow than he had in the western matches.—(CP Photo.)

Two Famous Personalities Will Meet First Time

By DeWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

The forthcoming conference between President Truman and Gen. MacArthur in the Far Pacific — the first meeting of these two famous personalities — is creating widespread speculation since its location and agenda haven't been made public.

Guesses as to what will be discussed must include the Korean situation. That subject naturally will merge into a general survey of the increasing communist threat in the whole great theatre of Southeast Asia.

We can also log the hotly-debated question of Formosa as certain to occupy an important place.

This big island, now the last stand of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek and his Nationalist government, is likely to figure heavily in the crucial days to come. The Chinese communists have sworn to invade Formosa, and have only been deterred thus far by the presence of an American fleet which has orders to prevent any red invasion.

The general's views on Formosa have differed sharply from those of the Washington administration. He has maintained that Formosa is vital to America's Far East defences and must remain in non-communist hands.

Asked to Withdraw

Last August MacArthur cabled a statement to this effect to be read at the annual meeting of the veterans of foreign wars in Chicago. Truman ordered him to withdraw the statement, on the basis that it confused the American position.

The president stated the official American policy: That the U. S. has no designs on Formosa; that the U. S. was guarding it to keep the war from spreading, and that its future as a former Japanese territory was a subject for international settlement.

Along with the Formosan question undoubtedly will come a survey of the position of communist China, which is playing an increasingly strong part in the red upheaval. Communist China has been lending strong support to the North Koreans in their aggression against the south, and she also is reaching in other directions, in co-operation with Moscow.

One of the hot spots of the moment is French Indo - China. There the communist Revolutionists, heavily supported by neighboring China, have been making great headway against the French.

MacArthur is expected by observers in Tokyo to emphasize that the only way such communist blows can be halted in Asia is through the maintenance of a powerful United Nations military force.

WEATHER AND INFECTION

You know me—I've been ranting in this column for years about the stupidity of people. I use the word stupidity instead of ignorance, because most of these people I'm talking about cannot claim they have not been told.

Now you take little Susie. Not yet old enough to go to school but old enough to get around. All winter long I have seen Susie on the inside looking out. I once had occasion to tell Susie's mother not to fear the weather. I told her the best thing to do with Susie was to dress her just sufficiently to keep her comfortable and turn her outdoors. But her mother regarded me with a quiet and somewhat supercilious smile of tolerance and allowed that it wasn't a good thing to have little children playing outdoors when the weather was raw and damp.

Susie's mama assumes she knows more about it than I do. She assumed that before she asked me. Then why did she ask me? Merely, I suppose, to reinforce her own conviction — she must be right if her conviction is contrary to mine.

I saw Susie outside the other day. It was a remarkably fine clear day. Susie was dressed up like an arctic explorer. Susie's mama wasn't going to let Susie get chilled and get her "resistance" all run down. Uh-uh. Not mama. I came along just as Susie warmed up a bit to her play and removed one of her wraps. At that moment mama banged the window up and bawled to Susie to put her wrap right back on. I thought Susie's mama looked particularly unlovely at the moment.

I happen to know that Susie has had one "cold" after another all winter. Mama no doubt blames an errant draft or two which came into the house along with the grocery boy for that. It must be. I never noticed any windows open.

I recall a birthday party Susie had. At the time Susie had one of her frequent "colds". All the other visiting children were "protected" aginst the weather by tightly closed windows and the air inside the house was rendered innocuous by mama's cigarette smoke. It came time to blow out the candles on the birthday cake and Susie slobbered over the cake with relish. One remaining, stubborn light was blown out by Susie's mama who threw in a couple of coughs at the cake for good measure. I might mention that mama, too, had had "one cold after another all winter."

I have often wondered how many of the children attending Susie's party came away with Susie's "cold". It would be difficult to set up a more likely arrangement for it.

The facts are that Susie or anybody else stands a thousand times more chance of "catching cold" inside a poorly ventilated house than outdoors regardless of what manner of weather exists outdoors. Once again I rise to remark that weather hasn't got anything to do with respiratory infections. Respiratory infections are caused by infectiousmicro-organisms—germs, viruses, etc. The quaint notion that cold weather — or damp weather — "lowers the resistance" and paves the way for the invading organisms to move in—is just that—a notion. It is a satisfactory notion to the victim and a specious, time-saving answer for the doctor. But it's still just a notion.

The notion that one can protect his health by wearing two-layered underwear—one cotton and one wool — and overshoes, rubbers or high boots, "windbreakers," electric blankets, mufflers and other gimmicks is one for the birds. Man or child, the sensible attire for any climate is the one which permits of the greatest comfort and facility of motion.

If drafts and chilling and wet feet caused respiratory infections — ranging from "colds" to pneumonia—the world populace would die off before the H-bomb ever had a chance. There is no escaping these things. But why escape them? They are harmless. If you would avoid respiratory infections—stay outdoors where the other fellow's secretions are not so readily available. And indoors keep the windows open and let the drafts blow where they may. And the more you keep your Susie outdoors the better for Susie and for you.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Six Day Treatment

Is there such a thing as a 6 day treatment for syphilis? If so, please tell me where to go for it and about how much it costs. (M. A.)

Answer—Yes—but bear in mind it is treatment, the best the doctor can give, not necessarily cure. Go to any reputable doctor for it.

Tuberculosis

Daughter in contagious ward at ——— hospital, being tested for tuberculosis. If I take her things home to wash them must I boil and wash them separately? (Mrs. D. M.)

Answer—So far as tuberculosis is concerned it doesn't matter. Ordinary laundering is ample protection. You do not mention what disease warrants keeping the patient in the contagious ward. Surely not just tuberculosis.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

MY TALKING TYPEWRITER

For over thirty years I have drummed away at my little noiseless typewriter—at home, in my office, on trains, in wooded patches, and in my small summer island Lodge. All over America and Canada these brief messages have gone from what I like to call my talking typewriter.

Every word formed and fingered on this machine is reproduced in scores of newspapers, so that I feel a kinship with every reader, each addressd to a mutual friend. So it is that I take you, who read me, on my little travels, into libraries, among the many books that compromise my silent group of friends, and to those people who lift and inspire.

This talking typewriter of mine contacts more readers in one day than my father did in all his ministerial career, which in fact shoulders an added respnsibility to every thought expressed, and fills me with a sense of sincere humility. And my heart goes out in gratitude to every newspaper that has afforded me the space for my daily task, for the writing of these talks has given me the richest satisfaction of anything in all my life.

There is no contact so inspiring as that with people—people who are understanding and responsive. To share with them, and they with us, is a blessed privilege. We are made a debtor to everyone who has given us encouragement, or who has increased our confidence in God and ourselves, or who has increased our hope and faith.

From every type of human being, young or old, letters have been received over the years, of encouragement, with many a fine suggestion, and often a constructive criticism, all of which have given this talking typewriter many a cue and many a theme to pass on to others. We were born into this world, not only to create a living for ourselves, but to be useful in helping another up.

All work and all life should be co-operative. Unity of mind and purpose can make kinfolks of us all! That's what my talking typewriter says.

A Penny Saved-- Buying Eggs by Grade is Thrifty

"Take care of the pennies and the dollars will take care of themselves." Most people think it rather necessary to take care of the dollars too but at least we may start with the pennies.

The home economists of the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture say that buying by grade is a wonderful penny saver.

Take eggs for instance. Whether from the seller's or buyer's viewpoint, grading is a decided advantage. There are four grades for eggs in Canada. All eggs sold in Canada are graded. If the eggs are packed in thirty-dozen cases the grade will be indicated on each end of the case; if packed in cartons, the grademark will be on the top of the carton; if displayed for sale loose, as in baskets, the grade may appear either on the container or on a tag displayed with the eggs.

Grades of Eggs

Grade A1—clean, fresh and sound in shell, finest flavor. The eggs are marketed only by inspected farms operating under a special permit from the Dominion Department of Agriculture. Eggs of this grade are not available on all markets. They are, of course, higher in price than other grades.

Grade A—clean, fresh and sound in shell. The white is firm and jelly-like. These are suitable for cooking in the shell or for poaching or frying.

Grade B—reasonably clean eggs, sound in shell. The white is less firm. These are good for general cookery.

Grade C—any eggs which, because of low quality or lack of cleanliness, cannot be placed in higher grades. These are suitable for use in baking.

Grades A1 and A—are sold in three sizes:

Large—24 oz. and up per dozen.
Medium—22 to 24 oz. per dozen
Pullet—Grade A1—20 to 22 oz. per dozen; Grade A—18 to 22 oz. per dozen.

Judged by Appearance

The grade of an egg may be judged by the appearance when it is broken. An upstanding, firm yolk and a jelly-like white usually means a top grade egg. A yolk that tends to flatten out and merge into the white and a white that is "runny" and spreads out indicates a Grade B egg or perhaps a Grade C.

Grade B eggs are just as high in food value as the higher grades and may be used in dishes where the eggs lose their identity when mixed with other more flavorful foods. The higher grade eggs are a "must" for cooking in the shell when delicacy of flavor is most important and for poaching, where the yolk should stand up and be covered by the water.

Whatever the grade purchased, careless handling in the home will cause high quality eggs to drop a grade in a surprisingly short time. Eggs must be kept cool all the time. The retailer should keep eggs under refrigeration and when they reach the kitchen they should be popped into the refrigerator immediately and not too near the apples or roquefort cheese as they readily absorb odors.

Blunt End Up

Eggs should be stored with the larger blunt end up. This large end contains the air cell. If the large end is down the weight of the eggs presses on the cell and tends to force it upward. This may loosen the protective inner skin of the egg. The yolk will rise to the small end of the egg and cling to the shell so it will be difficult to remove the egg from the shell without breaking the yolk.

So to save the pennies it is wise to know which foods may be purchased by grade and to give careful attention to the foods when they reach the home kitchen.

Much valuable information on the subject of buying by grade is found in the publication "Buy by Grade" which is distributed free of charge by the Information Service, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, Write for your copy.

Suggest Hunter Mistook Hair-do For Partridge

Gravenhurst, Oct. 12—(CP) Mrs. Dorothy Carter, teacher at rural Muskoka Beach Road school, wonders today whether she should change her hair-do now the partridge season is here.

Yesterday she had her hair parted by a bullet as she sat at her desk.

Provincial police suggested a careless hunter may have mistaken her for a partridge.

"I wear my hair cut quite short and combed high on my head," she said. "It might make me look like a partridge, but I don't think so."

IVANHOE

Mrs. S. Prest Heads Bible Soc. Branch

Ivanhoe—An Upper Canada Bible Society meeting was held in Beulah United Church Ivanhoe on Tuesday evening.

The meeting was in charge of the president, Mrs. Stanley Prest. The offering, amounting to $3.26, was received by Darwin Benson and Jack Wood. The election of officers was conducted by Rev. Egerton Young, Toronto Bible Society representative. The following officers were elected:

President, Mrs. Stanley Prest; secretary treasurer, Mrs. George Wood.

Representatives from the various churches were chosen to appoint collectors: West Huntingdon United, Alex McCurdy; West Huntingdon United Pres., Bessie Fleming; Standard Church, Mrs. Walton Reid; Fuller Church, Mrs. F. Kellar; White Lake Church, Mrs. William French; Salem Church, Mr. A. Twiddy.

It was decided to meet in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, West Huntingdon in 1951.

Mr. Young told of the urgent need of Bibles and said it was the society's objective to make Bibles available to everyone all over the world. He told of Gen. MacArthur sending a message that 30 million copies be sent to Japan as soon as possible and of how three million young and 400,000 adults had learned to read in one year in India.

Two interesting and instructive sound motion films were also shown. Mr. Beckel expressed thanks to Mr. Young and urged all to get behind this worthwhile work. The society is asking the branches for a 50 percent increase in givings. Last year $63.50 was raised.

Personals

Miss Theresa and Cora Mcraw, Mr. George Gibson and Miss Ileen Kerby, all of Toronto, were weekend guests of Mr. Michael Kerby.

Miss Vera Reynolds of Toronto was a weekend visitor at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Chas. Martin and Mr. Martin.

IVANHOE

Prominent Churchman Speaks at Anniversary

Ivanhoe — Anniversary services were held in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, West Huntingdon last Sunday. Rev. Dr. E. A. Thompson of Toronto, was the guest minister at both services. Dr. Thompson is secretary of the board of administration and clerk of the general assembly of Presbyterian Churches in Canada and one of the church's outstanding men.

The associate congregation of St. Andrew's, Stirling, withdrew their services for the day to permit the congregation to join in the worship. In the evening the Beulah United Church cancelled its services expressive of the good will of the congregation and the minister, Rev. B. J. Beckel, who assisted in the service. The sanctuary was brightened by baskets of autumn flowers. The occasion brought former members and friends from distant points and the day was made memorable both by the large assembly and the stirring messages.

Speaking at the morning service Rev. Thompson said, "A carpenter is known by the chips he makes and as we move through the New Testament we find the chips of the great Carpenter coming out in His teaching. We hear of the yoke that was to be fitted to the shoulders of the ox to make the burden lighter, and the wooden plow made to stand up in the rugged soil of Palestine.

The speaker compared the two men who built their houses, one on the sand, the other on a rock. He urged that "in building the house of the sand to dig the foundations deep having the best material and workmanship. To build for the shadow as well as the sunshine. There is no easy way of building the house of the soul if we want it to stand. No matter what our foundations we have the same floods, winds, and perils as the unbeliever, we are lashed by the same storms but the end is different. When the floods rise, winds blow and beat, our house may shake and tremble, but it stands, if founded on the rock, if that rock is Jesus Christ."

Rev. W. H. V. Walker, pastor of St. Andrew's, was in charge of the evening service and extended a welcome to Dr. Thompson a friend of college days, to Rev. B. J. Beckel and to the large congregation.

Dr. Thompson in his message said, "We are ambassadors of Christ." An ambassador is an envoy of highest rank sent out by one country to another. The status of the ambassador is determined by the status of the country from which he is sent. This is the highest honor to be singled out from a nation to speak for King, country and throne.

"It is far more important and honorable," said the speaker "to be called to serve the Great King of Kings. The early church took its ambassadorship very seriously."

"Rev. Thompson urged ambassadors of Christ to keep in close touch with the throne by prayer. To serve not only in great places but in every day living. It is not an easy task but a man's job and behind us stands the royal powers of our King—If we are faithful we too in the great long succession can be true ambassadors for Christ."

The choir under the direction of the organist Miss Bessie Fleming, sang at the morning service, "Now Let Every Tongue Adore Thee," from the cantata "Sleepers Awake", Johann Sebastian Bach. Miss Joan McCurdy of Foxboro and Miss Margaret Haggerty gave a duet "Hold Thou My Hand."

The choir sang at the evening service "He Will Hold Me Fast" and Miss Margaret Haggerty sang "Bless This House."

Following a reception at the Robbminster, Mr. and Mrs. Code left on a motor trip through the Southern States. The bride's travelling costume was a brown velveteen dress with a camelhair coat and brown accessories. Her corsage bouquet was of Talisman roses and chrysanthemums.

MARSH HILL W.M.S.

The October meeting of the Marsh Hill W.M.S. was held at the home of Mrs. Fred Kingston, Oak Lake. Eleven members and one visitor were present.

Mrs. Bartindale, the president, was in the chair for the opening and business. Mrs. Allyn Finkle, corresponding secretary, read several items of correspondence. Mrs. Bartindale was appointed delegate to the Sectional Rally which is to be held Wednesday, Oct. 11, in Tabernacle United Church, Belleville.

The worship service, which is given in the monthly, was followed with Miss Mae Currie, Mrs. B. R. Searles and Mrs. Fred Campbell assisting the president.

Miss Mae Currie was in charge of the program as follows: Notes on Christian Stewardship, by Mrs. Bartindale; brief reference to the books for study; an address on "Kagawa," by Mrs. W. Lindenfield; reading on Stewardship, by Mrs. B. R. Searles; a reading, "Need Spiritual Reserves When Adversity Comes," by Mrs. F. Lindenfield.

The thank-offering envelopes were handed in by nearly all the members.

The hostess served delicious refreshments following the close of the meeting.

BAYSIDE W.M.S.

Mrs. H. Rutter was hostess to the Bayside Woman's Missionary Society on Wednesday afternoon last with thirteen members and one visitor in attendance.

The meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. C. Rush, using the theme "Christ's Disciples Bring Light". Meditation was given by Mrs. Rush and Mrs. E. Nicholson and readings by Mrs. Rush, Mrs. Wm. Rutter and Mrs. H. I. Mooney. The scripture reading was taken from Matthew 25.

Prayers for Kagawa; for Christian leaders in Japan; and for the new missionaries appointed to Japan this year by the church were given by the Rev. A. C. McCallum. All repeated a prayer for guidance. The thank-offering was dedicated by prayer by Miss Louise Rush.

Mrs. Rush thanked Mrs. Rutter for her hospitality. This was seconded by Mrs. F. Leach.

An invitation to Centenary to attend their W.M.S. social get-together at which Mrs. Lehman, a returned missionary, will speak was accepted.

Another invitation to attend Aikens' W.M.S., at which Mrs. McLellan, of Napanee, will speak was also accepted.

Mrs. Lord read from Chapter One of "The United Church Re-enters Japan". This included a letter from General MacArthur.

Chapter Two on "Social Service", was given by Mrs. Leonard Young and Mrs. Walter Jones. Mrs. H. I. Mooney gave an address by the Rev. Lloyd Graham, who with his wife, is going to Japan in October.

Mrs. Young gave a sketch of missionaries in Japan from the first arrival in 1624 to the present day. For 200 years, missionaries and Christianity were barred by law from Japan. Gradually missionaries returned including those sent by the Woman's Missionary Society. This year four young ladies are going as teachers of English to Japanese schools for three years.

Meets Japanese

Mrs. Fox read the poem by Kagawa. Miss Louise Rush, of Toronto, told of corresponding with Miss Rorke, who is a missionary in Japan, also about Japanese near Lethbridge whom she had met, while visiting at a farm home this summer.

The Japanese came from British Columbia and are happy in Alberta. Each family is working for a farmer, mainly at the sugar beet crop and living in the tenant house. They attend school with the white residents and are treated as equals.

Mrs. Rush thanked all who assisted in the meeting.

Mrs. Rutter served refreshments and a social time was enjoyed.

FRONT ROAD W.A.

The Front Road W.A. was held at the home of Mrs. Gordon Ray.

The president, Mrs. Greatrix opened the meeting.

A letter of thanks was read from Mr. and Mrs. Wright for the gifts sent them. Mrs. Ray thanked the W.A. for cards and flowers received when in hospital.

The devotional part was taken with the theme being "Thanksgiving". Mrs. M. Ray read the devotional from the folder, Mrs. Botting read the 95th Psalm and Mrs. Greatrix gave a reading concerning the Woman's Auxiliary.

Plans were completed for the bazaar and tea being held in the church hall on the afternoon of Oct. 18th from 2.30 to 5.

Next meeting to be held at the home of Mrs. W. C. Mitchell.

Mrs. Ray and conveners served refreshments and a social half hour was spent.

MELROSE W. I.

The September meeting of Melrose W. I. was held at the home of Mrs. Lorne Weese with an attendance of 25 ladies and 11 children. The meeting opened in the usual manner with the president Mrs. John McLaren in the chair.

Several items of business were discussed. The ladies were reminded of the bazaar which is to be held in November.

Due to the illness of Mr. T. Leslie, the October meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Sherry DeMille. Mrs. H. Sills, district president, will be invited to this meeting.

The secretary read a letter of thanks from Mrs. Futcher for the donation to the Manitoba Flood Relief.

Mrs. John Milligan was the program convener for this meeting and called on Mrs. Jack McFarlane, who gave a humorous reading "Hannah Strikes."

Mrs. Milligan gave a paper on "Newfoundland", telling how Newfoundland joined Canada. There is only one city, St. John's the capital, and in the better part of the province there are but a limited number of roads. The people are nearly all of English, Scotch and Irish descent, and live in settlements of from 50 to 2,000 of a population.

The churches are the best kept buildings in the province. Each denomination has its own schools.

Mrs. Newton DeMille then conducted a weed contest with Mrs. Clare Weese being the winner. Mrs. Lorne Weese then favored with a piano solo.

Refreshments were served by the hostess and her helpers.

Abroad With Me

By Dorothy E. Futcher

London, England.

We have just two full days in London and we are trying to plan well so that we will see everything possible to see in this short time. I take my first ride on the underground. We are staying in the Russell Hotel on Russell Square and decide on this mode of travel, for new experience, to attend the morning service at Westminister Abbey. It is certainly a fast mode of travel, but it is dark, smelly and uninteresting and we appreciate the fresh air when we come up at Charing Cross and take a few minutes to walk through the Embankment Gardens, along the Thames, and admire the solid beds of every hue of chrysanthemums and the very lifelike statue of Robert Burns.

I entered Westminster Abbey with awe and reverence, and could hardly credit that I was actually standing within its sacred portals, the spiritual centre of our great Empire. We are early and are able to have a seat near the choir and have time to admire the beauty and grandeur all around us. We have seen beautiful cathedrals and buildings in many countries but none of them impress me as does Westminster Abbey. It is so beautiful—it defies my amateurish descriptive powers and is so much the center of Britain's history and development that you sit there enthralled by all the pageantry and ceremonies it has witnessed.

The choir sang "Te Deum in F" and I know it by heart and mentally sing it with them. The text of the sermon is "If any man come after me, let him deny himself." The speaker asked "Have conditions of discipleship changed? Are we tested in the same way today? The times have changed but loyalty and integrity are still demanded of Christ's followers. Who among us has not felt good for being good?" It was a splendid message. The hymns were "All People That on Earth Do Dwell" and "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name." Never did I dream that I would join my voice with others in the praise of Almighty God in these surroundings. On the way out we worshipped reverently at the grave of the Unknown Soldier, lying in the hall of fame, made immortal by his answer to the call of duty and the cause of freedom. The stone slab where the Unknown Soldier rests is simply and beautifully inscribed and is edged with the red poppies of Flander's Fields.

In spite of a fine rain falling we walk from Westminster Abbey up Whitehall, past the cenotaph, honoring Britain's dead of the First World War, past Downing Street (and we walk the short distance down to No. 10), towards Trafalgar Square. We are too late to see the changing of the guard, it is 10 o'clock on Sunday mornings, but the guards are there (2 of them) at their sentry boxes. We admire Nelson's figure high on the column in the centre of Trafalgar Square and the four huge crouching lions around its base. We lunch in the Strand Corner House and afterwards walk down the Mall towards Buckingham Palace, (the Mall is the street which houses the famed clubs of London) and over via Waterloo Street, past the statue of Wellington, to Piccadilly Circus, (the round about where important streets converge and which is centred by a statue of Eros, the god of love) to the Regent Hotel where we have planned to take a bus on the Thames Valley tour. Do all these well-known names leave you breathless? They did me. Never before had I had a 20 minute walk among illustrious names.

Our tour is a drive of 40 miles in the Thames Valley west of London, and if you stay by me I will tell you a few of the interests as we pass them. We go out Piccadilly Street, which cuts the west of London in two, past the expensive Ritz Hotel and past Green Park, so named because it has no flower beds, just the green of tree and shrub and grass. On the right side, we see the gates of Hyde Park, with the old home of the Duke of Wellington at its entrance, and drive along its side and see where it gives way to form Kensington Gardens. Royal Albert Hall is across the way, the largest Assembly Hall in London. This is where our Institute members in England and Wales come for their yearly convention.

We shortly cross the Thames for the first time and see the large Olympian Buildings, which house great exhibitions. We are traveling along the great West Road which stretches 115 miles west to Bath and Somerset. It is a new highway, built about 1928, and a cyclist path runs alongside. It is an avenue of modern factories and homes and you see such well known names as Jantzen, Swimwear, Gillette's, Packard, Firestone. The London airport where we landed yesterday is on our left and is the second largest airport in the world (New York comes first). It extends for four miles along the road and for many miles over. We see the familiar names of the world's air lines on buildings as we drive along.

We now take the Old Windsor Road and the lovely English ivy is all over the embankment here, and winding up the trees. Then we swing back on the West Road in time to see the back of Windsor Castle in the distance. We come to the village of Marlow, and catch a glimpse of sail boats on the Thames, then past the beautiful estate Cliveden, the home of Lord and Lady Astor. You will remember Lady Astor is famous for being the first lady in British Parliament. We see the Canadian Hospital which cared for many of our boys and which after the war was given to England. We reached Maidenhead in time for afternoon tea, and enjoy this interlude in a restaurant right on the bank of the Thames.

On the way home we cross and recross the Thames, we go through the village of Windsor, and see Windsor Castle standing dark and forbidding high above the town. It was built in 1070 and is the oldest Royal residence in the country. The Royal Family visit it just twice a year—once over Easter and in June to attend the Ascot races. It belongs to the state and is kept up by the government on behalf of the King.

We go though the village of Bray, reputed to be one of the prettiest in England, see the Eton College boat houses, where their boys learn to row, and drive along through Windsor Park which 300 years ago was the dense Windsor Forest and out to the front of Windsor Castle. We see the long walk from the castle to the lodge on the other side of the highway, 3½ miles long, and have a few minutes to admire this splendid long-distance view of the castle.

Then on again along the Thames past Runnymede, a long narrow island in the Thames, where John signed the Magna Carta, and between Runnymede meadows, reserved as picnic grounds for London's thousands. We see swans on the river and learn they are the property of the King. We pass Hampton Court, situated 15 miles from London, where Henry VIII lived with all his wives and where the Royal Family lived until 200 years ago. We pass over Putney Bridge, famed for a church at either end, one with a sundial which reads "Time and Tide Waits For No Man". From this bridge we see a jetty out in the water. It is where the boat cre of Cambridge and Oxford their 2½ mile course in their ng competition. Then into city of London again, past Westminster Abbey and Westminster Palace or Parliament Buildings, where the tower housing Big Ben dominates the scene, past Parliament Square, where a figure of Abraham Lincoln stands in meditation, back to the Regent Hotel, after a very instructive and enjoyable afternoon. a close—just one more day in London.

Our sight-seeing is drawing to don and we sail from Liverpool for home.

Club Activities

Christ Church Parish Guild

The Parish Guild of Christ Church met in the parish hall on Tuesday afternoon with a good attendance. The president, Mrs. E. Hickey, presided. A considerable amount of business was conducted including plans for the bazaar to be held in November.

The devotional period was conducted by Miss Florence Fitzgerald who gave a most interesting review from a book by Bishop Pardue on the "Power of Prayer."

Following which, the new rector, the Reverend J. B. Creeggan, B.A., addressed the Guild. Mr. Creeggan reminisced on his boyhood in this vicinity, and hoped for pleasant co-operation in his work here.

Later, refreshments were served with Mr. and Mrs. Creeggan becoming better acquainted with their parishioners.

BEAUTY

Directing daughter to the good-looks goal

It's beauty first with the adolescent girl of today. Talk to her about taking care of her health, and she will regard you as a tiresome person. Tell her to eat wisely and get plenty of sleep, and she will flee from your presence. Any similarity between her appearance and her search for health is purely accidental.

She combs her hair until it is a glistening crown of glory, not because she considers that a hygienic measure, but because she loves the way it looks. Because the shampoo takes time, and she has practically no time to waste, flying through life at full speed, she postpones it until the last moment. She doesn't realize that scalp cleanliness is of first importance, that the lovely mop should have a ducking every ten days, or every fortnight at the latest.

At the age of fourteen she uses lipstick. That seems to be the unwritten law. The wise mother will endeavor to help her select one that is not too flaming. She will also try to calm down the Pappy when he protests against painted lips on his baby girl.

Mothers now are wise to the importance of the balanced diet, so that the growing girl will get the various food elements, vitamins and mineral salts. But will daughter co-operate, eat what is put before her? She will if she is led to understand that the proper diet has cosmetic value, will keep her complexion lovely, or improve it, if it does not qualify. If a girl is afflicted with blackheads and threatened with acne, she will mind her eating habits. Health doesn't matter, but looks are everything.

So it is with the subject of posture. Tell her that she must carry herself beautifully so that her musculature will be strong and resilient, and she won't hear a word you are saying. Remind her that good posture makes for style and chic, builds an attractive figure, and she'll pull up her backbone fast enough.

When it comes to teeth, the high school girl cares more for the sparkle of her teeth than she does for avoiding a toothache. Without fail, she must brush them night and morning. Twice a year she should go to the dentist for an examination and for whatever repair work may be necessary.

Few high school girls get enough sleep. Your reporter hesitates to touch on that subject, lest the young readers—if she has them—will turn against her. Yet they ought to know that lack of sleep takes sparkle from the eyes and color from the complexion. If they want to look lovely, have animation, they must obey health rules, whether they want to or not.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Sometimes it's right to leave a husband

It's not often that one has the boldness to tell a woman to leave the man to whom she is married. To advise the breaking up of a home is dangerous business. One invariably looks for a possible chance, however slight, of repairing the damage that has been wrought to the relationship between husband and wife, so that they can start again and do better in the future.

In such a case as the following, however, I hardly think anyone will take issue with me when I say flatly that if there is no religious principle involved, the girl who tells the following tragic story is clearly entitled to leave her husband and marry another man.

Here is what she says:

"I am 18, and married to a boy that gets drunk every time he comes home to see me. He is in the Army and I live with my mother. I am going to have a baby.

"We were married four months ago, and after two weeks of marriage, I caught my husband with another girl. Then I found letters from a girl he was engaged to from his home town. She does not know that he is married and expects to marry him when he gets out of the Army. Neither his mother nor any other member of his family knows that he is married. He even lied to me about his pay, telling me that it is much less than I found out is really is.

"I haven't seen my husband now for over two months. He writes me and tells me that he doesn't love me any more, but when he writes to my mother, he tells her different. He has made me hate him for his lies.

"He tells me when he gets out of the Army he is going to marry the girl who wrote the letters. I asked him if he was going to get a divorce, and he told me to let the other man get it. What he means is, that there is a boy I was engaged to before I met my husband, and he now wants me to get a divorce and marry him. My husband tells me to marry him and to let the baby think this man is its father. This other boy loves me and wants to take care of me, and he is willing to let the baby think he is its father. I love him, too. Do you think I would be doing wrong to marry him?"

Of course it would not be wrong for her to free herself from this heel of a husband and marry a man who'll be good to her and the child who is on the way. It is tragic that she made an unwise and probably impulsive marriage, but it would be cruel to insist that she should stay with it in the face of all the problems confronting her.

There's just on thing that I would suggest before she makes her final decision. This is that she talk the whole problem over with some person experienced in helping to unravel marital tangles—to make perfectly sure that there is no possible way of getting the situation straightened out. Sometimes when something looks completely hopeless to ourselves, it often looks quite different and more hopeful, when we see it through the eyes of another person. If this girl will send me a stamped, addressed envelope, I'll be glad to give her the name and address of a social agency in her city where she can get proper guidance.

REGISTRATION DECREASED

Kingston, Oct. 12 — (CP) — Queen's University registration this year is 2,301, a decrease of 329 from 1949. The drop was no surprise to university officials, however, as they anticipated it following the graduation of large numbers of veteran students last year.

TURN DOWN SUGGESTION

Toronto, Oct. 12 — (CP)—A study of the provision of free milk, fruit juices and cod-liver oil to public school pupils was instructed Tuesday, by the board of education management committee. The committee turned thumbs down for the moment on a suggestion to ask the provincial government to provide half a pint of milk free to each public school child.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

Girls, please have a heart

So many letters are arriving these days complaining about this season's "deluge" of bridal showers. One or two showers are fun . . . but invitations to too many showers given for the same girl are too great a strain on the budgets of most of her friends. All these. . . .and the wedding present, too! It's too much, too much.

How to write reply to invitation when wife accepts, husband regrets

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

How should I answer an R.s.v.p. for a formal invitation from my minister and his wife to their daughter's wedding? I am planning to go, but my husband is unable to accept because of the hours of his work. (Please tell me the kind of letter-paper to use, and how to write the reply.)

Mrs. Clara C.

On either your personal note-paper or on plain white double-sheet paper (you may correctly use the kind of note-paper on which you wrote to me), write your reply like this (spacing it as indicated):

Mrs. Edwin Paul Clark accepts with pleasure the kind invitation of The Reverend and Mrs. John Doe for Tuesday, the first of November

Mr. Edwin Paul Clark regrets that he is unable to accept this kind invitation

(Be sure to use your husband's name after "Mrs." . . . "Mrs. Edwin Paul Clark" . . . not "Mrs. Clara Clark.")

She shouldn't feel hurt at not being introduced

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I was invited to a large tea in the home of a friend of mine, who is socially more important than I am. As I entered, two women were leaving. The hostess spoke to me, then said good-bye to them, but she did not introduce me to them. I felt somewhat hurt, slighted. Wasn't she impolite not to introduce me?

Dorothy M.

No. . . not a bit impolite, and you are being unfair to her and unfriendly, too—to nurse any feeling of being hurt or slighted. An arriving guest is not introduced to a guest or guests who are taking leave. . . unless there is some very special reason to make the introduction. For example, if perchance an arriving guest and a departing guest have heard much about each other from the hostess, she might say, "Oh, just a minute. . . here is Dorothy Martin. . . Dorothy, this is Polly Peterson. I'm sorry this is such a brief meeting, but we must plan for a longer meeting soon."

Church etiquette

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

For some time I have been puzzled about this question: When my husband and I go to church with a guest, how should we walk in and how should we be seated

B. E. R.

If there is an usher, you and your guest follow him, preceding your husband. If there is no usher, your husband leads the way, you following with your guest. Your husband stands at the pew until you and your guest have taken your places. Most courteous seating is for you to enter the pew first, having your guest seated between you and your husband.

When husbands signs hotel register

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Please tell me the correct way my husband should sign a hotel register? When he is signing the register is "Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kennedy" the correct form for him to sign?

Mrs. K.

Yes. . . "Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kennedy" is the correct form of name for him to sign.

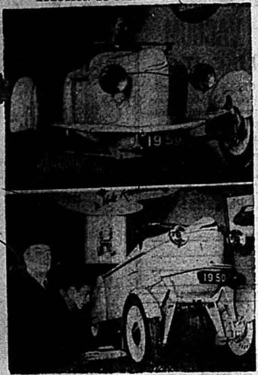
SOLUTION TO PARKING PROBLEM?



One of the attractions at the international automobile salon, which opened in Paris last week, is this French "car of 1950," which is designed to use a minimum of fuel and the least possible space. At top, the car is shown as ready for the road. Below, the wheels neatly folded so that it can be accommodated in a considerably smaller garage. — Central Press Canadian.

Truman Orders What Congress Refused to Do

Washington, Oct. 12. (CP)—President Truman Wednesday ordered what Congress had refused to authorize—a survey of natural resources of New York and the New England States.

The survey will consider power and water resources of mutual interest to the United States and Canada, including the long-proposed tidal power development on Passamaquoddy Bay in New Brunswick, the development of the Niagara Falls power potential, and the construction of the St. Lawrence Seaway and Power project.

He directed government agencies to start a prompt, comprehensive survey and recommend plans for development of the resources of the area. The study would include power, navigation, flood-control, forest management, fish and wildlife conservation, mineral development, water supply, pollution control and soil conservation.

Of the Niagara Falls and St. Lawrence projects, Truman said: "The importance of these projects to the National Defence makes it more necessary than ever that their construction be undertaken immediately."

Further, he said: "There are, of course, certain projects in the (international) area . . . which are plainly good investments. . ."

The St. Lawrence project, long a subject of talks between Ontario and New York State, had been stalled when Congress failed to pass the amendment-ridden legislation sought by Truman.

New York and Ontario had pressed for permission to begin the power portion of the two-pronged undertaking, but a federal go-ahead was lacking.

INDIANS HAVE SAY

Chatham, Ont. Oct. 12.— (CP) —Kent County Sportsmen's Association met here Wednesday night to issue protests against government action in leasing hunters and fishing rights on St. Anne's Island portion of the Indian reservation in Lake St. Clair to Detroit business men.

Vic Sutton, chairman of the Ontario Federation of Hunters and Anglers who met with the representatives of 4,000 Western Ontario sportsmen suggested their cause be taken to the Indians themselves.

He told the group, "It's the Indian band on whose reservation the game area is, that have final say in who occupies it."

Wellington on the Lake

WELLINGTON ON THE LAKE

THE PASSING OF SUMMER

A solemn hush broods o'er the peaceful land,
The birds flit voiceless in the autumn trees,
Sumach lights its torch on every hand,
The golden-rod nods in the quiet breeze,
A hint of frost when sinks the sun to rest,
A purple mist when breaks the dawn of day,
And in the whisper of the mild southwest
We catch the word, that summer's passed away.

Albert Seniors Defeat Picton C.I. By 18-5 Score

Albert College Senior gridders visited Picton on Wednesday, and on a muddy field broke into the win column with a convincing 18 to 5 victory over Picton C.I. The outstanding play of the game, however, was pulled off by the losers, when Glynn Reynolds received a quick kick from the toe of Alex Fitzsimmons, and raced from 20 yards back of his own goal line the whole distance of the field to register a touchdown. As he received the ball he seemed surrounded by would-be tacklers, but reversing the field he went up the sidelines with four Albert players in hot pursuit — not one would-be tackler laid a hand on him.

Albert considerably outweighed their opposition, and seemed to have little difficulty in penetrating the Picton line, which however stiffened noticeably as the game progressed. The only scoring in the first half came when Blake Harris crashed across from the 15 yard line on a spinner play to put Albert up by 5 points; the convert was missed.

Play Opens Up

Play opened up considerably in the second half, and after a march down the field which was aided by a Picton fumble, Alex Fitzsimmons, the Albert captain, took the ball and behind some good stiff blocking led by Ron McCaw, went 20 yards for a second touchdown, which he converted to make the score 11 to 0. Just after this play, Albert again got the ball, marched down the field to the 20 yard line and on a first down the quick kick occurred which led to Picton's 130 yard run for a major score.

Picton got away a couple of good forward passes, but an interception by Ron McCaw stopped the march, and Fitzsimmons, Taugher, and Shepherdson led an Albert march which resulted in the last touchdown of the game; Fitzsimmons finally carrying the ball over and again converting his own score.

Carl Kaye, Albert fullback, played a strong game defensively, along with Barry Passmore, whose tackling and blocking were outstanding. Ed Taugher, Doug. Gardiner, and Don Shepherdson, Albert halfbacks were particularly strong in receiving Picton kicks and running them back for good gains.

The game ended 18 to 5 with Albert in possession of the ball on the Picton 30 yard line.

Bob Cornelius of the home team played a steady game all afternoon, and got away for some nice gains, his booting, tackling and passing were a big factor in keeping Albert on the defence, and keeping the score down.

Better Health Indian's Reward For Good Catch

Toronto, Oct. 21 (CP) —Three grams of acth—a new drug used for treatment of arthritis ——was an Indian's reward for showing a Chicago packer where to find big fish.

Cecil Wesley, 52, a full-blooded Ojibway, is expected to be released from hospital here this week after a month's treatment with acth. For the first time in 15 years he can stretch his hands above his head and touch his toes.

Last summer Wesley took A. L. Hare, general sales manager of Armour and Company, on a fishing trip, on Sparrow Lake, 75 miles north of here. He said that because of his arthritis he wasn't doing much guiding but he helped Hare land a good catch. Wesley refused payment for his services because he wasn't able to supply Hare with a motor and boat.

Mr. Hare promised his guide three grams of acth, manufactured by the Armour Company, as soon as it could be brought into Canada.

Eugene E. Sparrow chairman of the Ontario Workmen's Compensation Board, who has known Wesley all his life, offered to pay the other medical expenses.

More than $400 worth of acth was delivered last month and Wesley went into the hospital Sept. 9. Now he is ready to come out. Doctors can't say whether he will have to continue taking acth treatment indefinitely but for the time being at least he will be able to enjoy the rugged outdoor life he loves.

LICENCES TO SHOOT ELK

North Bay, Oct. 12 — (CP) — Two hundred licences — North Bay's quota — have been issued here for the open season on elk, Nov. 1 to Nov. 25. The demand is so great that the quota has been increased, officials said today.

Ontario Lands Minister Scott recently announced the open season — it corresponds with that on deer — because many elk are diseased with liver fluke. The licences are free.

Whitehall Known As the 'Home' Of British Govt.

London, Oct. 12—(Reuters) — To millions of people the world over, Whitehall is known as the "home" of the British government. to thousands of tourists it may be known best as the home of the Horse Guards' mounted sentries with plumed helmets.

But few of those who daily gaze on the Horse Guards, or wait outside the prime minister's home in Downing Street during a crisis, realize they are within the precincts of what was once a royal palace.

Today a wide modern street is bordered by imposing stone-faced buildings which house the main government offices. In another century, Queen Elizabeth on the same spot listened to the flattery of her courtiers.

Here King Charles I was beheaded and soon afterwards Oliver Cromwell stayed the destructive hands of his puritan followers and saved some of the royal treasures.

In Whitehall Palace were staged the ceremonies and celebrations inaugurating the wild days of the restoration and the reign of licentious Charles II. In the great palace which today affords desk space for innumerable government clerks, Charles II established a court "which for splendor and dignity impressed even those accustomed to the magnificence of the court of Louis XIV of France."

It is the same palace which was destroyed by a disastrous fire started by a careless Dutch laundress who herself perished in the flames.

There was a recent reminder of Henry VIII when, so that valuable building space should not be wasted, the Tudor wine cellar was moved bodily. Not a brick was disturbed during the whole operation, which saw the cellar moved sideways on rollers, then lowered on screwjacks to a point almost directly beneath the original site.

RACING U. S. TROOPS

Tokyo, Oct. 12 (Reuters) — British and Australian troops today were racing United States forces toward Pyongyang, capital of North Korea.

The British brigade was reported nine miles north of the 38th parallel — erstwhile boundary between North and South Korea on the flank of the main United States 1st Cavalry Division thrust northward.

Britons, Scots and Australians moved through American positions five miles beyond the border to take up their new positions.

West Berlin Honors Germans Resisting 'Red Terror' In Russian Sector of City

E.R.P. Administrator Celebrates Retirement

Paul Hoffman, retiring administrator of the Economic Recovery Program, is shown as he prepared the launching of thousands of balloons by West Berlin youngsters as part of the activities of the West Berlin industry exposition. The balloons carry the exposition's message, and the name of the youngster releasing them. The one which travels the farthest wins an award from the owner. Theme of the exposition was the progress made under the Marshall Plan. — Central Press Canadian.

Berlin, Oct. 12 (AP)—More than 2,000,000 west Berliners paid silent tribute today to Germans resisting "communist terror" in the city's Russian sector.

At noon sirens signalled a two-minute silence throughout west Berlin.

The tribute followed Mayor Ernst Reuter's announcement that 375,712 adult residents of Russian-occupied east Berlin had voted against communism and for democratic unification of the city by mailing old ration cards as an indication of their sentiments to the western city hall.

The jangle of street traffic died away. Workers paused in the factories. Western radio stations went silent.

Reuter said the silence "expressed our protest against terror in the east, our unity with brethren there and the will of all citizens for free elections in all Berlin."

A jubilant west assembly heard the mayor disclose the final votes voluntarily mailed to the city hall by east Berliners, despite stern Russian warnings.

The ballots were old September ration cards from which east Berliners removed their names to avoid possible identification by communist spies.

More than half the estimated 700,000 enfranchised citizens of the Soviet sector participated in the secret poll conducted for seven days by anti-communist western political parties.

Even after communist authorities announced they would give an unexpected clothing ration to holders of September cards, more than 100,000 poured into city hall.

Trapped 30 Hours By Quebec Fire Hunters All Safe

Toronto, Oct. 12 (CP) —John G. Lazarovic, trapped for more than 30 hours in a bush fire 45 miles northeast of Montreal, said today a weekend hunting trip had been "a horrible experience."

Lazarovic, his sons Jean-Paul, 16, and Fernand, 20, and his brothers-in-law Ovid Leger, 47, and Gerrard Fillion, 35, both of Montreal were hunting deer between the St. Calixe and St. Julien Mountains. At noon Sunday they saw smoke rising about half a mile away. While Fernand went to warn forest rangers the others fought the blaze. By the time help arrived Lazarovic and his party were surrounded.

"It was a horrible experience," he said. "We lost our trailer and tent, a new rifle and all our camping equipment. Most of our clothes were burned, too."

Firefighters rescued them late Monday night. None was injured.

WANTS DECLARATION

New Delhi, Oct. 12—(Reuters) —India suggested to Pakistan yesterday that a "no war" declaration by the two governments would "go a long way in removing current tension between the countries." The Indian message was understood to have proposed a dual pledge to resolve all disputes between India and Pakistan by peaceful methods. It replied to a letter on the subject from Premier Liaquat Ali Khan of Pakistan.

Suspend Father Because Son Earned Too Much

Birmingham, England. Oct. 12. (AP) — An ironworkers union today suspended a welder who challenged its right to fine his son £2 for allegedly working too hard.

The welder, Alfred Philpott, 48, walked out of the radiator plant where he works with his son, John, 20, after a shop steward told him the Birmingham and Midlands Sheet Metal Workers Society had slapped the suspension on him.

The shop steward said the suspension stands until the elder Philpott goes before the union's executive committee.

Philpott claims his son was fined £2 by a shop steward because he earned 3s 6d on hour (by piecework) instead of a union-approved rate of 3s 4d.

Philpott consulted a lawyer this morning. He plans to challenge the union ruling in the high court if he can.

Her secret of husband-calling —"I just imagine he's an hour late for supper and I have just spied him talking to a pretty woman neighbor.

"Then I'm in a mood for good husband-calling in a kind of panther moan."

France Proposes to Double Defence Spending Next Year If Allies Provide $750,000,000

Washington, Oct. 12 — (AP)—France proposes to double its defence spending next year provided it gets approximately $750,000,000 in outside aid.

Defence Minister Jules Moch of France is reported ready to explain this new program to Defence Secretary George C. Marshall at a meeting today.

Reliable officials said plans for boosting France's defence budget were presented to the state and defence departments just prior to Moch's arrival here yesterday.

The French proposal, they said, contemplates increasing defence expenditures from about $1,200,000,000 this year to about $2,450,000,000 during 1951.

Moch is seeking quick American approval of the plan during a round of conferences with top American defence leaders so his government can present the expanded military budget to the French parliament shortly after it convenes next Tuesday.

France's ability to bear this big defence burden appears to hinge on whether the United States is ready to extend immediate large-scale financial help from the $5,225,000,000 foreign arms aid fund appropriated by Congress.

Informed officials, who cannot be named, told a reporter the French plan calls for assistance not only from the United States but from Britain, Belgium, Italy, and other North Atlantic Treaty Allies.

More than $500,000,000 of French defence funds, it was reported, would be allocated to French troops now battling advancing communist forces in Indo-China.

FOUR CHARGED

Toronto, Oct. 12 — (CP) — Four persons were charged last night with theft and receiving several thousand dollars' worth of sweaters, believed part of the $12,000 loot taken from the Modern Textile Corporation plant last Sept. 19.

Arrested in four police raids were Michael Swartz, 38; Mrs. Dorothy Reader, 29; Mrs. Gertrude Brown, 34, and William W. Hall, 22, all of Toronto.

Stewardess Due To Get 'Bird'

London, Oct. 12. (Reuters) — Barbara Exelby, stewardess on a Trans-Canada Air Lines plane, is due to get the bird when she reports for duty at London airport today.

Among the passengers in a T.C.A. flight to Canada are four swans and "30 pounds of live canaries".

The swans are a present from Geneva, Switzerland, to Granby, Que., in recognition of hospitality extended to the Mayor of Geneva on a recent visit to Canada. They are travelling from Switzerland in individual crates, and will have to be fed on the air trip by Miss Exelby.

The canaries, said a T.C.A. official, are "just part of the cargo."

ACCEPT INVITATION

London, Oct. 12—(Reuters)—The international wheat council has accepted the Swiss government's invitation to hold its fourth session in Switzerland and will meet in Geneva Oct. 24, it was announced yesterday.

CATTLE DROWNED

Bogota, Columbia, Oct. 12—(AP)—A slashing rain and hail storm flooded Bogota yesterday—drowning cattle, ruining property and causing fears that some children may have perished in the swirling torrents.

Judge Warns Families 'Close To Contempt'

Toronto, Oct. 12 — (CP) — Wives and children of strikers who are picketing the Belleville Lock Company at Belleville "are coming very close to contempt of court," Mr. Justice R. W. Treleaven warned at Osgoode Hall today.

He was speaking during a hearing of a suit brought by the company against the United Electrical Workers for damages suffered in what the company calls an illegal strike. The company has obtained a court order forbidding 54 of its 103 employees and one U.E.W. official to picket the plant.

Peter Slaght, acting for the company, said that though none of those forbidden to picket was picketing, their wives, mothers, children and sisters were doing so. He sought a guarantee from J. R. Kimber, union counsel, that this picketing would stop.

Mr. Kimber said he could not undertake this. Mr. Justice Treleaven agreed that it would be legally impossible to give such a guarantee. But he said union counsel would be doing the U.E.W. a favor if he told them that the action of the workers' families "is near contempt of court and is very foolish, apart from the legal aspect."

Pay Envelopes At Fattest Point In History

Ottawa, Oct. 12—(CP) — The Canadian worker's pay envelope was at its fattest point in history at Aug. 1, the bureau of statistics reported Wednesday.

Average weekly wages in the non-farm industries hit $45.15, up slightly from the $45.04 of July 1 and well over the $42.95 of a year previously.

Total payroll of $100,900,000 for the week also was an all-time high, the bureau said. The figures do not include Newfoundland.

By provinces, highest average weekly pay was British Columbia's $48.53, which was up from 46.08 a year before.

The figures for the other provinces, with those of Aug. 1, 1949, in brackets:

Prince Edward Island, $35.29 (35.11); Nova Scotia, $39.77 ($37.80); New Brunswick, $38.87 ($37.51); Quebec, $43.15 ($41.17); Ontario, $47.07 ($44.42); Manitoba $44.25 ($42.98); Saskatchewan, $43.14 ($42.21); Alberta, $45.87 (44.10).

Tweed Man Given Six-Month Term

Sudbury, Oct. 12 — (CP) — George Barry, 25, of Tweed, Ont., was sentenced to six months hard labor at Burwash industrial farm today for what Magistrate W. F. Woodliffe termed "one of the meanest types of theft."

Barry was arrested for stealing a wallet containing $23 from the sleeping form of his benefactor, A. Goodmurphy, of Thessalon, in a Sudbury hotel room on Oct. 3.

Goodmurphy told the court he had picked up Barry on the highway while driving from Renfrew to Sudbury.

"After we arrived in Sudbury I bought him a meal, treated him to a movie and then paid for his hotel room," he testified.

Canada's Goods May Become Too Expensive

Toronto, Oct. 12—(CP)—John A. Marsh, president of the Canadian Exporters' Association, said Wednesday night there is danger of Canada's goods becoming too expensive for other countries to buy.

Addressing the Purchasing Agents' Association, he said in part:

"Our cost of living has gone steadily upward to an all-time index high of 168.5. I do not think it is true that higher and higher wages and costs help everybody as one sometimes hears it said.

Steadily advancing costs become a hardship to thousands of people who are on fixed incomes and are a positive danger to hundreds of industries.

"Aside from the domestic impact of steadily increasing wages and costs, the gravest danger of all shows itself: the danger of pricing Canada's products out of world markets. This applies not only to manufactured products but also to wheat, fish, pulpwood and, in fact, all raw products.

"Some of our export products are so badly needed by countries with vanished resources that price is not too large a factor, but this applies only to a few products. If Canada's wages and costs continue to increase we shall certainly lose our ability to compete in world markets."

"When we consider that .35 cents out of every dollar in our pockets is dependent upon world trade (25 cents of it upon export trade) one can realize how critical is the danger."

Atomized Cobalt Speeds British Rearmament Push

London, Oct. 12 — (Reuters) — "Atom ray" cobalt, cooked in Britain's experimental atomic pile at Harwell until it becomes radioactive, now is being used by factories engaged in the rearmament drive, it was disclosed today.

The ministry of supply announced supplies of similarly-treated substances are being made available to institutions and governments of foreign countries who agree to publish results of the research and permit interchange of scientific information.

The offer is open to Russia and other communist countries though none has placed an order yet.

Details of where and how the cobalt radio isotopes are used in the defence factories are being kept secret.

It is known that "atom ray" cobalt wire is being used to detect flaws in metal. It also allows engineers to make micro-measurements.

When atomized cobalt is surrounded by metal objects under test, the "atom rays" strike through the metal and onto a film which pictures its construction.

It has been found that atomically-treated cobalt is 50-per-cent stronger for exposure purposes than its equivalent in radium. It loses its radio-activity slowly and can be returned to Harwell after several years for re-radiation.

Canada's Trade Relations With S. American Countries Are Beginning to Pay Off

Ottawa, Oct. 12 (CP)—Canada's drive to strengthen her trade relations with South America is paying off.

Already a new one-year special commercial agreement has been signed with Venezuela and there are indications that trade arrangements may be completed soon with such other Latin-American countries as Colombia, Ecuador, Costa Rica and the Honduras.

The agreement was signed at Caracas yesterday by a group of Canadian trade experts touring South American centres. It goes into effect immediately and will mean that both countries reduce tariffs from high general rates to the lower most-favored-nation rate.

This will place Venezuela in the same category of nations to whom Canada grants most-favored-nation treatment under the 32-nation General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade.

The trade department's delegation, headed by Leslie Brown, has been invited to participate in several Latin American conferences. In Ecuador it will seek renewal of an agreement which also lapsed in 1949.

Colombia has a most-favored-nation agreement with Canada but this was completed under a long-standing arrangement with the United Kingdom. The same steps will be taken in Costa Rica.

The agreement with Venezuela will mean lower rates for such Canadian exports as canned salmon, canned fruits and vegetables, cigarets, lanterns, hoisery and Douglas fir lumber and timber.

GREW THIS DISGUISE HIDING FROM REDS

This fine crop of hair, about to be reduced to a GI shave, was grown by U.S. Sergt. Ralph Kilpatrick during the 77 days he spent behind North Korean communist lines after his unit had withdrawn in the early days of the Korean war. He managed to keep alive and well until the U.N. forces recovered the area in which he was hiding. — Central Press Canadian.

Says U.K. Must Increase Share In West Defence

(By R. B. MACLURKIN)

Blackpool, England, Oct. 12—(Reuters)—Anthony Eden, former British Foreign secretary, today told British Conservatives the country's contribution to West European defence must be stepped up. The party is holding its three-day annual conference here.

Eden recalled he had told Prime Minister Attlee in Parliament last month that one extra division to be stationed on the continent would not be enough.

"We are deeply anxious about that situation today," he said.

The conference unanimously adopted a resolution which supported United Nations' action in Korea and called for a united effort to strengthen defence.

Steel nationalization and battle plans for an early general election also dominated the conference which opened today.

The 4,000 delegates assembled in this gaudy holiday town are certain that in a few months at the most they will have a chance of wiping out the labor government's small majority and of putting their leader, Winston Churchill, back in power as prime minister.

Most believe the government decision to take over Britain's iron and steel industry Feb. 15 points to a general election soon after that date.

Gen. MacArthur Lauds Operations Canadian Ships

Tokyo, Oct. 12 (CP)—Vice-Admiral Harold T. W. Grant, Royal Canadian Navy Chief of Staff, today said Gen. Douglas MacArthur has been "most flattering" in his comments about Canadian naval operations in the Korean war.

Admiral Grant, back in Tokyo after an inspection tour, said he will leave for Ottawa Saturday.

The admiral accompanied the Canadian destroyers Athabaskan, Cayuga and Sioux in operations along the west coast of Korea. He said morale and efficiency were "very high—as I expected."

Admiral Grant said he saw Korean President Syngman Rhee in Seoul and "found him very optimistic about the future of the country."

The admiral conferred with MacArthur today. He did not disclose the subject of the talk.

MacArthur's headquarters Wednesday said the Sioux bombarded communist gun emplacements on the Korean west coast near the 38th parallel on Fankonchi Point

SOVIET EPUBLICS

Rare harmony existed for a short period in U.N. headquarters at Lake Success when Russia's Andrei Vyshinsky, right, bestowed a warm handshake on Britain's Kenneth Younger, with John Foster Dulles of the U.S. looking on at left. There was more harmony when Mr. Vyshinsky announced that Russia is in agreement with some parts of the proposals offered by Mr. Dulles to put "teeth" in the U.N. for the sake of world peace. — Central Press Canadian.

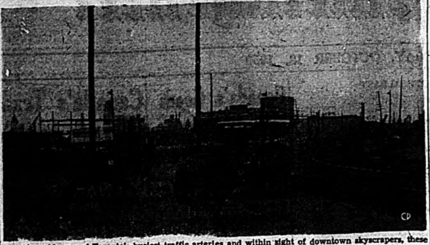
LIVING LAWN MOWERS



Alongside one of Toronto's busiest traffic arteries and within sight of downtown skyscrapers, these sheep nibble away the hours entirely oblivious of their unusual location. The flock, which numbers 18, is used by the Imperial Oil Company to keep down grass and weeds around large storage tanks near the waterfront. Smog and oil accounts for the darkness of their coats. The sheep, shown in this Imperial Oil Company photo, are rented each spring from a farmer and returned to the farm in the fall. — (CP Photo.)

Why You Should Take VITAMINS

It has been proven that the human body requires definite amounts of vitamins to maintain good health .. and that average meals often do not supply enough of these necessary nutritional factors. Vitamins are needed for the normal functioning of the body, they aid in growth, and they help to maintain the appetite and resistance against infection. Sufficient vitamins help to reduce a noticeable feeling of "well-being." But remember this! You don't have to be ill, to need additional vitamins. Consequently, it is advisable to supplement the daily diet with a reliable, well-balanced multiple vitamin product, many of which are available from your druggist. Here are some of the important facts about the vitamins everyone is known to need!

VITAMIN A — For Sparkling Eyes — Keener Sight!
This vitamin is essential to a healthy condition of eye tissue, and other tissues. It's needed for the prevention and treatment of "night blindness" of dietary origin. Lack of enough Vitamin A also may lead to a dull, lustreless condition of the eyes.

The Factors of VITAMIN B COMPLEX
Vitamin B1 (Thiamin), Riboflavin and Niacin are well known vitamins contained in this essential complex. Their combined action helps the system to make better use of the food we eat. Individually, a shortage of Vitamin B1 may cause neuritis, and added quantities help to prevent or treat this condition. "B1" is also needed when metabolism is stepped up as is usual during pregnancy, fever and infectious disease. Riboflavin and Niacin each has its particular essential function. The full nutritional significance of the other factors of B-Complex is not yet known, but certain of their values are well established.

VITAMIN C for Sound Bones and Teeth
This vitamin, also known as Ascorbic Acid, is important in the normal development and healthy maintenance of the bones, cartileges, teeth and gums. It is also important in preventing and treating scurvy. In disease associated with fever, the body's need for Vitamin C is increased greatly.

VITAMIN D—Greatly Needed in Childhood
Vitamin "D" is necessary for the growth of sound bones and teeth, particularly during infancy and childhood. It helps prevent the characteristic deformities of rickets with its defective bent bone formation, such as bow legs. It is important during pregnancy for both mother and baby, as well as after birth, for the baby while it is breast feeding.

OTHER VITAMINS
The exact place in nutrition of Vitamin E, Vitamin K, and some of the factors of Vitamin B Complex has not been definitely established. Their presence in certain vitamin products is an indication of their importance in the eyes of the research experts of the pharmaceutical companies that produce them.

CAMPBELLFORD

Body is Found In Basement Of His Home

John L. Hoover, age 82, was found in the basement of his Campbellford home on Tuesday, where he had apparently died of a heart attack.

Mr. Hoover's daughter, Millie, who works at the Woollen Mill in town, returned from work on Tuesday evening, but could not find her father, or get any response to her calls. She finally went into the cellar and discovered the body near the furnace.

Mr. Hoover had worked at the Woollen Mill in Campbellford for about half a century. He retired a few years ago, and had been in apparent good health up until the time of his death.

Surviving are two daughters, Millie, at home, and Mrs. Thomas Church, (Winnifred) of Toronto, and one son, Ray, of Toronto.

250-Pound Bear Shot While Eating On Steer Carcass

Campbellford — Two Campbellford men, Morley Dunk and Ray Thomson, are going to try bear steaks for supper some night this week. The two men were hunting ducks about fifteen miles north of Marmora on Monday afternoon, when they spotted the bear eating the carcass of a two-year-old steer. Ray had his .22 rifle along on the trip, and was about 75 yards away from the bear and about 25 feet above it on a rise. He steadied the rifle on the shoulder of Morley Dunk while he took careful aim and fired one shot. The bear jumped, moved away about six feet, and fell over dead. The two men did not approach immediately, but watched for any sign of life in the animal, but after watching for some time and seeing no movement, they approached the animal to find it quite dead, with one bullet hole in the shoulder.

Nearby was the carcass of another animal the bear or some of his mates had previously eaten, and tracks in the vicinity indicated that more bears were probably in the area, or had been recently.

The two men dragged the 250-pound animal about two miles to their car, and called off duck hunting for the day.

"After hauling that bear for two miles, he felt like he weighed about 600 pounds," said Morley after they got their prize home.

Mr. Thomson said this was the first bear he had ever shot, and was in fact, the first one he had ever seen, except in a zoo.

SECRET PLEBISCITE FOR EAST BERLIN

An ingenious plan, sponsored by anti-communist parties of West Berlin, is giving Soviet zone Berliners an opportunity to voice their opposition to the tyranny of the Soviet sector. It is a secret plebiscite in which East Berliners have only to drop the control-coupon from their ration cards into an envelope with no return address and mail it, without stamp, in any West Berlin letterbox. Here sacks of mail arrive at the special "plebiscite" office in West Berlin city hall for counting. Study of the ballots will continue until October 10. First returns show overwhelming desire for an end to the Soviet-communist dictatorship of East Berlin. — Central Press Canadian.

READS IN BED: "Our two children aged 12 and 15 are incessant readers in bed. We put out the lights but before we're well downstairs they're on again and the books come out. How on earth can you discourage this habit which I'm sure is ruining their eyes as well as exciting them so that they can't sleep?"

We were a great family for reading in bed and my father had a very old-fashioned remedy. He came upstairs, hair brush in hand, applied it where it did the most good, turned out the lights and left us. Nowadays modern parents don't go for that sort of discipline but it's still effective. Another remedy might be to permit reading in bed for a stated period as a bonus for good behaviour. However, I'm a little dubious. Once a bed reader always a bed reader, I've found.

APTITUDE TEST: "Where in Toronto can I take my son to have an aptitude test? He is 15, very brilliant in an artistic way but can't add single figures. We would like to know whether to send him to art school or make him learn his figures."

Aptitude tests will probably be given in the high school which your son attends. Another source of help would be Central Y.M.C.A., College Street. The Youth Employment Centre, Albert Street, will also provide aptitude tests.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

STAND BY, THE MARINES!

The wrestling ring in Memorial Arena will resemble a miniature convention of the Beef Trust come Friday evening. For no less than six — count 'em— six pugnacious pachyderms will be in th there, four of 'em throwing everything but the rink rafters at each other and the other pair doing dipsy doodles trying to duck hamlike fists and see what is going on at the same time.

* * *

Yup, it's a fighting finish to a very successful wrestling season, for Friday's brawl will be the last until the dew worms poke their snouts through the earth and Miss Spring is hiding around her traditional corner. Winter's coming and the hockey boys are getting restless. Ice will go into the making the first of next week and we're away to another season of pucking.

* * *

Whip Watson and Tim Geohagen, the Damon-Pythias duo of the ring will clash again with that pugnacious pair Lee (The Leer) Henning and the Masked Marvel. But lend an ear. This time the whole dagnabbed quartet will be in there battling at the same time. And with them will be two referees. And if the "Wasp", the Mystery Manager of the Mask is still on the payroll it is more than likely he'll be squeezing in whenever the opportunity presents itself.

* * *

Imagine fourteen fists flying in as many directions with only seven noggins on the receiving end. 'Tis a brawl, me hearties that has all the indications of making the famous Donnybrook scrap resemble a Sunday School convention. As an appetizer to this beefian bonanza, Seell Samara will take on Jim Henry while Ray Gunkel will swap holds with Abe Zvonkin, who knows a trick or two, himself.

* * *

THEY'RE OFF!

Foundation of the hockey season hereabouts will be laid next Sunday afternoon in Memorial Arena where Convener Lorne Cook, Kingston, has called a special meeting of representatives of junior and senior clubs of the district. Kingston Nylons, the Peterborough teams, Gananoque, Belleville and Queens will represent the senior "B" bracket while it is likely that Kingston, Queen's, Peterborough and Belleville will be heard from in the junior "B" category. The confab gets under way at 2:30.

BRUINS ADOPT ANOTHER

According to Cec Perdue of Peterborough, the Oddfellows junior "B" hockey club of that city has been taken into the Boston Bruins fold. The Kingston Vics are already in and both squads will receive financial and player assistance as well as surplus equipment from Papa Bruin. Of course the catch is that if the Vics or Odds develop players to Papa Bear's liking, they will be transferred to the home lair. A good arrangement for both.

A BIRD RACQUET

The Belleville Garrison Club will resume its badminton activities this winter, and already a large number of the "old army game" enthusiasts have signified their intention of joining. Arrangements will be completed for the season's play which will take place on the drill floor of the Bridge Street Armouries at a reorganization meeting being held in the Main Lecture Room, Armouries on Friday night at eight. Ex-members and others interested in the game are cordially invited to attend.

SATISFIED?

A reader wants to know if "sporting editor" or "sports editor" is the correct title for a gentleman who bosses the sports page. It all depends. If the editor bets on horse races, shoots craps, plays poker garbed in a leather vest, drinks champagne and goes to sporting events of all kinds, wears spats, a cane, a derby and a chorus girl on each arm, as well as his neck, he perhaps is a "sporting editor." But if the man confines himself mainly to his work, and leads a rather cloistered and pure life, it seems correct to refer to him as "sports editor" because that means "Editor of Sports."

THEY SAW THE POINT!

In earliest pugilistic history, the gladiators sat on stones, nose to nose, and wore skin tight gloves to which were attached spikes. As the call of time, the rivals began to swing, and it sometimes happened that the man who landed the first blow pierced the skull of his adversary and killed him. Theogenee, of Thosos, Greece, was credited with killing 1428 men who tried to win the championship from him.

Major League Baseball Clubs Begin Reconstruction Work Early With Several Big Deals

By RALPH RODEN

New York, Oct. 12 —(AP) — The major leagues' annual post-season reconstruction project is moving along in high gear. Six teams did some vigorous house cleaning yesterday with the New York Giants wielding the biggest broom.

The Giants, who finished a strong third in the National League pulled off a $125,000 deal involving seven minor league players. In a drive to bolster reserve strength, they pried three players from the champion Oakland Oaks of the Pacific Coast League.

Coming to the Giants are Cuban Negro catcher Ray Noble; Artie Wilson, a Negro shortstop; and veteran righthander Allan Gettel.

In exchange the Giants shipped cash, outfielder-first baseman Joe Lafata and Bert Hass and righthanded pitchers Wes Bailey and Bill Ayers from their pennant - winning Minneapolis American Association farm to Oakland.

A quirk of the transaction is that the Giants sold Noble to the Oaks last year for probably less than $10,000. Noble, valued at approximately $75,000 by Oakland, was regarded as the best catcher in the coast league. He hit .316 and drove in 79 runs. Noble will understudy Wes Westrum.

Wilson, a speedster, won the coast batting championship in 1949 but dropped to .306 this year.

Gettel, who won 23 games, was the Oaks' only 20 game winner. He has been up before with the New York Yankees, Cleveland and Chicago White Sox and probably will be used as a relief pitcher.

Philadelphia Phillies also snapped the rubber band on president Bob Carpenter's bankroll by shelling out $40,000 to land a highly regarded prospect, Tom Casagrande of Fordham University.

Casagrande, a 20-year-old lefthander, was sought by 10 other major league clubs. He also is a terrific hitter and the Phils hope he'll outdo such other famous Fordham graduates as Frank Frisch and Hank Borowy.

Project Prospects

The majority of the remaining deals involved major league clubs and their farm units. The prime motive was to protect prospects from the minor league draft.

Brooklyn sent rookie pitcher Mal Mallette and cash to their Hollywood Coast League affiliate for Jim Baxes, one of the best fielding third basemen in the minors.

The Dodgers also sold first baseman Dee Fondy of their Fort Worth, Texas, team to Chicago Cubs. The Cubs also sold outfielder Hank Edwards to the Montreal Royals, the Dodgers International League team.

Cincinnati sold pitcher Johnny Ketki, used entirely in relief roles, to Toronto of the International League. The Reds also released catcher Dave Poole, outfielder Harold Stamey and infielder Whitey Reis to their Columbia farm of the South Atlantic League. In return the Reds recalled outfielder Bob Hazle and pitcher Gerry Blackburn from Columbia.

Washington sold veteran righthander Elmer Singleton to Toronto.

Boston Red Sox sold the contract of their former star righthander Dave (Boo) Ferriss to their Louisville form in the American Association. Ferriss pitched for Birmingham of the Southern Association this year. The Sox purchased shortstop Al Richter and pitcher Ben Flowers from Louisville.

Middleground Will be Retired, Hurt in Workout

New York, Oct. 12 (AP)—Misfortune that cut short the careers of other Kentucky Derby winners has caught up with Middleground, class of 1950.

The lean-shanked son of Bold Venture is through with racing—his active days ended by an accident in a Belmont Park workout yesterday.

The chestnut three-year-old buckled under his rider, Bill Boland, and pulled up lame. X-rays disclosed two broken bones in his right forefoot and trainer Max Hirsch announced sadly:

"We'll probably be able to save him but that's about all. I'd say chances are a million to one against his ever running again."

Middleground will be shipped to Robert J. Kleberg's sprawling King Ranch in Texas to munch oats and produce new little racing champions the rest of his life.

Middleground's tragedy recalled mishaps which befell other derby winners shortly after their triumphs in the Kentucky blue grass classic.

Middleground's own pappy, Bold Venture, winner of the derby in 1936, broke down at the ankles while training for the Belmont. Another Bold Venture offspring Assault, had similar trouble after sweeping to the triple crown ten years later. He was retired in 1949.

Brokers Tip won the derby in 1933 and never took another race. Count Fleet swept the triple crown—Derby, Preakness and Belmont in 1943—and then went bad, retiring shortly afterwards. Hoop Jr. broke down after winning the 1945 derby, and was through for good.

Middleground, winner of the Belmont Stakes as well as the derby this year, was being trained for the $25,000 Grey Lag Handicap at Jamaica Saturday.

The King Ranch colt won four of five starts as a two-year-old, including the Hopeful Stakes, and $54,225. His two big ones—The Derby and Belmont—were his only victories in 10 starts this year although he was second many times. His season's earnings were $183,500.

Casey Stengel Home to Sleep About a Month

Glendale, Calif., Oct. 12 (AP)—Casey Stengel, at home today, begins enjoying sleeping "for about a month," and the prospect of earning around $75,000 next year.

The weary skipper of the World champion New York Yankees, once he arrived at his home here with Mrs. Stengel, announced to the sports writers: "No banquets, no speeches, no nothing."

He said that when he signed his contract Tuesday with the Yankee owners they told him to take it easy this winter instead of running around to one shindig after another.

"And that suits me just fine. I'm no spring chicken (he's 59) and I'm tired out.

Then he chuckled:

"If I'm this tired, think how poor Eddie Sawyer must feel after losing four straight."

Sacos Roll High Score In Major 'B' Loop

Maintaining their seasonal form the Sacos team of the Major "B" (Tuesday) Bowling League rolled the highest score at the Recreation Alleys Tuesday night. Their aggregate of 3201 not only topped the league scores but sent the Opticals down to a 7-0 defeat.

The Ontario Intelligencer Inkspots topped the Just Us team by only two pins but they came out with a 5-2 victory. In the other game, Mead Johnson went down before Hibbard's Electric by a 7-0 count.

Joe Legault was top individual scorer with a three-string of 712 and a single of 270. Other good scores were, Yerex, 663; Al. Hitchon, 668; D. Batchelor, 624; W. Moore, 613; B. Hardwick, 605; T. Wardhaugh, 635; O'Brien, 606.

Detroit Wings Edge Rangers 3-2 In N.H.L. Opener

(By The Canadian Press)

The teams who finished off the National Hockey League last season started this season off last night—and the same team won.

Detroit Red Wings, who beat out New York Rangers in the Stanley Cup finals last spring, edged Rangers 3-2 before 13,321 first night fans in the Detroit Olympia.

Appropriately enough, the winner of individual scoring honors last year—Ted Lindsay — got the first goal of the season, jumping the gun on between-period ceremonies honoring his scoring leadership.

Lindsay beat New York's Chuck Rayner at 1:21 of the first period. Wings' great line of Lindsay, Sid Abel and Gord Howe also accounted for the winner—Abel got it early in the final period with assists by Lindsay and Howe. Howe also helped Lindsay on his goal.

Within seven minutes of Lindsay's goal, Gaye Stewart put Detroit ahead 2-0 on a pass from Gerry Couture. But Rangers, playing for the first time under coach Neil Colville, tied it up before the period ended. Gus Kyle scored on a 30-footer from Nick Mickoski and Buddy O'Connor scored from Frankie Eddolls and Alex Kaleta.

Terry Sawchuk, Wings' 21-year-old rookie goaltender, made 27 saves. Rayner stopped 29.

While Red Wings and Rangers opened the season, the league's other four clubs finished last-minute preparations for the season. All six will have been in action by Saturday night.

In Kitchener, Ont., coach Lynn Patrick said his Boston Bruins are 25 percent stronger than last year and "almost sure to make the playoffs.

Montreal Canadiens prepared to open their season against Chicago Black Hawks tonight with five new men—Gerry McNeill, Tom Johnson, Bert Hirschfeld, Frank King and Paul Masnick. Hawks will have seven new men —Harry Lumley, Jack Stewart, Hugh Coflin, Pete Babando, Gordon Fashoway, Don Morrison and Pat Lundy.

In other games this week, Boston is at Montreal and Chicago at Toronto Saturday.

Crescents Win Second Game From Adanacs

Toronto, Oct. 12—(CP)—"We're hungry," said coach Doug Gillespie of Owen Sound Crescents.

Perhaps that's why his eastern lacrosse champions hold a 2-0 lead in games over New Westminster Adanacs in the Canadian senior finals.

Before a crowd of 2,671, thinly spread among Maple Leafs Gardens' 14,550 seats, Crescents last night trounced the British Columbians 13-6 for their second straight victory in the four-of-seven-game series for the Mann Cup.

The third game will be played Friday and the fourth Sunday.

Owen Sound, 8-7 winners in Sunday's first game, survived a second-quarter Adanac rally for a half time 4-4 tie and then romped to a 10-5 margin by the end of the third.

Crescents played it tight to the chest in the final 15 minutes but still outscored Adanacs 3-1.

After the game, playing coach Gillespie said:

"The fans were howling because we held the ball too much in the last quarter. The other team doesn't score if we have the ball.

That's the only way to protect a lead."

New Westminster teams have won the title 14 times, four of them since the box lacrosse game was introduced in the early 1930s.

Not Conceding Title

Adanacs, Canadian champions in 1947 and in their third final in four years, absorbed their fifth straight defeat, having lost three in a row after beating Hamilton Tigers in the first two games of the 1948 series.

But Adanacs are not conceding the title to Crescents.

"We've done this before and still managed to come back to take the title," said burly coach Bob Lee.

"It's a simple case of mathematics," said manager Ken McDonald. "There are five games left and all we have to do is win four."

Centre Grant Gillespie, not an exceptionally high point-getter during the regular season, led Crescents with four goals. Forward Don Campbell, who got four in the first game of the finals, fired another three last night.

Russ Slater with two, Tommy Burlington, Jack Mason, Fred Smith and Don McWhirter were the other Owen Sound snipers.

New Westminster scorers were Reo Jerome with three, Alf Wood with two and Jack Northup.

Senior Hockey Is Dead Duck At Lakehead

Port Arthur, Oct. 12 — (CP)— Senior hockey is a dead duck at the lakehead.

Port Arthur Bearcats, one of the oldest senior clubs in the Dominion and winners of four Allan Cup championships, aren't expected to play this season.

For years, a combination of circumstances has been slowly smothering the senior game in this area. In 1949-50 the 30-year-old Port Arthur club — called the Bearcats for half that time—carried the lakehead burden alone.

An experimental hook-up with Fort Frances and Sault Ste. Marie Ont., collapsed. That was the writing on the wall for Bearcats who were later eliminated from Allan Cup play by Fort Frances Canadians, district champions for three straight years.

The lakehead's isolation, a heavy loss of young talent to professional clubs, and public apathy to under - par senior teams have been factors contributing to the senior game's decline.

The lakehead has always been a good spot for professional material, having turned out such recent National Hockey League stars as Edgar Laprade, Gaye Stewart, Gus Bodnar, Bud Poile and Davey Creighton. Its teen-aged Danny Lewicki is trying to make the jump from junior ranks to the Toronto Maple Leafs in one season.

Hockey will miss the lakehead senior loop.

The rival and adjoining lakehead city of Fort William is to have a hockey rink for the first time in years. But a movement there to revive senior hockey so far has received a cool response.

In contrast with the senior slump, junior hockey looks healthy. Four clubs last season had their best-ever financial year.

All four teams — the district-champion Port Arthur West End Bruins, Port Arthur Flyers, Fort William Hurricane Rangers and Fort William Columbus Canadians — are hard at practice.

'Subsidization' Does Not Exist At Western

(By The Canadian Press)

Dr. G. E. Hall, president of the University of Western Ontario, charged in London yesterday that "subsidization, either direct or indirect, of university athletics does exist."

He didn't elaborate on the charge except to condemn the practice and urge immediate action by the Canadian Intercollegiate Athletic Union to combat it.

Dr. Hall was commenting on a scheme suggested by some University of Toronto alumni by which football players would be persuaded by subsidy to enrol at the university.

The plan was emphatically opposed by U. of T. President Dr. Sidney Smith and by the heads of Queen's and McGill, other members of the Intercollegiate Football League. Dr. Hall commended Dr. Smith for his stand.

Philadelphia Athletics, who often work in mysterious ways, are involved in another "who-dun it". They'll neither confirm nor deny bidding goodbye to Jimmy Dykes, the assistant manager, who hasn't been fired and says he hasn't quit.

It all started with a published story to the effect that Dykes was quitting the A's, but not baseball. He was going to become either a manager or coach of another major league team, the story said.

Vice-President Roy Mack declined to say whether Dykes was included in the A's plans for next year.

Brother Earle Mack said "If he (Dykes) has any other offers he would like to accept, we will not stand in his way."

Here's what Jimmy had to say.

"I know nothing about all this. I definitely have not quit and don't intend to quit. I'm quite happy coaching at third base for the A's."

The racing career of Middleground appeared ended Wednesday after the winner of the 1950 Kentucky Derby pulled up lame in a workout at Belmont Park.

"The chances are a thousand to one if he ever races again," said his trainer, Max Hirsch.

Hirsch said X-rays showed two fractures of the sesamoid joint (ankle bone) of the right forefoot.

"We'll probably be able to save him but that's about all," he said.

When he recovers, Middleground will be sent down to the farm for stud purposes.

Joe Aguirre, place-kicking specialist for Winnipeg Blue Bombers, has climbed to the top of the Western Football Union individual scoring heap.

The former Los Angeles Dons end has 51 points after tallying 19 points last week-end. All but ten have scored by his accurate toe.

Aguirre's weekend splurge enabled him to pass last week's leader, Mike King, Edmonton Eskimos fullback. King now is second with 45 points.

One point behind King is quarterback Jack Hartman of the Saskatchewan Roughriders. Winnipeg's Tom Casey holds down fourth place with 41 points.

Baseball Rumor Factory Going At Fast Clip

New York, Oct. 12 — (AP)— Where is Branch Rickey going? Is Connie Mack going to step down as manager of the Philadelphia A's? Will Rogers Hornsby be the new A's skipper?

These are a few of the hot questions that keep the baseball pot boiling during these post-world series days.

Best information available at the moment is that Rickey will wind up in Pittsburgh with his old friend, John Galbreath. That's the way the wind is blowing inside the Dodger front office.

Rickey still is president and general manager of the Dodgers although he has contracted to sell his 25 per cent interest in the club.

Nothing is set on the Pittsburgh front where general manager Roy Hamey is waiting definite word on the Rickey situation before he makes a move on strengthening the club. Hamey still has a year to go on his contract.

There are also reports that Rickey is bound for St. Louis to operate the Browns with the backing of the American League. President Will Harridge of the American League denied any such backing had been arranged.

In Philadelphia, the reign of 87-year-old Mr. Mack as manager seems to be near the end.

The story circulated at the world series was that Mack would devote himself to executive work next year, leaving the managing job to a younger man. Still Mr. Mack has said repeatedly he'd never resign.

It is known that three men were being considered for the job. One was Paul Richards, who signed Monday to manage the Chicago White Sox.

The others are Del Baker, San Diego manager, and Hornsby, who won a pennant with the Yankee farm club at Beaumont in the Texas League.

Then three is the case of Lou Boudreau, the Cleveland manager. There is talk that the Athletics might make a deal with the tribe for player-manager Boudreau. Lou still can play part time at short or third base.

But the matter of Boudreau's contract, a good-sized chunk of dough, might discourage the A's who had a miserable season at the gate. Clevland has yet to announce Boudreau's status for 1951.

SPORTSMANSHIP IN "CANADA UNLIMITED"

It was Sept. 22, 1949. At Little Rock, Ark., Toronto Tip Tops were matched with the Clearwater (Florida) Bombers. Tip Tops had battled their way undefeated through the cream of North American softball teams—with the world title as their goal.

Faced with the Bombers' ace hurler, the Toronto team trailed from the 3rd to the 7th inning—then tied it up, 1-1. For the next 10 frames the teams battled a deadlock. Suddenly Tip Tops rallied. In the 18th they blasted two men home . . . and became the first Canadian team to win the world softball championship.

Close teamwork has won many firsts for Canadian sportsmen. And teamwork, with sportsmanship, can help you, too—in work and play. Together they keep your scope for opportunity in Canada . . . unlimited.

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Confidence in partner is half the bridge battle. In one of the Rocky Mountain Regional tournaments my partner was Joe Foraker of Wilmington, Delaware. He was a veritable rock of Gibraltar.

At a time when we were vulnerable there came to our table this deal:

♠8
♥2
♦Q J 9 8 7 6 5 4 2
♣J 3

WEST	EAST
♠J 4 2	♠10 9 7 6
♥A J 10 9 8 3	♥K Q 5
♦None	♦A 10 3
♣10 9 8 2	♣K 7 4

SOUTH
♠A K Q 5 3
♥7 6 4
♦K
♣A Q 6 5

Mine was the south hand and my opening bid was one spade. West passed and my partner in north leaped to five diamonds.

East thought we were over our head and doubled the five diamond bid for penalty. Knowing the sound ability of my partner, I gave the situation a very serious amount of consideration.

Ordinarily a big hop to game is intended as a sacrifice. But a sensible partner will not go out too far on a limb. And this jump was based only on the assumption that I had a mere opening.

My hand contained more than a minimum opening. So, if partner could chance five with less expectation, we should make the contract if I have more. This influenced me to redouble.

As you can see, the contract of five was a cinch even with a heart lead from east. But east decided to make a waiting lead and started out with the opening lead of a spade.

My south dummy won this with the king. Ace of spades was led and declarer in north sluffed his lone heart on it. A small trump was led. East won with the ace and hurriedly led heart king.

But north was now able to ruff this heart and the opponents had their trumps pulled out. Thereafter, a club finesse was successful and my partner romped in with a total of 12 tricks.

We got 400 for five diamonds redoubled, 400 for redoubled extra trick, 50 for fulfilling, 500 for game; total 1350. Almost as good as bidding and making a non-doubled slam.

Partnership faith makes fear but a wraith.

Hollywood Oct. 12 (AP)—Vincent Price is back from the old world with this discovery: European men dress more sensibly than Americans.

Price is my favorite authority on men's fashions so I pumped him for his observations when he returned from making "The Bargain" for Errol Flynn in France.

"Ah, the European men know how to dress" he commented. "They dress for comfort and yet they look very stylish.

"It is high time that American men started dressing more comfortably instead of being stifled with tight collars and such. We could take a lesson from the French. For instance in warm weather they wear light coats, sport shirts and shorts and they look great."

Frustrated Stork

The lanky actor admitted that he resembled a "frustrated stork" in short pants, but said the comfort compensated for that. He added that the French go in for conservative sport shirts, not the loud U.S. kind. Price appeared in a Hawaiian print once and was nearly hooted off the streets.

Surprise

Hollywood was jolted a month ago when the Venice international festival named Sam Jaffe the the year's best actor.

The international judges passed up the recognized stars of the film world to honor a little-known Broadway actor who has made less than a dozen films in 17 years. Jaffe was named for his featured role as criminal mastermind in "The Asphalt Jungle."

"I was surprised myself," admitted Jaffe.

Despite a string of memorable performances, Jaffe has never been nominated for an Academy Award. He was the fabled Gunga Din the film of that name, and the ancient High Lama in "Lost Horizon."

AT THE BELLE — Dr. Silkini and Company who will amuse and mystify in "Asylum of Horrors," his new 1950 presentation on the stage of the Belle Theatre, Sunday after Midnight, October 15th., for one performance only. On the screen "Spooks Run Wild," a thriller to keep you on the edge of your seat.

Proximity Rules Even Favorite To Win Stake

Yonkers, N.Y., Oct. 12 (AP) — Proximity, queen of the trotters, rules an even-money favorite in the mile-and-a-half $25,000 Gotham Trot at Yonkers Raceway tonight.

Harness racing's leading money winner will face a field of seven other standard-bred steppers, including Pronto Don, who beat Proximity in the two mile Roosevelt trot three weeks ago.

Pronto Don, boasting a 13-race winning streak since he came out of the west to surprise eastern followers of the sport, is second in favoritism at 9-5.

Don will be handled by the driving sensation of the year, 37-year-old Del Miller.

Proximity, Ralph Verhurst's magnificent eight-year-old mare has amassed an amazing winning record of $244,254—the most money ever won by a harness horse. She will be driven by Clint Hodgins of Clandeborge.

Among other entries, Demon Hanover is a 6-1, Dutch Harbor is 6-1, Chris Spencer is 15-1, Madison Hanover and Tryhussey, the entry of John Simpson, are 20-1, and Martha Doyle is 30-1.

ANCIENT CROP

India has been a producer of cotton from ancient times.

AT THE CAPITOL—South-of-the-border allure is exuded by enchanting Estrelita Rodriguez in a musical sequence from "Belle of Old Mexico", her first starring film. The Republic picture will arrive tonight at the Capitol Theatre for a run of three days. On the same program Gene Autry in "Cow Town". Both hits are first showings.

Four-Game Card Played in A.H.L.

(By The Canadian Press)

The American Hockey League last night staged a four-game card but relatively small crowds turned out.

Cleveland Barons downed Pittsburgh Hornets 3-1, Buffalo Bisons bounced New Haven Eagles 9-5, Providence Reds and Cincinnati Mohawks played to a 2-2 overtime tie and Springfield Indians whipped Hershey Bears 6-2.

The Buffalo-New Haven game in Buffalo drew the biggest crowd—4,719. Smallest crowd was at Pittsburgh where 2,842 showed up.

The Barons came from behind to beat the Hornets, who scored in the first period on freshman John McLellan's close-in shot. Less than a minute later, Eric Pogue—formerly with Pittsburgh—squared the game. He also counted in the second period and Hy Buller scored the final Cleveland marker.

Buffalo, Eastern Division titlists last year, had a brilliant individual display from veteran Ab Demarco and Paul Meger. Demarco got four goals and Meger five assists. Bill Summerhill scored three times for New Haven.

Jack McGill, veteran centre who formerly played in the National League, scored both goals for Providence. In the third period, Cincinnati came back with goals by Jim Moore and Jackie Gordon to force a tie.

Eddie Bush with two, and George Robertson, Harry Pidhirny, Ken Hayden and Bill Gooden, were the marksmen as Springfield whipped Hershey. Arnie Kullman and Jerry Brown scored for the Bears.

Little Benny's Note Book

I was sitting on Mary Watkin's frunt steps talking to her about different subjects and wishing I could suddinly do something grate, and I said, Do you know what I'd do if a runaway horse came galloping down the street [illegible] now? I'd run out yelling and waving m yarms to make it stop, and if that didn't werk I'd grab the rains and jump on its back like a trick rider in the circus. I bet I'd serprise that horse all rite, I said.

Oh, that's easy enough to say, but there aren't any more horses hardly, even just plain walking ones, Mary Watkins said. You better start living in modern times, she said, and I said, Okay, then I'll wait for a runaway automobeel. That's even still more dangerous, I said.

Do you meen with nobody in it? Mary said, and I said, No, I meen with a lady in it, but she'll be unconscious because she thawt she saw a mouse and fainted rite behind the wheel. I'd dive head ferst rite into the car and stop it and save her life, and if she offered me a reward I'd say no thanks, I said.

How could she offer you anything if she was unconscious? Mar said, and I said, I didn't say she'd stay that way.

Anyway, you dont know how to drive a car, so how would you know which things to push and which to pull and which to step on? Mary said.

Being an uncomfortable question, and just then she screetched, saying, There's something alive on my neck, take it off, take it off.

G, it's a potato bug, I said. Dont be scared, I'll take it off with my bare fingers, I said, and she said, Well never mind talking, hurry up and take it off.

Which I did, making me feel grate even if she didn't actually admit I was.

Proving it's not hard to feel wonderful if you keep your ambitions low.

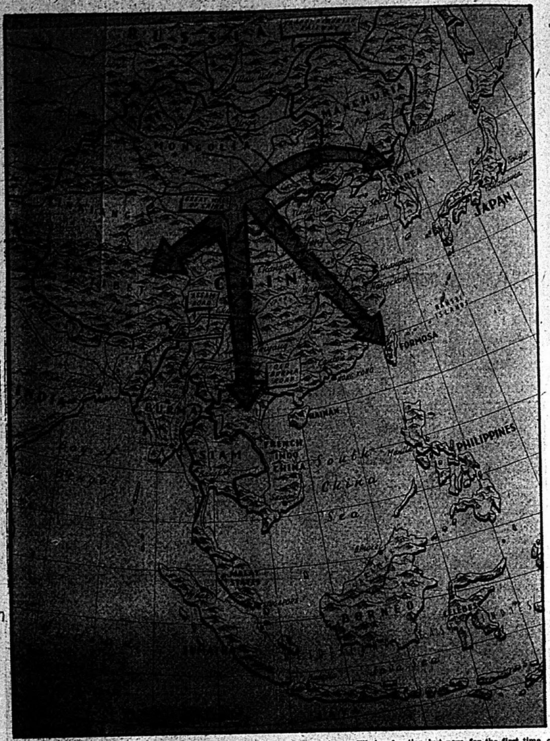
THREATENS OTHER AREAS CHINA ADMITS INVADING TIBET;



Four communist pressure areas in Far East are indicated by arrows: Tibet, Indo-China, Formosa and Korea. For many months there have been roundabout reports from Formosa and Pakistan of a penetration of Tibetan frontier, but now, for the first time, communist China has acknowledged the invasion of the country. — Central Press Canadian.

NAZIS BLAMED IN BOMBING OF UKRAINIAN MEETING

Eleven persons were injured when a home-made bomb, containing six-inch railroad spikes, exploded in Toronto's Ukrainian Labor Temple. Five hundred were in the hall when the explosion took place, which damaged wall, above. Spokesman for Association of United Ukrainians charges "Fascist terrorists" with the plot. Those responsible, he stated, are former members of a Nazi S. S. Division who have come to Canada as D.P.'s, Mayor McCallum of Toronto expressed fear that incident would bring reprisals, possibly gang warfare. — Central Press Canadian.

TRAIN BRITONS FOR ATOMIC DEFENCE

CASUALTY IS REMOVED BY RESCUE SQUAD

"ATOMIC SQUAD" TAKES READINGS IN RUBBLE

At Falfield School, Eastwood Park, English civil defence workers are given a thorough course in both theoretic and practical phases of the new problems arising out of atomic warfare. In the top photo, a "badly injured casualty" is helped from a blitzed building to an ambulance during night rescue training. Below, two atomic rescue workers' clad in protectice clothing, examine readings on their charts of radio-activity findings among wreckage.—Central Press Canadian.

PROTECTION FOR EJECTED PILOTS

These photographs illustrate the U.S. Navy's new method for testing jet pilot helmets. The tremendous pressure on the face by old methods often left the men with some injury. In the new system a large mask completely covering the face protects the men against high-pressure winds. The mask rests against the back plate behind the pilot's head and can be pulled down by reaching back and pulling down the handles of the mask. The pilot wears two helmets, the jet helmet and, under it, his ordinary flying helmet, and an oxygen mask. — Central Press Canadian.

Sign Agreement For Billion Dollar Anglo-German Trade

British minister of trade Harold Wilson, and West German federal economic minister, Prof. Erhard, are shown as they signed the German-British trade agreement. Based on the 60 per cent liberalization of European trade, the pact provides for exports from Germany valued at $60,000,000 dollars and imports into Germany valued at $520,000,000. — Central Press Canadian.

INDEPENDENT CHULA

No one has to cater to Chula, Siamese-Persian cat owned by the family of Arthur Barber of Granite Falls, Minn. Chula is an extremely independent mousehound. She doesn't eat as other cats do, but picks the food up with her paws. She sleeps in a bed with her the Barber children and insists on having the covers neatly drawn up under her chin. She makes exits and entrances of her own. Photo above shows you how Chula handles the problem of getting in. First she walks up the guard rail at the latch side of the door and on reaching the top she wraps a paw around the latch, presses and releases the catch. The door opens and from there on it's a breeze. She merely springs from her perch into the house. — Central Press Canadian.

In Montreal to attend the opening of the Eaton electronics laboratory of McGill University, Lady Eaton was given an honorary degree of doctor of laws. She first suggested the building of the laboratory in 1945 and the T. Eaton Co. Ltd., donated over $200,000 for its construction. Left to right, at the opening ceremony, Dr. O. M. Solandt, chief of the defence research board of Canada, Lady Eaton, Dr. D. A. Keyes, director of the Chalk River atomic plant, and Prof. G. A. NO SLEEP FOR BANKERS WHILE DOLLAR JUMPING

Bankers are busy these days as they attempt to keep up with the elusive Canadian dollar. Here at the traders' desk of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, Toronto, a constant flow of messages from one bank to another keeps the traders informed of the fluctuations in value, prevent their branch from getting behind in the overall trading. — Central Press Canadian.

REDS PROTEST TRANSFER OF MARSHALL FUNDS

Vienna city hall formed the background as 12,000 Viennese communists held a recent demon[illegible]tion to protest the government announcement that Marshall Plan funds which had been used to subsidize food would be transferred to construction projects. As a result, food, fuel and street-car fares will rise an average of 30 per cent. The government was unable to match this increase with an equivalent wage increase. The rally caused minor disturbances but was finally dispersed peacefully. Here, street-car traffic was partially paralyzed by the demonstrators, as they jammed the main thoroughfares carrying placards, denouncing the government's stand, on no wage increases. — Central Press Canadian.

Blood on the Stars

By Brett Halliday

"That's the man, Michael." Her [illegible] was weary, betraying no [illegible]on whatsoever. "I told you [illegible]ow him anywhere."

Shayne asked savagely, "do you still deny it, Randolph?"

"No. Let's go into the other room and I'll tell you the whole thing."

Randolph appeared to have completely regained his normal poise and self-assurance. Without an invitation he walked firmly across to the liquor cabinet and poured himself a drink of rye, seated himself in a chair and began in a low, steady voice:

"I did come up here last night. I got to thinking about the King and Kendrick cases, and wanted to talk them over with you. The door to your apartment was ajar and light showed through the crack. I pushed it open and called your name, but there was no answer. I looked in the other rooms and saw no one. Then your phone started ringing."

He paused to take a sip of whiskey. Shayne sat across from him and listened without interruption as he continued:

"I supposed you'd just stepped down the hall for a moment, and I answered the phone, intending to take a message for you. The woman at the other end of the line said, "this is Celia Dustin Mr. Shayne. I've got to see you at once—to tell you something I'm afraid to tell anyone but you."

"So, there it was. Right in my lap." Randolph spread out his pudgy hands pleadingly. "What would you have done in my position? I was afraid she'd hang up if I told her it wasn't you. I supposed at once that it had something to do with the bracelet. A bracelet mind you, that my company had insured for one hundred and eighty thousand dollars. In the beginning I simply hoped I could keep her talking until you returned. I turned my head aside slightly, in the hope that she wouldn't recognize that it wasn't you talking, and asked her what the information was.

"She spoke in a hurried and frantic voice. Said she couldn't tell me over the phone and that she'd slip out and meet me at the foot of the hotel bathing pier in half an hour. I promised her I would, Mike. I didn't know what else to do. I remember even having the fleeting thought that you'd want me to handle it that way. She sounded frightened and distraught, and I didn't know what she might do if I gave the truth away then. So I told her I'd come, and hung up the receiver."

Randolph stoppped to mop sweat from his face.

Shayne said curtly "go on."

"This is the bad part," Randolph confessed, glancing at the closed bedroom door. "When I turned away from the phone I saw a girl standing there with a pistol in her hand threatening me. For God's sake, Mike, try to see this my way," he pleaded. "I didn't know who she was or how she got there. I'm afraid I didn't stop to think. First, the telephone call with hints of danger, then suddenly I was confronted with a gun moll in a negligee.

"I acted instinctively, that's all. I jumped toward her to grab the gun before the thing went off. She jumped back and tripped over the rug, I guess. I swear to God I didn't touch her Mike. It was an accident. She struck her head on the radiator and the pistol fell out of her hand on the floor. She was bleeding when I got to her. I laid her on the bed and tried to think what to do. Remember, I still didn't know who she was, but I presumed she was one of the jewel mob. And I'd promised Mrs. Dustin to be at the Beach in half an hour. I couldn't afford to stay here and answer all sorts of questions. I tell you Mrs. Dustin sounded beside herself with fear. I felt I had to get to her."

"So you calmly walked out of here, not knowing whether Lucy was dead or alive," Shayne remarked.

"She was breathing when I left her. I couldn't tell how badly she was hurt. Remember, I thought she was lurking here to ambush you. In the excitement and the pressure of time, I thought it best to get away fast. So that's what I did."

"Leaving a girl to die without medical attention. Doc Price said if he'd been ten minutes later getting to her she probably would have died. It may have been an accident as you say, but going off and leaving her like that without medical attention turns it into attempted murder."

"It couldn't have made more than a few minutes difference," Randolph stated "if I'd called at once from your phone. I stopped at the drugstore on the corner and phoned the clerk here in the apartment and asked him to get the house doctor on the phone for me. I didn't know his name, but. . ."

"Wait a minute." Shayne's forehead was knitted in a frown "You claim you called the doctor? What did you tell him?"

"That there'd been an accident here and he was needed right away. See here, Mike," demanded Randolph hoarsely, "why are you looking at me like that? As though you don't beleve me."

"Do you know the number of my apartment?"

"Of course. It's three-oh-six."

Shayne got up and opened the bedroom door. "Doctor Price will you step in here a moment?"

The doctor came in and Shayne said "this man claims he called you from a drugstore immediately after Miss Hamilton's accident."

"He lies," Dr. Price said readily. "The only call I had last night was some practical joker sending me up to six-oh-three."

"Six-oh-three?" said Randolph puzzled for a moment, then he exclaimed "six-oh-three! Good Lord. Don't you see what must have happened? In my hurry and excitement I transposed the numbers six-oh-three instead of three-oh-six."

"It's possible," Shayne agreed, "and it's also possible that you did it intentionally. . .just to give yourself an alibi for going off and leaving Lucy to die. You could always claim you got the numbers transposed.'

"I don't see how you can believe a thing like that of me," Randolph said genuinely hurt. "Every word I've told you is the truth."

"Maybe, I'm not sure there's a word of truth in any of it," growled Shayne. "You've had plenty of time to fix up a plausible story. If you are telling the truth and didn't have any reason for feeling guilty about Lucy, why did you deny it so vehemently until she identified you?"

Randolph shuddered and said in a low voice "because of Mrs. Dustin. I didn't know how much of the telephone conversation this girl had overheard. If she knew it was I who went over to meet Mrs. Dustin outside the hotel. . ." He lost control of his voice for a moment.

Dr. Price returned to the sick room and came back with his bag. "I've arranged for a relief for Miss Naylor at noon. Miss Hamilton is going to be all right with rest and the proper attention."

Shayne thanked him, and he went out. Randolph nervously resumed his story.

"You see, I did keep that appointment with Mrs. Dustin. But it was too late, Mike. Someone else had kept the appointment before me. She was dead. Lying on the sand at the edge of the water right beside the bathing pier."

"So you left her like that, too. Without giving an alarm."

"She was dead. I took time to make sure of that. An alarm wouldn't do her any good. Look at my position again," pleaded Randolph. Sweat popped out on his face anew and ran in little rivulets down his chin. "She'd been killed very recently. The blood was still fresh. I supposed the doctor was with Miss Hamilton already. I didn't know but what she had revived and told her story. The police might already be on their way to the Sunlux to intercept me. And there I was with a corpse at my feet. Would anyone have believed my story?"

"Probably not. No more than I believe it now."

"There you are. My one thought was to get away from there fast. Put yourself in my place, Mike. It might have been you who kept that appointment with Mrs. Dustin if you'd been here to answer your phone. As I said, I wasn't sure how much the girl had heard. I wasn't sure she got a good enough look to identify me. Don't you see how I was caught in a net of circumstantial evidence. I couldn't help Mrs. Dustin any by letting myself be arrested. I hurried home and dug out those papers from my files and spread them around to give the impression that I'd been working on them all evening in case anyone dropped in —as you did."

Shayne nodded. "Leaving the windows closed so the room would fill up fast with smoke." He got up and poured himself a drink of cognac. "Now that you have got that off your chest, suppose you tell me the truth," he added casually.

"Don't you believe me?" Randolph asked in alarm.

"It's too pat. Everything fits too well."

"I can't help that. It's what happened." Randolph's tone was flat and final.

"Maybe," said Shayne unemotionally, "and maybe not. It leaves too many things unanswered. If you didn't kill her, who did?"

"One of the jewel thieves," suggested Randolph. "They knew she'd called you and was going down to meet you. They got there first to keep her from telling whatever it was she knew."

Shayne shook his head. "The big trouble with your story is that you have no witness to verify what you claim Mrs. Dustin said over the telephone. So far as we know, she may have said 'Mr. Shayne I've found proof that the insurance man was behind that hold-up. I'm afraid to tell my husband because of what he might do in his present condition, but I'll slip down and give you what proof I have while he's asleep.' Something like that would explain your desperate haste to get over there to silence her."

"Do you seriously suspect me of complicity in those thefts, Shayne?"

"I don't know. There's some common denominator tying them all up in one bundle. Can you think of any good reason why I shouldn't suspect you?"

"I'm afraid I can't," Randolph confessed wearily. "I've thought about it until I'm going crazy. You can understand now why I was afraid to stay over there with Mrs. Dustins corpse and tell my story."

"If you'd killed her, your reason for keeping your mouth shut is even more apparent."

"That's true," said Randolph hopelessly.

Shayne got up and began to pace the floor. Randolph rested his head on the back of the couch and closed his eyes against the grim features of the tall figure pacing the floor.

After a long silence, Randolph asked "what are you going to do, Mike? If you turn me over to the police I'm sunk. They'll tie Mrs. Dustin's murder around my neck in a knot I'll never get untied."

"And if I don't turn you in," said Shayne harshly "I'll be handing you a chance to make a clean getaway."

"Let me make a deal with you" begged Randolph.

"I don't make deals with a murderer —or anyone who may be a murderer."

"Let me say what I was going to. You've indicated that you think you know where to put your hands on the bracelet. That's mighty important to me and to my company. Do you want to throw away a fat fee?"

"No one ever accused me of not wanting money," Shayne retorted.

"Here's your chance to grab some money then," said Randolph "Give me an opportunity to contact my company and get authorization to offer the customary twenty percent. That'll amount to thirty-six thousand. Pay what you have to or return of the bracelet. I don't care how much. The rest of the thirty-six grand goes into your pocket. Is that fair enough?"

"What do you want from me if I agree?"

"Your promise not to turn me in. At least not right away. You're the only one who knows this horrible net of circumstances I got mixed up in. If you have me arrested now, I'll never be able to fix up a reward deal — not from behind bars while I'm accused of murder."

The telephone rang. Shayne stalked to it and lifted the receiver, said "Mike Shayne."

A voice said "this is last call for bids on a ruby bracelet."

Shayne tugged at his earlobe. He glanced aside at Earl Randolph, grimaced and said $20,-grand."

A chuckle came over the wire. "Get wise, Shamus. We know twenty per cent is regular."

"There's got to be something in it for me."

"Why not? Say six grand to you. That's good pocket money." The voice became harsher. "Thirty grand. In cash on the line today."

"Wait a minute. I'll check and see. . ."

"If you can trace this call?" the voice broke in sarcastically. Don't waste your time. I'll call back in fifteen minutes. Have an answer ready then." There was a click at the other end of the wire.

Shayne hung up and told Randolph flatly, "that was it. We can deal for thirty thousand."

"That leaves six for you." Randolph's voice was trembling. "If you leave me free to make the arrangements. That's not much, I know, but I'll add ten grand of my own. Give me a break Mike. I swear I'm not guilty, but I can't afford such a charge against me. Even if I beat the rap, my reputation will be shot."

Shayne crossed the room and poured himself a small drink. He sipped it reflectively, then went into the bedroom, leaving the door open. Lucy Hamilton was asleep, and Miss Naylor was playing solitaire with the cards spread out on the empty side of the bed.

Shayne stood looking down at the injured girl with a queer expression on his gaunt features. A look of tortured indecision. Miss Naylor glanced up at him and said quietly:

"Doctor says she is out of danger. I imagine she can be moved to a hospital tonight."

"Why can't she stay here?"

Miss Naylor slapped a red queen on a black king. "I thought it would be a lot of bother to you.

Shayne said "she isn't any bother to me." He went back into the living room and asked Earl Randolph gruffly "how long will it take you to get authorization and possesion of the cash?"

"A few hours," Randolph told him eagerly. "Say two o'clock this afternoon."

"I'll need some cash to pay my secretary's doctor and nurse bills. Get out of here and be back at two o'clock sharp with the thirty grand in old twenties. I'll take my sixteen grand in thousands, if you don't mind."

Friend's Advice Led to Relief From Sharp Pains Weak Kidneys, Backache

This Woman Suffered Many Years with Rheumatic Pain Following Bladder Irritation and Kidney Condition, Also Poor Digestion and Nervousness Until a Friend Told Her About Syntona.

"After the good results I got by taking Syntona I think it is the grandest medicine ever made," said Mrs. Ann Muller, 149 Campbell Ave., Chatham, Ont.

"I suffered many years with rheumatic pains, sore back and sharp pains in my back and joints. All my joints would often become terribly sore and painful. My rest was frequently disturbed at night and through loss of sleep and worry. I became very nervous. I would get sick headaches with dizzy spells and spots before my eyes. Every time I ate a meal I would suffer afterwards with so much gas, bloating and sour acid risings. I can tell you I was almost desperate, because I had tried so many things without benefit.

"Then a friend told me about Syntona and recommend it so highly that I decided to get some.

"At first I was uncertain as to whether or not it was helping me, but after a while the bladder irritation and pains began to ease up. Then as I continued taking it I got so I could sleep through the night, my nerves calmed down and the pain and soreness went away.

"Now, that is quite some time ago and I've had no return of the trouble. Besides I am remarkably free from headaches and dizzy spells and although I am eating heartier meals my food digests well. I feel fine now and I think everybody who suffers as I did should know about Syntona."

Perhaps you have been thinking about taking Syntona, but somehow you never got around to it. Why not make up your mind now to give this pure herbal compound a trial. Find out for yourself what it can do for you.

Syntona is sold and recommended in Belleville at DOLAN THE DRUGGIST.

Farmer Wounds Wife, Kills Self At Chaffey's Locks

Man Released From Mental Hospital Two Weeks Ago

Chaffey's Locks, Ont., Oct. 13—(CP) — Police said today that Wilfred Regan, 51-year-old farmer, killed himself with a .22-calibre rifle after wounding his wife, Hilda, 48, with the same weapon.

The shooting occurred Thursday at this summer resort village 35 miles east of Kingston.

Police said Regan was released from a mental hospital two weeks ago after a three-month stay there. Coroner N. W. Kerr of nearby Elgin declared his death due to suicide and said there will be no inquest.

At hospital in Kingston, Mrs. Regan today was reported in satisfactory condition. She had a bullet wound in her right temple and minor cuts about the head and arms.

Besides operating a large farm, the Regans ran a summer tourist business.

Managed to Escape

Police said Regan arose about 6 a. m. Thursday. About an hour later, he took the rifle into their bedroom and confronted her. In the struggle that followed. Mrs. Regan was shot in the head but managed to escape from the house.

Clad only in a nightgown, she ran a mile to seek help at the home of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Thomas Davis. She and Mrs. Davis returned to the Regan home and found Regan lying in a pool of blood on the bedroom floor, the rifle a few feet away.

Dr. Kerr said Regan died 1 ½ hours after the shooting. A bullet had penetrated his right temple and lodged in his skull.

Except for his stay in the mental hospital at Brockville, Regan had spent all his life on the farm, which had formerly belonged to his father, the late John Regan. The Regans, who had no children, were alone at the time of the shooting.

Mrs. Regan is the former Hilda Jordan of nearby Elgin.

Tibet 'Invasion' Believed Belated Minor Incident

New Delhi, India, Oct. 13 (CP) —Finance Secretary Tsepon Shakabpa of Tibet said here, today he believed reports of a Chinese communist "invasion" of Tibet were "belated accounts brought by traders of a minor incident which occurred four months ago."

The finance secretary, leader of a Tibetan delegation which hopes to have talks with the Chinese government on Tibet's future said: "We do not believe reports of a Chinese invasion of Tibet because we have received no information from our government."

The invasion report was carried this week by the influential newspaper Statesman in New Delhi. Its correspondent in Kalimpong, near India's northern border, reported Chinese communists had entered Tibet and occupied a 50-mile-wide strip of Tibetan territory.

THE WEATHER

Toronto, Oct. 13 (CP)—Synopsis: Skies were mainly cloudy throughout Ontario last night. Occasional light rain fell in western sections, with more continuous rain in the east. A few snowflurries were reported in parts of White River and Kirkland Lake regions.

Strong northwest winds swept chilly air through the province yesterday, in the wake of an extensive disturbance which is now moving through southern Quebec towards Labrador.

The winds will diminish gradually today, but storm warnngs have been raised on Lake Ontario where northwest winds in excess of 40 miles an hour are expected. Afternoon temperatures will be in the 50s today in the lower lakes district and near or below 50 farther north. Skies will clear during the afternoon in the western half of the province, and by evening the rain will be essentially over in the east.

Some cloud will persist in the extreme eastern part of the province until afternoon on Saturday but otherwise sunshine will be general, and temperatures will be a little higher.

Criticizes Smaller Houses in Westmoreland

Ambleside, Westmorland, England, Oct. 13 — (CP) — Smaller houses in England's Lake District may amuse some curiosity-loving visitors but they're just "disgusting" to Medical Officer Frank Madge.

In his annual report to local authorities administering most of Westmorland county, Dr. Madge said:

"Sanitation conditions in these small houses may appear quaint and interesting to casual visitors, but they are disgusting and disheartening to those of your folk having to live in them."

The Lake District, with its heavily-wooded hills and tranquil waters, is one of England's best-known tourist resorts.

Kidnapped, Held Prisoner on Threat Of Strangling Says French Landlady

Nice, France, Oct. 13—(AP)—A middle-aged landlady told today how she had been kidnapped and held prisoner under the threat of a "strangling machine" by a tenant who hanged himself after his arrest.

Mme. Germaine Kurer said her 48-hour adventure began Saturday afternoon, when she went to one of her two villas at Villefranche-sur-mer to sign a sales agreement with the tenant, a well-known business man of Nice named Jacques Labatut.

She told the police this story:

After the signature, Labatut took her to the garage to show her some repairs he said had to be made on the roof. He threw her into a lean-to, threatened her with a revolver and made her write a note to keep her family from worrying about her absence.

Next morning he put her in his "strangling machine" — a steel noose attached to a clock-work device. Any movement she made, he told her, would slip a ratchet and choke her at once; if she kept still, the clockwork would close the noose slowly. He made her sign an I.O.U. for 1,200,000 fracas (about $4,000).

Sunday night, he took the machine off, but put it on again Monday morning. He made her dress in a man's suit, put her in the rear seat of a car with a scarf to hide the noose around her neck, and drove her to Nice.

All morning he tried to cash the I.O.U., but failed.

Finally he released her, threatening to kill her if she told the police. She had him arrested. Wednesday he tried to escape from prison by pretending to hang himself, and then attacking the guards who came to save him. When this failed, he did hang himself.

TOUGH JOB GIVING $1,500,000,000 AWAY GOVT. FINDS

Foreign-Owned Assets Seized After Outbreak

Ottawa, Oct. 13—(CP)—A government agency says it's not the easiest thing in the world to get rid of $1,500,000,000.

It has taken five years of prolonged and many-sided negotiations and occasional litigation to rid the government of nearly all that amount in the shape of foreign-owned assets seized after the outbreak of war in 1939.

But, says the office of the custodian of enemy property, there's still some $55,000,000 worth of assets to jettison and it's going to be a hard, long job.

The assets consisted of real estate, bank balances, securities, even one circus, which automatically were taken over by the crown in 1939 or later by law.

They belonged to two classes of people, what officials call belligerent enemies and technical enemies. The former were Germans, Italians, Japanese, and their belongings were far less valuable than those of the other class, that is people whose countries were over-run and ruled by the Germans and their allies.

It was possible even for goods belonging to a Canadian caught, say, in Belgium to be seized and held and finally returned by the custodian, nominally State Secretary Bradley but in effect members of a special branch of his staff.

Some Assets Frozen

At its peak, the value of the assets ran to $1,500,000,000, but the great bulk of them have been restored to their owners. Last year the value of those handed back was $53,000,000. Of the $55,000,000 still to be disposed of at the end of 1949, only $15,000,000 belonged to Germans and Japanese and $40,000,000 to technical enemies, including some behind the iron curtain.

Until peace treaties are signed, the German and Japanese assets are frozen, with the odd exception of a compassionate case which is allowed through. Since Canada herself has large war-damage claims against those countries, the final settlement may be a complex one.

Officials say the whole thing is a complex job. Case after case requires careful examination and long negotiations to establish identity and right. Canada's policy is to return the assets to the owner and his rights on more complications in countries whose governments, not the indivduals.

The custodian's branch still is dealing with cases dating back to the First World War, a fact which bears out their prediction that this will be going on for many years before that last $55,000,000 vanishes.

Charge U.K. Seaman Broke Into Buckingham Palace And Stole Dispatch Box

London, Oct. 13 (AP) — A British seaman was accused tonight of breaking into Buckingham Palace and stealing a dispatch box.

He was identified in an official statement from Scotland yard as Douglas Monro, 26, of London.

The announcement came a few hours after the police confirmed press reports that a diplomatic box which vanished from the palace turned up early today in a nearby garbage can.

Denying London newspaper reports that the box was broken open and important secret papers stolen, Scotland Yard said it was recovered intact. The police also asserted the box contained no state secrets.

The announcement that Monro had been detained said:

"Douglas Monro, age 26, seaman, of Swinton Street, Kings Cross, late of Grafton Townhead, Glasgow, will be charged tonight with burglariously breaking and entering Buckingham Palace this morning and stealing a dispatch box."

It was not disclosed immediately whether Monro was the man found in the palace grounds earlier in the day by detectives investigating the disappearance of the box.

Supreme Court Orders New Trial for Adelard Latour Sentenced to be Hanged

Ottawa, Oct. 13 (CP) — The Supreme Court of Canada today ordered a new trial for Adelard Latour, sentenced to be hanged Nov. 15 for the knife-slaying of Mrs. Cecile Rainville of Sudbury Ont.

The court ordered the new trial on the grounds that the jury at the original trial was misdirected by the judge—Mr. Justice D. P. J. Kelly of the Ontario Supreme Court.

The decision was rendered after the court completed the hearing of arguments on an appeal against the murder conviction. The court retired for less than five minutes to reach a decision for a new trial.

Chief Justice Thibaudeau said that written reasons for the judgment will be given later so that the judge at the new trial will know the reasons.

Decision Unanimous

Chief Justice Rinfret said the court's decision was unanimous.

Charles L. Dubin and Maurice Lacourciere, both of Toronto, appeared for Latour. They brought the case before the Supreme Court after the Ontario Court of Appeal had dismissed an appeal against the murder conviction.

W. B. Common of the Ontario Attorney General's Department and A. D. Wilkins, Crown Attorney for Sudbury, appeared for the Crown.

Chief Justice Rinfret said he felt there had been misdirection of the "worst type" in one part of Mr. Justice Kelly's charge to the jury at the original trial.

Mr. Justice Kelly had stated that if a witness lied in any one particular he could not be believed in any other particular. The law was that part of witness' evidence could be accepted and part rejected.

Agreed on Misdirection

Mr. Common agreed there had been misdirection on the point, but believed it could not have influenced the jury in this case. Even if the jury had been misdirected, he felt that it could not have come to any other verdict than guilty. A reduction of the charge to manslaughter was not justified.

In the case, Mrs. Rainville, 23-year-old mother of three and wife of Latour's cousin, was stabbed to death in her Sudbury apartment Sept. 12, 1949. Latour, a 49-year-old lumberjack, was seen leaving the apartment with blood on his hands and later was arrested on a charge of murder.

U.K. Conservatives Force Leaders to Pledge Increase Housing Program by 50 P.C.

By GLENN WILLIAMS

Blackpool, England, Oct. 13 — (AP) —With a shouting, foot-stamping demonstration, rank-and-file Conservatives forced their leaders today to sign an election promise to increase Britain's housing program at least 50 percent.

For the first time in this annual party conference, the rank-and-file rose in rath against their cautious leaders and forced commitments to a definite program.

The Labor government now permits the building of 200,000 new houses a year. The Tories promised in their resolution to construct a minimum of 300,000 a year if they win at the next election.

The demonstration today was far more riotous than the protest over continued housing shortages which swept through the Labor party conference last week.

But the deep feeling expressed at both major party conventions clearly showed housing is the foremost political issue in Britain.

In another action today, the Conservatives clung to their long held belief of high protective tariffs for products that compete with British goods. They approved a resolution demanding continuation of high tariffs against agricultural products from France, Holland, Italy and other continental countries.

Cornwall, Oct. 13 — (CP) Two cattle thieves were each sentenced Thursday to 15 months.

Faced with similar charges are Roger Lauzon, 24, Cornwall; James Brown, 21, Williamstown, Ont., and William Scarbo, 24, Aultsville, Ont.

FATAL CASABLANCA CRASH

WEST RALLIES TO KEEP LIE U.N. SECRETARY

Malik Uses Veto To Block Election

Lake Success, N.Y., Oct. 13 — (AP) — The western powers rallied today behind Trygve Lie in an effort to keep him as United Nations secretary-general despite Russian opposition.

Jacob A. Malik, Soviet deputy foreign minister, yesterday used Russia's 46th veto in the security council to block a second five-year term for the Norwegian diplomat as head of the world organization.

Lie's term expires Feb. 2, 1951.

U. S. representative Warren R. Austin, as October president of the council, sent a letter to Nasrollah Entezam of Iran president of the Veto-Free General Assembly, saying that the council had failed to agree on re-election.

Most delegations here agreed that this left the problem up to the assembly, although it was expected that the Russians would attempt to maintain that nothing could be done without their express consent.

Austin, talking to reporters after the closed session of the council, said:

"There was never a moment of doubt in our (the American) position. We have been for Lie from the beginning. We consider him exceptionally gifted with extraordinary characteristics fitting him for this job for which there is no precedent.

Greatest Respect

"Although he has taken stands on some questions with which we could not agree, that makes no difference. We have the greatest respect for his courage.

"Because of his position he is vunerable to criticism. It is up to a strong country like the United States to support him when he is under fire."

Shown a copy of Austin's remarks, Lie was pleased. The secretary-general had been downcast by the Soviet veto and worried that he had failed in his job.

Informed sources here are sure that the general assembly will extend his term of office for another three years as the U.S. wishes. Lie has said that he would not accept a shorter period of service.

Authoritative sources said Russian opposition came from Lie's whole-hearted support of U.N. action in Korea. Previous to that he had often been denounced by various American organs of opinion as over-friendly to the Russians.

Woman and Five Of Six Children Slain in Australia

Perth Australia, Oct. 13 (AP) —A woman and five of her six children were found dead, their throats cut, in their house at Collie, Australia, early today.

The father, Raymond Armanasco, a 40-year-old milkman, was arrested after an all-night search.

The sixth child, a girl, still is alive. She stayed with friends last night.

Collie, in West Australia's coal mining district, is about 110 miles south of Perth.

Unable to Say No to Waif Animals, Seeks Home for Stray Creatures

Kansas City, Oct. 13 (AP) — Mrs. Hazel Anderson, 55, sought a new home today for 50 cats, three dogs and a flock of chickens after being evicted from a three-room retreat for stray animals.

"We must find a place for the cats," Mrs. Anderson said at dawn after an all-night vigil over her flock and furniture in front of the building. "The poor little cats are hungry. They didn't get their suppers last night."

A deputy constable moved Mrs. Anderson and her furnishings from the three-room frame house late yesterday. The property had been involved in court actions since it was sold in 1947.

Mrs. Anderson had lived in the house five years as caretaker for the Cats' Friends Club, Inc., an organization devoted to providing for vagrant felines.

Mrs. Anderson also kept four hens for eggs and last spring added 25 baby chicks to the coop. Unable to say no to a homeless animal, she also had let in three dogs.

R.C.N. Destroyers Take Active Part In Seaborne Strike

Second Naval Blow May Lead To Allied Landing in North

Tokyo, Oct. 13 — (CP) — Destroyers of the Royal Canadian Navy, part of a force of 37 United Nations warships, today hammered at North Korean targets in a seaborne strike against communist supply lines.

The naval war release issued at Tokyo did not identify the destroyers but it indicated that two of the three Canadian warships in Korean waters took part in the bombardment.

The release said ships in the bombardment group included the British cruiser Ceylon "and British, Australian and Canadian light forces in addition to the (U.S.) battleship Missouri and the U.S.S. Worcester."

Canadian ships in Korean waters are the destroyers Cayuga, Sioux and Athabaskan. The Sioux commanded by Cmdr. Paul Taylor of Victoria, B.C., was in action off Korea's west coast Wednesday night. This would indicate that the Cayuga, under Capt. J. V. Brock of Winnipeg and the Athabaskan under Cmdr. R. P. Welland of McCreary, Man., took part in today's action.

The war release was also bare of details of the actual part taken by Canadian ships in the bombardment but destroyers, because of the comparatively short range of their 4.7-inch guns, often are employed for close-in work, such as hitting enemy shore batteries and smaller targets ashore.

Used to Screen Ships

They are also used for screening the bigger ships such as battleships and aircraft carriers.

Speculation still persisted that the combined naval big-gun and carrier-plane strike — the second in two days far up the Korean east coast — might lead to an Allied landing.

There was no report, however, that such an amphibious attack was in progress or in prospect. Military news sources in the Korean fighting were abnormally quiet.

Truman, Stalin Will Each Receive 'Peace' Jacket

Turin, Italy, Oct. 13—(AP)—President Truman and Prime Minister Stalin each will receive a "peace jacket" especially made for them by the Turinese tailor Antonio Santomauro.

Santomauro tailored the special mantle Pope Pius wore at the opening ceremony of the Holy Year on Christmas eve, 1949.

Truman's jacket will be in Tibet wool, double-breasted with four engraved mother-of-pearl buttons. On the left side of the jacket an embroidered globe will be carried by two small peace doves.

Stalin's jacket will be a woollen "convertible" single-breasted coat. It can be worn either buttoned to the neck or open like a normal coat. On the left side of the jacket an embroidered dove will carry an olive branch in its beak.

Santamauro who is famed for his skill, specializes in designing mantles for kings and participants in official ceremonies.

John Bigelow ,20, Given Six Years For Wounding

Toronto, Oct. 13 — (CP) — John Bigelow, 20, today was sentenced to six years on a charge of wounding a University of Western Ontario professor and causing grievous bodily harm.

Bigelow was convicted last Wednesday of stabbing John McRae, 38, in the home McRae had rented here for the summer. Bigelow said he was defending himself with a butcher knife from a homosexual attack. McRae denied the charge.

An Assize Court jury earlier acquitted Bigelow of an attempted murder charge.

Finds Keays Improperly Wore Police Uniform

Ottawa, Oct. 13 (CP) —Ernest J. Keays, dismissed from the Ontario Provincial Police in 1949, was convicted in police court today of improperly wearing a police uniform. Sentence was suspended.

A charge of carrying a concealed weapon was withdrawn.

The charges were laid after Keays appeared in County Magistrate's Court here last month wearing a provincial police uniform and carrying an automatic pistol in his pocket.

Keays was dismissed by order-in-council in July 1949, but has since maintained he is still legally a member of the Ontario force because he had not been charged and brought before the police commissioner for a hearing.

Magistrate Glenn Strike said today that in his opinion Keays had been dismissed in accordance with laid-down procedure. He said a higher authority than the commissioner had dealt with the matter.

Two Cows Killed, Another Not Expected to Live After Being Chased by Wild Dogs

Chased by wild dogs until they dropped from exhaustion, two milch cows owned by Franklin Larkin, 7th concession of Tyendinaga township, are dead and another is not expected to live. The dead animals were among a herd of 13 cattle chased by the dogs.

The incident took place late Thursday morning after the Larkin cattle had been turned out to pasture. The wild dogs emerged from a nearby large swamp and chased the cattle half a mile to the barn.

Mrs. Phil Shannon, residing on the next farm to the Larkin farm stated that she and her husband, and Mrs. Blake Parks saw the dogs chase the cattle to the Larkin barn. Mr. Shannon went out and chased the dogs away but two of the cattle were already dead. She said the third animal was not expected to live.

The dogs had made no marks on the cows, and it was believed they had died from exhaustion. Cattle valuators for the township confirmed that the dogs had been responsible for the death of the cattle.

Mrs. Shannon stated the wild dogs had been living in the swamp for the past three years and although they were seldom seen they could be heard howling frequently at night. This is the first time this year they have killed animals but last year a farmer was reported to have lost some calves.

There has been no organized effort by farmers to rid the district of the wild dogs living in the swamp.

Yesterday's incident took place on the boundary between Thurlow and Tyendinaga townships and cattle valuators from each township visited the scene.

District Group Attends 75th Anniversary Party

Seventeen residents of the Belleville district today participated in one of the largest birthday parties on record — the observance of the 75th anniversary of the Prudential Insurance Company of America. The occasion was marked by simultaneous gatherings of some 75,000 people in Canada, the United States and Hawaii.

In Canada the celebration had a double significance as the anniversary year coincided with the opening of the Prudential's Canadian head office in Toronto. During the 41 years that the company has been serving Canada, more than 1,000,000 Canadians have taken out more than one billion dollars of Prudential life insurance. The Canadian headquarters was established to efficiently administer the business which previously had been handled in Newark.

The Belleville celebrants, consisting of Prudential's local personnel and members of their families, attended the party in Kingston which took the form of a luncheon at the La Salle Hotel. Others attending included the staff and members of their families from the Kingston, Smiths Falls and Brockville offices.

According to C. F. Portlock, head of the local office, this is the first time that the entire Prudential organization has been able to join in a simultaneous celebration. He estimated that similar parties were held today in approximately 400 cities in Canada and the U.S.A.

POLICE BLOTTER

Blinding car lights were said to be responsible Thursday night for a two car collision at the corner of Bleecker and Station Streets which resulted in $100 damage to one of the vehicles.

John W. Carter of Frankford was driving west on Station Street when in the centre of the Bleecker Avenue intersection his vehicle was struck by a car driven by John Cummings, 205 Station Street, which was emerging from Bleecker onto Station. Cummings had stopped for the "stop" sign and as he started up he was blinded by the lights of another auto and failed to see the Carter vehicle.

A Front Street resident complained that her apartment had been entered during the night. Nothing was missing but a carton of empty pop bottles.

Fish and Game Officials Meet At Kingston

Conservation problems relating to Fish and Game were given the attention of Fish and Game officials from both sides of the border at a meeting held in Kingston, Ontario, October 12.

Some thirty representatives of the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests and the state of New York Conservation Department took part in the conference and discussed enforcement and management problems relating to the St. Lawrence River and Lake Ontario.

The meeting gave field men from both sides of the International border an opportunity to sit down together, get better acquainted, and learn first hand, what each others problems are.

The desirability of uniform seasons and uniform bag and creel limits was recognized as a fundamental principle for improved management along the border and the problems involved were discussed at length.

The delegation from Toronto was headed by Dr. W. J. K. Harkness, chief of the Division of Fish and Wildlife, accompanied by Dr. C. H. D. Clarke, H. H. McKay, J. Farrington and W. H. R. Werner.

From Albany for the conference, came Robert A. Wells, secretary of the State Conservation Department, and Dr. W. C. Senning, assistant director of the Department's division of Fish and Game. New York State was also represented by several of its state and district game protectors responsible for conservation matters and enforcement in areas bordering the International Boundary.

Ontario district men attending from the Quinte and Rideau districts included District Forester A. W. Leman and Inspector R. G. Sheppard of Tweed, and District Forester W. E. Steele and Inspector Royal Baker of Kemptville. Conservation officers from both districts having patrol areas along the north shore of Lake Ontario and St. Lawrence River also took part in the discussions.

Belleville Community Chest Next Year Will Embrace All Agencies Meeting is Told

If present plans materialize, the Belleville Community Chest will next year embrace all agencies that depend on public subscription for the greater part of financial support.

This was disclosed at the Chamber of Commerce luncheon at the Shrine Club yesterday, when Chamber directors heard plans present and future discussed by Community Chest Campaign chairman John Deacon and T. L. Jessup, representative of the Wells organization which will handle the 1950 campaign.

Chairman Deacon pointed out to the directors that the Community Chest here was not and had not been a properly functioning organization since only three agencies, the Y.M.C.A., V.O.N., and Children's Aid Society were members.

"In order to get the Chest functioning properly" chairman Deacon said, "the committee had decided to secure the services of the Wells Organization a funds-raising body with years of experience behind it."

Eliminate Overlapping

Defining the Community Chest as a "Givers' Chest," Mr. Deacon said he was in favor of elimination of solicitation. Inclusion of all agencies within the Chest would eliminate overlapping of appeals.

Under the Wells organization program the givers are the ones who will determine the Community Chest work. The "Chest" will investigate the needs of the various agencies and determine how much each will get.

"The men who contribute the larger amounts," emphasized Mr. Deacon, "are those who should determine the disposal of funds so that the Community Chest will be satisfactory to all benefiting agencies in Belleville."

Steering Committee Formed

Stating that a steering committee had already been organized, he felt that this year's Community Chest effort will not be a big job. Three weeks should see a successful finish to the campaign.

"But," he added, "this year's campaign must be a success, and we must see that it is, so that another year all agencies will come in under the aegis of the Chest."

Mr. Jessup of the Wells organization told the chamber that first, the Community Chest should be a group of "givers" and not agencies. They should determine the total goal. "The program this year," he said "calls for an objective of $25,000.

In order to get a wide representation of giving, Mr. Jessup suggested that labor and management of industry get together and agree on a payroll deduction. "This," he said "enables employees to make a gift to several worthy causes through one channel."

"He would appreciate all the assistance given him this year," he said "for this year's effort would set the stage for that of 1951."

Must Have Proper Basis

Lorne McDougall, chairman of the Special Names committee, said that all efforts must be made this year to make the Community Chest campaign a success so that next year all agencies would be willing to come in. "The Chest must be operated on a proper basis," he said.

There had been no criticism of those who had operated the Chest in the past, but there had been some criticism of the way in which it had been conducted. It was for this reason, he went on, that the Wells Organization had been engaged.

"Reorientation of the system of giving in Belleville was necessary," he said, "as this city has not given as much to the Community Chest as other centres of comparable population."

"It is not proposed to have a general canvass this year," chairman McDougall said, "rather the Chest will rely on the response of those on the Special Names list. Next year a general solicitation will take place, and it is expected these additional funds will take care of the needs of the additional agencies.

May Spread Donation

Mr. Henry Becker advocated the spreading of donations over the period of a year. A small amount given each month, he felt would increase the general donation, and not be felt as keenly as a larger sum paid down at the time of the campaign. "This system had worked successfully in other centres, he said.

Chairman Deacon told the chamber that the Chest was not a small group idea. "We here must realize we are all part of the committee since we are all substantial givers. If we increase our donation at this time, we do not want to have to 'come across' again in February."

Acting President Bill Brown of the chamber said that his organization had voted 100 percent support to the Community Chest Campaign.

The campaign opens on October 23rd., when the Special Names Committee starts activities. General solicitation commences on October 30th and the closing date is November 10th.

Members of the Manufacturers and Retail Merchants sections of the Chamber were guests at the luncheon.

STUDENT RELEASED

Chicago, Oct. 13 — (AP) — Daniel Jones, 12, escaped being "it" yesterday but it took a fire department crew to get him back in the tag game. Daniel, playing with other youngsters in a school yard, climbed 10 feet up a telephone pole to avoid being tagged. His knee became wedged between the pole and a school building to which it was bolted. While he hung to the coping of the building, firemen unbolted the pole and released him.

St. Joseph, Mo., Oct. 13—(AP) —Police clerk Pat Nash braced himself for the tirade he expected to come.

The mother of a youngster who had been arrested yesterday was on the phone. But Nash got a surprise.

Said the mother: "My boy was arrested last week and he says you took some pictures of him. We'd like to buy a dozen copies to send to relatives."

Nash explained gently the department was not in the commercial photograph business.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Oct. 13 — (CP)—Industrials sparked by paper stocks again climbed into new high price ground as the session progressed on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. It was the third straight session of advance.

A $10-a-ton newsprint increase by Powell River Paper started paper stocks rolling higher for gains ranging to $2. Prices of leaders settled slightly in mid-session from peak morning advances.

Steels, utilities, foods, liquors, agricultures and constructions were also in strong demand on gains ranging from fractions to more than a point. The exchange's index of key industrials was the highest since the index was compiled in 1934.

Gains and losses were about balanced in base metals but market leaders were among the gainers. Noranda touched a new high at 74 1-4.

Leading western oils showed gains ranging up to 10 cents.

Selected gold issues climbed slowly. Leading junior producers were ahead as much as 20 cents.

CHARGE

A few minutes after the Scotland Yard announcement Monro was taken into the Cannon Row Police station and formally charged. He will appear at the Bow Street Court tomorrow morning.

Scotland Yard Statement

Sensational accounts of the incident in the London press had led Scotland Yard to issue in mid-afternoon a statement saying:

"No state papers have been stolen from the diplomatic box which has been missed from Buckingham Palace. It has been recovered intact.

"It contained only correspondence and no state papers or secret documents."

The official statement left the question open as to how the box happened to turn up in a garbage can outside the palace early today.

The London Evening News which broke the story, says it vanished from the room of Maj.-Gen. A. C. Salisbury-Jones, Marshal of the diplomatic corps.

A member of the royal household, the marshal acts as liaison officer between the court and the diplomatic corps.

A man found on the palace grounds was detained for questioning, but the News says he was not believed to have any connection with the diplomatic burglary.

No member of the Royal Family was in the palace. The King is at his country estate, Sandringham. The Queen and Princess Margaret are at the family's Balmoral Castle in Scotland with Princess Elizabeth and her two children.

Box Found by Sergeant

The News says the diplomatic box was found by a sergeant in the Irish Guards. The News adds that the box, which had been locked, had been smashed open and a part of the contents removed.

The room where the theft occurred has two big windows, 10 feet from the ground. It is immediately to the right of the ambassadors entrance to the palace. If the thief went in that way, he passed within 150 feet of the sentries on duty outside the main gate.

The News says the box was last seen, locked and intact, in Salisbury-Jones' room at 5 p.m. yesterday.

In addition to the armed military sentries, the palace is guarded by special police.

Provisions for the security of the Royal Family were tightened sharply after a royal gardener broke into aged Queen Mary's residence — Marlborough House —last June 24 and severely injured two of her housekeepers.

A Buckingham Palace press officer said "something happened last night and Scotland Yard is investigating exactly what it was." He declined to elaborate.

B.C.I. Juniors Trounce Trenton For Second Win

By DON DOLAN

At Trenton yesterday afternoon B.C.I. Juniors won their second straight victory as they decisively trounced Trenton High School 22-0. The B.C.I. team held a huge edge in ground gaining and territorial play as the homesters were unable to cope with the powerful offensive of the B.C.I. machine. Trenton was never in scoring position and only on rare occasions were they able to drive past mid-field.

Bill Philp, the B.C.I. quarter, continues to be the main cog in the B.C.I. offensive. In yesterday's game, Philp scored a pair of touchdowns, passed for another and kicked two converts. John Thompson, who missed the opening game against O.S.D., was in the B.C.I. line-up and he contributed greatly to the victory with numerous spectacular runs, one including a touchdown run. The B.C.I. line should be commended for its great play. Many holes, large enough "to drive a tank through," were made for the ball carriers who had an easy time running through the Trenton team.

Strong Aerial Attack

B.C.I.'s strong aerial attack, which figured so prominently in their first victory, was used only in the latter part of the game because a drizzling rain fell during most of the contest which made the ball very wet and heavy. However on the first play on which they passed a touchdown was scored. Philp the quarterback fired a perfect pass to end Bruce Page who galloped the remaining distance for a touchdown.

Nearly all of the B.C.I. backfielders including Hagerman, O'Hara, Thompson, Philp, Moore and Burrows ripped off great gains. John Baker played a sound two-way game for the winners while Lewis, Goyer, Nickle, Adamson, O'Hara, Page and Parsons shone defensively.

All of the Trenton players tried hard but they were unable to match the speed and power of the B.C.I. squad.

Line-ups:

Trenton—Ends, Brick, Whitley; middles, Nokes, McConnel; insides, Pinch, Hill; centre, Goldberg; quarter, Baker; halves, Hinton, Defosse, Robinson; flying wing, Reid, R.; subs, Jones, Johnson, Maitland, Reid, L.; Brown, LaFleure, Hood.

B.C.I. — Ends, Page, Farmer; middles, Adamson, Nickle; insides, Goyer, Parsons; centre, O'Hara; quarter, Philp; halves, Moore, Thompson, Hagerman; flying wing, Baker; subs, Meyers, Burrows, Lewis, McPartlin, Hiles, Kellett, Soule, Mathews, Ashley, Cherry, Spencer, Alexander.

Officials: Referee, Jack Dean; Umpire, Harry Brown.

Prominent Speakers Address Women's University Club

The opening Fall meeting of the University Women's Club of Belleville and vicinity was held in Rednersville, at the Summer home of Miss Irma Panter, Wednesday evening last. The pot luck supper was most bountiful and enjoyed by all. Mrs. A. C. Locke presided at the business meeting which followed. Several new members were introduced to the meeting.

Miss Irma Panter, convener of the membership committee, has application cards for prospective new members. Miss Elizabeth Stone was appointed to fill a vacancy on the committee.

Special Speakers

Mrs. Don MacKinnon, chairman of the program committee, outlined the plans for the coming season. Among the speakers looked forward to are Miss Constance Hayward, in February, liaison member of the Citizenship Branch and the Citizenship Immigration department of the government; also coming to speak to the club is Mrs. Brown of the Interior Decorating department of Simpson's; Mr. Don MacKinnon will speak to the club on phases of his work as probationary officer in the Juvenile and Family Court in the County of Hastings and Belleville.

It was decided to accept the request of the regional conference of the Canadian Federation of University Women and hold the conference in Belleville in May, 1951, the club to act as hostesses.

After discussion, the club voted to give scholarships this year, one of $100 to Miss Patricia Smith, and one of $75 to Miss Elspeth Wishart.

Special Speaker

Following the business meeting Mrs. Locke introduced the speaker of the evening, Miss Erie Grout who gave a most interesting account of her trip to Europe, in the past Summer. Miss Grout's word pictures held her audience—The Thames water busses going through history; the crown jewels in the Tower; the wonderful flowers of London; the scarlet geraniums and ivy in the window boxes; the unique park system of the great city.

Then in France, one saw the small villages unkempt and depressing, showing the effects of three wars; contrasted with this was the perfection and prosperity of Switzerland.

At Zurich Miss Grout attended the opening meeting of the International Federation of University Women and heard Dr. Douglas of Queens University and president of the Federation, deliver the keynote speech on "Human Rights". More than 100 Canadian women attended the convention.

Risks Life Saving Young Son From Train

Cavan, Ont., Oct. 13—(CP) — Witnesses told today how a railway station agent's wife risked her own life to save her 18-months-old son from an approaching train.

Mrs. Tom Wilcox, wife of the Canadian Pacific Railway agent here, locked 18-months-old Tommy and Wayne, 2½, in the house last Wednesday to keep them away from the trains.

Just before noon she looked out the window and saw Tommy playing with his wagon on the tracks. She heard the horn of an approaching C.P.R. diesel engine on a test run and ran out of the house. Tommy was standing fascinated by the train's noise and its bright yellow color.

She arrived at the scene in time to hurl herself against her son and knock him out of the way. She said the train seemed to pass within six or seven inches of them. Tommy's wagon was dragged along the tracks for a mile.

Three Candidates In By-Election Heard by Labor

Niagara Falls, Ont., Oct. 13 — (CP) — Three of the four candidates in Monday's Welland by-election spoke by invitation Thursday night at a meeting of the Niagara District Trades and Labor Council. The Labor-Progressive candidate, Mel Doig, was not invited.

The Liberal, Dr. William H. McMillan, advocated an over-all national health plan to relieve citizens of the financial burden of long illness.

Sam Hughes, Progressive-Conservative, criticized the use of compulsory arbitration in the talks arising out of the recent rail strike. Although the federal government had said compulsory arbitration applied only to the rail situation and would be wiped out when a settlement was reached, the principle in labor-management relations had been established.

The C.C.F. party stands for reimposition of price controls but felt wage controls unnecessary at this time, candidate Mel Swart said. He told the meeting real wages have not increased since 1945 and less well-paid groups have suffered reduction of purchasing power. Strengthening of the official opposition in Ottawa was also urged by Mr. Hughes.

R.C.N. DESTROYERS

Shells from "the mighty Mo's" 16-inch guns crashed onto coastal targets at more than seven tons a minute. Canadian, British, Australian and other American warships were in the naval force commanded by Vice-Admiral Arthur D. Strubble aboard the Missouri.

The targets were port and rail lines and anything else that remains to support the communist Korean war effort on routes into North Korea from China and Russia.

Heavy Resistance

On the ground fronts, allied spearheads met increasingly-heavy resistance in their push toward Pyongyang, the red capital near the west coast. Two communist divisions were reported racing from the Ongjin peninsula to help the defenders of Kumchon, 75 miles southeast of Pyongyang.

The naval pounding extended from Songjin northward beyond the flaming iron and steel port of Chongjin.

The mighty Mo spread death and destruction with 800,000 pounds of shells fired in less than an hour in the opening bombardment at Chongjin Thursday. Friday she swung 100 miles south and lobbed her "bricks" into the rail-highway town of Tanchon while destroyers and cruisers shelled Chongjin, Songjin and the nearby town of Sangpo.

The operations shattered communist supply lines far ahead of U.N. ground forces rolling into North Korea along a 130-mile fighting front.

At the west end of that front, in an area that lies 65 to 75 miles southeast of Pyongyang, a fierce and confusing battle raged.

American spearheads within 65 miles of Pyongyang were at grips with red troops. An estimated 20,000 communists fought south of them and two red divisions were reported moving in from the west.

A field dispatch Friday from AP correspondent William J. Waugh sketched these developments:

British, Australian and U.S. 1st Cavalry soldiers moved against Kumchon, about 75 miles southeast of Pyongyang.

One column of the 1st Cavalry fought slowly up the main highway toward Kumchon, and was four miles south of that base Friday morning after an artillery duel that knocked out two-Russian made tanks.

Two other cavalry columns operating west and east of the road strove to clamp a pincers on Kumchon.

Goderich Mayor Resigns Office

Goderich, Oct. 13 — (CP) — Mayor George Mathieson resigned Thursday after a dispute over assessment.

The town recently appealed against a new assessment of $4,321,518 but a county judge upheld the assessment figures set by County Assessor Alex Alexander.

Town council last week decided to spend $2,000 to hire a man to defend individual appeals before a court of revision. The mayor told council Thursday that the judge already had declared that the figures were fair and he was opposed to putting an "unnecessary" expenditure of $2,000 on the taxpayers.

It was made known today that council has decided to ask Mayor Mathieson to remain in office "in view of the fact elections will be held in December anyway."

The man the council proposed to hire to complete new assessment cards and defend the appeals is J. P. Coombe of Toronto, secretary of the Ontario Association of Assessing Officers.

Will be Awarded Fellowship For Research on Soil

Guelph, Oct. 13 — (CP)—Professor G. N. Ruhnke, director of research for the Ontario Department of Agriculture and former head of the soils department, Ontario Agricultural College, will be awarded a Fellowship in the Agriculture Institute of Canada, T. J. Heeg disclosed today.

Mr. Heeg is president of the local chapter of the A. I. C. He said the award is being given in recognition of Professor Ruhnke's research work in soils and soil chemistry, his recognized ability as a teacher and for the part he has played in agriculture extension work in Ontario.

PRESERVE WILD LIFE RESOURCES

There are certain animals, birds and plants in the world which have reached such a low level in numbers that they are in serious danger of becoming extinct. The loss which the world has sustained through the extinction of certain species was referred to by Dr. Maurice Burton, Keeper of the British Museum's Natural History Section in a speech over the British Broadcasting system. He told his worldwide audience of men and women all over the world that these precious things must not vanish if it is at all possible to save them.

One of the tragic facts is that often it is difficult to save a species because it has sunk below the danger line. Burton cited two instances of birds wiped out in recent times, each case illustrating an important principle.

The first of these was the heath hen of North America, so reduced that it occupied only a small territory in the eastern United States, known as Martha's Vineyard. Subscriptions were taken up and people gladly donated money to buy the vineyard and endow it for all time.

It looked as if the heath hen was saved from extinction when suddenly a disaster occurred. There was a plague of goshawks and disease broke out among the prairie hens and finally fire swept Martha's Vineyard. The heath hen was a tight-nester and not even fire could induce her to leave her nest. The fire occurred when the heath hens were sitting, all the hens perished on their nests. The heath hen is now extinct and its passing shows how adverse circumstances may wipe out an entire species.

The passenger pigeon's case was referred to. Countless millions of these pigeons existed in 1832, one flock alone being of an estimated two thousand million birds. Unfortunately for the species, the birds were marketable and salted-down carcasses were sent for sale in the cities. Slaughter was on a prodigious scale and still they seemed to be very numerous. By 1875 they were killed in huge numbers and yet twenty years later they had been so reduced that killing the birds was prohibited.

Finally the story is told. The last passenger pigeon was seen alive in 1906 in the United States. Next year the last one of the species was seen in Canada. By 1914 the last one in captivity died in the Cincinatti zoo.

The moral is that numbers alone cannot ensure survival in the face of persecution, said Dr. Burton.

Every country has its rarities of animals and plant life. To preserve that heritage the utmost protection is required, so that the heritage of wild animals and fowl and wild plant life "is not further reduced by persecution, neglect or carelessness," Dr. Burton made clear.

This study of conservation occupies a great deal of attention today before it is too late. Animal, forest and soil wealth is the subject of intense study today.

TEACH DOGS HIGHWAY RULES

Purley, a town near London, England, has adopted something so radical or different that it cannot escape notice. The fact is the road safety committee of that place is giving dogs free ten-day instruction courses in how to cross streets without being hit by cars. A dispatch says that apparently the plan is proving effective, and refers to forty-three dogs stopping dutifully at the side of the highway to wait for some girls to pass on their bicycles and then to trot across.

Dogs are known to be very much alert to training, otherwise they would never be of such assistance as they are in hunting. The success of the Purley scheme of training seems to prove something of importance not only to dogs but even to their masters.

This efficiency on the part of dogs in learning to safeguard their lives and legs was taught the creatures in two hours of training.

Saint John Telegraph-Journal referring to carefulness being taught the animals, comments that motorists are interested in the experiment, as it is well known that many accidents occur every year because a driver may become panicky when he hits a dog or swerves into a ditch to avoid hitting the creature.

Dog owners should not be less interested for every owner knows the pet animal may get out on the road and be struck. Some dogs get a bad scare at some time and are known to have in this way become wary of cars. Once brushed by a passing motor's tire is a lesson they do not forget.

Truth is the most powerful thing in the world, since even fiction itself must be governed by it and can only please by its resemblance. — Shaftesbury.

TICKETS

By letter, wire and telephone
From friends who cannot get their own
(Both man and madam),
For any show they wish to see
Requests for tickets come to me,
As if I had 'em.

I do not write this to complain.
I've done it oft and will again
At office wickets
Stood long in line and patiently
For those who think that easily
I can get tickets.

Although they may be hard to get,
With pleas for tickets I'm beset.
My country cousins
Who live up state and want to come
Think I can surely get them some
By scores and dozens.

Oh, life would easier be for me,
And I am certain I should be
Much more contented,
Were there no contests to be seen
And grandstand tickets hadn't been
By men invented.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

IMPROVEMENTS

The workmen are busy repairing the street in front of our house these days. They have been at it now for two weeks. While they were breaking up the old pavement with pneumatic drills and steam shovels, this was naturally one of the noisiest neighborhoods in town. Now that they are filling and grading, the work is quieter, but very dusty. When they finally put on the asphalt surface, we can all enjoy the aroma of hot tar for a few days.

Despite all the noise, unpleasantness and inconvenience—many of us cannot get into our driveways—none of the neighbors seem to complain at all. Passing motorists sometimes start to drive through and have to back out; some of them are quite annoyed. But the people who live with it every day make no fuss at all. The old road was rough and full of holes. Probably we don't mind the construction now because we think of the pleasure and comfort that we will get from the new surface.

Most real changes for the better involve some inconvenience for somebody. People with no vision or imagination see only the present mess and fuss about it. But those who can foresee the future gain don't object to a little present sacrifice.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

In New York, you can walk the streets all day and you look at nobody; and nobody looks at you. In Paris you stroll the streets all day and look at everybody and everybody looks at you.

London come somewhere in between. It depends on your mood whether you look at anyone or not. But London is a little inclined towards the New York character; not many look at you, and those who do so generally have something in mind.

But in Paris, where everybody looks at you, nobody has anything much in mind. And neither have you, when you look at them. It may be due to the architecture, the city planning and the trees of Paris. It is a city designed for the human show. It is not functional, like New York. Paris takes the view that a city is meant for the habitation and the enjoyment of human beings. The buildings, the streets are not more important than the men and women who walk there. The whole is not more important than the parts.

Thus in Paris nobody hurries on foot. Leisure is enforced upon you, even if you are in a hurry. If you are in a hurry, take a taxi. They hurry. But all along the avenues and streets are the sidewalk tables of the cafes where the people sitting inspect you kindly; and you, strolling, inspect them. Then, after awhile, you sit and reverse the process. In Paris, perhaps because of the spacious beauty of the avenues and boulevards, all of whic are longitudinal parks, you are aware of the human being in the picture, for the simple reason that the picture has been built around the human being as the focus.

Poor old New York is different. It is as cold as an igloo. Like an igloo, New York is strictly functional. It is abstract, in the sense that these modern paintings are abstract. The whole emphasis of the picture in New York is on the frame of the picture and the design within the frame. If any human beings get in the picture it is their own darn look-out. Thus in New York you can walk the whole day and come away without a single memory of a human being seen.

Letters to the Editor

Holidays, Street Names

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer

Belleville is getting to be a big boy now and the village outlook will have to cease. The matter of food stores closing Monday, other stores Wednesday afternoon, factories on Saturday, some offices closing at noon Wednesday, others at noon Saturday and banks at 11 a.m., Saturday is simply ridiculous. Just thirty years ago we were teller-accountant in one of the banks here and we kept open every day until 3 p.m., including Saturdays. Also we had our lunch sent in and ate it on the job. Now you can hardly find a teller in any bank, at any time of day, without a notice in front reading "next wicket please". We for years urged that the banks should close at noon on Saturdays, but were told that this was quite impossible in a market town such as ours, although all other cities in the world were able to do it. It took about 30 years for this fallacy to die—then, believe it or not—they up and closed at 11 a.m. on Saturdays. We complained about this, but were told that ours, or rather "mine" was the only complaint received in all Canada. We are very pleased about that!

We think the Chamber of Commerce should take the initiative in calling all parties together, and ask them to settle down and have everybody close at the one time, possibly at noon on Saturday, as is done elsewhere, with the factories remaining closed all day Saturday. This will meet with all sorts of arguments that it cannot be done. We know that. But it will be a start and in another thirty years or so, it will be done, probably by their sons or grandsons. Meantime the present arrangement is very confusing to the public here and in the surrounding territory, as well as to the great number of travellers and business men, who have work to do here.

In the matter of street names, it is hardly possible to believe that the authorities could not think up some decent names. We could suggest probably fifty different names of trees, or prominent Canadian or Empire figures that would be much better than the "Tom, Dick and Harry" names they like so well. So well in fact that to this day there are half a dozen such names still duplicating various streets. The same thing applies to the townships. The Planning Committee is a very important one, doing excellent work. We hope they will get on with the job and get it finished, streets properly named and a new map out so business may proceed.

Communist China May Intervene To Save Koreans

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

The continued drive of United Nations forces into North Korea in pursuit of the red Korean army of aggression is causing much speculation as to whether communist China is likely to intervene to save her ideological soulmate.

That's a natural question for several reasons. China's Manchuria has a common frontier with North Korea, and Peiping doesn't want any "foreign" power in control there.

Moreover, Chinese communist Premier Chou En-Lai has broadcast a warning that China won't tolerate any attack on her neighbors — whatever that may mean. And Prime Minister Nehru of India has declared there is danger of Chinese involvement if U.N. troops drive to the Manchurian border.

Well, what's the answer? Is this a correct appraisal and, if so, will the U.N. abandon its fight and order Gen. MacArthur to withdraw from battle?

Always Danger

The answer on all scores would seem to this column to be in the negative. Of course, there's always the danger of a major conflict developing when there is as much juggling of high explosive as is going on in Eastern Asia. However, Chinese intervention in Korea now would precipitate a big-scale war, and horse sense says China definitely doesn't want that.

And why doesn't she want it? Because she is too vulnerable. Her immediate fear must be the loss of her Manchurian industries through Allied bombing.

Perhaps of greater concern is the fact that the power for plants in a good part of Manchuria is developed in a huge hydraulic plant on the Yalu River. The Yalu forms the western part of the border between North Korea and Manchuria, and this renders the hydraulic development highly vulnerable to bombing by planes based in Korea.

Lacks Resources

That would be the immediate danger in case China precipitated a major war. However, she has much more to worry about. Despite her millions of troops, she lacks the resources to engage in a major war.

But wouldn't Russia rush to China's aid? She might, but I believe there would be no certainty of it. Russia herself doesn't want to get involved in a major war at this juncture. She might well decide to let China fight it out by herself — a strategy which would allow the Soviet Union to conserve her own resources while the Western Powers drew on theirs to wage war against sprawling China.

Deer Quite at Home In Cowichan Bedroom

Cowichan, B.C., Oct. 13 (CP)—Yellow Horn, a four-year-old deer, is getting as domesticated as a cat. For one thing, he's sleeping on a bed most of the time.

The buck has moved in with Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Boyd in this Vancouver Island village. He started by sleeping on the verandah. He didn't take too well to the hard floor and later sneaked into the house at every chance and snuggled on a bed.

After that, it wasn't long before he was nipping into the kitchen to nibble at a loaf of bread or a bowl of fruit in the dining room.

Yellow Horn was deserted as a fawn on the shores of Cowichan Lake. Loggers adopted him and painted the horns yellow for easy identification by hunters.

Nazi Sub Victims Buried in France

Bell Island, Nfld. (CP)—The bodies of three French sailors, killed when a German submarine sank their vessel near this East Coast mining town on Nov. 2, 1942, have been exhumed by order of the French government.

The three men—Laurent Leometti, Maturin Leneve and Etienne Covemon—will be buried in France.

The men were members of the crew of the Free French vessel S.S. P.L.M. 27, which was lying off Bell Island loaded with iron ore waiting sailing orders when she was torpedoed by the enemy submarine which had slipped unnoticed into the bay.

Although the sub was immediately engaged by shore batteries on Bell Island and by the R.C.A.F. based at Torbay Airport, near St. John's, the undersea craft managed to slip away safely.

LOCKJAW IMPLANTED BY TOOTH OR CLAW

Since long before Tony the Wirish Terror's time, indeed since Topsy was a colt, I have been assiduously searching for a case of the three-syllable disease, ra-bi-es, in a human being. I am still searching. This does not imply that rabies never occurs in man. It is pretty difficult to prove a negative. But if it does occur it must be extremely rare. Not because I, an obscure one-horse-and-buggy practitioner, never saw a case—heck, there might have been a raging epidemic in Pen Yan or Yates County without a case coming to me when the real doctors were too busy or something. But I have put the question to large gatherings of physicians and none has encountered a case which he or she believed to be rabies.

Mind, I have no opinion regarding rabies in animals. Whatever this may be, I do not believe it need concern physicians or health officers—unless they are practical politicians.

I have repeatedly said here that if I were bitten or scratched or torn or punctured by animal or bird I'd have no Pasteur treatment. Instead I'd want immediate surgical treatment of the wound and, whether the animal or bird were presumed to be rabid or not, an immediate injection of tetanus (lockjaw) antitoxin or toxoid and a second 5 to 7 days later — the treatment which should be given in every case of a wound possibly infected with tetanus.

Thus fairly well protected against the development of tetanus (lockjaw) in consequence of the wound, I could dismiss the matter from my mind and laugh at the old wives' tales which are so cherished by the politicians in the health department.

Incidentally, have you not noticed how many of these mad dog stories that appear under headlines when real news is scarce are unfinished? First someone gets bitten or maybe more than one person gets in on it, and the health "authories" issue a warning to any one in the community who may have been bitten to report immediately for Pasteur treatment. All agog we search the paper next day—but not a word about the dread disease. Whether the dog still runs at large or other persons have sought Pasteur treatment is of no further interest to the public, apparently. It is the way of all mad dog scares.

The denouement doesn't warrant any further comment in the papers. The mad dog gets killed or settles down to the tedium of canine life, a few hundred mothers and fathers worry a good deal about the safety of their children, nobody gets the "hydrophobia" and the whole business is soon forgotten, at least until the health department thinks the time is ripe to whip up another "threatened" outbreak of rabies — to wit, somebody's vitamin starved pup gets running fits.

From time to time some one who is neither a physicin nor a health officer undertakes to enlighten me about rabies, perhaps even citing a case in man. Such assertions have less weight than similar assertions by physicians or health officers, and the cases they cite as of their positive knowledge are less impressive than cases reported by physicians or health officers in current medical literature. It is not without long study of the question and a good many long restless nights that I reached the Scotch verdict —"not proven"—and it will require more than hearsay, folklore and medical legend to change my conclusion.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

LIGHT AND WARMTH

Awakening from sleep to find ourselves in a day that is dark and cold we turn on the light and create warmth in our home from our furnace or log fire-place. All is changed. Our mental processes respond with our physical. Light and warmth make the difference.

So, in the days and times when all about us are both light and warmth, we need within ourselves a process that will give us cheer and hope. Call it philosophy of life, if you will. But it must be there to give us gaiety and courage. Thought demands both light and warmth to keep it fluid and exultant.

It is when our understanding becomes confused that we grope for light, and this light we find in God, "though He be but a lamp uplifted over chaos." Like a true set star, however, we are guided aright and His invisible spirit warms out heart, reinforcing every difficult attempt, making it that much more possible and triumphant.

I had a little flower garden at my summer island retreat. It was the only domestic spot against a background of wild and beautiful natural forest. I set out some flowers that grew tall and had lovely faces of white, crimson and purple. I watched each at different hours of the day and noted how each flower turned its face to the sun, and kept it there, turning with the creep of its light and warmth throughout the day.

In like manner, I thought, how happy each of us would be if we only turned our faces to God, getting His light and warmth, from daybreak to sundown—and then beyond! What a world of knowledge we can gain by simply studying and noting carefully, the many moves and actions in nature. What a horde of teachers there, hiding away to intrigue and instruct us!

The beauty of the earth grows and lives only as it gets light and warmth. More and more the great office buildings of the city are constructed so as to get more light and warmth from the sun. The more schools and libraries we have the more intelligent and happy a community becomes. Light, let into the mind, gives the entire physical part of us a new warmth.

SENT BACK TO WORK

Norwich, England, Oct. 13 — (AP) — The trial of Norman Goldthorpe, accused of the strangulation murder of a 46-year-old woman, was dragging to a close. The jury retired to consider its verdict. Forty minutes later, the 12 solemn men filed back into the expectant courtroom — and asked for a cup of tea. The judge sent them back to work. Three minutes later they delivered their verdict — guilty.

ONE MINUTE NEWS ABOUT JOHNS-MANVILLE

TREE ROOTS LIKE ARAB'S CAMEL

Remember? Once the camel was permitted to put his head in the tent it wasn't long before he'd edged in all the way and forced the Arab outside? Tree roots are like that. Once the tiniest tendril finds its way in through a faulty drain joint it isn't long before the whole sewer line is clogged with roots.

Johns-Manville make a white pipe called Transite House Connection Pipe that overcomes this trouble. Each joint in this pipe is sealed with a "Taper-Tite" coupling that guards against root penetration. Transite is made of asbestos and cement; it cannot rot or rust and provides a free flowing, continuously efficient connection from house to sewer or septic tank.

There are other advantages in using J-M Transite Pipe. Write for details, Johns-Manville, 199 Bay St., Toronto — or see your J-M dealer.

OUR TOWN

By JACK SCOTT

OLD AND BAD

The newcomer to Saint John, New Brunswick, Canada's first incorporated city, doesn't know whether to call the old port "quaint", and let it go at that, or come to the reluctant conclusion that it's the grimiest slum town in the country.

For the tourist, as we've been the last couple of days, it's sort of baffling. Your mind never quite knows what to enjoy as charmingly historic. Or what to condemn as tragic squalor. You're uncertain about whether all this should be preserved [illegible] grand link with Canada's earliest days. Or whether a good, big, hot fire wouldn't be the best thing that ever happened here.

Parts of Saint John are wonderfully colorful. Market Slip, for instance. It pokes a stubby finger of the harbor right into the heart of the old town. Fishing schooners at the wharves lift and drop with the tremendous Bay of Fundy tides no more than a block from Zeller's, the Bank of Montreal and Household Finance.

You learn that this is where the Loyalists landed in 1783. Over there, where the Bank of Montreal stands, was once a coffee house where citizens gathered to discuss Waterloo. Benedict Arnold lived for a time just up yonder street. What's more, if you sit on the old wharf in the sun, as we did yesterday, you can taste the flavor of history.

But history and age are less kind when it comes to housing. You can spend a whole morning driving about Saint John and shuddering at the rotting, broken-down hovels and tenements. Some are empty, with signs on them saying they are condemned as dwellings. It seems like a purely arbitrary choice. Almost all of them in the central part of the city appear to be in the last stages of decay.

Seem to be a number of reasons for this. The most interesting is that much of the original Saint John was destroyed by fire in the summer of 1877. The town was rebuilt in a great rush before the winter set in. Saint John never recovered from its hurry. The residents point out, too, that the city grew swiftly and then stopped growing. "We haven't got rid of our mistakes," one old-timer told us.

• • •

Went around to see Saint John's phenomena, the famous "reversing falls rapids," but I must report that Moncton's "bore" has the edge.. Least, it seems that way to us.

What happens here, as you must know, is that the Saint John River flows quite normally into the Bay of Fundy, while the tide is low. Then when the tide comes in (to a height of 28 feet in the harbor) the river puts in its clutch and goes into reverse.

Trouble is that there's a long period of slack water when not much of anything is happening and the river turns, as it were, in its own sweet time. On t'other hand, Moncton's "bore" comes in the form of a visible and roaring wave, and dead on schedule at that, which makes it a more rewarding spectacle. I've come to the conclusion, anyhow, that no phenomena can be really "amazing" unless, perhaps, you discover it by yourself.

At St. Stephen, where you cross the River St. Croix into the United States, we had a fine farewell Canadian dinner and I let the gang shoot the works. Money was no object, I reasoned, since I'd just closed a big international financial deal with—harrumph!—a modest profit.

What happened was this: When we walked into the bank at Saint John Monday morning to change our Canadian money into the nice U.S. stuff, the clerk suggested we might tarry awhile. Canadian dollar had just been cut loose and was on its own. If we bought now, we'd pay $1.10 for every American dollar. If we waited a couple of hours until the New York market got going we might get it a little cheaper Course, he said, it might go the other way, too, and he wouldn't want to advise us.

Since the news for two days had been predicting that the Canadian buck might go right up to par, this looked like a good bet. We adjourned for breakfast and returned an hour later to find we'd saved ourselves one and three-quarter cents on every dollar.

Easiest money I ever made—which, of course, is saying something.

Found the customs and immigration men at St. Stephen and at Calais, on the American side, remarkably pleasant. The two towns get along as one and, with the possible exception of Windsor-Detroit, it's probably the friendliest stretch of the border.

We heard some amusing stories about the traffic across the line.

One concerned a clearing-out sale of cheap alarm clocks held by a jewelry shop on the American side. A number of St. Stephen's shoppers came over to the U.S. side for the bargain, hid the clocks in various unlikely places and started for home. But the jeweler, a practical joker, had cunningly set all the alarms to explode in the customs house.

Also the yarn about the husky hunter who shot a bear on the Canadian side, carted it, while still breathing, down to the border, declared it, carried it on into the main street of Calais, shot it dead and successfully claimed the bounty for any bear "killed in Maine."

Abroad With Me

By Dorothy E. Futcher

In this final letter of a most interesting series on her trip to Europe to attend the convention of the Associated Country Women of the World at Copenhagen, Denmark, Mrs. J. R. Futcher, president of the Ontario Federation of Women's Institutes, concludes her graphic and informative day-by-day account of her travels. They have been written especially to share with members of the Women's Institute throughout Ontario the interesting experiences of a trip abroad, and have been very widely read and appreciated not only by the W.I. members but also readers in general. Mrs. Futcher has already returned to Canada and to her home here.

London,

We have just come in from the theatre, Royal Haymarket, where we saw the drama, "The Second Mrs. Tanqueray," in which one of London's favorite actresses, Eileen Herlie, plays the leading role of Paula. This theatre is one of the oldest in London, built about 1760, with four balconies, beautifully decorated in red and brown. We enjoyed the play; the acting was splendid and the scenery and costumes of the era colorful and lovely.

But come back to the morning with me and I'll tell you how I spent this last day in Europe. We took an around-the-city sightseeing tour, going east out Shaftesbury avenue, the street of theatres, and the further east you go the worse the bomb damage. We are now nearing the docks and are in the business and manufacturing centre of the city and the damage is terrific—whole city blocks yet lying waste.

In most cases the rubble is pretty well cleared away but many shapeless, black, battered walls are standing, waiting to be torn down. The guide told us it would be twenty-five years before these would be rebuilt as they were for business and the need for homes must come first.

The Smithfield Meat Market (wholesale) is in full swing this morning; trucks standing solid side by side along it. Good meat is very hard to obtain in England and the housewife with the meagre ration of one half pound per person per week is hard put to provide appetizing meals.

St. Paul's Cathedral stands practically undamaged amid this scene of desolation, proof that the day of miracles is not yet over. The famous Bow Church in the heart of London is just a shell. One wing is left, where the congregation still worships. You remember the saying that to be a cockney one must be born within the sound of the Bow bells. Well, there are no more Bow bells, so no more cockneys, according to the adage.

We visit Guildhall, the city hall of London, and the damage is heavy indeed. In this hall, the city entertainment is done no matter what the occasion and they carry on with this tradition in spite of the temporary roof and many of the statues and carvings around the edge broken. This roof was one of the finest in England, and New Zealand is supplying the timbers for the new one. There are beautiful statues here to the Duke of Wellington, William Pitt, Earl of Chatham, and William Pitt the Younger.

We pass Mansion House with its front of beautiful columns, the home of the Lord Mayor of London. The Bank of England stands undamaged in the heart of London and it is here that bank notes are printed; and coins elsewhere. You remember that it is called "The Old Lady of Threadneedle Street."

We have three-quarters of an hour at the Tower of London and see the wonderful crown jewels just inside the jewel tower. The display is perfectly gorgeous and is housed in a dark, dingy stone tower. As you know, these jewels are owned by the state and some of the rarest jewels in the world are here in the various crowns, sceptres, diadems, etc. The display includes gold plate of all kinds, christening fonts and dishes, salt cellars in all shapes and sizes, wine flagons, chalices, etc. The value of this magnificence is over twenty million pounds.

We paid a visit to the Bloody Tower and saw where Sir Walter Raleigh and many others were imprisoned and killed, including the two young princes. You remember they were murdered by their greedy uncle, Richard. The cells were just dark holes in the thick walls and here prisoners were thrown without provocation at the whim of kings and men in power and left forgotten for years or else murdered.

In the White Tower (called this because it is newer) are stored all the old instruments of torture—the block and axe for executions, the thumb screws, the evil-looking gibbet which was an iron frame and was used to show bodies to the populas as a warning after an execution. We were glad to leave this cruelty and hatred and come out into the sunshine again. The famous Beef-Eaters of the Tower were standing here and there in their colorful uniforms.

On our way to St. Paul's Cathedral, we passed the famous Billingsgate fish market, the scene of great activity.

St. Paul's Cathedral has been used for hundreds of years for special thanksgiving services such as after wars and coronations. Many famous men are buried here and statues to others to commemorate their great deeds. There is a chapel just inside the cathedral door dedicated to Lord Kitchener, quite recent and all in white marble, and the most famous work of the sculptor, Sir Reid Dick.

The proportions of the cathedral are immense and its great beauty is the huge dome which escaped injury and is three hundred and seventy-five feet high. St. Paul's was built in 1675 by Sir Christopher Wren. Strange to say there is no memorial to his name. It was his wish, for he said "If you look for my tomb, look around you."

Away up near the base of the huge dome is the Whispering Gallery, so called because if you whisper against the wall on one side, it can be distinctly heard on the other. St. Paul's suffered some bomb damage but it was small. One small bomb did considerable damage to the beautiful altar, especially the lower part of it, and it will have to be entirely rebuilt, but the damage is hidden for the time being by colorful curtains.

The original "Light of the World" by Holman Hunt hangs here. I was interested to know that he painted two of these pictures. The first he presented to Oxford College and was annoyed where they hung it, so painted a second one which now hangs in St. Paul's.

We drove back to Leicester Square via Fleet Street, which is the press centre of London, Newspaper Row as it is called. The whole afternoon was spent in shopping. I was delighted especially with the Liberty Store, which is so unusual in style and formation, just like shopping in a rambling Elizabethan home.

And so we come to the end of my European travels and experiences and I am signing off. If you have stayed with me through all these busy weeks you must be travel-weary also and more loyal than I would have been. I wish for your sake I had done a better job at writing my day-to-day activities, but I must admit many nights I was just so "dog-gone" tired that my brain refused to function.

It has been a wonderful experience. I am grateful and thankful for it. But I am awfully glad to be turning my face toward home. "East, west, home is best." I will be happy to pick up my home routine again. Many of you I will be seeing shortly at conventions. So "Good Night" until then.

WEDDINGS

FARRELL—WHALEN

A pretty Autumn wedding took place Saturday, Sept. 30, at ten o'clock in St. Vincent de Paul Church, Deseronto, when Rita Veronica, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Whalen, was united in marriage to Frederic Gerard Farrell, son of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Farrell, of Lonsdale. Rev. J. J. Farrell, S.J., of Toronto, brother of the groom, performed the ceremony, and said the Nuptial Mass. Present in the sanctuary were the Rev. G. T. Martin, P.P., of Deseronto, and Rev. I. Donoghue, of Marysville. Charles Farrell, brother of the groom, and Harold Whalen, brother of the bride, were acolytes.

To the strains of the Wedding March played by Mrs. M. Huyck, the bride entered the church on the arm of her father. She was attractively gowned in white slipper satin, designed with fitted bodice, nylon yoke with Chantilly lace, long sleeves ending in points over the hands. Her full skirt was trimmed with alternate frills of lace and satin on either side. A seed pearl coronet held her fingertip veil and she carried a cascade of American Beauty roses.

Miss Grace Whalen was her sister's bridesmaid, wearing pale pink embroidered nylon dress over satin, with matching mitts and fingertip veil and matching headdress. She carried an arm bouquet of gladioli.

Mr. Stanley Farrell, brother of the bridegroom, was groomsman. Mr. John Whalen, brother of the bride, and Mr. Emmett Farrell, brother of the bridegroom, were ushers.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. The bride's mother received the guests, wearing a two-piece grey dress with black accessories and a corsage of red roses. The groom's mother assisted wearing navy blue printed dress, black accessories and a corsage of white 'mums.

Following the reception the happy couple left, amid showers of confetti and good wishes, for Rochester, Wallaceburg, and other western points. The bride travelled in royal blue velvet figured taffeta dress with grey accessories and a corsage of red roses.

Out-of-town guests were present from Rochester, Toronto, Kingston, Odessa, Belleville and surrounding district.

WOOD—MILLER

On Saturday, October 7, a pretty wedding was solemnized at 3 p.m., in Shannonville United Church parsonage, when the Reverend L. Scott united in marriage Muriel Beatrice, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Miller, R.R. 2, Shannonville, to Carl Edward Wood, R.R. 4, Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Wood, before a background of gladioli and dahlias.

Mrs. L. Scott rendered appropriate music during the signing of the register.

The bride wore a becoming powder blue nylon net gown over taffeta, with taffeta bolero, navy blue accessories, and corsage of red roses, fern and baby's breath.

Miss Barbara Wilson, of Belleville, attended the bride, wearing navy sheer with matching accessories and corsage of red roses, fern and gypsophelia, while Mr. Alfred Uens, of R.R. 2, Shannonville, attended the bridegroom.

The reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, which was beautifully decorated with pink snapdragons, pink and white streamers, and bells. The bride's mother, gowned in navy blue taffeta, black accessories, corsage of red roses, assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who wore loganberry wine crepe with grey accessories and corsage of yellow roses, received the seventy-five guests. The bride's table was centred with a three-tiered wedding cake. Those who served were Miss Jean Miller, Mrs. C. Cooke and Mrs. C. Peacock.

Following the reception, the young couple left for a short wedding trip. Upon their return, they will reside in Belleville.

Out-of-town guests were present from Peterborough, Tweed, Flinton, Madoc, Wellington, Ameliasburg and Belleville.

Sault Ste. Marie's famous four, the Hargreaves quadruplets, seem to find more fascination in the photographer's antics than in their cakes as they pose for their first birthday picture. Tea for Mothers Of New Pupils Given by Assoc.

Outside Queen Alexandra School on Thursday afternoon, gusty winds and heavy rain showers sent folks scurrying homeward but inside the picture was a complete contrast. The important occasion was the tea for mothers of new pupils, convened by Mrs. J. E. Mastine, membership convener, and very ably assisted by members of the executive and others members of the Home and Schools Association.

In the sparkling silver arranged on the tea table were reflected the warm colors of the floral decorations, red salvia, yellow chrysanthemums and some magnificent specimens of large red dahlias. In further evidence of the friendliness of the welcome, there were loaded dishes of most tempting fancy sandwiches and cakes, and when the red and yellow candles were lit, and tea, poured by Mrs. G. Anderson and Mrs. L. A. Kells was served, the warmth of community effort, as displayed by the table, was radiated to everyone present.

Warmly Welcomed

Mrs. Mastine warmly welcomed the new mothers, and Mr. Anderson then introduced to them the members of his staff, Mr. Enos David, chairman of the Board of Education, Mr. L. A. Kells, inspector of Public Schools, Mrs. Watts, the school nurse, and Miss May, music director for Belleville schools.

The president of the Home and Schools Association, Mrs. R. D. Arnott, then introduced Mrs. Ward, the president of Central Committee of Home and Schools, who spoke in a delightfully informal manner to the mothers, reminding them that so much can be achieved by co-operation and understanding of parent and teacher. Time passes quickly; children grow up before parents have realized that they have been young, and surely one evening a month is not too much to ask of parents' time in order that they may be better able to help and "go along" with their children.

Parents, teachers and guests then chatted together, and a very enjoyable tea was thus brought to a close.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Her husband has the right idea

Dear Miss Fairfax:

[illegible] am 21 and my husband is 27. We have been married a year and a half and have been separated three times during this period because of his temper and flirty eyes.

Recently, we were getting along very nicely until last weekend, when we went to a friend's house for the day with my sister-in-law, her husband and friends. The night before, my husband and I had a silly argument, and we were not on speaking terms. During the day, we all went out for a few drinks and got feeling pretty good. I was talking to the fellow next to me and my husband started to get mad. He called me a tramp and spit in my face. My sister-in-law tried to stop him and ended up having a fight with him. He has no reason to [illegible] the things he did because I [illegible] always been a good wife to him.

He suggests that we go to a marriage counselor, as he says he loves me very much and is sorry for his actions. I think, though, our marriage is too far gone for anyone to help us, so I told him I was getting a job as soon as possible and was going to leave him.

He has made lots of enemies because of the way he behaves and many of our friends won't even come to our house any more. I hate the thought of breaking up, for I love my home very much, but I'm so mixed up I don't know what to do. —M. K.

Dear M. K.: I think your husband has the right idea in wanting to talk things over with a competent advisor on marital problems, and I think you would make a mistake to break up with him without trying this plan first.

It is quite a lot for him to be willing to consult someone, as a great many husbands who make trouble in the home never see the wisdom of this. His attitude makes me feel that you may yet be able to save your marriage, and that you should do everything you can in this direction.

If you decide to talk with a marriage counselor—and I think both of you should do so separately—you can either get in touch with the American Psychiatric Association, 1270 Sixth Avenue, New York City, or write the American Association of Marriage Counselors, Inc., Suite 7G, 270 Park Avenue, New York City. Either of these organizations will suggest the names of qualified men in your community from which you can choose.

Indifference more effective than rudeness

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I have been going steady with a boy of 15, the same age as myself. I liked him a lot, and thought he was a wonderful boy, but now he has told me that he doesn't want to go with me any more and I don't know why. At school, he doesn't even speak or look at me. He acts as though he doesn't even know me. I don't think I caused him any trouble or embarrassment when we were going together to make him act this way.

I would like to know if I should act toward him the way he's acting toward me and not even speak to him when I see him. I like him very much, and would do almost anything to get him back.—T. W.

Dear T. W.: Don't be impolite and discourteous just because this boy is acting rudely toward you. He may not really mean to be rude at all. Perhaps he's self-conscious and embarrassed because he has decided he wasn't as interested in you as he thought, and doesn't know how to get out of it nicely.

When you see him, say hello, but let him be the one to start a real conversation. It would be silly to snub him or to let him think you cared. The best plan is to be your natural self; if that doesn't work, nothing will. And if it doesn't, stop thinking about him. Another "wonderful boy" will come along any day, and you will forget all about the other.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

Problem: when mothers bring uninvited children to wedding reception

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

What in the world can be done to convince mothers that, unless their young children are definitely invited to a wedding reception, they should not be allowed to come? This has become quite a problem here, and now that several of us friends are planning to be married within the next few months at church weddings with receptions following, we've decided we just won't have our weddings spoiled by a flock of children attending, particularly attending the receptions. (This has happened too often lately, and at the receptions the children have romped, devoured a lot of the refreshments, and no one seemed able to discipline them.) It is obvious, judging by the experience of other brides here, that too often an invitation addressed to "Mr. and Mrs. ——," both on the outside and inside envelopes, is interpreted to mean "bring the children too". Is there anything that can be engraved on the invitations themselves, or perhaps only on the reception cards? Or have you any other suggestion that might be effective as well as polite as possible?

Sallie H.

Apparently this has become a difficult problem in many communities, for lately I have received many complaints about it. Of course it's easy enough to say that parents should not take uninvited children to the church ceremony or certainly not to the reception. But it's something else again to make some mothers understand that their little darlings are not invited, or expected, or to be welcomed . . . even when the reception is in the evening, and indeed even when a dinner is to follow the reception!

There is no "notice" that can, with any possible degree of correctness, be engraved on the invitations themselves. This would be incredibly bad taste. I suggest that the mother of the bride-to-be, the hostess of the occasion, mail a separate note to the mother of young children, saying "We are so sorry that we cannot include your children, but this isn't possible because the reception and dinner are in the evening, and also there will be space only for our grown-up relatives and friends. We are sure you and the children will understand." Of course this notification should not be necessary, because it should be taken for granted by those who receive the invitations that only those whose names are written on the inside envelopes are invited to the wedding. . .the ceremony, but particularly to the reception, and most particularly to a wedding breakfast or dinner.

"Miss Mary Smith" not correct signature to letter

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

To settle a dispute we are having, please answer this question: When an unmarried girl signs a letter, should she sign "Mary Smith" or "Miss Mary Smith"?

Two stenographers

An unmarried girl (or woman) should sign a letter Mary Smith. Never should she sign "Miss Mary Smith" . . . for never should a title be signed as part of a name in a signature. When she considers it necessary to indicate her title she may write her signature:

Sincerely yours,,
(Miss) Mary Smith

The parentheses indicate that the title is not part of the signature. . . that the title is given only for the purpose of identification or information.

When only attendants are invited to reception

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When the wedding reception is to be for the members of the families and the attendants, are the husbands and wives of the wedding attendants invited?

300 MONKS BRANDED

Vatican City, Oct. 13 (Reuters) — Vatican sources last night said 300 Roman Catholic monks had been branded by Czech police and deported from southern Slovakia. The police were said to have stopped a train carrying the monks and burned a number on the leg of each deportee. The train then moved on. Nothing had since been heard from the monks, the Vatican sources said.

BEAUTY

Fingernail problems.

Beauticians report that before the era of nail veneer, when women used a powder and a buffer, fingernails had better attention than they have now. At the present time it is taken for granted by too many women that applying polish is all that is necessary, that it hides whatever defects there may be.

Talons of brilliant hue prevail, no matter what a woman's station in life may be, what kind of job she has. They have become a fashion institution, like tinted lips and the permanent wave.

Protective attentions must be given if the nails are to remain in a healthy condition. They must not be subjected to grime. They must be oiled and frictioned and the cuticle must be kept free of the nail fabric, else little shreds will appear to torment one.

Steel instruments should not be used to push back the flesh; it should be lifted ever so gently with the orangewood stick after the hands have been soaked in warm soapy water to soften the tissues. Pressure at the base of the nail may result in deformities, as it will injure the matrix, the new nail that is being formed by tiny overlapping scales under the skin.

Cold water and harsh soaps will deprive the nails of delicacy and lustre. The boss of the domestic works should make every effort to protect them against grime, wearing rubber gloves when dealing with dirty water, cotton ones when polishing silver or furniture. Once they lose their pristine loveliness, it is next to impossible to restore it.

The anemic woman will have colorless nails, since the glow is provided by the blood streams in the underlying flesh. If the circulation is sluggish, this same condition will prevail. Brittle nails with ridges may be due to a diet deficiency. Get your vitamins and mineral salts; they will have a favorable effect upon a variety of good-looks griefs. On this special beauty subject, as on many others, we get down to basic principles of health and vitality as the first requirement.

The nails should arch in the centre; if they do not, there may be some condition of the nutritive system that is not precisely normal. The ideal pattern is long and narrow, extending over the cushiony terminal of the finger. Claws that are pliable and bend easily are strengthened by vigorous massage with a heavy cream. Give them the leavings after you anoint your complexion at bedtime.

BRIDE-TO-BE

Sixteen-year-old Hasar Ali Tasse arrived at Winnipeg's Stevenson Airport after a 6,400-mile flight from Lebanon. Speaking no English, she was unable to tell airport officials who she was or who was to meet her. After four worried hours, her husband-to-be, a Manitoba farmer, arrived at the airport — having been delayed by a timetable misunderstanding. The two had never met, but had carried on a courtship by mail. — (CP Photo.)

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON OF THE WEEK

The Test of Inspiration

By ROY L. SMITH

Christianity, like Judaism and Mohammedanism, is a religion which rests down on a book.

Through a period of at least a thousand years the Bible was taking form. No one knows precisely how many authors contributed to its writing, and no one can estimate the adventures through which it has passed and by what strange circumstance it has been preserved.

One of the most bitterly contested questions in all the religious field today is that of "the inspiration of the Bible." And so many of the arguments could be avoided if the disputants were to take time to define what they mean by inspiration.

We have no desire to enter into any controversy on the subject of the inspiration of the scripture, for the very good reason that very few people have ever been made really religious as a result of arguing and debating. But one thing can be said which can hardly be disputed. The test of the inspiration of the Bible is to be found in the power to inspire.

It Raises Men's Hopes

From the very first page of the scriptures to the end one meets up with the spirit of hope. Bible characters are very frequently people who are somewhat less than perfect. But the scriptures continue to hold out the hope that, bad as a man may be, there is a chance that he may become better than he is.

It holds out the hope that the God of all the earth—a high-minded and kindly deity—is going to take a hand in the affairs of men and straighten out their mistakes and save them from the natural effects of their blunderings and evil decisions. We find the assurance that that intervention has taken place in the appearance among men of Jesus of Nazareth.

It Stirs Men's Consciences

The Bible searches out the innermost thoughts and motives of men and stabs their consciences awake. Sometimes in archaic language difficult to understand, and sometimes in phrases that might have been taken from tomorrow morning's headlines, the scriptures warn men against evil doing and evil thinking.

It has been charged on occasions that many of the characters of the Bible were imperfect men. But no man is ever left in the dark as to what is right and what is wrong, and no man is ever encouraged to do the wrong instead of the right. Instead, a thoughtful reading of the scripture will drive any honest and sincere man to search his own life and judge his own conduct.

It Promises More Chances

While the Bible holds up a perfect ideal, it is gentle and gracious toward those who fail to reach that ideal. On at least one occasion it says, "He that keeps on trying to be saved."

> The Sunday School lesson for October 15: "Using the Bible," Psalm 19:7-11; Acts 8:26-39; II Timothy 3:14-17.

Many of its greatest characters are people who once failed miserably, and then rose to magnificent heights. David was an adulterer who repented in anguish and got another chance. Peter got another chance after he denied his Lord. Prophets and apostles, plain people and the humble, will find in the scripture the assurance that if any man blunders or sins he may be sure of the encouragement and help of God the moment he begins to try to rise again. For those of us who have fallen repeatedly this is of the most inspiring hope.

It Searches Us Out

A learned man with a fine intellect who was also of a skeptical turn, religiously, one time said, "I can't quite define it, but there is something about the Bible that always gets me. I cannot deceive it. I cannot pretend in its presence, I cannot escape its moral decisions." Another such individual said of the Bible, "It seems to find me out."

It Takes a Long Look

From the very first page the Bible begins to take the long look. It inspires men to dream of the day when righteousness shall be done, and when virtue shall triumph on this earth.

The flight of time never frightens it. God cannot be hurried nor terrified. He always has another million years in which to work out His plans.

The prophets as well as the New Testament, labored under a sense of great urgency, but they never despaired. They were dealing with a God who never quits, never gives up, never suffers permanent defeat—one who can be delayed but not one who can be outwitted.

There is something to steady the soul about a book that can look beyond the cracking of the Maginot line, the invasion of Africa, and the destruction of the fleet at Pearl Harbor, to the day when the ruins of the Berlin Bunker cover the remains of one who aspired to world domination.

There is something inspiring about the idea that we are living in a world over which a moral God maintains his authority. This idea appears on every page of the scripture.

LONG RECORD

The Royal Air Force was constituted in 1917 from the Royal Naval Air Service and the Royal Flying Corps.

MARIO . . . in his distinctive feature about Food . . . What's Cooking ?

The soggy pumpkin pie is an old institution. As early as 1835 a writer in the Boston Medical Journal was complaining that "under the name of pie or pumpkin, their pastry is nothing but a greasy paste, never sufficiently baked."

A pumpkin filling for pies or tarts is actually a custard of egg and milk combined with mashed pumpkin. Like any custard filling, it will cause the pastry to become soggy if the pie is baked too long, or if it stands too long before it is eaten, thus permitting the wet filling to penetrate the crust.

A good way to keep the crust from becoming soggy is to bake it by itself, cook the filling separately, and then combine the two just before serving.

This procedure can be used in making individual pumpkin tarts. Tart pastry is made just like regular pie crust, but is baked in fluted tart shells or on the backs of muffin tins. If muffin tins are used, the dough will collect in several folds which should be pinched together.

Brandy or brandy flavor may be added to the pumpkin mixture if desired. Use canned pumpkin or pumpkin in jars as a time

Pumpkin Tarts

Prepare enough dough for a 2 crust 9-inch pie using any standard recipe or prepared pie mix. Roll out dough to 1-8 inch thickness. Cut dough into rounds to fit 8 tart shells or the backs of 8 large muffin pan sections. Fit dough into shells. Press firmly. Trim edges of any excess dough.

Pierce dough with a fork. Bake in a hot oven 450 degrees 12-16 minutes or until lightly browned. If dough "blisters" during baking, pierce with a fork to permit steam to escape.

Remove tart shells from oven. Cool.

Beat 3 eggs slightly. Add 1 cup milk, 2-3 cup brown sugar, 1-2 teaspoon ginger, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1-8 teaspoon ground nutmeg and 3 tablespoons flour. Stir well. Add 3 tablespoons brandy or 1 teaspoon brandy flavor. Add 1 1-2 cups cooked mashed pumpkin or canned pumpkin. Force mixture through a strainer. Cook in the top part of a double boiler over simmering water until thick. Remove from fire. Cool. Turn into tart shells.

Beat 1-2 cup heavy cream until thick. Add 2 tablespoons sugar and 1-2 teaspoon vanilla. Top pumpkin filling with whipped cream just before serving.

INDUSTRIAL AND AGRICULTURAL WEEK IN BELLEVILLE

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 14th TO SATURDAY, OCTOBER 21st

In order to give the public of Belleville and vicinity an opportunity to view the Industrial and Agricultural Products of this community, the Retail Merchants Section of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce are holding a special week from OCTOBER 14th. to OCTOBER 21st. Some thirty local and district manufacturers and associations have arranged to place special displays in Belleville Store Windows of the goods that they manufacture or produce. In this way retail merchants hope to bring to the attention of the general public the importance of local industries. A list of the Manufacturers participating in placing window displays is below, and you are urged to make a point of seeing these displays and become more familiar with the multitude of items that are manufactured here.

As an added attraction local merchants are conducting a window contest. This will be known as "What's Wrong With This Window" and a prize of $25.00 will be given to the winner of the contest. At the lower left hand side of this page is a list of the merchants participating in the "Window Contest". Each merchant taking part will place in one window reserved for his usual merchandise one unrelated article. (An obvious example of this would be a "pipe wrench" with a price tag on it in a jeweller's window). The lucky person finding the largest number of unrelated objects will be declared the winner.

Dr. Roland Burr Guest Speaker At Tennyson Club

Picton—Dr. Ronald C. Burr, of Kingston, was guest speaker at the opening meeting of the Tennyson Club held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Love.

Giving an account of a visit during the summer to the Old Country, France, Italy, Switzerland, Belgium and Holland, he expressed the impression that the people of the British Isles are in good spirits and that the material recovery, and an improved sentiment have accomplished something of a transformation in the last six months.

Head of the Department of Radiology and the Cancer Clinic at Kingston General Hospital, and professor of radiology at Queen's Faculty of Medicine, Dr. Burr attended a world convention of radiologists in England.

In picturesque language, punctuated with humor, he described many historic points.

President M. Love welcomed new members, Mrs. Charles Spencer contributed two solos. Reports were given by E. S. Theaker, treasurer, and Dr. W. R. Lane, secretary. Rev. A. E. McCutcheon introduced Dr. Burr, who was born at Bloomfield, near Picton.

Improved Ferry Service Promised By Minister

Picton — Consideration will be given to requests by Prince Edward County Council and the Chamber of Commerce for an improved ferry service, at the Glenora-Adolphustown crossing, said Hon. George Doucette, Minister of Highways for Ontario, during his annual official visit here.

This ferry is proving inadequate due to the growng traffic over the scenic highway No. 33 from Kingston. In August, 3,240 more cars used the ferry than in August last year.

Hon Mr. Doucette was guest at a dinner given by Warden Norris Whitney at Rickarton Castle.

The minister also discussed the diversion of highway 33 from Consecon to the lakeshore west of Wellington; the request for a free ferry from Cronk's ferry to Deseronto, and a short road leading to Lake-on-the-Mountain.

Accompanying Mr. Doucette were J. M. MacInnis Assistant Chief Municipal Engineer, E. F. Marston, and A. Ward, District and Assistant District Engineers.

Want More Money

Men employed by the county on road work yesterday presented a request to county council for an increase in the hourly wage rate. Now receiving 50c an hour, they are asking an increase of 15 cents an hour. The request points out that the increase in the cost of living necessitate higher wages.

Town employees were recently given 65c an hour.

St. Paul's United Church Holds Thanksgiving Service

St. Paul's United Church, Stirling, was festive with autumn blooms for Thanksgiving Sunday. The edifice was filled to capacity with dozens of visitors in attendance from various outside points.

Following a suggestion of Hon. Brooke Claxton, Minister of Defence, the commemoration of the "Battle of the Atlantic" was observed. It was most fitting that a few moments be given as a special thanksgiving for those who went down to the sea in ships.

During World War Two Canada lost on the high seas 1,300 lives with 24 lost ships. The merchant ships made 25,000 voyages across the Atlantic carrying altogether 2,000,000 tons of cargo.

Fruits of Toil

This cargo was the fruits of toil of men and women in the New World engaged in the rescue of the Old World and it formed a close link between Canada and the Motherland.

The Rev. A. E. Baker, pastor of the church, based his message on "The Master's Ship of Galilee" and other small ships, like friendship, comradeship and worship.

Mr. Jack Bush delighted with his initial tenor solo "Just for Today." The senior choir rendered an anthem, "Therefore With Joy," with Mr. Harold Hagerman giving the obligato solo. The Stirling Royal Junior Choir rendered "Now Thank We All Our God."

The regular "Naval Prayer" used in the navy; Lord Nelson's prayer before he entered "The Battle of Trafalgar"; and a prayer of Sir Francis Drake before entering Cadiz harbor; were read throughout the service.

Presentation

The Utman family presented an electric clock to the church in memory of their parents the late Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Utman and this was dedicated.

This unique Thanksgiving service was one of special memory as Canadians have been greatly blessed with abundance.

Mrs. Lewis Rodgers Addresses W.I. On Club Girl Activities

Rawdon— Mrs. Don Donohoe, president River Valley Women's Institute, was hostess for the October meeting on Thursday afternoon last with about 25 ladies in attendance.

The program opened at 2 p.m. The financial statement revealed over $15 on hand.

A letter re "Save the Children Fund" was read and each member was asked to bring one new 27 inch diaper, washed and ready to pack at the next meeting; also a letter re "Farm Forum" was read. The first autumn program is October 30th on the subject "Can we farm on shorter hours?"

Two minute silence was observed in memory of a valued member, Mrs. H. Philp, who died on Wednesday. Plans for the afternoon tea were also completed. Mrs. Hugh Jones presided over the program.

Guest Speaker

Mrs. Lewis Rodgers, who has been in charge of girls club work for several years, gave a splendid talk on her work as teacher and explained what the girls do; she displayed several charts and scrap books which gave the audience an idea of what the club girls are taught. The fall project is "Cotton accessories for a girl's bedroom."

The garden project is a three year term when girls compete for county honors, and provincial honors. Seven or eight meetings are held prior to achievement day.

"The way of good health," gave an idea of the proper food for health, the Canada food rules, correct posture, a well-balanced meal. Girls are taught that chocolate milk is not good for children's teeth, that shoes with thick soles are recommended, that hosiery should be half an inch longer than the foot, that salt water is good for the teeth, with the admonition "don't read in bed and save your eyes." The girls are taught the importance of wearing proper clothes for whatever function they are attending. They are also taught the value of the beautiful scenery that abounds in the countryside at home the many accidents in the home that are preventable and many other items of interest.

Last year a member of the provincial police gave a two-hour demonstration on "Traffic Laws" which was invaluable to the girls who drive motor cars. All were invited to attend the special achievement program in the community hall.

Mrs. Percy MacMullen contributed a reading "If they give a job to you, do it"; all enjoyed community singing.

Family Life Today

Mrs. Hugh Jones gave a worthwhile paper on "Family Life Today." In this day and age as always, the parents should be responsible for their children, and not neglect their education nor their spiritual needs. A family should learn to live together in harmony and to have fun together. The high aim is to establish a friendly, happy and affectionate bond between parents and child. The children should be given many phases of education which include household management, preparation for marriage, nutrition, proper buying and budgeting, a share in all home duties. The family where all members can voice their ideas in the family counsel and where all work together for democratic living, are the ones where life is a harmonious round of work and pleasure.

A vote of thanks was tendered to the guest speaker, program convener, hostess and refreshment committee.

Refreshments were served following the close of the service.

Rev. A.E. Baker, Mrs. Baker, Celebrate 25th Anniversary

Stirling—On Tuesday last Rev. and Mrs. A. E. Baker celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary without any special preparations; however, at a later date when their family can be at home, they will probably have a traditional anniversary celebration.

They were the recipients of numerous congratulatory cards and telegrams on Tuesday. At noon they, with Mrs. J. H. Beatty, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Lott, Sidney. While Mrs. Lott did not know of this distinguished anniversary, it is understood all she lacked as hostess was the anniversary cake.

In the evening, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Baker were guests at Massasaga United Church pie and ice cream social. Mrs. Baker delighted with two vocal solos and played several accompaniments, while Mr. Baker gave the address of the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Baker are receiving numerous greetings on this festive occasion and friends wish for them many more happy anniversaries.

French Abandon Key Bastion Of Thatkhe, Opening Another Gap in Weakening Line

Saigon, Indo-China, Oct. 13 — (AP) —The French today announced abandonment of the key bastion of Thatkhe, opening another gap in their weaking defence line along the China-Indo-China frontier.

It was the third frontier port abandoned or lost by the French within a month. The withdrawal left some 300 miles of the frontier open to the Vietminh guerrillas of communist leader Ho Chi Minh.

A military spokesman said the Thatkhe garrison withdrew from the post Tuesday night toward Langson, French frontier headquarter fortress 50 miles to the southeast.

The frontier withdrawals by the French began after the Vietminh in mid-September overran the post of Dongkhe, 60 miles northwest of Langson. Oct. 3 the French abandoned Caobang, another major outpost 100 miles northwest of Langson.

The garrison withdrawing from Caobang and a screening column from Thatkhe were caught in mountainous country by Vietminh forces and most of the 3,500 French and Colonial troops were lost. Since then observers had feared an attack on the Thatkhe might result in a similarly disastrous withdrawal.

Only Three Left

Abandonment of Thatkhe left only three main garrisons on the mountainous frontier between China and North Vietnam.

The sopkesman said he had no information that the withdrawing Thatkhe garrison was being harassed by Vietminh guerrillas, but said he believed the weather was good and that the French Air Force, in strength, was covering the "delicate and urgent" withdrawal operation.

The operation was similar to the withdrawing movement of the Caobang garrison, which resulted in a disastrous encirclement for the French. This time, however, the terrain was less difficult, the spokesman added.

A security silence blanketed the details of the Thatkhe withdrawal. The French did not reveal the strength of the garrison or what forces might be covering the retreat.

The spokesman said, however, that the garrison must pass several dangerous points at which the terrain is ideal for ambush.

Appeal for Aid

Washington— Defence Minister Jules Moch of France had a date today with top American officials to appeal for speeded up military shipments to embattled Indo-China.

Informed diplomatic officials said Moch is under instructions from his government to seek a quicker flow of American guns, tanks and planes for French troops fighting Indo-Chinese communist forces.

Moch and the French Finance Minister, Maurice Petsche, arranged to meet at the State Department with top U.S. officials to discuss France's defence plans for 1951. State Secretary Dean Acheson and treasury secretary John Snyder will head the U. S. conferees.

Moch was prepared to urge that existing American shipping schedules be revised immediately to get more fire power to the 150,000 French troops before comunist armies in Indo-China are able to launch an expected new offensive in two or three weeks.

The French defence chief was expected to assure Acheson and Synder that French forces, aided by loyal native units, will be able to check the communists without troop reinforcements from any other western country if arms shipments are speeded up.

Religious Groups Must Get Permits From Council

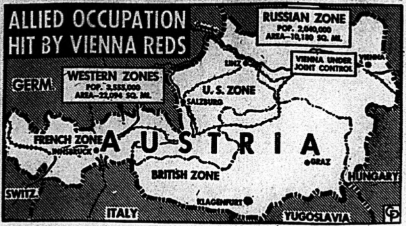
Val D'Or, Que., Oct. 13 (CP)—Police Chief C. Hamel said Thursday that permits granted religious groups to hold street meetings in this northwestern Quebec mining town are a matter for city council to decide.

In recent months, some 35 regular Baptists have been arrested here for holding evangelical street meetings without permits.

Mr. Hamel said in an interview that there is no regulation forbidding any particular denomination from holding street meetings. He said permits are required for all street meetings and that each application is considered "on its merits" by civic authorities.

(Rev. J. R. Armstrong, secretary-treasurer of the union of regular Baptists of Ontario and Quebec, said in Montreal Thursday that all Protestants are forbidden to hold street meetings in Val D'Or. He said his group was told in a letter from the Val D'Or city council a year ago that council had "decided no longer to tolerate the preaching of any sect in the streets of Val D'Or.")

AUSTRIA MAY ASK FOR U.N. INTERVENTION



The five-year truce in Austria between Russia and the Western Big Three — Britain, France and America — blew up when the latter accused the Soviets of fomenting nationwide disorders. These communist disturbances included strikes and seizures of government offices, during which more than 153 were injured and one killed. As a result, the Austrian cabinet appealed to the Allied Control Council to prevent further Russian interference with its attempts to restore law and order and, according to Austrian Foreign Minister Dr. Karl Gruber, may eventually appeal to the United Nations. Meanwhile, U. S. intelligence agents warned Washington that Russian plans to counter the communist setback in Korea by resuming cold war trouble-making in the Allied occupied zones of Germany. — Central Press Canadian.

More U.S. Orders May be Placed In Dominion

Ottawa, Oct. 13 (CP) —A government source said Thursday that additional United States gun orders are in prospect for Canada if the current $10,000,000 order placed at Sorel, Que., works out satisfactorily.

The order, announced Wednesday, brings to $14,000,000 the amount of armaments the United States has indicated it will purchase in Canada under the 1950 reciprocal arms deal.

It is expected that within the next few weeks American orders for chemicals and other items will increase the total to about $17,000,000.

Canada, on the other hand, this year will buy about $75,000,000 worth of aircraft and parts and vehicles from the U.S.

"The reciprocal deal, agreed to earlier this year, does not mean that the U.S. will match Canadian purchases dollar for dollar," the informant said. "Canadian orders will be a great deal larger than those of the US. However, the U.S. is picking up steam. We expect increases as plans develop."

Windsor Given Full Assistance Says Premier

Windsor, Ont., Oct. 13 (CP)—Windsor is being given full assistance of the provincial government in combating lawlessness and carrying through "a clean-up with a thoroughly vigorous law enforcement," Premier Frost said here Thursday night.

No direct mention of the present investigation by the city police commission into Windsor law enforcement was made in Mr. Frost's address, prepared for delivery at a public dinner sponsored by the Progressive Conservative Women's Association of Windsor.

Mr. Frost said he wouldn't discuss "intimate details" of the present clean-up, but added: "we will hit evil on the head wherever we find it."

Mr. Frost said the crime problem in Windsor and other Ontario cities is related to the same problem in United States border cities.

"It is quite apparent that a neighboring province such as Ontario might become the headquarters for rackets which found conditions on the other side too hot for them," he said.

The provincial government intended to make Ontario "too hot for these gentry" and for "any rackets or illegal organizations which have their inception on this side and who think they can operate in violation of the law."

The Premier, here for a tour of the city, also promised a stricter enforcement of liquor laws.

The government's policy was "essentially one of control."

"We will continue to shake up our inspection services. . .until we have the very best that can be obtained," he said. Inspection of premises now holding liquor licences would cover "not only the sale of liquor but services, including good food."

Free British Trips at Stake On Final Day

Alliston, Ont., Oct. 13—(CP)—Coveted free trips to the United Kingdom are at stake today, last day of the 37th International Plowing Match.

Only Ontario county champions in horse and tractor classes are eligible for the competition. Top man in each division receives the expense-paid trip to visit and compete in plowing matches, to study agricultural methods and do a little sight-seeing on the side.

Spectators here picked favorites in each division. It appeared to be a five-way contest in the tractor event among Frank Ford of Haldimand county; Robert Erle Tuckey, Lambton; Hugh Leslie, Halton; Lorne Passmore, Huron and H. J. Copperwaite, Uxbridge.

Behind the horse, choices were Howard Fiss of Haldimand; Stan May, Halton; Marvin Johnson, Grey; Harley Timbers, York.

Another big competition today was the open tractor division of intercounty competition. Open to two-man teams of plowboys under 20, winners and runners-up get a trip to the 1950 Chicago Livestock Exposition.

A similar contest was held yesterday, in the horses division, for conservation and agriculture trips to the United States.

Premier Frost Speaker

Winners of all three contests will be announced tonight at the prize presentation banquet at Beeton, 10 miles south of here. Guest speaker will be Premier Frost.

Commenting on the increased use of tractors for plowing, president Roy Shaver of the Ontario Plowmen's Association, sponsors of the match, said yesterday there is "still more art and finish to a field tilled by a team of horses."

Former horse-plowing champion of Stormont county, Mr. Shaver said: "a teamster has to do everything with his hands. Even with all his gadgets, a tractor man can't open and finish his land exactly right."

More than 30,000 spectators turned out yesterday, and officials expect a larger crowd for the top events today.

The wet weather has been fine for plowing, but many of the spectators headed for the tents during yesterday's rain. There they viewed the exhibits of machinery.

Further Mass Detention Of Aliens Appears Likely Before Govt. Writes Rules

Washington, Oct. 13 — (CP)—Further mass detention of aliens seeking to enter the United States appeared likely today as government officials sought to write a set of rules defining who may enter under the new anti-subversives law.

All American embassies and consulates — including those in Canada — were ordered by the U. S. government yesterday to hold up the visa of any alien seeking to enter the U. S. until they can recheck the alien's background.

The order only applies to those Canadians who plan to stay more than six months in the United States. For visits of a shorter duration than six months visas are not required by Canadians.

Canadian citizens resident now in the U. S. are not expected to be investigated under the order. But in Montreal, the American consulate "advised" Canadians in the Dominion now who hold U. S. visas to submit them to U. S. consular officers "for examination and revaluation." Failure to do this might result in "embarrassment" and delays at a port of entry, they said.

The anti-subversives law, passed last month over the veto of President Truman, specifically bars from the U. S. present or former members of any section, subsidiary, branch, affiliate or sub-division of any "totalitarian" party.

State and Justice Department officials said clarifying regulations are being drafted, but they declined to predict when they may be ready. At issue is just who fits the law's ban against members or former members of totalitarian parties and their affiliates.

Scores Detained

Scores of aliens — most of them Europeans — who have arrived since the law's enactment almost three weeks ago have been detained at Ellis Island in New York harbor by immigration officials.

To head off the arrival of others who might face detention, American diplomatic and consular officials abroad were told to suspend temporarily passport visas granted foreign nationals planning to visit or immigrate to the U. S. Displaced persons and official government representatives were excepted.

Visas are in effect entry permits. Before those suspended may be reinstated the consuls must be convinced that the applicants were never linked with communist, nazi or fascist parties and are not otherwise barred by the new legislation.

Representatives of the State Department issue the visas authorizing foreign nationals to come here, but the Justice Department's immigration service must decide whether to admit them upon their arrival.

Chain Reaction Events Waylay Driver of Jeep

Fairbanks, Alaska, Oct. 13 — (AP)—It was one of those chain reaction things, so the sad story of Jack Courtney might as well start from the beginning. To enumerate:

1. He stopped his jeep by an empty cabin about 47 miles from here.

2. He drained the watery gasoline out of the jeep and put it into cans he found in the cabin.

3. He lighted a cigaret.

4. His gloves caught fire.

5. He tossed them to the ground where they ignited a small pool of spilled gasoline.

6. The gas and glove flames spread to the tires of his jeep and set them afire.

8. He hopped into the jeep to drive it away from the house—then discovered the jeep was out of gas.

9. The other fireman dashed to his automobile to get a fire extinguisher—and discovered he was out of fire extinguishers.

10. The flames meanwhile consumed the jeep, then devoured the cabin right down to the last log.

11. Courtney hitch-hiked a ride back to town.

French Fly Reinforcements to Isolated Units in Indo-China

Flying by military air transport to the aid of hard-pressed French legionnaires in Indo-China are these Moroccan troops, trained in jungle fighting. Two French columns between Baria and Cap Saint-Jacques have been isolated by a strong force of Viet Minh, or communist, troops. — Central Press Canadian.

Usually elusive as a gust of wind, the Viet Minh guerrillas would disappear whenever a strong French force appeared, then would strike suddenly and viciously at supply lines. This member of an advance guard of a French unit found a rebel command post with the flag of rebel leader Ho Chi Minh still flying. —Central Press Canadian.

After three years of guerrilla fighting the French in Indo-China have become suspicious of everyone. A search of this boy, found in the geurrilla area, disclosed he was carrying the hammer and sickle flag as well as hand grenades. — Central Press Canadian.

MUTUAL ADMIRATION AND CO-OPERATION

The crews are co-operating in the nine-day "exercise emperor" to test the air and ground defences of Britain against high-speed atomic bomb planes. Pilots of five nations, the U.S., Norway, Denmark, Belgium and The Netherlands are joining with the British in the operation.—Central Press Canadian.

SOREL GETS $10,000,000 ARMS CONTRACT

Reciprocal defence buying between the U.S. and Canada has put wartime activity into the arms plant at Sorel, Que. Knowing that U.S. orders were coming, the Canadian government placed a $2,100,000 contract for navy guns early this year, and now the plant is ready for the announced $10,000,000 U.S. order for three-inch naval guns. Here is a view of part of a huge 2,000-ton press which stamps out gun carriages. — Central Press Canadian.

Early in the 1900s, Mr. Keen attended a meeting in Brantford which led to the founding of the Brantford Co-Operative Association. As president of this group, he was a leader in the founding of the Co-Operative Union of Canada at Hamilton in March, 1909. Wellington on the Lake

THE AGED

An elderly man, his days near spent,
And stooped with the burden of many years,
Stood watching the children with gaze intent
As from the school campus came shouts and cheers.

As I passed he turned with a feeble smile,
A smile that touched my heart in truth,
Then turning his gaze on the school awhile
He said, "How grand a thing is youth!"

I nodded assent, and passed quickly on,
But I thought of him on my homeward way,
Of now his many friends now gone
How lonely he was at life's closing day.

But memory came his heart to cheer,
As he watched the children at their play,
His youthful days drew very near
When heart was young and spirits gay.

Oh! the lonely hearts that vainly seek
The joys of a happy long-lost youth
May we pause a pleasant word to speak—
A precious gift to the aged in truth.

—Helen B. Anderson.

RIPLEY?

Rating in news value on a par with the bromidic "Man Bites Dog" cliche when that episode first hit the headlines, is the story, a true one, that a baseball fan was unable to give away a pair of tickets to a world series game outside Yankee Stadium, New York.

It's true, s'help us, and Jack Yanover is the authority for the story.

Jack, and his party it seems, after counting the pasteboards realized they had an extra pair. He waited outside one of the gates in the hope that he might dispose of the tickets, at face value but egad, not a potential purchaser was in sight.

Game time was approaching, and Jack decided to give the tickets to a kid or kids, a host of which usually hang around the stadium entrances in the hope of gaining a lucky entrance, or making a fast dollar.

* * *

In other years when he attended world series games in New York, says Yanover, the moppets hung around the gates by the dozen but this year not a tousle-head was on the horizon.

Came the strains of the Star-Spangled Banner and the roar of the crowd. The game was ready to go.

* * *

Jack approached one of New York's Finest who had an Irish brogue as broad as his No. 19 brogans and asked: "Where are all the kids, officer. I have an extra pair of tickets; I can't sell 'em so I'll give them to some youngster".

"Gwan, wid yer," grinned the big cop. "Sure, and wouldn't ye be knowin' the young spalpeens are home lookin' at the game over television. I haven't seen one of the young omadhauns since the seeries comminced. And haven't the scalpers scrammed also. I'm afraid ye're stuck wid them tickets, me lad."

* * *

Came another roar of the crowd and Yanover decided it was time to get inside. He thrust the tickets into the hamlike hand of the freckled gendarme and hurried to his seat and his friend inside the stadium.

As far as tickets to the New York game were concerned, Jack said it was no trouble to get seats at the box offices. The scalpers took a licking although it was reported that prior to the games in New York, the 'clip 'em boys' did a fair business.

* * *

AT LONG LAST!

A service that has been long lacking in Memorial Arena during hockey seasons will be given the public this year. Yesterday the Arena Commission tested and inspected a new public address system, and later they will hear another type. In any event a PAS will be installed which will fill a long-felt want in the ice palace.

This winter fans will be given the names of goal scoring hockey players, those who are credited with assists and also those who draw down the wrath of the officials and the length of their sentences.

* * *

BUT WHAT?

We have it on excellent authority that the Canadian National Railways Athletic Association will not sponsor a Senior "B" hockey team this year. It seems the CNRAA voted down the proposal at a recent meeting after it was felt the association had its hands full financially and otherwise with the new recreation park project.

However, we are also informed that a senior 'B' entry will be sponsored by a group of private individuals, so the village perhaps will be represented in this category.

* * *

ALL AROUND US!

They're not, as usual, letting the hockey alfalfa creep up between their toes up around Peterborough way. As was mentioned before the Peterborough Hockey Club has organized under the co-managership of Red Creighton and Ed. Foley. No coach has been named as yet.

The 1949 champion Legionnaires will operate under a new moniker this season. They will be known as the Peterborough Eagles. But what's in a name? These Eagles, bolstered with some newly-feathered reinforcements, will be just as tough birds of play as were the doughty Legionnaires of a year ago.

Kingston Nylons will probably be back as strong if not stronger than last year headed by the perennial Udy Udall, bespectacled goalie and always a toughie to beat. Queen's University, we are told will also ice a strong aggregation while Gananoque, which will probably be going along for the ride until the Intermediate playdowns start, should give the other squads some tough arguments before the schedule ends.

As for Belleville, there is nothing to report, as yet. We presume a lot of the old familiar faces will be back, in fact we have not noticed any strange ones around town with Senior "B" stamped on them. Some information may be forthcoming at the meeting being held in the Arena on Sunday when representatives of Senior "B" and Junior "B" squads of the district get together for a confab with OHA Convener Lorne Cook of Kingston and probably a member of the OHA executive.

THROW SALT OVER YOUR SHOULDER, WHIP!

It's Friday the 13th, and tonight is going to prove very unlucky for some one or two in that wrestling ring in Memorial Arena. Whipper Billy Watson and pal Timmy Geohagen don't intend, to be caught napping again — and the Leer (Henning) and the Masked Marvel, plus the "Wasp", his manager don't intend to be flamboozled by the opposition nor the pair of arbiters who will round out an even half dozen in the squared circle.

It is going to be a lot of fun, kiddies. The Whip and Tim are sizzling mad. The Mask and the Leer plus 'Waspy' are sneeringly cool. The referees may be armed with blackjacks. Not a bad idea — and not a bad thing to have around when the Whip-Tim-Leer-Mask quartet start slinging punches willy-nilly. But we are told the two arbiters are gentlemen who love nothing better than a good old-fashioned brawl with no holds barred, and shin-kicking and tonsil-removing permitted.

Manager Walter Gerow has reinforced the ring posts in case some berserk bloke craves an extra persuader. All contestants will be searched for weapons prior to entering the ring, but no one seems to know who will frisk the referees. It looks like a very pleasant Friday the 13th — for the faithful.

While the main bout contestants are working themselves up to the proper frenzy, and the umps rehearsing "how-to-keep-your-face-straight", Seeli Samara and Jim "Goon" Henry and Abe Zvonkin and Ray Gunkel will place the faithful in the proper mood.

Montreal Alouettes Hoping To Duplicate Late '49 Drive For Canadian Football Title

(By The Canadian Press)

Can Montreal Alouettes do it again?

That's the question Messrs Walt Masters, Frank Clair and Carl Voyles are asking themselves, with another round of Big Four football action coming Saturday.

They remember the 1949 season, when the slow-starting Als came to life late in the year to win nine straight games and the Grey Cup.

The stage is set for another driving finish Montreal. Slow-starting again and hampered by injuries most of the year, Als have won two of their last three and are nearly back to full strength.

The big test comes Saturday when they meet Clair's league-leading Toronto Argonauts in Montreal. The Larks will still be without limber-limbed half Bobby Cunningham, but otherwise will present a full lineup.

The other half of the Big Four Voyles' Hamilton Tiger-Cats and Masters' Ottawa Rough Riders—tangle in Hamilton. If Als spring the upset, the Ottawa-Hamilton winner will move into a tie for first with Argos.

In the West, the Saskatchewan Roughriders come to Winnipeg Blue Bombers Saturday while Annis Stukus' Edmonton Eskimos take on the counted-out Calgary Stampeders in Edmonton. A win for Winnipeg and a loss by the Esks would clinch the western title for the Bombers, since the Bombers still have two games —both with the Riders— after the Saturday fixture and Edmonton has only one with the Stamps.

There is a possibility that the league could end in a three-way tie as Winnipeg now leads the Eskimos by only two points and Edmonton is ahead of Regina by two points.

Has Bruised Arm

Glenn Johnson, imported Winnipeg tackle, has a bruised left arm and won't be playing Saturday. Tommy Ford, speedy former Argo halfback, has a pulled leg muscle and a scraped shin, but will be in there. The Riders have no unusual injuries.

The two strongest lines in the west will collide in this game, which is expected to devolve into an aerial battle between Roughies' Jack Hartman and Indian Jack Jacobs of the Bombers. Hartman will also be trying to wrest the league scoring leadership from Bomber outside Joe Aguirre. Aguirre has 51 points, while Hartman is in third place with 44.

The Stampeders, out of the running for a playoff berth, aren't expected to be too tough for Edmonton, who have exerted complete mastery over Les Lear's squad all year.

But Stukus, for the first time in a month and a half, has had his team scrimmaging in practice. He looks for a complete transition after twin setbacks from the Riders and Bombers, Not expected to see action are Don Simon, star homebrew back, and bruising tackle Earl Valiquette. Both have leg injuries. But Doug (Crazy Legs) Pyzer is expected to be back in top form after an injury bout.

The Stamps are expected to give Edmonton a real battle, since the players will be fighting for jobs next year when Lear's ax is expected to come down hard. But they're badly crippled. Riley (Rattler) Matheson, great line backer, suffered a severe ankle injury at Winnipeg; Paul Rowe, veteran fullback, has a rib injury; and halfback Chuck Fenenboch was hurt at Regina.

First Place at Stake

First place in the Ontario Rugby Football Union hinges on a Saturday meeting between Toronto Balmy Beach and Sarnia Imperials in Sarnia. A win for Toronto would give them a first place tie with Imps, while a loss would give Sarnia a handy four-point edge.

The pattern for this year's senior intercollegiate race is expected to be laid in Saturday's games, with McGill Redmen facing Toronto Varsity Blues in Toronto, and Queen's University, Kingston, travelling to London to meet Johnny Metras' University of Western Ontario Mustangs.

McGill walloped Western last week, and Varsity edged Queen's in a dull, fumbly game. The inexperienced Blues aren't expected to be much of a match for the Redmen, who sport four former Calgary Stampeders on their roster— Freddie Wilmot, Harry Irving, Dave Tomlinson and Jim Mitchener.

Western, still a mighty offensive machine, are rated on about a par with Queen's Gaels, who were away below form last week.

Adanacs Think They Can Down 2-Game Winners

Toronto, Oct. 13 — (CP)—New Westminster Adanacs, down two games to Owen Sound Crescents in their best-of-seven Dominion Lacrosse finals, still haven't played up to form, their manager said.

Ken McDonald said his squad must play the lacrosse they're capable of to down the Crescents, winners of the first two games by 8-7 and 13-6 scores. The teams meet again tonight in Maple Leaf Gardens.

"So far Owen Sound has been making us play it their way, and we haven't had a chance to capitalize on our speed," McDonald said. He said forwards Alfy Wood, Bob Bremner, Leo Jerome and Jack Northup are due to break out with a batch of goals.

"A beaten team should be a tired team," McDonald said. "Our players were still fresh after Wednesday's game. Owen Sound didn't give them a chance to get all the run out of their systems."

Meanwhile, Crescents were confident they could sweep the series in four straight. Coach Doug Gillespie said he plans one change in the line-up which scored the 13-6 victory Wednesday. Yorky Jordan will sit this one out, replaced by Jack Foote who was suffering from a cold Wednesday.

Grant Gillespie, who banged home four goals for Crescents after missing the first game, will be back in action again, as will be speedy Don Campbell, leading scorer of the series to date with seven goals.

Cincinnati Team Becomes Rage Of Hockey Loop

(By The Associated Press)

The amazing Cincinnati Mohawks are the rage of the American Hockey League.

Last year, their first in the circuit, Mohawks finished last in the Western Division, although they were pretty hot in the latter part of the season.

This year the Mohawks are setting the pace in the infant season and are showing no signs of relenting.

They stretched their unbeaten record to three games last night by snowing under the New Haven Eagles 8-3. Jackie Gordon, who played for New Haven last year when the team was called the Ramblers, scored three goals and Fern Perrault two to pace the drive. The Mohawks broke a 2-2 tie with two goals in the second period and added three more in the finale.

Hershey Bears and the Springfield Indians battled to a 3-3 overtime tie. The Bears broke a 2-2 tie early in the third period as Joe Schertzl scored while the Indians were short. Midway in the session the Indians tied it up when Ken Hayden scored while two Bears were in the cooler. Neither could break the ice in the 10-minute overtime.

Remember When

(By The Canadian Press)

National Hockey League directors at Montreal 26 years ago today admitted Boston Bruins, first United States entry, and Montreal Maroons to the league. At that time Toronto, Ottawa, Hamilton and Montreal Canadiens made up the circuit. Now only two of the six clubs are Canadian—Toronto Maple Leafs and Montreal Canadiens.

Sarnia Midgets Are Thrown Out Of Playoffs

Sarnia, Ont., Oct. 13 —(CP) — Sarnia Optimist Midgets, one game away from the Ontario Baseball Association Midget A championship, were informed Thursday they have been thrown out of the playoffs.

O.B.A. secretary W. J. Snyder said the team had not filed player forms before the playoffs as required by the league. He said the ruling threw out Sarnia's 5-1 win over Ottawa Red Sox earlier this week in the first game of the best-of-three finals. The second game was scheduled for Ottawa Saturday.

Sarnia manager Vic Slack said he has appealed the decision. The OBA executive will likely sit Friday or Monday to consider the appeal.

BROCKVILLE WINS TWO

Kingston, Ont., Oct. 13 (CP) — Brockville Collegiate and Vocational Institute seniors and juniors each have won their games from Kingston Collegiate and Vocational Institute in an Eastern Ontario Secondary Schools Association football doubleheader Thursday.

Brockville steamrolled to a 17-1 victory in the senior game but the juniors found the opposition tougher while fashioning a 10-6 triumph.

Penalties Force Chicago Hawks To Settle For 3-All Tie With Canadiens in N.H.L. Opener

(By The Canadian Press)

The 1950-51 edition of Chicago Black Hawks seems a bit stronger than a couple of hockey-wise men have figured it to be.

The Hawks came within an ace last night of ruining the National Hockey League season opener for Montreal Canadiens, rated top contenders for the league title.

Penalties late in the game, played before Canadiens' largest opening-night crowd on record—14,224—forced the Hawks to settle for a 3-3 tie and one point in the league standing.

Even at this stage of the race, their performance, however, stamped them as a force to be reckoned with during the 70-game schedule.

The result of the night's lone game left Detroit Red Wings, league and Stanley Cup champions, alone in the lead with two points picked up from their 3-2 victory over New York Rangers in Detroit Wednesday.

Boston Bruins and Toronto Maple Leafs, the loop's other two teams, swing into action Saturday when the Bruins visit Montreal and the Hawks invade Toronto.

Appear Unimpressive

The Canadiens took to the ice only a few hours after their coach, Dick Irvin, said they could win both the league title and championship. They appeared unimpressive, for all their goals came while Hawks were shorthanded.

Irvin has support for his choice in Toronto, where General Manager Conn Smythe of the Leafs told a press conference he figured Canadiens and Detroit were the teams to beat.

Roy Conacher, who bagged the 198th goal of his N.H.L. career, opened the scoring at 7:35 of the first period. It was the only Hawk goal scored while they had an advantage in manpower.

Veteran Elmer Lach knotted the count less than four minutes later on passes from Glen Harmon and Doug Harvey.

Bill Mosienko sent the Hawks out front with the only goal of the middle session, and they moved two up after seven minutes of the final on a goal by Gus Bodnar.

Ken Mosdell and Floyd Curry were the marksmen for Canadiens as the Hawks failed to kill off penalties in quick succession to Doug Bentley, Ernie Dickens and Jack Stewart.

WAGE AWARD MADE

London, Oct. 12 — (Reuters)—An arbitration tribunal today awarded a lump sum increase of £3,500,000 a year to coal miners who sought a weekly increase of 15 shillings (about $2.25) for about 400,000 lower-paid workers.

The tribunal was asked to arbitrate after the miners had turned down a National Coal Board offer of a 5s-a-week raise.

Today's award is to take effect from this morning. Exactly how much each man will receive has still to be worked out.

Three Members Of Soccer Club Are Suspended

Hamilton, Oct. 13 — (CP) — Three members of Hamilton Westinghouse Soccer Club were suspended yesterday and a fourth censured as a result of a scuffle during last Saturday's Glebe Cup match with Toronto Canadians in Toronto.

George Campbell, veteran Hamilton captain, was suspended until May 1, 1952 by the National Soccer League executive. Goalie Tommy Love was suspended to Aug. 1, 1951, Hugh Suttie was suspended for the rest of this season, and Dave MacNichol was censured.

Referee Bob Crawford, who brought the case before the executive following the game, said he was struck during the match. He laid civil charges against the players, but said he will withdraw them as a result of the league's ruling.

Eight of Ten Junior 'A' Teams Swing into Action

Toronto, Oct. 13. (CP)—Eight of the ten teams in the Ontario Hockey Associations Junior "A" League swing into action in season openers tonight.

Waterloo plays at Guelph: Galt at Barrie; Marlboros at St. Catharines and St. Michael's at Stratford. All ten teams play Saturday.

Besides the League's new entry —Waterloo Hurricanes—there are several new coaches.

The schedule has been increased to 54 games for each team, six more than last season and including Sunday games here.

Guelph Biltmores have eight holdovers from last year's title-winning combination. With depth in reserve strength they are expected to make a strong bid to retain the crown.

Toronto Marlboros, who ended last season on top—but lost out in the playoffs—have a "big, rugged team," says Manager Stafford Smythe. The problem is replacing George Armstrong and Danny Lewicki, now professionals in the parent Maple Leafs organization of the National Hockey League.

Waterloo has a tie-up with Boston Bruins through the latter's farm team Tulsa Oilers. Only a couple of players have had junior A experience and the team has lost four pre-season exhibitions. However, coach Bob Kinnear is optimistic the team will improve rapidly as the youngsters get more polish.

St. Catharine's Teepees has changed affiliation from Boston Bruins to Buffalo Bisons. New manager-coach is Rudy Pilous of the Buffalo organization who coached at Houston, Texas. He says he has a big fast team.

Generals Strengthened

Oshawa Generals scored a pre-season exhibition victory over Memorial Cup champions Montreal Canadiens for new coach Larry Aurie, former NHL great with the team's parent Detroit Red Wings.

Newcomers who will try to boost the Generals from last season's cellar include goalie Dick Piatkowski, Len Lenihan, Mike Delich, Joe Kate, Herve Dejordy, Alex Delvecchio, Stan Mills and Rene Leroux.

Windsor Spitfires promise to be young and fast. In front of goalie Glen Hall, who last year was second only to Marlboros' Don Lockhart in the lowers goals against average, the trend is to a hard-hitting speedy, defensive squad.

St. Michael's College has a new coach, Johnny (Peanuts) O'Flaherty from Pittsburgh, and a new goalie, Alex Finklestein, from Winnipeg. Six players from last year will be aided by a number of newcomers headed by starry Murray Costello, 16-year-old brother to Pittsburgh's Les Costello. The team averages 17 1-2 and is heavier than last year. They tied one and lost one in exhibitions.

Five Held Over

Galt Black Hawks have 5 players from last year and most of the recruits are young. They showed speed in exhibition contests and goalie Clark Sommerville, defenceman Mike Buchanan, Jack Price and forwards Jack Hill and Pete Conacher are back.

At Stratford, the Kroehlers have 16 from last year to give coach "Pinky" Lewis plenty of experienced help. The 25-man squad will be trimmed, with those dropped going to B teams in Stratford or Hamilton.

Smythe, Irvin Pick Canadiens To Finish Second

(By The Canadian Press)

Dick Irvin and Conn Smythe seem to have one thing in common. Both pick Montreal Canadiens to finish well up in the National Hockey League this season.

Irvin told reporters in Montreal Thursday night that his Canadiens not only will be in the Stanley Cup series, but can win it. Smythe gave an even more surprising assessment of Canadiens strength, coming as it did from the major domo of Montreal's arch rivals.

The Maple Leafs general manager told a press conference in Toronto that he was picking Canadiens to finish in second place. He picked Detroit to repeat in first spot.

Smythe predicted that his Leafs will finish "about third." He said Toronto will have quite a team "if our youngsters grow up and play as pros instead of as juniors or seniors as happened last year at times."

Concerning rookie left winger Danny Lewicki, Smythe said "he's another boy on a man's job, I'm afraid. . . However, we'll give him a chance." About rookie defenceman Hugh Bolton, he said "if he steers away from injuries, I think he will become the first defenceman to be named the N.H.L. best rookie of the year."

Smythe said goalie Turk Broda—at 36 the oldest player in the league—will start the season in the nets. "However, Al Rollins, his understudy, will get enough games to show whether he's a prospect or not."

At Montreal meantime, Irvin went on record as saying that Canadiens can win the Stanley Cup if one player comes through 100 per cent. The player? Defenceman Doug Harvey, said Irvin.

All that's needed, added Irvin, is for Harvey to shed a tendency to hot-and-cold play and to produce consistently a fighting spirit and a will-to-win enthusiasm. That could make the difference in the whole team, he thought.

Two jockeys were taken to hospital for observation and three others were shaken up in two spills in the third race at Toronto's Long Branch race track Thursday. The riders taken to hospital were Hugh Campbell and Willie Zakoor.

The first spill occurred on the first turn when Kanhythe broke a leg and fell. Geemanjo, racing behind, fell over her. As the other horses turned into the stretch Laffaday crossed her legs and fell bringing down Northern Trust and Hemflag.

The favorite, Five Fourteen, escaped any trouble and registered a half-length win.

In Sydney, N.S., it was learned that Dick Wray of Listowel, Ont., problem player with Saint John Beavers for the last two years, has been suspended by the Quebec Amateur Hockey Association.

It was understood that Wray's suspension was for playing in a league game without a release from Beavers.

Wray has played two games so far this year with Chicoutimi Saguenays of the Quebec Senior Hockey League.

Jake Mintz, manager of Ezzard Charles, said in New York Thursday that the heavyweight champion definitely will defend his title in Cincinnati Nov. 30—against Freddie Beshore or some other opponent yet to be selected.

At San Mateo, Calif., meantime, promoter William P. Kyne announced he has offered $100,000 for Charles to defend his title against Joey Maxim, light-heavyweight titleholder, in San Francisco Feb. 22.

At Newmarket, England, Winston Churchill's horse, Colonist II, scored his fifth straight victory Thursday in winning the 1¾ miles Lowther Stakes Britain's wartime prime minister flew there from Copenhagen to watch the race.

Playing baseball for the New York Yankees can be right profitable.

The club accountants announced Thursday that during a 30-year stretch, a total of $3,080,372 has been sliced up among Yankee players out of the world series melon.

Frankie Crosetti, a shortstop in his playing days and now a coach has pulled down the largest chunk—more than $65,000. Joe DiMaggio has collected almost $55,000.

The duel between Proximity and Pronto Don in the $25,000 Gotham Trot at Yonkers, N.Y., raceway was postponed until tonight due to rain and a sloppy track Thursday night.

Brooklyn Calls Montreal Catcher

Brooklyn, Oct. 13 — (AP) — Brooklyn Dodgers announced today that they have called up catcher Dick Teed from Montreal in exchange for the contract of outfielder Jim Russell and an undisclosed cash consideration.

Teed, 24, is a 180-pound, right-hand hitter. He played 56 games with the Royals and batted .275.

Russell hit .229 in 77 games this year with Brooklyn.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

There are times when I stink as a bridge player. Then I kick myself around the block, saying: "Why don'tcha take lessons from yourself, chump. All you need is to remember what you teach."

Not that my record is so bad. Up to July 1 my batting average was 1000 per cent. Including the Pike's Peak open in Colorado Springs. I entered only five tournaments and won all five of them.

But credit for these belongs to good partners and the accuracy of my Horse-Sense system. Any errors that occurred should be chalked up against carelessness or forgetfulness by me.

A case where my brain cell went on vacation was in this deal:

NORTH

It was during the Rocky Mountain regionals at Denver. I became the declarer in south at a contract of three no-trump. The opening lead from west was the king of spades.

Nine tricks looked like a cinch They were the two black aces, ace and king of hearts, five diamonds. The main idea was to see that all five diamond tricks came in without a hitch.

With two tops in one hand and one top in the other, rule says to first lead one of the touching tops. The reason is that there is still a top in either hand to threaten either opponent.

In expert competition, however, the unusual situations are also anticipated. Given consideration are the safety plays that offer some better percentage for success. With these I am familiar, of course.

But did I give serious thought to the known safety play in this case? Nah. Like a palooka I grinned confidently and flippantly led first the diamond king to set up that suit. Too late I discovered all four outstanding diamonds in the west hand. Down went McGinty.

That's why I say: If you must know, I theenk, as a player I steenk. But I boast like a ham what a teacher I yam.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Oct. 13 (AP) — While nearly every other top comedian is scrambling to television, Danny Kaye is in no hurry.

"I don't think I'll do TV for a couple of years," he remarked on the set of "On the Riviera." "Everything is in too much of a turmoil. I'll wait until it simmers down."

Kaye does not even own a television set. But that will soon be changed. His three - year - old daughter, Dena, has put pressure on him into ordering one.

Friday Footnotes

Robert Young, now in "Goodbye, My Fancy" with Joan Crawford, is playing his first film role since last December. A longtime free-lancer, he reports the independent field is rugged these days. The major studios are using their contract players and independent producing is largely on the rocks. Meanwhile, more players are being dropped by studios and joining the free-lancers.

Dan Dailey is playing one of his rare non-musical roles in "I Can Get It For You Wholesale." Which kind of film does he prefer? "The pay's the same for either one," he shrugs.

Baill Mauldin is finishing up his first screen role in 'Red Badge of Courage.' How would he like to do more? "I'd have to be awfully broke," said the baby-faced cartoonist.

Doris Day is off the Bob Hope air show this season. The reason "Bob wants to do a lot of travelling this year and I can't do that and pictures, too."

Capsule Review

"Two Flags West" is just a fair western, despite its big cast and handsome settings. All of the elements for greatness are there, but the whole thing stumbles into a muddy plot. It centres around a headstrong cavalry commander, who is getting to be pretty familiar in bigtime horse operas. Joseph Cotten, Linda Darnell, Jeff Chandler, Cornel Wilde and some fine photography help make it passable entertainment.

Little Benny's Note Book

I was dowtown with ma on account of both of us needing things, me needing new shoes again alreddy, and I said, G, ma, gosh, look, he wants to sell him.

Meening a man holding a baskit with a swell looking little puppy in it, and a sine on the baskit saying, For Sale, and another lady was standing there looking, saying to ma, Isn't he the most darling, cuddly little thing you ever saw?

And she lifed him out of the baskit and rubbed faces with him, and ma said, I never saw anything cuter, let me hold him.

And she took him from the other lady, saying, Oh dear, he's just too softq and adorable.

Me thinking, Oh boy, good luik, maybe she'll buy him.

And I said, I bet he's a good watch dog, ma, I can tell by his expression.

He's an innocent little angel, that's what he is, I could just eat hi mup, ma said, and I said, He thinks you're grate too, ma, look at him licking your hand.

I'm sure he likes me too, the other lady said. The fuzzy baby darling, let me have him again, she said.

And she took him back from ma, and I thawt, Heck, she's going to buy him before ma has a chance.

And I quick said, Hurry up and buy him, ma.

Well sutch a thawt for land sakes, ma said. Do you think I want a puppy in the house chewing everything up while he's waiting to get big enuogh to nock everything down? she said, and the other lady said, My yes, how rite you are. There's nuthing more destructive. Well, I cant waist any more time with the blessed little lamb, she said.

And she put him back in the baskit and kept on going, and so did ma, pulling me with her.

Proving you cant tell mutch by the way ladies talk.

MORE HEAT FOR LESS MONEY!

Don't wait until next winter—now is the time to insulate! GYPROC WOOL Insulation enables home owners to save up to 30% in fuel costs, yet the house is kept warm and comfortable in spite of the coldest weather.

With GYPROC WOOL protecting your house, every bit of heat from your fuel is made to work—it is kept inside to warm you, instead of being allowed to escape through walls and roof to the outside.

GYPROC WOOL will give you comfort this coming winter—and year after year, for GYPROC WOOL is the "Lifetime Insulation". It is mineral; does not deteriorate; is moisture-resistant and fire-safe; and permanently retains its insulating properties.

Write for a copy of "Insulation Manual", which explains how insulation works and shows how easily GYPROC WOOL may be installed in your home.

A G-L-A Product, made by Gypsum, Lime and Alabastine, Canada, Limited, and sold by Builders' Supply, Lumber and Insulation Dealers across Canada.

Blood on the Stars

By Brett Halliday

Randolph bounded to his feet. hayne you'll never know how feel about this."

"Don't think you're buying munity with ten thousand llars," Shayne said savagely, fter half killing my secretary. ll bets are off if she has a re-pse."

At one-thirty that afternoon hayne and Timothy Rourke ere in Rourke's office in the ews Tower. For the last half our they had been going over he telegraphic and telephoned eports from three operatives of he Worldwide Detective Agency n New York, Ohio and Colorado.

Shaye shoved the mass of data side and scowled angrily across he desk at the reporter. "It all dds up to nothing," he growled. Not a lead worth a nickel on ny of the three. I can't get over King and Kendrick completely anishing from sight almost immediately after collecting their nsurance money. No trace of heir bodies, even. And it doesn't ppear that anyone made any ffort to trace them."

"That's not too extraordinary," Rourke pointed out. "Take James T. King. He broke all his home ies with friends and relatives after inheriting that unexpected wad of dough. He simply shook the dust of Ohio off his feet and started out to have himself a time. He and his wife went high-hat and deliberately cut themselves off from their old life. They could be rgiht here in Miami today and we wouldn't know it."

"All right for Mr. and Mrs. King," Shayne agreed. "Roland Kendrick wasn't a poor man suddenly made rich. All these reports from New York indicate that he had plenty of jack and was used to spending it. Men like that don't deliberately cut themselves off from from everything just because they collect on an insurance policy.

Neither one of them made any profit on the ruby deals."

"There are some explanatory angles in the Kendrick case, too" Rourke insisted. "Don't forget Mrs. Kendrick was murdered in the hold-up. And all those people contacted in New York and Westchester County appear to have been more casual acquaintances than real friends. None of them knew the Kendricks more than two years. If we could find out where they came from, what their past history was, I imagine we could put our hands on Kendrick without any difficulty."

"If," Shayne echoed morosely. "They seem to have popped up suddenly as though they'd both crawled, full-grown, from under a flat rock."

"When people have as much money to spend as they did, no one bothers much about their antecedents," Rourke observed sagely. "Like the Dustins."

"I was thinking about those reports from Denver," Shayne said. "If he were to disappear today, we'd be up the same tree we are in trying to trace Kendrick. None of their friends in Denver seem to know much about their past, either. Why? It's one more odd co-incidence that doesn't hook up."

"Not so odd about a mining operator like Dustin," Rourke soothed him. "They move around a lot. Foreign countries and all that."

Shayne shuffled the papers on Rourke's desk and glared at them "It's almost as if both Kendrick and Dustin were intentionally hidding their pasts. That could be more than coincidence."

"Still I don't see what it gets us. Mark Dustin hasn't disappeared yet, and King—who did disappear—certainly led a blameless life until his lucky break in inheriting money."

"If we can trace the California lawyer who handled the estate of his uncle, we might get a line on King," Shayne grumbled. He looked at his watch. "It's time Mathews called in from Los Angeles."

The telephone rang as he finished speaking. Rourke grinned and quirked an eyebrow at it for Shayne to answer. The reporter's eyes glowed feverishly when Shayne picked up the receiver. He leaned forward, his elbows on the desk and his chin in his thin palms.

Shayne said, when the operator reported "put him on," and nodded to Rourke. He settled back in his chair. "Mike Shayne at this end, Mathews. Had any luck tracing King's attorney or the uncle who died?"

A frown gathered between his rugged red brows as he listened to the west coast operative give his report. After a time, he said curtly "keep on trying there. I'll make one more attempt to pick up something at the other end and call you back if I get a lead."

He hung up and said to Rourke "Mathews isn't having any luck at all. Nothing in the nineteen forty-three newspapers and nothing in the Los Angeles court records."

"We're not sure it was Los Angeles,," Rourke reminded him. "That was just the impression of some of his Massilon friends, and you know how people are. Mention California and they immediately think of Los Angeles. It ain't necessarily so."

Shayne nodded weary acquiescence. He lifted the phone, got long distance and asked for a number in Massilon Ohio. When he was connected, he said "Mike Shayne in Miami again, Perkins. This is the last time I'll come back at you, but we're still unable to trace that California inheritance of King's. I wonder if?"

He stopped talking, as he listened, his expression slowly relaxed. "Good!" he exclaimed after a time. "Good work. I certainly would like to speak to him personally."

Shayne waited on the phone, covering the mouthpiece with his hand and told Rourke, "this is our first real break. Perkins has dug up a next-door neighbor who met the lawyer and heard him discussing the estate with King in forty-three."

Shayne jerked his hand from the mouthpiece. "Hello. Mr. Klinger? I see. Hank Klinger. I guess you know what we want, Klinger. That's right. You think his name was either Norwood or Northcott. The lawyer? Right. The name of the uncle? I see. But you're fairly positive it was Los Angeles. Not San Francisco or Sacramento or San Diego. That's something. What sort of a man was the lawyer? Could you describe him—I mean how did he impress you at the time? A shyster or—?"

Shayne's voice fell. "I understand, Mr. Klinger. I think you may have been a great help and I certainly appreciate your cooperation." He hung up and was moodily silent for a time, drumming the blunt tips of his fingers on the desk.

Rourke said "for heaven's sake Mike," impatiently.

Shayne shook his head. He's not positive of very much excent to swear it was Los Angeles. He remembers the Kings getting ready for the trip out there to claim the estate. The attorney advanced them cash to make the trip—and he and his wife distinctly remembering Mrs. King being excited about seeing Hollywood and all the movie stars.

"The lawyer, Norwood or Northcott or something like that, made quite an impression on Klinger. He remembers him well. Nothing of the shyster about him. A big, quiet, conservative man. The kind to inspire confidence. German extraction perhaps. Spoke with a trace of an accent, but says he spoke impeccable English."

"Are you going to call Mathews again?" asked Rourke eagerly, "and have him start checking every law office in Los Angeles with that description."

Shayne shook his head. "I think I'd better call Mathews and tell him not to waste any more time or money out there." He looked at his watch again, pushed back his chair and got up decisively. "And call the rest of them off too. I'm becoming more and more convinced the answer to this thing lies right here in Miami and not in New York, Ohio, or California."

"Where you going?" Rourke demanded.

"I've got a date with a couple of guys who may put me on the right track."

Shayne got as far the door before turning back to say "why don't you and Voorland meet me in Dustin's suite at the Sunlux at three o'clock. Invite Peter Painter to come, too. That'll make quite a quorum to wind this thing up—if I'm lucky."

"What about Randolph?" Rourke protested. "I've had a feeling all along. . ."

"Don't worry about Earl Randolph," Shayne told him grimly. "He'll be there with me for the kill."

He went down to his car and drove hurriedly to his hotel. It was just two o'clock when he went down the corridor to his apartment. Randolph was waiting outside the door, and greeted him nervously. "You said you'd be here at two o'clock to meet me," Randolph complained. "That nurse wouldn't let me in."

"It's exactly two o'clock," said Shayne cheerfully, holding out his watch. He unlocked the door and went in humming to himself.

Miss Naylor stood just inside the door with the gun in her hand. She said "oh, it's you, Mr. Shayne." There were dark circles around her eyes, but her eyes were bright with interest and excitement,

"I thought you were to be relieved at noon," said Shayne.

"The nurse Dr. Price found—the only one available— was too young," she explained crisply. "I was afraid she wouldn't know how to use a gun." She smiled and added. "Besides I heard you say you'd be back at two." Then she chuckled. "A nurse doesn't often have the chance to get in on—well, this detecting business.

Shayne grinned and asked. "How's our patient."

"Sound asleep. Coming along fine." Miss Naylor looked from Shayne to Randolph, hesitated, then went back to the bedroom.

Shayne noticed that the door was left open a crack. He went over and closed it quietly and firmly. He said to Randolph "all set?"

The insurance man nodded. He took a bulky envelope from his coat pocket and said "Fifteen hundred twenties in here." From his inside coat pocket he drew a thinner envelope. "And sixteen bills in here, just as you wanted it."

Shayne took the two envelopes "Wait for me down in the lobby while I make some final arrangements." When Randolph hesitated he said "the less you know about this telephone call the better off you'll be if Painter puts you on the witness stand."

Randolph nodded mutely. His distended eyes were murky and weary, and his shoulders slumped as he turned and went out the door.

Famine in China May Have Been Worst in History

50,000,000 People Affected 20 Million Acres of Crops Lost

Hong Kong, Oct. 14 — (AP) — Last winter's famine in China proves that the Chinese communists can keep a secret.

Nobody knows its toll.

But enough information has leaked through the bamboo curtain to show:

1. It was one of the worst if not the worst such disaster in modern Chinese history.

2. More than 50,000,000 people were affected, and, through malnutrition, will continue to be affected.

3. Crops of at least 20,000,000 acres were wiped out.

Not even a rough estimate of the death toll has come from inside red China. All that has sifted out is an occasional admission that a few hundred had succumbed in this or that town or county, or that refugees had died by the road trying to reach greener fields.

The total death score, if anyone knows it, has been slipped into the pigeonhole of things the reds want to forget.

Started in 1949

The famine followed the march of the communist armies into China. It started in 1949 in the northeast provinces and parts of Manchuria after a drought which ruined thousands of acres of grain crops.

Then the Yangtze and Yellow rivers overflowed, destroying long, broad belts of crops one-fourth the width of China. Not in a hundred years had the two big rivers flooded simultaneously.

The highest figure ever mentioned by the reds themselves was last November when they said 40,000,000 people were affected, a fourth of them severely.

After that, official admissions were cautious and contradictory. A few independent reports dribbled out later, indicating that more than 40,000,000 people were hit by famine, that the famine was far-flung and scattered, that the reds themselves had only a sketchy idea of its extent; that the scourge hit areas which normally produce an excess of food, and that China would pay in undernourishment for years.

Plagued by Floods

Some areas of red China still are plagued by floods, but generally the crops have been good in 1950. Communist headquarters at Peiping estimates production of food at 120,000,000 tons, but that includes Manchuria.

One Killed, Six Injured in Crash At Campbellford

One person is dead and six others in hospital seriously injured as a result of a two-car crash five miles east of Campbellford yesterday.

Garland Huff, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Huff of Bonarlaw died a few hours after admission to Belleville General Hospital.

The injured are: Lionel Grey, 18, Campbellford; Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Gifford, 20 Redan Street, London, Ont.; Russell Gifford, 24, 10[illegible] Kathleen Avenue, Sarnia, [illegible] Blake Gifford, 26, of London and James Hardy, 53, also of London, Ont.

Mrs. Gifford was critically injured, incurring a fractured skull with facial lacerations. Dr. Geo. H. Stobie who operated on the accident victim said this morning that she had a good chance for recovery.

Samuel Gifford and Hardy are railroad engineers. Their party was en route to the funeral of the late David Wellman, killed in an accident a few days ago.

Gray and Huff were on their way to Roseneath Fair when the accident occurred.

According to reports from the scene of the accident, the cars met head-on at the top of a sharp rise in a county "one track" road. The impact reduced both automobiles to masses of wreckage.

Rendered Unconscious

Blake Gifford, Huff, Hardy and Grey were reported unconscious and were rushed to Belleville General Hospital. Mrs. Gifford, and her husband Samuel with their son Russell, driver of the car, were later brought here in a panel truck owned by J. C. Palliser, Campbellford florist.

Dr. Ward Baker of Campbellford rushed to the scene of the accident and immediately ordered the unconscious victims to Belleville General Hospital. An ambulance from Campbellford sustained a flat tire and a rush order was placed with the Bush Ambulance of this city. Passersby had assisted the first ambulance and it continued on its way to Belleville.

Later, Dr. Ward ascertaining the injuries of Mr. and Mrs. Gifford and son Russell, ordered them to hospital but no ambulance was available. Mr. Palliser volunteered the use of his florist panel truck and the three victims were rushed here with provincial police of Belleville clearing the way.

Dr. Geo. H. Stobie took over the injured in hospital here and operated on Mrs. Gifford and [illegible]ssell Gifford, the driver of the car, could not say how the accident happened. He was the least injured of the seven. His mother, critically injured, sat with him in the front seat. Samuel Gifford, his father, suffered a fractured collarbone and right arm. The remainder, apart from Huff, suffered mainly facial and head lacerations.

Dr. F. M. Dure, Brighton, Northumberland county coroner, has ordered an inquest.

THE WEATHER

Toronto, Oct. 14 (CP)—Synopsis: The major disturbance that gave Ontario several days bad weather has moved into Northern Quebec.

A minor disturbance west of Lake Michigan gave rain during the night to Michigan and north of Lake Erie. The cloud deck spread eastward beyond Toronto, and patchy cloudiness was reported for the remainder of the province.

[illegible] rain will edge eastward through southwestern Ontario today, but will be mostly light and intermittent. Elsewhere in the province skies will be mainly sunny.

Intellectual Prodigy is Held On Charge of Murder of Cabbie

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 14—(AP)—An intellectual prodigy, who once tried to choke his mother for saying "ain't" was held today on a charge of murdering a cab driver.

Handsome Harry (Hal) Irwin, Jr., 22, who became a licensed attorney at 18, was turned over to police by his mother after she quoted him as coming home and announcing:

"I killed a man for you tonight."

That was Wednesday. Mrs. Lois I. Irwin 48, said she was not sure whether to believe her son—he had told so many wild, imaginative tales. But the next day she learned that cabbie Monty Jack Whitmire, 23, had been found dead in his cab in a park.

She then told police: "I'm afraid Hal's mixed up in this."

The officers arrested Hal and booked him yesterday for murder.

Mrs. Irwin said her son, treated at the state mental hospital last year, was always brilliant. He could memorize anything but couldn't seem to apply it. "He knew the words, but not the music," the mother said.

"He loved good grammar," she went on, "and once when I said 'ain't' he grabbed me by the throat and throttled me."

TRUMAN SPEEDS TO WAKE ISLAND FOR CONFERENCE

Will Meet MacArthur To Discuss Situation

Honolulu, Oct. 14—(AP)—President Truman left today for tiny Wake Island, where he will confer with Gen MacArthur on measures to combat the threat of communism in the far east.

MacArthur already had arrived at Wake from Tokyo. The United Nations commander's plane landed on the little mid-Pacific atoll last night.

Truman and the general will meet for a brief but historic conference.

The site is a pinpoint of coral that a battalion of U.S. marines and 1,000 civilian workmen defended for 16 days in the Second World War before its capture by the Japanese.

The presidential party will arrive at Wake about 6:30 a.m. Sunday, Wake time, (2:30 p.m. EST Saturday) after a hop of 2,300 miles.

In Truman's party are Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff; Army Secretary Frank Pace; Ambassador-at-large Phillip C. Jessup; W. Averell Harriman, special presidential assistant for foreign affairs; Dean Rusk, assistant secretary of state for the far east; and Charles S. Murphy, the president's principal speech writer.

With MacArthur are two advisers: the U.S. Ambassador to Korea, John J. Muccio; and Brig. Gen. Courtney Whitney, head of MacArthur's government section for the Japanese occupation.

It will be the first face-to-face meeting of the president and the supreme American commander in the far east. They will confer both before and after luncheon, and will depart after issuing a communique.

States Position

Pausing yesterday at Hickam Field here, Truman said:

"I am not one of those who thinks that another war in inevitable. I am just as sure as I stand here that the people behind the iron curtain are just as anxious for peace as I am.

"I am just as sure as I stand here that if the truth be gotten to these people there would be peace in the world, and we are going to get the truth to those people, and we won't have to do it with guns, I am sure."

Truman at the same time gave an idea of how he proposes to use the MacArthur conference as the basis for important foreign-policy talks in San Francisco Tuesday night and before the U.N. General Assembly in New York Oct. 24.

He said that at San Francisco he will "tell the world what our policy is as it affects the world and world peace."

And before the U.N. he will "try to drive the matter home in such a way that we may begin to arrive at a situation where we can have world peace and not world war. That is my sole ambition."

Successes Must Not Lull Into Sense of False Security, War is Not Inevitable

—Churchill

Blackpool, England, Oct. 14—(Reuters) —Conservative leader Winston Churchill said today that recent United Nations successes in Korea "must not lull us into a sense of false security."

"What has happened in Korea has set world peace on a stronger foundation," he said. "There may be time to build up a European army with strong aid from Britain, the United States and Canada."

Churchill, addressing the closing session of the Conservative party's annual conference, said "the Soviet onslaught upon South Korea has made many people realize the perils which menace us and all that is left of European civilization."

He said "we may all rejoice at the favorable turn the war has taken in Korea. We are glad that British forces have been represented with those of other Commonwealth countries. We admire the skilful conduct of the campaign by that great soldier Gen. MacArthur.

"We must all hope that the forces of the free peoples of the world will not become too deeply involved in the Far East because the dangers there are on a very small scale compared to those which tower up against us on the continent of Europe."

5,000 Heard Address

About 5,000 persons were packed into the winter garden hall of this seaside holiday town to hear him speak. Another 2,000 heard him by radio at a nearby overflow meeting. Hundreds had lined up for five hours to get seats.

In his first appearance at the three day conference, the opposition leader declared:

"I do not believe that war is inevitable. On the contrary I believe that hopes of reaching a peaceful settlement with Russia have been improved by what has happened in Korea.

"I need scarcely say that we (the Conservatives) shall continue to give our help to the government in any wise measures, either of defence or diplomacy, to establish that peace and freedom arising from moral and material strength which is our hearts' desire."

Methods Sharply Criticized by Justice LeBel

Windsor, Ont., Oct. 14—(CP)—The Windsor police department's methods of investigation were sharply criticized Friday by Justice A. M. LeBel during the trial of 20-year-old Leo Washington, charged with attempted rape.

Police Constables Clifford Groh and Bruce Jamieson were criticized for a one-hour delay in starting investigation after they arrived at the home of a 16-year-old girl, criminally attacked on the night of May 23.

Detective Alvin Broderick said he visited the home Sept. 5 to check lighting conditions. Mr. Justice LeBel criticized the delay of more than three months.

"Don't you think there's too much red tape?" he asked Broderick. "Isn't there a man on the beat competent enough to go out and see what lighting there was?"

"I'm not criticizing you personally, you understand," he added. "I'm criticizing the system."

The trial of Washington, before a supreme court jury, is continuing.

Police Seeking Firm's Bookkeeper $38,000 is Gone

Toronto, Oct. 14 — (CP) — Police today sought Elsie Arnetta Teasdale, 33-year-old law firm bookkeeper, for questioning in connection with the disappearance of more than $38,000 of her employer's funds.

At the same time, her brother, Wallace Teasdale, told police he had received a letter in which the girl hinted at suicide.

Police said she was last seen Thursday in company with a man who described himself as a private detective. The man was held as a material witness and released today on $2,500 bail.

The brother told police that Miss Teasdale, apparently in good spirits, left work at the end of the day Thursday and vanished. Since then, he received a letter with a Toronto postmark in which she told him: "By this time next week I may be feeding myself to the fishes" in Toronto bay.

Detectives H. Thurston and W Johnston said $38,000 was withdrawn from the law firm's bank accounts during August and September. As bookkeeper, Miss Teasdale had power of attorney over two company accounts.

County Solicitor Asked to Resign By Essex Council

Windsor, Ont., Oct. 14 — (CP) — Roscoe S. Rodd, whose resignation as county solicitor was asked this week by the Essex county council on grounds of his left-wing political sympathies, said Friday his political affiliation 'has never been hidden.'

In a public letter to the council, Mr. Rodd said his political affiliation "must have been well known" when he was appointed in 1945.

He denied as "wholly without foundation" any suggestion that he was ever a communist.

"Nor do I make any apology for my association with the Canadian Peace Congress," Mr. Rodd said. The Congress was a non-political organization, working for mutual disarmament, outlawing of the atomic bomb and international friendship, he said.

"Your action seems to have been based upon the cowardly and false charge of an anonymous letter written," his letter to the council said.

He had not received official notice of his dismissal, but he said he would accept it.

Snatch-Grab Thief Takes $10,000 From Messenger

London, Ont., Oct. 14 — (CP)—A bank messenger was robbed of $10,000 cash by a snatch-grab thief in downtown London today. The robber escaped on foot.

Police said the thief grabbed a canvas bag from a Huron and Erie bank messenger. Bank officials said it contained 10 bundles of $1,000 each in $10 bills.

The thief was described as 23 about five feet 10 inches tall, and wearing dark brown trousers and a light brown zipper coat.

STRIKE IN INDIA ENDS

Bombay, India, Oct. 14 (Reuters)—India's biggest strike, the two months' old textile stoppage involving 220,000 workers of the Congress Trade Union Mazdoor Sabha Mill, today was called off.

No reason was given but attendance at textile mills has improved since Monday when an industrial court award of two months' bonus was upheld by the appellate tribunal. Strikers had agitated for a three months' bonus plus a cost-of-living allowance.

TWO BRITISH COMMANDO RAIDS CARRIED OUT

Royal Marines Destroy Two Bridges, Tunnel

Tokyo, Oct. 14 (AP)—Two British commando raids on North Korea's east coast only 65 air miles from the Siberian border were disclosed today.

Vice-Admiral C. T. Joy, commander of naval forces in the far east, said Royal marines destroyed two bridges, and a tunnel in lightning hit-and-run raids Oct. 7 and 8.

The marines went ashore in rubber boats from two U.S. destroyers. Their faces were weirdly painted. They were heavily armed.

On the night of Oct. 7, the commandos landed at Kyongsong, just south of Chongjin, the big industrial centre bombarded this week by 37 warships.

The operation of Kyongsong was the nearest to the Siberian border. Twenty-three hours later they struck 100 miles to the south near the city of Songjin.

Working on a carefully-rehearsed schedule, one group quickly severed all communications and power lines. The commandos subdued a group of civilians without firing a shot.

Other commandos carried 40,000 pounds of high explosives to the tunnel. They planted it on the seaward wall. More charges were placed on telegraph poles.

At a signal, the fuses were set and pulled. As the commandos withdrew from the beach, the charge exploded. Flames rose more than 100 feet.

The next night the commandos went ashore four miles south of Songjin.

They killed a sentry and rounded up a group of refugee women and children, hiding in what might have proved a danger zone. The commandos placed two tons of high explosives on the bridges, set the fuses and returned to their escape boats.

They were just a few hundred yards off shore when the charge exploded.

Traffic Control Convention Forms New Association

Kitchener, Oct. 14—(CP)—Delegates to Ontario's first traffic control convention Friday formed a permanent association with the title of the Ontario traffic conference and Alderman E. Bruce Weber of Kitchener was elected its first president.

Other officers: vice-presidents, T. C. Wardrope, Port Arthur, Inspector Jack Doughtrey, London, secretary-treasurer, Jack Halliwell, Kitchener.

Directors: N. C. Millman, Oshawa, Arthur Lomax, Hamilton, Chief Constable Bruce Robertson, Weston, Inspector James Callaghan, Ottawa, Inspector Emerson Mitchell, Windsor, John R. Walker, Toronto and alderman A. K. Skippen, Sault Ste. Marie.

The delegates turned down a suggestion that the group join the Ontario Safety League as a separate section instead of setting itself up as a separate body.

U.N. Troops Seize Kumchon Near 38 In Roaring Battle

Allied Carrier Planes Rake Fast-Disappearing Targets

Tokyo, Oct. 14 — (AP)—United Nations troops seized Kumchon today in a roaring battle on the southeastern approaches to Pyongyang, the Korean communist capital. It rammed a steel lid over an estimated 20,000 trapped reds.

On both the east and west coasts of Central Korea's narrow waist, allied carrier planes raked fast-disappearing red targets.

But there was no further word on the big task group led by the U. S. battleship Missouri which smashed supply lines from Soviet Siberia on Korea's east coast Thursday and Friday. The bombardment fleet was made up of 37 Canadian, British, U. S. and Australian warships.

Except for the U. S. 1st Cavalry Division's capture of Kumchon — the steel cork on communists bottled up southwest of Pyongyang — there was a drought in reports of ground action.

But there seemed no question that the Korean War was in its final phases. Gen. MacArthur flew from this Japanese capital to his rendeszvous with President Truman at Wake Island.

The president and U. N. commander are expected to discuss implementation of the U. N. directive for a unified, independent Korea and the problems of containing communism in the rest of Asia.

Centre Capture

Maj.-Gen. Hobart R. Gay of the 1st Cavalry announced the capture of Kumchon, a communications centre 11 miles north of parallel 38. One of the cavalry spearheads smashed eight miles north of Kumchon to Hanpo, 65 miles from the red capital.

"The trap is closed," said Gay. "They will not get out any tanks, guns or vehicles."

At Hanpo, the Americans were astride the reds' main escape route to the north. But Gay conceded that some enemy soldiers might slip out of the trap.

It didn't seem likely that too many would get out. The South Korean 1st Division was driving northward on the American right flank and was 4½ miles northeast of Kumchon at the time of the capture.

Trying to Fall Back

A captured red lieutenant said the North Koreans were trying to fall back on Namchonjim, 13 air miles northwest of Kumchon. Heading that way was another 1st Cavalry Division spearhead, on the left flank of the troopers who captured Hanpo.

The cavalrymen were supported by British and Australian troops.

MacArthur's spokesman said that although Kumchon is in Allied hands, some fighting was raging today south and southeast of the city. Counter-attacks by communists in regimental strength were rolled back.

The push toward Pyongyang from the Kumchon-Hanpo area north of liberated Seoul was at the west end of the spotty 130-mile front slanting northeastward across the peninsula.

Two New Discoveries Deal With Gangrenous Infection, Allergy Test

Montreal, Oct. 14—(CP)—Two discoveries, said to be of fundamental importance, were announced today by the Institute of Microbiology and Hygiene and the of the School of Hygiene and the faculty of medicine of the University of Montreal.

The discoveries deal with gangrenous infection in the first instance and with allergy skin tests in tuberculosis in the second. The institute said the discoveries will save time and work of medical personnel and reduce expenses of public health departments.

Doctors Victorien Fredette and Armand Frappier have established the action of a specific and non-toxic invasion factor in infectious gangrene. It is claimed they have achieved protection of groups of animals against virulent infection by means of repeated injection of that factor. Their discoveries are said to give rise to hope for specific treatment of gas gangrene wounds.

Doctors Frappier and Roland Guy have devised a skin test to detect the state of total allergy of individuals harboring tuberculous bacillus. Their test determines within 24 hours whether a subject must be vaccinated, that is, whether he is allergic or not.

Orr and his sister died almost instantly in the wreckage of their car and the child died in hospital later.

Orr and his son had been visiting with his sister and all were on their way to his home when the accident occurred.

1,500 Students Will be Attending B.C.I. in 1955

Approximately 1,500 students will be clamoring to attend Belleville Collegiate and Vocational School by 1955 if there is no change in the present area from which the school enrolment is drawn.

This has been indicated through a survey of school enrolment though the city and district with an estimate of the percentage of public school students who will continue on through high school.

For the past two years the enrolment at Belleville Collegiate has been jumping by nearly 100 students per year and this year at the commencement of the school term stood at 1103. The enrolment at the Belleville High crease and by 1955 will be roughly 1,500.

Principal G. E. Currie has had a graph prepared showing enrolment at the Belleville High School and later at the Collegiate Institute since 1915.

331 Students in 1915

Thirty-five years ago, or in 1915 the enrolment of the high school was but 331 students. The enrolment continued on practically an even level until 1920 where there commenced a gradual incline until 1927-28 when the enrolment stood at 567.

Then during the late 20's and early 30's there was a sharp incline until in 1931 the attendance had risen to 947. Again during the depression years the enrolment remained even with a sharp decline being shown during the early years of the last war. By 1943-44 the enrolment had dropped to 719.

Since that time with the exception of 1948 there has again been a sharp increase in enrolment and according to the survey the increase will continue.

Accommodation Strained

Already accommodation at the collegiate is strained it being found necessary to divide the library and make other arrangements to provide room for the increasing number of students.

Unless additional accommodation is provided through addition or construction of another collegiate within a year or two the present school will be unable to accommodate all students seeking enrolment.

District Film Council Buys New Projector

The Belleville and District Film Council purchased a new projector a short time ago and many of the members are now learning how to operate the 'Movie Mite.' This machine which is smaller than the Bell and Howell in use, will be used whenever there are two bookings on the same date. In the past it has been necessary to either refuse a request for the machine or arrange the two showings so the machine can be shuttled between the locations. Sister Mary Verda of St. Michael's Convent is acting as instructor.

As an outgrowth of a report by Ron Macklem and Stephen Hackett on the Eastern Ontario Federation meeting held in Peterborough the last of September a 'What's Your Beef' session took place. The present system of purchasing new films was criticized as being hit and miss. Rather than voting on a previewed film by a show of hands it was suggested we use the ballot system each person scoring the film on points. A list of the films now in the library giving the number of showings in 1949 and 50 was compiled by Olive Delaney and presented at the meeting.

Committee Named

Don Chard has been appointed a committee of one, with power to add, to compile a list of manufacturers who include films on their advertising agenda. These sponsored films, while they are a means of advertising do rank very favorably with NFB productions. Usually the advertising is limited to credit lines at the end of the films. The topics range from technical ones dealing with the product of the manufacturer to travelogues and general interest films. The number and scope of these films is very large and will greatly enhance the value of the Film Council to this area.

Ron Macklem will head a committee to look into the possibility of obtaining films dealing with conservation. It is hoped to aid by films the work of the Moira River Authority. Olive Delaney, the secretary, is to contact Benograph and other film distribution companies with a view to supplementing our present stock of Christmas films. Sailing in Canada, 10 minutes, color, was purchased. Following the showing of this film and Family Tree the meeting was adjourned.

We have some good news for you this week. It will not be necessary for you to leave your homes nor will it cost you anything to hear your band, commencing we hope, next Tuesday.

Arrangements have been made with radio station CJBQ to broadcast a concert on Tuesday evening. Just how often they will be heard isn't quite settled as yet but watch your local paper for the news.

After listening to our initial broadcast, if any of you have any criticisms, suggestions or requests that you feel will make our presentation more appealing to you, we would appreciate it if you would drop them along to our bandmaster, Ted Robbins, at 44 Gordon Street.

Arrangements are also underway to present programs to the various home and school clubs in the city. More news along this line shall also be published at a later date.

We were presented with the financial statement of our festival while at rehearsal Tuesday night. As you no doubt guessed, from last week's notes about attendance, we went in the red. However we shall make one more attempt next year. Here again we would appreciate any suggestions you may have, remember, we are relatively new at this festival game so we really do want to find out what you, our public, want from us.

Tuesday night we went over a lot of new music we feel you will enjoy and shall present it to you by radio. Such tunes as "Mexican Hat Dance", "American Patrol" and the like should take a lot of the younger folks' fancy. We will try as much as possible to keep our program of a lighter nature and shy clear of long hair stuff.

Well folks, if you have anything to offer, please drop a line and let us know your wishes. Hope you enjoy our broadcasts as much as we shall enjoy doing them.

Dangerous Driving Charges Draw Reformatory Terms

Oshawa, Oct. 14 — (CP) Convicted of dangerous driving, John Cook, 18, yesterday was sent to reformatory for 10 months and Albert King, 17, was given eight months. Both are from Toronto.

They went on trial for manslaughter in the traffic death last Jan. 21 of another Toronto youth, Michael Gerry, but an Ontario Supreme Court jury reduced the charge to one of dangerous driving. Still another youth, John Bell, died following the smashup.

Police said they chased the four youths, who were in a stolen automobile, at more than 70 miles an hour.

Canada's Cheddar 'Tops' in Cheese Verdict Given

With the national "Cheese Festival" set for the month of October 16 - November 15 of this year, an effort will be made to direct the attention of consumers to this Canadian product which has already won international acceptance as one of the finest foods ever produced.

Canadian Cheddar is a distinctive cheese, highly prized and the top-ranking favorite in many lands. This is the result of several things, such as tradition, natural advantages of soil and climate, high skill, long experience, rigid controls, conscientious production and pride of workmanship.

When cheese was first made in Canada, small groups of farmers built factories, hired cheesemakers and secured a new source of income. Today's advanced methods and equipment still revolve around the basic primitive methods which give Canadian Cheddar its inimitable flavor and texture. Visitors to Canada are intrigued with it. Canadians, sitting in the midst of an abundance of this top-ranking food item are inclined often to underestimate its value and its fine flavor.

Hard-Pressed

Canadian Cheddar is a hard-pressed cheese made of pure, whole milk. Its chief characteristic is firm texture. It usually appears in cylindrical form ranging from five to 90 pounds, and in three types; Mild (three to six months' old), Medium (six to nine months) and Old (nine months and older). Connoisseurs select Old, white cheese. To meet preferences of some consumers, color is often added but in no way does it affect the nutritional value or flavor.

Milk fresh from the farm goes into great vats (10,000 pounds, or 1,000 gallons), is stirred, slightly heated, coagulated with the help of an enzyme (found in rennet), cut into tiny cubes and drained. The fluid is called whey, the solid, left to mat and cheddar, is cured which is later milled into strips, salted, placed in hoops and pressed. From the presses comes "green" cheese, to be ripened for anything from a few weeks to several years, the degree of ripening determining the maturity or "nippiness."

First Factory in 1864

Canada's first cheese factory was built in 1864 in Oxford county (where Woodstock is located) in southwestern Ontario. In three years there were some 200 cheese factories in Ontario. Today Canada has 750 factories, coast to coast, which turned out almost 114,000,000 pounds of Cheddar in 1949 of which nearly 53,000,000 pounds were exported.

For many years, the rural Canadian community centred around the church and the cheese factory and there are still many one-man factories operating to which the farmer brings his milk early in the morning, often before breakfast, and chats with the cheesemaker who is thus able to advise the producer and assure a constant supply of clean, sweet milk for his Cheddar.

Practically every grocer sells Canadian Cheddar cheese made by carefully-trained and skilled cheesemakers whose abilities are certified and proven, supervised by government inspectors, nearly always ex-cheesemakers. Canadian Cheddar comes in Stiltons (five to 10 pounds), Daisies (20), Triplets (30), Twins (45) and Large (85 to 90 pounds).

Whether you are a visitor to Canada or a Canadian, if your grocer does not stock Canadian Cheddar, he can get it for you.

Hargreaves Quads Are Celebrating First Birthday

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Oct. 14 —(CP)— The Hargreaves quadruplets celebrated their first birthday Friday. At a party in a new home into which they moved 10 days ago, each had a tiny cake topped with a single candle.

Their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ossie Hargreaves, said the children, born prematurely and underweight, are happy and healthy and have from four to seven teeth each.

At birth, their weights ranged from three pounds three ounces to three pounds seven ounces. Now Joyce Carol weighs 18 pounds 10 ounces, Janice Barbara 17 pounds six ounces, Joan Diane 17 pounds three ounces and Jennifer Ann an even 17 pounds.

An average child weighs about 20 pounds on its first birthday.

Jennifer Ann and Joan Diane have light brown hair, the hair of the other two is reddish.

Joyce is one inch taller than the rest and measures 28 inches, while the others are around 27 inches tall.

Joan Dianne was the weakest of the four at birth. But now, her mother says, she is "the liveliest and the most fun."

Attractive, blue-eyed Mrs. Hargreaves, 28, and her 35-year-old husband, a $250-a-month worker at a paper mill, were living in a small wartime house when the quadruplets arrived. They saw at once that their dwelling could not accommodate their large family and Mrs. Hargreaves' two children by a previous marriage, Sandra, 8, and Kimmy 6. They moved to a larger rented house but still hadn't enough room.

The city gave them a lot on Lake Street near the eastern end of this northern Ontario steel-manufacturing city. Citizens helped with money and labor and now the family has a brand-new seven-room brick house with a cheery nursery and a spacious, sunny playroom.

"I am the happiest mother in the world," Mrs. Hargreaves said today. "It has been a hard job keeping up with my four babies the first year. but all the work, worry and strain has been worth it. All four girls are fine and very healthy and we are all so happy that everything has turned out so well for us."

Two Ont. Farmers Will Have Trips Paid to Britain

Alliston Ont., Oct. 14 (CP) — Herb Jarvis of Agincourt and Hugh Leslie of Georgetown are mentally packing their bags for expense paid, six week tours of the United Kingdom.

The 27-year-old Jarvis, and Leslie, won the trips yesterday when they topped the fields in open classes of horse and tractor plowing on the final day of the 37th International plowing match

The two defeated Ontario county champions and plowmen from other provinces to earn the trips.

They will be accompanied on their British Isles tour by Vic Porteous of Owen Sound, a past president of the Ontario Plowmen's Association. While overseas, they will compete in plowing matches in England, Scotland and Northern Ireland, see agricultural displays and visit historical landmarks.

Eight plowboys, all under 20, are just as happy about free trips through the United States and to the 1950 Chicago livestock exposition. Winners and runners-up in two-man intercounty competition, both horses and tractors, they showed themselves the best in competition both yesterday and Wednesday.

The Chicago tours for tractor plowing went to winners H. Baird and D. Dunkeld of Ontario County, and runners-up H. Hare and Earl Bacher, representing Haldimand County.

Weather Wet

Although the weather was wet until the final day of competition, the sponsors, the Ontario Plowmen's Association, were pleased. Rain dampened the sandy soil sufficiently to give top plowing conditions and it never rained hard enough during the day to postpone competitions.

The static exhibits of farm machinery and equipment, and demonstrations and competitions in fire-fighting, farm welding and horse-shoeing, also helped attract the estimated 100,000 spectators who attended the four-day matches.

The facilities of Alliston and district were stretched to the full by the influx of visitors from all over Canada, from the United States, Britain and South America.

Competition wound up last night with the presentation of prizes at a banquet at nearby Beeton. Guest speaker was Premier Frost, who forecast great agricultural development in Ontario as an outcome of current discussions concerning increased co-operations among federal, provincial and municipal governments in the fields of conservation and agriculture.

You can only have one mother and dad
Patient, kind and true.
No other friend in all the world
Will be as true to you.
For all their loving kindness
They asked nothing in return
If all the world deserted you
To your mother and dad you could turn.
So all we can do is to go and tend your graves
And leave behind a token of love
To the best mother and dad God ever made.

Oh wake her not, sweet spirit, to suffer again,
She slumbers so soundly, oh let her sleep on.
Her sickness is ended, her troubles are gone.

In the long night hours we soothed her in vain,
Till God in His mercy sent down from above,
An angel that whispered a message of love.
Ever remembered by son Albert, his wife and family. O1

Early History of the Moira Valley

From Moira Valley Conservation Report

7th Instalment

In the third tier of townships of the Moira Watershed however, a special local development hastened the opening of the country to settlers. This was the mining and smelting of iron ore which began in Marmora township in 1820.

The military authorities had long been anxious to secure a source of iron in Upper Canada. Attempts to exploit deposits north of Gananoque had proved unsatisfactory, and in October, 1820, Charles Hayes undertook to establish an iron works on Crowe Lake in return for 1,200 acres on which to build the works and another 1,200 from which to obtain fuel. Hayes was given a contract for a considerable quantity of iron ballast for the armed ships still in use on the Great Lakes.

In the next four years Hayes claimed to have spent £30,000 on building the works and opening a road to Rawdon village (Stirling). The works and road lay outside the Moira Watershed, but the opening of the mines led to a thorough exploration of the surrounding country. Marmora, Madoc and Elzevir townships were all opened for sale in 1821 and, though there was little settlement for some years, the activities of the prospectors, trappers and timber cruisers revealed the presence of fair sized areas of good land in Madoc township.

* * *

Iron ore was also found in Madoc, as well as deposits of quartz, marble and "lithographic stone." By about 1830 there were enough agricultural settlers within reach of Madoc village to make it worthwhile for Donald Mackenzie to open a grist mill as well as a sawmill and store. An iron works to exploit the Madoc ore beds was opened in 1835 near Mackenzie's Mills and a road cut to join the Marmora road at Stirling. By 1836 scattered settlements extended northwest and northeast from Mackenzie's to beyond Keller Bridge and almost to Cooper and there was communication from these settlements with Marmora as well as from Mackenzie's.

Permanent settlement was sparse, however, and the population of Madoc was very small. The owners of the iron works did not find them very profitable and those at Marmora soon stopped running and were not re-opened for some time. The rights then changed hands after 1827 and the new owners installed a more up-to-date plant, built saw and grist mills, laid out a village and put up cottages for their workmen. A post office had been opened by 1836 and a Roman Catholic church had been built.

This gave Marmora village a start, which enabled it to maintain its existence in spite of the fluctuations in the prosperity of the iron works. In the same way Madoc village was able to be developed independently of Prendergast and Seymour's iron works and since there was a good deal of better land in Madoc township it developed faster than those on either side of it. There seems to have been no settlement in Elzevir by 1836 and very little in Marmora outside of the village. The land in Tyendinaga (opened in 1820-21) along Parks' Creek was mostly too rough to attract settlers at this time and the valley of the Clare River was still inaccessible, but there was settlement on the Salmon River in Sheffield and Richmond, and this had spread westward and northward into the Moira Watershed near Marlbank.

* * *

The change which had taken place in less than twenty years may be estimated by comparing the following figures from the assessment rolls, of 1835 with Gourlay's figures for 1818.

County of Hastings

Townships	Land Assessed Cultivated Acres	 Uncultivated Acres
Sidney	14,324	30,491
Thurlow	10,171	27,000
Rawdon	1,575	6,994
Marmora	1,006	7,664
Huntingdon	1,222	8,695
Hungerford	736	10,125
Madoc	932	7,887
Tyendinaga	3,227	17,224

Townships	Assessment	Population
Sidney	41,341	No Return
Thurlow	57,737	3,938
Rawdon	6,373	625
Marmora	4,059	273
Huntingdon	4,246	437
Hungerford	4,016	420
Madoc	3,745	No Return
Tyendinaga	13,221	1,443

The figures for Thurlow include Belleville, so that the population of the township was about 2,000. Land in Sidney and Thurlow was about twice as valuable as in the back townships. The population of Hungerford was less dependent on agriculture than that of Huntingdon, since the amount of cleared land in Huntingdon was more than 50 per cent greater, while the populations were nearly equal. A contemporary account of Madoc gives the township 81 families and estimates these contain about 200 souls. It would seem from this estimate that Madoc was then inhabited by young married couples and bachelors. The figure is probably too low (it is usual to reckon at least five to a family at that time. The families in Madoc were probably smaller than average, but the inhabitants probably numbered over 250) but in any case the amount of cultivated land indicated the agricultural nature of the settlement. An average of 11½ acres per family was high for a bush settlement of not ten years' standing.

Roads and Travel

One means of transportation was greatly improved between 1816 and 1826. In 1818 the steamer Queen Charlotte began to ply from Kingston up the Bay of Quinte and down the St. Lawrence as far as Prescott and within five years there were four steamships on this run. Some emigrants continued to travel by bateau and freight was long carried this way. Captain Meyer's bateaux and rafts continued to ply to Kingston until his death and Fanning and Covert's line of bateaux was operating throughout the 1830's. Sailing vessels, of course, remained in use until recent times, but gradually the bateaux and Durham boat vanished from Lake Ontario.

The coming of the steamers greatly increased the importance of Belleville as a port and market town and made it much easier to export the produce of the back settlements. It stimulated the building of grist mills since flour was easier to handle than wheat. Nevertheless, the Moira still remained off the main route of travel. Most passengers of every class still preferred to ship direct from Kingston to Toronto, although this sometimes involved a visit to Oswego or Rochester and, in rough weather, a night of seasickness. Some weak-stomached travellers, however, began to go by water up the sheltered reaches of the Bay of Quinte and make their way as best they might from Carrying Place to York. By 1830 Weller's stagecoaches from York were connecting with the Bay of Quinte steamers at the Carrying Place and this became the common way of travelling in summer between York and Kingston.

Dundas Street was reorganized throughout its length in 1814-16 and was made passable for vehicles in every part. Some changes were made in the line of the road and the part east of York began to be officially known as the "Kingston Road."

* * *

The first regular stage line between Kingston and York began in 1817, with one coach each way every week, when navigation on the lake was closed. From two to four days were needed for the trip. No coaches ran (perhaps it would be more accurate to say none walked) on Sundays or in summer. Ten years later coaches were leaving York and Kingston in winter on Mondays and Thursdays and taking 40 to 48 hours for the trip.

William Weller took over the line in 1829, at first sticking to the same schedule. Before long, however, Weller's coaches were scheduled to leave York and Kingston at 4 a.m. every day throughout the year except Saturdays and Sundays, and arrive on the following day. When the stage coaches started on time (they were often hours late) they passed Belleville between 9 p.m. and midnight, so the inhabitants of the Moira region presumably did most of their travelling by night.

The schedule was based on a rate of travel of from five to seven miles per hour, but a wheeled coach was considered to do well if it averaged five miles an hour under fairly good conditions and bad conditions could reduce the rate of one on sleighs to about three miles an hour. Since stops had to be made, horses changed, and the bruised and dazed passengers revived with occasional refreshments, the actual pace at which the coaches moved between stops was certainly a little faster, but "speeding" along at nine or ten miles an hour (as the English coaches sometimes did) was impossible on Canadian roads at this time.

It is little wonder that most preferred either to go by water or at least to travel on horseback or in their own vehicles. The last took more time, for the traveller could not always count on hiring relays so that long journeys were often made with the same horse or team. This ruled out night travel, which in any case had its dangers, for accidents were frequent and robbers not unknown. The private traveller could make his journey easier by using the bay ice in winter, but snowdrifts, mudholes and breakdowns were more formidable when there was no coach load of passengers to lend a hand.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

BY WINIFRED E. WILSON

PROTECTOR OF EVERGREENS

An ardent bird students is also a detective. The nature of the country tells him the type of bird to be found there; the manner of flight aids in identification of the species; the height at which a nest has been placed gives information as to its builder. Even the shape of a bird-carved cavity in a tree trunk tells a story. We know that woodpeckers are responsible. But which kind cuts into a live tree, which makes an oblong opening, which lines the home with chips and which with feathers? All these are problems for us yet a bird-detective can give the answers instantly. And so when he is in a deep, coniferous forest of the north, and comes upon dead trees with large patches scaled from their trunks, he knows that Three-toed Woodpeckers have been at work.

Birds spending the entire year in Canada are in the minority, but Arctic Three-toed Woodpeckers come into this group. A few of them live just south of our southern border; however, most breed in our northern Canadian forests, and remain with us throughout the winter. They rarely are discovered by the city dweller, for they come just to the edge of settlements — occasionally into our suburbs.

This is a bird deserving our thanks, because it is the best protector of evergreens, saving our lumbering trade. With its strong, straight bill, chisel-shaped at the tip, it strips off bark, and digs out insect pests that are endangering the life of the tree. Man is not always as clever as he thinks he is, and has introduced insects into the country which have proved to be destructive. These our woodpecker captures.

The short, sharp "cruck" or "crick" call of the Arctic Three-toed is not sufficiently penetrating to draw our attention; neither is its plumage spectacular. Smaller than a robin, it may be distinguished from its closest relatives by a solid black back. Its underparts are white, and a ladder-like pattern in black and white runs up its sides. Males have orange-yellow crowns. As with other woodpeckers, the tail, which is black edged with white, ends in spikes to be stuck into the bark of trees and prop up the climbing bird. Most woodpeckers have four toes, equipped with well-hooked claws, two pointing forward, and two backward. But this species, and its brother, the American Three-toed, have curious feet, with only one hind toe.

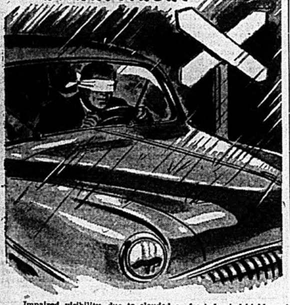
REFUSES INQUIRY ON BAN

London, Oct. 14 (CP) —Postmaster - General Ness Edwards has refused a request by Britain's Liberal party for an independent inquiry into circumstances surrounding the ban on the television play "Party Manners."

The play was withdrawn from a scheduled BBC showing after Socialist criticisms that it had an anti-government bias.

Liberal leader Clement Davies subsequently asked for an inquiry. In rejecting it Ness Edwards said in a statement last night he does not want to establish a precedent for such inquiries.

Don't take that crossing Blindfolded!



Impaired visibility, due to clouded or frosted windshields and side windows is blamed for a considerable number of the 443 railway crossing accidents reported to the Board of Transport Commissioners for Canada for the 12-month period ended June 30th. These accidents took 140 lives and brought injuries to 549 others. A railway crossing, whether protected by special signals or otherwise, is an admitted hazard to the motorist, and under the best of conditions—full daylight and clear vision—the operator of a motor vehicle should approach every crossing with proper caution. Keeping windshield and front side windows clean and free of frost or mist is one thing the motorist can do to reduce the toll of crossing accidents. Other safe practices: Don't race the train . . . it is probably moving faster than you think; If you have to take the crossing slowly, change into second gear to prevent stalling; make sure when you see one train clearing a crossing that there is not another train behind it moving in the opposite direction.

BUY CANADA SAVINGS BONDS

The fifth series of Canada Savings Bonds goes on sale Monday. If their sale reminds the public that there is a difference between this country and the oppressed ones of Europe, they have served purpose enough. The events of the past few months should have been enough to spur their sale, but pride of country should also sell the series.

Look at it this way: if we all lived in one of the red-controlled countries of Europe, where a man can be sent to jail for even thinking about an attempt to get to the freedom of the Western World, we would not have the opportunity to buy bonds. Instead, the money would be taken by the government, and nothing promised in return.

The old argument that the money of a country would never be redeemed if that nation fell to invaders is still not valid. For if a country did fall, then money would be of no use anyway.

The best argument of all, perhaps, is that Canada Savings Bonds provide a convenient way to save. Payroll deduction plans ease whatever pain there might be, and the money mounts up faster than it might by ordinary saving.

The slogan for this year's campaign is "Everyone Has Something to Save For." And to that, we add: everyone ought to buy Canada Savings Bonds.

BRITAIN'S NEW COMMONS

Britain's new House of Commons which replaces the old House which was destroyed during the Nazi blitz in 1941 is practically finished and will be formally opened by His Majesty King George in a traditional ceremony of splendor on Oct. 26.

The tradition of the old Chamber is carried on as it was in the past and even during the Nazi blitzkrieg and the new House which will be the centre seat of British liberty.

The House will retain in general all the characteristics of the old. There is the long narrow chamber headed by the Speaker's chair and the seats are arranged so that the Government and Opposition parties face each other. This is an ancient custom which is said to have influenced the British system of parliamentary government and also the development of democratic institutions throughout the world. So in very reality not only Britain and the Commonwealth and Empire but other nations which owe their freedom of government to the influence of the British liberty, will be represented in this part of London, hallowed by the centuries.

It is fitting that all the woodwork of the building will be of English oak — the traditional timber of Britain — cut from trees two and three hundred years old. Some of Britain's finest craftsmen have carried out the carving. Wherever the members of Parliament look they will see evidences of the bonds of true friendship which link Britain with other nations of the Commonwealth. From these nations have come most of the furnishings of the House.

One of the impressive parts of the Chamber will be the entrance, which has been named the Churchill Arch and which is built of the stones which were in position in the old House.

Honorable members' "feet will be warm while their heads remain cool." Acoustics, too, have been the subject of special attention. A public address system, with hidden "soft-voice" speakers will assure that members hear every word that is spoken on the floor of the Chamber.

The new Commons will possess as the old possessed riches of inspiration to the democratic world for a great portion of the world looks on the historic British institution of government as the source and seat of liberty which has grown from more to more for generations and centuries. It has helped to mould in no uncertain way the expansion of liberty across the earth.

DEAD LEAVES

Dead leaves on the lawns and grass, maples still decked with fewer leaves than during their prime point out that advancing autumn moves swiftly, gathering her harvest to the earth to guard the roots of shrubs and trees and plants.

The value of the vegetable mold or compost which the fallen leaves make is held highly by gardeners and flower growers.

The latter advise the saving of the fallen leaves for the purpose of enriching soil rather than the swifter method of disposal by means of a bonfire. Their view is that burning of leaves wastes or destroys a large share of the value of the leaves, which goes up in smoke. Leaves left to themselves in the woods form not only shelter for the roots of the trees and bushes but add to the richness of the soil and bring on new growth.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

In most parts of Canada, the next couple of weeks will see the leaves falling in fabulous billions from trees and bushes. We must once more accustom ourselves to the bare and lifeless scene.

But in fact it is far from lifeless. Every tree and bush in the landscape is nothing more or less than an elaborate cold storage warehouse where the billions of insect eggs and cocoons and hibernating adults are safely stored for next spring. It might almost be possible to say that there is some sort of insect in storage for every leaf that falls from every tree and bush.

The inter-dependence of the plant kingdom and the insect kingdom is as old as the hills. The one depends on the other to an extent that perhaps does not occur in any other two forms of life. The majority of plants on earth would disappear if their own selected insect partners in the life cycle were to fail them. The plant world and the insect world grow up together.

In every crevice of bark on trunk, branch and twig are tucked away the minute eggs of insects as small as the aphids and as large as the big moths. Cocoons and larval shelters of a hundred different types are apparently lifeless spectacle of autumn. In larger crevices and holes some of the adult butterflies have taken shelter to ride out the winter in a state of coma until the March sun calls them forth to get their names in the newspapers. On the fallen leaves, and down in the top humus and in the tunnels in the hard soil are billions of ant, wasp, grasshopper and hundreds of other varieties of insect eggs and pupae safely refrigerated in readiness for next spring's program of construction and destruction, which nature carries through as methodically as the sun's and moon's rising and setting.

There are few places on the face of the earth where man can gaze at an actually lifeless scene.

Newsprint Ration Reinstated in U.K. On October 22nd

London, Oct. 14—(AP) — British newspapers were notified today that the wartime newsprint ration system will be reinstated Oct. 22.

As a result, newspapers will be forced either to freeze their circulations at present levels, or cut their size below the present average six pages daily in order to print more copies.

17 WORKERS WOUNDED

Savannah, Ga., Oct. 13—(AP)—Seventeen workmen of Reynolds and Manley Lumber Company were shot and wounded today while en route to work at the plant, which has been involved in a labor dispute.

Police said men hidden in ambush fired on a truck hauling about 35 workers to the plant.

Ten of the injured wer released from an infirmary after treatment, seven remained as patients and one may lose an eye.

Police said "light shot" were used, accounting for the comparatively minor injuries.

SOUTHAMPTON SEES MORE TROOPS DEPART

Reinforcements for British troops in Korea are cheered as they leave Southampton aboard the troopship Windrush. Decision of the North Korean government to continue fighting has necessitated dispatch of these British reinforcements. — Central Press Canadian.

Asks Police to Keep Children While She Finds House

Detroit, Oct. 14—(AP) — The police central precinct station had three special guests yesterday.

They sat quietly on the visitor's bench. Finally, the bluecoats went over to ask questions.

Eight-year-old Allis Thomas handed over a note. Allis was in charge of her brother, Thomas, 3, and Ronald, 10 months.

The note was from the mother, Mrs. Carrie Thomas. It explained she was looking for a place to live and if the police would kindly take care of the children she'd be back.

On that point there didn't seem any doubt.

"I'm not abandoning my children. I love them," said the note.

Pending further word from Mrs. Thomas, the police put the baby in a hospital and the other children in the juvenile detention home.

South Africans Reap Big Profits in Fish

Capetown (CP)—South Africa, the country where something always "turns up", is enjoying a gold boom in the Orange Free State, and a wool boom and a less-publicized fishing boom on the Cape's western coast.

The tin shanties that used to make up the little Cape province fishing hamlet of Velddrift are being shouldered aside by modern houses, garages and factories. Neon lights flash where candles used to gutter.

Velddrift has struck it rich in the waters of the Atlantic and swarming fish shoals have rocketted fishermen's incomes from $124 to $6,200 a year.

The fishermen are buying new boats, new cars, and new houses and are allowing themselves the unheard of luxury of trips to Cape Town.

But they have sounded a warning note to the authorities. Unless the shoals are protected during the spawning season, they say, the boom will turn into a bust.

MOSLEMS CELEBRATE

Cairo, Oct. 13 — (AP) — The Moslem world celebrates New Year's Day on this Friday the 13th.

It's the first of "Moharram," initial month in the Moslem calendar. Workers get an extra day off tomorrow since Friday is regularly a Moslem holiday.

Attlee's Term Equals Churchill's, 5 Yrs. 2 Mos. 16 days

London, Oct. 14 — (AP) — Clement Attlee, as of today, has been prime minister of the United Kingdom five years, two months and 16 days.

That equals Conservative Winston Churchill's term as head of the government during the wartime coalition and caretaker governments.

Churchill became prime minister May 10, 1940. He resigned July 26, 1945, and was succeeded the next day by Attlee.

Removes 10,090 Japs off Purge List

Tokyo, Oct. 14 (AP)—Gen. MacArthur has approved the removal of 10,090 Japanese from a wartime purge list, the government announced today.

The names were taken from a list of 32,081 who had applied for reconsideration of their purge sentences. They included political figures, financial and industrial leaders, writers, publishers, government officials and scholars.

Being on the list barred them from the normal activities of public life.

CHARGED WITH STARTING FIRE

Peterborough, Oct. 13—(CP)—Charged with starting a $200,000 fire, Harvey David Silvester, 31, today was remanded for sentence on Saturday after two doctor's statements were read in court that he was mentolly ill.

Police said at the time of Silvester's arrest that he confessed to starting the fire which gutted the S. S. Kresge store here two years ago. He was a janitor in the building at the time of the fire.

Raccoon Thrives On Ice Cream

Oshawa, Oct. 13—(CP)—A raccoon that thrives on ice cream, consorts with his traditional enemy, the dog, and goes to church on Sunday morning is the pet of Stan Pollard.

Pollard found the motherless 'coon in the woods and saved its life. Now Pete the 'coon is a household pet, living on a diet of ice cream, candies, raw meat and jelly stolen from the Pollard cellar. Pet's best friend is Skipper a big wolfhound.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

KEEP ON THE TRELLIS

Early last spring we planted a vine at the foot of a trellis, and since that time we have had all sorts of trouble keeping the vine where it belongs. It reaches out and attempts to entwine itself about everything but the trellis. It fastens itself to the corner of the house, to the edge of a clapboard, and to a pipe which carries the rain water from the roof. But to keep it on the trellis, it has to be definitely detached from these other objects now and again and made to grow straight.

The disposition of human life is to seek adventure and generally to seek it in forbidden areas. There is facination about new things. There is added facination in things denied. Every parent knows how hard it is to keep children in regular habits of study and get them to conform to what their elders have discovered are preferable and satisfactory modes of behavior. They don't want to stay on the trellis, which is the family set of moral standards. The preacher often wants to preach on economics and sociology; it is difficult to get him to stick to the Bible.

There is a trellis which runs through the whole universe, and it is much more definite than most of us are willing to admit. We like to reach out and free ourselves from its limitations, and thereby we show our folly.

Personal Health Talks

(Signed letters pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease diagnosis, or treatment will be answered by Dr. Brady if a stamped self-addressed envelope is enclosed. Letter should be brief and written in ink. Owing to the large number of letters received only a few can be answered here. No reply can be made to queries not conforming to instructions. Address: Dr. William Brady, care of this newspaper.)

IS SUCH SPEED NECESSARY?

Generally speaking, the main need for haste or speed in rendering first aid to an accident victim, is bleeding. However, a close second to this emergency is asphyxiation. The need for haste in checking or controlling bleeding is obvious. Not so well understood is the fact that the brain is quickly and sometimes permanently damaged by a lack of oxygen supply reulting from gas poisoning or other type of asphyxiation.

The sensitivity of the brain to a lack of oxygen is always borne in mind by the anesthetist during an operation, who constantly "feeds" oxygen to the patient in accordance with his needs.

There is no great need for haste in the treatment of fractures of the bones of the extremities—at least not the kind of haste involving the driving of the injured victim to a hospital at a dangerous rate of speed. Even fracture of the skull calls for no such dangerous journey.

A dislocation can wait. Again there is no great need for haste. Amateurish efforts to reduce a dislocation should never be permitted, either at the scene of the accident or afterwards. Only the expert, usually guided by X-rays, can determine the extent of the dislocation. A dislocated bone is often fractured. Clumsy efforts to reduce the dislocation may result in dangerous aggravation of the fracture. The amateur bonesetter should be ostracized.

Unconsciousness resulting from an injury does not call for wild haste in transporting a victim. The victim's best interests are better served by allowing him to stay where he is found until he has recovered from shock. The word shock may mean very little to the untrained person to whose attention it may be called without a moment's advance notice.

In general a person is in shock when he is unconscious or semiconscious and when his pulse is so weak as to be detected with some difficulty. His face will be pale, of course, and the surface of his body may be cold and sweaty. This, when it occurs, is no time to move the victim. The only movement permissible is to raise the body, slowly and gently, above the level of the head so that blood to the head has a down-hill course.

I fully realize the wild desire for haste which seizes frantic bystanders at the scene of an accident, but again I repeat: bring service to the victim—not the victim to the service.

An injury to the lower chest or abdomen bears watching for several days after the effects have apparently disappeared. Rupture or tear of the abdominal organs may occur after a seemingly trivial injury and internal bleeding may persist for days before the actual nature or extent of the injury can be determined. First aid for this type of injury involves nothing more than rest for the patient and forebearance on the part of bystanders.

The victim of an accident who is compelled to lie on the ground for a half hour or more awaiting the arrival of an ambulance is not nearly so bad off as the angry taxpayers who witness the delay believe him to be. The delay allows him to recover from shock without additional injury, and, if the ground is cool or cold, so much the better, barring frostbite of course.

Trivial burns may be treated with or without any of the currently advertised ointments. The recovery rate will be the same in either event. An extensive burn calls for hospitalization, under ideal circumstances, and pending the institution of treatment at the hospital the amateur would be well advised to abstain from his efforts to help. The application of sterile medications and dressings is essential to the correct treatment of a burn. The victim who comes in pasted up with ointment of uncertain quality and unsterile bandages or pads, simply has to undergo added suffering to dispose of the effects of the first aid treatment.

In first aid, remember that to do nothing is usually good treatment.

In view of the frequent crashes of ambulances in city traffic we may well ask whether such screaming speed is warranted even in the interest of the patient in the ambulance.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Dope

How long can an individual live without sleep without seriously injuring the brain? Can the sedative habit be cured and where may such cure be obtained? (S. G., O. D.)

Answer—One who uses drugs on the pretext that he or she can't sleep without them is an addict and should have treatment by his or her psysician, at home or in hospital or rest home. Your questions are too vague for me to answer. Lay aside the mask and be yourself when you consult your physician. It may not interest you, but on written request accompanied with stamped self-addressed envelope, I'll send a pamphlet How to Sleep Well. (No clipping, please).

Weak Hydrochloric Acid Solution

Some time ago you told of an acid solution for washing poison spray residues from vegetables. Please give the name and directions for using the acid solution. (Mrs. C. O. A.)

Answer—One per cent hydrochloric acid solution—made by mixing a pint bottle of U.S.P. Dilute Hydrochloric Acid with nine pints of water. Rinse greens or vegetables in this to dissolve and remove traces of lead arsenate (spray residue), then rinse away the acid with clear running water.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

CONSOLATION

All of us, at some time or other, seek consolation from many a hurt and deceit that the world may hand out to us. Many a lonely human being has had no one but his dog to whom to turn for this consolation and silent understanding, but most of us prefer that it may come from an understanding fellow creature.

Mothers gain this consolation from the children they have borne, especially when they return love and affection, and bring pride to their heart through a useful life. A mother recently wrote to me telling of her two boys, who had spent the last day, before leaving for their place in the war, driving with her about the country-side, gaining consolation from the beauty of the autumn, and courage to face the lonely and tragic days ahead.

There is a certain consolation that a man may even get from his walking stick as he takes his walks and meditates upon life's values, or he may have some hobby that relaxes his spirit and takes him into another world. I have found books to be a wonderful consolation throughout the years. They are forever ready, whereas a friend may not be.

Undoubtedly the greatest consolation to be gained at any time, however, is to be found in religion, in an opening of the heart in prayer and meditation to God. Never has He failed to give it, and to Him have turned the greatest minds in the world, as well as the poorest and humblest, for God is no respecter of persons. To God may every mother go for consolation and hope as she anxiously awaits news from her boy at war, and for every sorrowing mother there is consolation during the darkest days and nights.

We may all get consolation from the fact that we have done our best, even though we may have failed in what we have undertaken. Upon the burial place of Will Rogers, at Claremore, Oklahome, are these words of the great humorist: "Live your life so that whenever you lose you are ahead." None of us always wins or loses. There is consolation in that!

WOULD MOVE GARDEN

London, Oct. 13—(CP)— The Westminster city council yesterday agreed in principle to a proposal that the 300-year-old Covent Garden should be moved to a site near one of the railway termini in north London.

The idea behind the proposal is that the cramped, crowded Covent Garden, situated just off the Strand, helps create a traffic bottleneck in London's downtown area. It is not expected money will be available to effect the transfer for several years.

Madoc Section W.M.S. Belleville Presbyterial Holds Annual Rally

Marmora—Inclement weather attended the holding of the 18th [illegible]nual rally of the Madoc section [illegible] the Women's Missionary Society of the Belleville Presbyterial held in St. Andrew's United Church, Marmora, on Thursday lowering attendance somewhat from what had been anticipated. Nevertheless the morning and afternoon sessions were marked with an attendance of about 70 ladies to whom the missionary endeavors of their society are of vital importance.

Deep regret was felt at the inability of Mrs. R. N. Broad of Hazzard's Corners, vice-president, to take the chair and at the noon recess co-workers secured a devotional book to be sent to her in her period of illness.

Presiding ably in her stead, was Mrs. Albert Empey, of Eldorado, past president of the W.M.S. of the Belleville Presbyterial.

The rally opened with the theme hymn "Fairest Lord Jesus", the Lord's Prayer and the National Anthem. Greetings to visiting auxiliaries were given by Mrs. H. C. Barlow president of St. Andrew's W.M.S. to which on their behalf Miss Annie Richards of Queensboro responded.

Impressive Worship Service

An impressive worship service was conducted by Ivanhoe auxiliary. Mrs. George Wood Ivanhoe, read the minutes of last rally which were approved. Introduction of the guest speaker Miss Annie Bishop, of the supply department of the Dominion W.M.S. and Presbyterial officers present, was carried out by Mrs. G. D. Young.

Answering the roll call which followed were representatives of the auxiliaries of Cooper and Remington, Eldorado and Union, Hazzard's Corners, Ivanhoe, Marmora, Tweed afternoon and [illegible]ed evening.

The affiliated society, Queensboro Women's Association was also represented.

Mrs. Lincoln Elliott, of Tweed, gave a talk in which she urged auxiliaries to be diligent and prompt in filling out annual report forms. This was followed by an organ solo by the organist of St. Andrew's, Mrs. A. F. Fraser.

The literature that is available to the W.M.S. was well exhibited on a table and Mrs. Fred Bell of Moscow, who was in charge, gave an enlightening talk concerning the needs which it filled.

Highlight of Session

The real highlight of the session followed. Mrs. Delbert Carnan, of Madoc, assisted by Mrs. T. Bennett and Miss A. Holmes, in a playlet showed the right way of extending community friendship to a newcomer.

Mrs. A. L. Sisco of Tweed Evening Auxiliary in an earnest talk pointed out the advantages [illegible] the Study Book. She also read [illegible]ons of a letter received by [illegible] auxiliary from Miss Millicent Howse of Angola Africa speaker at last year's rally. The offering was then taken and was dedicated by Mrs. Frank Parks of Cooper.

Mrs. G. S. Jarvis, of Marmora gave a report on Associate Members in the Madoc section, and introduced Mrs. Manley Fox of Madoc, to give a report of her auxiliary's work in that connection.

Impressive Memorial Service

The Madoc Auxiliary conducted an impressive memorial service for the eight members entered into higher service in the past year, Mrs. Fred Irwin, and Mrs. Hark Rollins of Cooper; Mrs. Nathan Montgomery, Mrs. Annie Carpenter, Mrs. William Elliott, Mrs. Mary Way and Mrs. P. K. Newton of Tweed, and Mrs. Mary Thomson of Marmora. The address in this connection given [illegible] Mrs. G. F. Lane was most [illegible]ng.

Concluding the session was a communion service conducted by Rev. G. D. Young B.A., B.D., pastor of St. Andrew's.

Dinner was served in St. Andrew's hall by the W.M.S. of the church.

The afternoon session commenced with the singing of three hymns with Mrs. E. C. Prentice of Marmora, as leader. Mrs. James Sproul of Marmora, had a good report on Periodicals at the close of which the Marmora Auxiliary sang a rousing number in which the obtaining of these periodicals was urged.

Mrs. Lincoln Elliott gave a report of the school for leaders which she attended.

Guest Speaker

The Marmora Mission Band having sung a number the guest speaker, Miss Annie Bishop, gave her address. It commenced with an outline of what the supply de[illegible]ent tried to do; handling [illegible] list of requirements coming to the office from missionaries, then making allocations to the various Presbyterials.

It also serves every piece of Home Mission work done in Canada. With respect to Canada, there are long lists and large requests from the western provinces whereas the demand was light [illegible] Ontario.

[illegible] told of the clothing [illegible] sent abroad for boys [illegible] in orphanages and mem[illegible] that 1000 layettes had gone to babies in troubled Europe. Baby's clothing is sent in 100 pound bales separately from other clothing, she pointed out, whereas the Canadian church relief effort abroad has been a united effort up till now that comes to an end this October, with the United Church handling her share alone.

In continuing the project of overseas relief, the W.M.S. does not do so as her project alone for it is one for the whole church. Miss Bishop explained where financial help is needed also in the dispatch of clothing for it costs ten cents to handle and send each pound of clothing overseas

Looks to Canada For Relief

Touching upon relief work undertaken in Japan and Korea, she said that the Christian church in Korea is looking to us to provide relief the more so as winter comes on, whereas in Japan costs of living are so high that every cent a peasant earns just barely buys him food and he has nothing for clothing. She concluded by saying that, we should be ready to share our plenty and even to sacrifice a bit for the welfare of those who to use Christ's words, constitute another flock of His.

The offering was dedicated by Mrs. P. Nayler of Madoc after which the roll call was again taken. Mrs. Wesley Hamilton of Tweed sang "Beautiful Garden of Prayer." Reports of junior groups followed. A rousing talk on the value of Mission Bands was given by the Presbyterial Mission Band secretary, Mrs. W. [illegible]ay.

"Christian Stewardship" was taken by Mrs. E. G. Bailey in a forceful manner. She enlightened her listeners on the building projects of a missionary nature undertaken by the United Church at home and abroad in 1947 onwards. She also read a letter sent to the Madoc section by the lady missionary, Miss M. Howse.

Mrs. Clifford Chambers for Eldorado and Hazzard's gave the report of the Courtesy Committee. Mrs. Empey thanked all for the help given to make the rally an outstanding one.

Ivanhoe Auxiliary through Mrs. George Wood invited the auxiliaries to hold the next rally with them.

Mrs. S. Tweedie and Mrs. Stan Moorcroft were mentioned as the nominating committee for next year's officers.

The session closed with the Benediction.

Mrs. D.F. Downey Addresses H.&S. Inaugural Meeting

The opening meeting of the Queen Mary-Prince Charles Home and School Association was held on Thursday evening with a good representation of members present. Mrs. R. Poste, president, extended a warm welcome to all members, especially to the new ones. The respective principals, Mr. Frederick and Mr. Bateman also added warm words of welcome to that of the president.

It was unanimously decided to adopt the new name for the combined schools as the Queen Mary - Prince Charles Home and School Association. Following a short business session, the program was in charge of Mrs. C. D. Fuzzen, program convener, who presented two talented children, Cara and Greg Butler, daughter and son of Mr. Ormande Butler, who favored with several selections.

Mrs. D. F. Downey, guest speaker, and chairman of Home Education from the Dominion Federation of Home and Schools was introduced by Mrs. T. K. Franklin. Mrs. Downey, in her address, stated that the Home and School Association has two functions: to help parents and teachers to co-operate to produce a happy well-adjusted child, and to give training for parenthood. She felt that parents and teachers should be working together as partners with the child as the centre of the partnership; adding that parent education is the study of human needs, physical, mental, emotional and social. Physical needs are always supplied, but do parents put everything they have in supplying these other needs, or do they leave it to the schools? This angle should not be; happy, well-adjusted homes produce happy, well-adjusted children, and later on, citizens.

Parent education is the chief aim of the Home and School work, and very definitely, was not a "Ladies Aid" to the school board or principal. The speaker then went on to outline ways to start study groups in parent education and kindly offered her personal help in any way she could be of assistance.

A short question and answer period followed, during which time Mrs. Downey commented on the efforts of the Central Radio committee of the combined Home and School Associations of Belleville, and the weekly programs now in progress. She considered the radio work of the Home and School in this city was outstanding in Ontario, if not in Canada.

Mr. Homer Townsend, of the staff of the Belleville Collegiate extended appreciative thanks to Mrs. Downey for her inspiring and instructive address.

Following the close of the meeting a social half hour was enjoyed, with Mrs. J. Livesy and her committee taking charge.

Wear the Proper Foundation

Not every women can have a slim figure like Movie Star Terry Moore. If you need to wear a foundation, purchase a good one and have it fitted properly.

By HELEN FOLLETT

THERE would seem to be three types of women as far as sartorial appearance is concerned—the lady of fashion, the moderately-dressed woman, and the one who gives no thought to clothes and looks it, being badly put together.

The first requirement is the perfect fit, so that body lines will not be too revealed, or the garment look a size too large. The next requirement is a correctly fitted foundation garment. Only the lovely slip of a girl can get along without some kind of supporting harness over the midsection. Without it, the silhouette is likely to be graceless. The form divine is a blessing enjoyed by few of the sisters.

Selection of Corset

Of all details of the wardrobe the selection of a corset calls for professional help. You know how to choose a frock, a coat, or a hat, if you have a good taste and keen judgment, but what do you know about foundations? Corsetieres lament about the fixed ideas some women have on the subject. If the garment feels right, it must be right, but that isn't half of the story.

The small-waisted, large-hipped woman should wear a girdle with an opening half way down the side, fastened with hooks or zipper.

If the waistline is large the girdle should be open half way down both sides so it can be pulled tight with laces to shape the waist.

If the abdomen protrudes a girdle with hook fastenings all the way down the side is recommended to give conrol.

SISTERS ALL

By Jean Love Galloway

It isn't only chickens that have wish-bones. People have them too. Next time you're reading the newspaper just watch out for all the people who "wish to announce" something. They wish to announce the marriage of a daughter, the birth of a son, the opening of a store, the increase in the price of milk . . . What they really mean to say is that they are announcing it — not wishing to announce it. Yet, their wish-bones are certainly showing.

Edna Jaques is a neighbor of ours now and the other evening she came over for a visit before taking off on a Dominion-wide lecture tour. Said to be Canada's most successful poet, with her books selling well over the million mark, Edna is about the tiniest, friendliest person you could meet up with anyplace.

It was cool. We had pine logs burning. Edna headed directly for the old pine rocker, glanced at the fire and remarked, "My, I never think a house is a home without a gun." This remark was prompted by the old hunting gun which hangs above the fireplace.

Then, she leaned over to take up the squalling infant and began to rock her to sleep. Edna is a grandmother, you know. Her daughter, a graduate nurse and former TCA air hostess, has a son two years old.

Because of the unfinished appearance of our early Canadian furniture, we like to tell people we are pioneering on this five-acre woodlot at Tanglewood. But you can't get by Edna Jaques with that . . . She will refute any claim to pioneering in Southern Ontario in 1950 by telling tales of the Northern Saskatchewan wilderness where she and her husband homesteaded in the early days.

Speaking of the days when she and her husband hewed their way through the bush northward with a wagon, the Canadian poet will tell you those were years of struggle . . . years when she lived without neighbors and without a soul to talk to except her husband.

"I got so desperate to talk to people that I used to chatter away to the Indians. They didn't understand a word. They were a fierce breed too. How scared we were most of the time.

When she is not in the lecture hall, you can find Edna Jaques picking berries or asparagus or working away at her flower garden close by her pretty little new white house just east of Oakville. Here she has set herself up on a tiny farm beside the blue waters of Lake Ontario.

It is here that she writes her latest poetry of ships and waves and highways. Edna is now off to Northern Ontario on a lecture tour which will take her into nearly every city and town from there to Vancouver and back. Not until April will Edna Jaques return to her little white house on old Number 2 highway by the lake.

Have you ever noticed the odd small rust spot on your dishtowels and wondered where oh where this could come from? Ten chances to one it came from hanging the wet towel on a hook in the kitchen. Such rust spots can be eliminated easily by using a rustproof rack for dishtowels, instead of a nail.

Canadian Women See Wonders In British Town

By KAY REX
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Edinburgh, Oct. 13. (CP)—Any day now, somebody will tap us on the shoulder and say it really isn't so.

London and its double-decker buses, Coventry and its great war-bombed cathedral, the giant kilns at Stoke-on-Trent, the thatched roofs of Stratford-on-Avon—surely, these were things we dreamed.

Soon, we feel, Edinburgh Castle—now towering beyond our hotel windows—will disappear in a breath.

That's the way we nine Canadian women writers feel as we near the end of a whirlwind three-week tour of the United Kingdom. As guests of organizations which want to balance Anglo-Canadian trade, we've seen a lot of things in a short time.

We've waited in the rain before Buckingham Palace to watch the changing of the guard, driven spellbound through the rolling countryside of the Lake District and marvelled at the fact there were no big billboards to block the view.

The doors of British industry have been thrown wide open for us. We've trekked miles through toy and candy factories, cotton mills and automobile plants. We've seen new cars swinging off production lines at the rate of one every 75 seconds, most of them headed for the export market.

We've watched a girl at one of Stoke's 150-odd potteries molding tea plates at the rate of 12,000 a week—and learned, a trifle abashed, that Britons keep only the unornamented "utility" china and "seconds" for home use, sending all the really-good stuff to other countries.

Women's Institute

MARMORA W.I.

Marmora—The monthly meeting of Marmora Women's Institute was held on Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Percy Eamer. Due to varied causes the attendance was somewhat limited. Mrs. Percy Gray, president, was in the chair. The meeting opened in the usual manner, the roll call being "Some Fall Garden Hints."

Mrs. W. D. Lavender took the secretarial duties in the absence through illness of Mrs. Eugene Brady, and presented the financial statement which was most satisfactory.

Correspondence was then dealt with. The invitation received from Wellman's Corners W.I. to join with them in their 45th anniversary tea on November 15th was laid over until the next meeting of Marmora W.I. on November 8th. A health conference to be held in Springbrook on the afternoon of November 18th with Miss Grace E. Hamilton of the Home Economics Branch, Toronto, in charge was mentioned in another letter.

First Aid

It will touch on the subject "What to do until the doctor comes." The branch hopes to be well represented at this conference. Application was made for the usual annual legislative grant. The branch also decided to have a tag day for the Children's Aid on Saturday, October 28th in response to an appeal by Mrs. French of Belleville. The remainder of the business session was taken up with final arrangements for the banquet for the Chamber of Commerce that the institute was serving the following night.

Mrs. W. D. Lavender was elected secretary pro tem until the return of Mrs. Brady from hospital.

As speaker of the evening on Agricultural and Canadian Industries in a well prepared paper, Mrs. Charles Sopha, from years of personal experience was able to present a characteristic picture of the year's work on the average Canadian farm, and also gave an outline of the situation in Canada of such industries as the farmer is largely dependent on.

A pumpkin pie contest was staged in which honors went to Mrs. W. D. Lavender by a narrow margin.

The November meeting is being held at the home of Mrs. George Kerr.

ELDORADO - BANNOCKBURN W.I.

The Eldorado and Bannockburn Women's Institute held their October meeting at the home of Mrs. Bert McCarey, with 25 members and several visitors and children present. Mrs. Russel Empey, president, opened the meeting.

Miss Watt invited the society to her home for the November meeting. Mrs. Evans served refreshments.

Plans are nearing completion for the world's first gas-turbine ocean-going ship — a 12,000-ton tanker.

MARIO . . . in his distinctive feature about Food . . . What's Cooking?

There is a cow in the Hebrides which only gives milk when she hears music. As soon as the milker stops singing, the liquid stops flowing.

Dairymen have long known the value of contented cows. A farmer who provides generous clean bedding in his stable insures greater milk production.

Soup, seafood stews and chowders made with milk can frequently be used in place of expensive main courses. Crab meat noodle soup should be made in generous quantities, allowing two bowls per person.

The milk in such soups should be heated by itself and combined with the soup just before serving. A small lump of butter should be added directly to each serving dish. Added richness can be had by using part cream and part milk.

Hard rolls, crisp French or Italian bread, Trenton or oyster crackers should be within reach of all. To keep the soup warm or to reheat, use the top part of a double boiler instead of a direct flame. Milk burns easily and the soup may be scorched if a direct flame is used.

Crab Meat Noodle Soup.
Serves 4.

Cut into 1-2 inch squares 1-2 cup onion and 1-2 cup celery. Put vegetables in a soup pot with 2 tablespoons melted butter. Simmer slowly 5 minutes or until onion starts to turn yellow.

Stir in 2 tablespoons flour, 1-2 teaspoon paprika and 1-8 teaspoon powdered mace. Add 3 cups hot chicken broth or 3 cups hot water and 3 bouillon cubes. Bring liquid to a boil. Remove scum. Simmer slowly until vegetables are very tender, about 3-4 hour.

Empty contents of a 7 ounce can of crab meat. Break meat into flakes. Remove all pieces of cartilage. Add crab meat to pot. Bring liquid to a boil.

Drop 2 ounces of fine egg noodles into pot and boil until tender, about 10 minutes longer.

In a separate saucepan heat 3 cups of milk until bubbles appear around edge of saucepan. Remove soup pot from flame. Add hot milk. Add 1-4 cup canned pimientos cut into 1-4 inch squares. Add salt and pepper to taste.

Add 1 teaspoon butter to each portion of soup and sprinkle with paprika just before bringing to table.

Do you want a particular recipe, or have you a cooking problem? Write Mario, care this paper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped, envelope for his reply.—Ed.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

An unpredictable boy friend won't be much fun

Dear Miss Fairfax:

A few months ago a young man came to work where I do. He [illegible] great deal of attention to [illegible]d we became very good [illegible]. We had many dates and [illegible]d wonderful times together.

Then one Sunday, when he called for me, he had another young man with him. I didn't say anything, as I thought another girl would be going along, which would have been swell. Nothing was said to me by either of them all the time we were out, until I was asked if I would mind if the other young man went to the theatre with us that night. I never had gone out on a date with two young men, and I didn't think it looked nice, but I kept this to myself and just said I would not be able to go to the theatre as I had some things to do at home.

After that, my friend treated me very coldly. When I got a chance to talk to him, I asked if it was because I hadn't gone to the theatre with them, and before I could finish what I was saying, he said he understood those things and me, For a while, it was as though we were strangers, and then suddenly he began to treat me swell again, although he has not asked me on a date.

Do you think I still have a chance to win him back? I was going to get a transfer to another department, as it is hard to be around him and see him every day.

Marge.

Dear Marge:

If you can arrange the transfer to another department in your office without this young man suspecting you're doing it because of him, I think it would be a very good idea. In that way you'll have a chance to find out whether he really wants to be friends with you or not—since you're apparently interested enough to care, though why you would be, I can't understand. If he wants to see you again, you may be sure he'll find a reason for a trip to your new post; if he doesn't, you'll be in a better position to forget all about him.

My advice would be to start forgetting now, anyhow. You're not likely to have a very enjoyable time with anyone so unpredictable.

Her boy friend wants to be a dictator

Dear Miss Fairfax:

For the past nine months I have been going out with a fellow who made such an uproar if I dated anyone else that I stopped doing so, because I like him very much. He objected to other things that I did so I stopped them, too, such as going out with certain girl friends he didn't like. He has also said insulting things to me, but I let it pass and have learned to say nothing when that happens.

He probably would have had a great deal more respect for me if I had put him in his place in the beginning, but I was always afraid of losing him and never wanted to start an argument. We finally broke up, and he told me it was because of the things I had done in the past.

I still like him very much, and he has told me he still liked me, but that is hard for me to believe, because if he did, he would try to talk it all over with me. I told him this, and he said he had to consider his self-respect. I don't know whether I should let it go at that and try to forget him or try to get him back.

Angela

Dear Angela:

You had better let it go at that—and fast. This young man does not even know what self-respect is. You are perfectly right that you should have put him in his place in the beginning, and you'd better make up for the delay right now. Even if you should patch things up this time, you can be sure it wouldn't last long. This is a fellow who's going to have to change his ways a great deal before he'll be able to get anyone to stick to him.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

Two wedding anniversary celebration problems

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Our parents are to celebrate their 25th wedding anniversary soon, and we (two daughters and a son) would like to plan an Open House for them at their home.

1. Several times I have seen a notice in the local paper stating "Mr. and Mrs. John Jones will be honored at an open house—then occasion, day, date, and so forth. No invitations are being issued. All are cordially invited." Would it be correct for us to use this form?

2. Is it customary for the guests to bring gifts to this kind of occasion, or do they give money? We should like to have the latter done, but do not know how to arrange about this.

M. S.

1. If this is customary in your community, it would be correct. But it is true, too, that people do love to receive individual invitations for such an important occasion. Perhaps you could compromise. . . sending special invitations to those most importantly concerned with the occasion . . . . members of the family, particularly those at some distance, relatives and intimate friends. . . and then publish the general invitation.

2. Guests very often do bring gifts to a wedding anniversary party. . . . particularly to one so important as the Twenty-fifth. I don't know how you could properly "request" gifts of money from the guests in general. . . this would be presumptuous in all cases, but certainly in the case of those who hadn't even planned on giving a gift of any kind! However, if it comes about naturally that a group of members of the family and/or close relatives and/or intimate friends of your parents suggest that they would like to contribute to a joint present, this may properly be planned for, contributions collected, a present bought for the happiness and enjoyment of both your parents.

The bride must choose what bridal party should wear

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am to be married this Winter. My sister is to be my maid of honor, and she wishes to wear orchid velvet. But I think this will be too expensive for my bridesmaids. Would it be permissible to have their gowns of a material different from my sister's gown?

M. S.

I don't approve of this, and I believe that if you follow your sister's misguided and inappropriate suggestions, the effect of your wedding picture will be spoiled. Uniformity is an important part of every bridal party. And if you allow your sister to wear something as spectacular as orchid velvet and choose some simple, inexpensive 'number' for your bridesmaids, you'll have an impossible task making the appearance of your bridal party "uniform".

You are making a big mistake, dear bride-to-be, not to make your own plans about what your bridal party should wear. Your sister is creating a difficult situation for you. . . does she think she is "queen for this day"? This is your wedding, and you should decide, first on your color scheme. . . . then on the style of dresses for your attendants, remembering that today the maid of honor's dress and the bridesmaids' dresses are generally the same style. And don't let your sister, the maid of honor, steal the show!

Feathers Without Fuss

By ALICE ALDEN

AIGRETTES, real or cleverly simulated are wonderful. They don't, however, really reflect their gala charm except topping a dressy outfit for late afternoon wear, which is as it should be. But ready to shine beneath the daytime sun are these beautiful biddy feathers, Plymouth Roc, to be technical, gracefully adorning a smart little cloche. Laddie Northridge created this unusual hat and gives it a melon crown and kettle-edge brim. The taupe veil repeats the color most prominent in the feathers that so neatly pave the crown.

Fashion Flashes

SURFACE INTEREST increases as the season crystalizes. For a handsome belted tunic coat, reaching to just above the knee, the maker uses a vivid green and black checked nubby, loopy-surfaced coating. Coat has raglan shoulders and bat-wing sleeves, with oversized, slanting pockets on the bias-cut, flaring skirt.

ANDALUSIAN ACCENT for a hat draped on the lines of a typical bullfighter's bicorne, the exaggerated side points softly dented. Hat is in brilliant red velvet and is devoid of trimming.

BEAUTIFUL CROP of Fall blouses in the shops just now. Black velvet for a handsome long-sleeved blouse with a wide, deep, circular yoke of hand-run white Venise lace twinkling with tiny mother-of-pearl paillettes.

LUXURY PLUS in a magnificent coat, full-length and fitted, of Russian broadtail, dyed midnight blue. Collar border of mink, dyed to match, above pointed, notched revers. Cuffed sleeves are fashioned to stay put when pushed up above the elbow.

MORE AND MORE we notice the boxy jacket suit. Gray and white checked tweed for a handsome suit, the long boxy jacket marked by velvet touches. Inlay of black velvet on the small collar, low-placed double-breasted velvet buttons, velvet piping for the slashed, turn-back cuffs and velvet inlay on the turn-back of the low-slung patch pockets.

GETTING TOGETHER to form handsome costumes are new and interesting separates. White felt makes a very full skirt smartly embroidered with black braid to form an intricate leaf and scroll design. With it a deep scoop-necked blouse of black wool jersey with velvet banding around the neckline and for the adjustable drawstring sleeves.

ONLY 20 POUNDS AT BIRTH

St. Thomas, Oct. 14 — (CP) — A miniature Holstein-Durham calf in perfect health, is attracting attention here. Born Sunday, the calf weighed only 20 pounds at birth, about one-quarter the weight of a normal calf. It is the product of artificial insemination of a Holstein-Durham cow by a purebred Holstein bull.

BEAUTY

Vanishing waistlines

If a woman has a trim waistline of normal measurements and hangs onto it through the years, she won't have to do any worrying about figure defects. She will be "slender as a lily", have no problems about clothes. When she can't zip herself into last year's frock, she should take warning. There may come an invasion of fat cells that will force her to face a slenderizing diet and do corrective exercises for which she may have no liking or inclination.

This is the season of the year when a woman should take stock of her good points and those that may not qualify. If she has been an enthusiastic gardener, her hands will need extra attention. The sun-kissed complexion will be benefited by hot, moist applications to remove discolored skin scales and the application of a mild bleaching cream. Her figure will concern her, too, especially if, during the summer, she has lounged and loafed, has adopted the jolly habit of going without a girdle.

Abdominal muscles have a way of letting you and themselves down when support has been lacking. That means that an extra inch has sneaked up on the waistline. Unless that inch is banished, other inches will inch along.

Autumn is the ideal season for the outdoor sports that are beneficial to the health, that contribute to good appearance. It is the season for long walks, but few of the sisters ever take advantage of it.

Well, then, there's nothing left but to knuckle down to calesthenics. The little bulge south of the belt must be flattened. Fibres must be made to work, so they will tighten back to normal resiliency. We suggest a few simple exercises that will bring rich rewards—not in a week or two, but in four weeks or six—and they are well worth the effort.

Lie flat on the floor on your back, feet together and arms outstretched on a line with your shoulders. Lift your legs slowly, as high as you can. Higher and higher until you are fairly standing on the back of your neck. Lower the legs slowly. You will feel a strong pull on the muscles extending from the lower ribs to the thighs.

Don't over-do at first. After six lifts, relax, place the hands at the sides, take several long, deep breaths and then at it again.

Here is a harder one: on your back on the floor, arms close to the sides. Draw your feet up under your hips until you can grasp your ankles, but keep your feet on the floor. Raise your torso and don't lean on your elbows. Lower your heels and stand erect.

Your Hydro is growing fast - but

In 10 years your Hydro has increased the power supply to Southern Ontario by 952,940 horsepower, over twice the combined power requirements of the cities of Windsor, London, Hamilton, Peterborough, Kingston and Ottawa . . . and there will be more power within the next few months.

Ontario's growth has been amazing. Since 1947 the population has increased by 323,000, over 70,000 new homes have been constructed; approximately 700 new industries have been established and the value of production has risen an estimated 1½ billion dollars, 88,541 new rural consumers have been supplied with Hydro and the value of agricultural production has increased by some 400 million dollars . . . all of which called for power in greater quantities than at any previous time.

BUT—In addition to this tremendous growth, the recent step-up in industrial activity due to defence rearmament contracts has brought about a sharp increase in the use of electricity. In the past few weeks the maximum primary demand in Southern Ontario has been as much as 400,000 horsepower (298,000 kilowatts) higher than a year ago . . . an increase 5 times greater than the long term average rate of growth. For this reason your Hydro urges everyone to co-operate in the conservation of electricity.

World Going Through Period Of Great Conflict

New York, Oct. 13 (CP) —L.B. Pearson said Thursday night that one of the brightest signs for eventual world peace is the partnership which has grown up between Britain, the United States and Canada.

Canada's External Affairs Minister said that while the three countries have other partnerships, that informal partnership makes for special opportunities and responsibilities.

In an address prepared for delivery to a meeting of the Pilgrims Society of the United States at the Plaza Hotel, Pearson said the world is going through a "period of great conflict" when there are moments of perplexity in the search for security and peace.

One of the brightest of reassuring signs that the task is not hopeless, Pearson said "is the new and strong partnership which, in our time, has grown up between the United Kingdom, the United States and Canada."

Canada appreciated her good fortune in escaping the "pushing and squeezing" to which countries in less fortunate parts of the world were subjected by their "powerful neighbors," he said.

"We hope that in Washington they also appreciate their good fortune in having neighbors who are happy to tell them, frankly and in the American idiom, when they are going off the rails in their international policies."

Belleville Section of W.M.S. Of United Church in Canada Holds Rally at Tabernacle Ch.

The twenty-fifth annual meeting of Belleville section of the Woman's Missionary Society of the United Church of Canada was held in Tabernacle United Church Belleville, Wednesday, October 11. Mrs. J. F. Wilson, vice president, presided at all sessions. Mrs. S. W. Spafford, 1st vice president of Conference Branch, led in the opening worship and prayer. Women from Shannonville Auxiliary took charge of the afternoon worship service with Mrs. L. W. Scott singing "Do Something For Somebody Every Day".

Mrs. W. J. Harrison, president of Tabernacle Afternoon Auxiliary, welcomed the many delegates and guests. And the Courtesy committee sincerely thanked the guest speakers, the official board of Tabernacle and the women of that church for the welcome and comfort provided.

Various officers of the Belleville presbyterial introduced their work. Among them was Mrs. F. Bell, who displayed a table full of interesting literature for small children, Mission Bands, Mission Circles, C.G.I.T., and auxiliaries.

Girls' Camp Direction

Mrs. George Greer, of Trenton, on behalf of the C.G.I.T., began with an illustration of her direction of a camp near Brockville, last summer and told how the closing day was a great tribute to what the girls had learned at camp. She urged the delegates to secure leaders and train them and sponsor the C.G.I.T. She recited the following poem:

"To every girl there openeth a way, a ways and a way.
The high soul climbs the high,
the low soul gropes the low.
And in between on the misty flats
the rest drift to and fro.
But to every girl there openeth a high way or a low;
And every girl decideth which way her soul shall go."

Mrs. Morley Davidson, Mission Circle secretary, said the Belleville presbyterial extends from Maynooth on the north, south to Waupous; Trenton on the west across to Napanee on the east; and there are but five Circles in that territory. We have such a marvelous thing to offer young women, 18 to 25 years of age. In this day of merchandising, let us wrap up our missionary work in such bright attractive parcels that these girls will see that ours is a great and wonderful work.

Gain From Membership

A young woman gains from membership in a Mission Circle a number of things—(1) She has an opportunity for companionship with other girls of high Christian ideals and for a happy social life within the fellowship of the church. (2) Through reading, worship and service her own life is enriched. (3) She gains a knowledge and appreciation of people in other parts of the world. (4) She belongs to a group which can do much in community service. (5) She gains a clearer vision of the needs of Canada and the world and has a chance to share in meeting those needs through her membership in a national organization of church women. (6) She can play her part in the growth of the Christian church and the extension of God's Kingdom in Canada and throughout the world. We have just completed twenty-five years of church union. Twenty-five glorious years of achievement and spiritual advancement. We are now looking ahead to another twenty-five years of greater spiritual uplift and we need these young Mission Circle women to carry the torch. We shall do so much in the years to come. But what have we done today? We shall give our gold in a princely sum. But what did we give today? We shall lift the heart and dry the tear. We shall plant a hope in the place of fear. We shall speak the words of love and cheer. But what have we spoken today? We shall be so kind in the afterwhile. But what have we been today? We shall bring each lonely life a smile, But what have we brought today? We shall give to truth a grander birth, and to steadfast faith a deeper worth. We shall feed the hungering souls of earth. But whom have we fed today? Yes, this is the thing our souls must ask "What have we done today?"

Pray, Speak and Act

Mrs. T. F. Townsend, secretary of Temperance, said "It is my task to bring before you this momentous matter concerning which we must all pray, speak and act. It is difficult to say anything new about the problem of alcohol but perhaps the attitude of the recent General Council might give some guidance. They felt perhaps that we had been trusting too much in legislation. The Council saw that alcohol was most deeply entrenched in social attitudes and customs and the only strategy for the future was to change social opinion. They had no idea of final defeat for they were too sure of God's will in this matter. Because God is what He is and alcohol is what it is, its doom is finally certain. If a man does not want to be sober, no law on earth can make him so. There must be a heavenly power to make him sober. This heavenly power, love of God, makes a person love life in such a way that he will refuse to tangle it up with a thing of such power for evil. Trying the Christian religion means getting guidance from God rather than being guided by social custom.

Not Very Thoughtful

"Yes, when we try religion we get the power to see the evil lurking in ordinary social attitudes. There is something about alcohol that seems to fit in with a social atmosphere that aims to be glamorous but not very thoughtful. If all the women of the United Church would take most seriously this challenge of our General Council and kindly, lovingly, cheerfully but with rocklike determination went all out to achieve change, new days would dawn. Evangeline Booth once said "Drink has drained more blood, hung more crepe, sold more homes, plunged more people in bankruptcy, armed more villains, slain more children, snapped more wedding rings, defiled more innocence, wrecked more manhood, dishonored more womanhood, broken more hearts and dug more graves than any other one thing in the world." When we look at God, and then at alcohol and what it does to people, we will never hesitate. So again we say if all the women of the United Church, kindly, lovingly, cheerfully, but with rock-like determination go at the problem of changing social attitudes regarding alcohol a new day will dawn."

Mrs. M. Denton, 224 King St., Trenton, was introduced as the newly appointed secretary for Christian Stewardship and Finance.

School for Leadership

Mrs. Ruth VanOsten gave a report of the school for leaders held in August at Whitby Ladies' College. She expressed her thanks to the rally for giving her the opportunity of attending. The first 'highlight' she said was the joy of meeting old friends, friends she had made on previous visits to this annual "School". She told about the very beautiful memorial service arranged by Miss C. Wager, Peterborough, for the beloved and long presiding dean, Mrs. W. L. Smyth, who died during the year. The daily morning devotions were taken by Miss M. Prang from Paul's preaching the Brotherhood of Christ. In the study groups, Mrs. Outram stressed the need for Christian workers to go to Mission field. Mrs. VanOsten said "Go home ladies and think of your young people. Every auxiliary should send a delegate to the School for Leaders". She had no words that would tell what it did for her and it might help a delegate to decide to give her life for Christ.

President Heard

Mrs. C. D. McLellan, Napanee, presbyterial president, brought the message during the "Quiet Half Hour". She said "We would not be gathered here today unless we had a message for man and woman. Not just slogans preached from pulpits but something that will dig deep down in people's lives. Everyone has a deep seeking after the message for their lives. Our message comes from Jesus. We turn to Him because He is the complete revelation from God. His life translates the meaning of service and love. He had an all embracing respect for the many persons. With Jesus the aim was a gradual growing into fellowship with God. The Saviour was not aloof from a sinful world but came to share sin and sorrow with man. And that's the message we have for the world today. We are bewildered, not quite certain of what we believe. We too need that message; the message we send to other people we also need ourselves it's for everyone all over the world.

"Paul did not know the word "ecumenical" his word was "family". Paul was not just the apostle to the Gentiles, he was preaching to the Jews as well as the Gentiles.

Have Been Forgotten

"Has our western world lost its message? We seem to put our trust in outward things rather than in ideals. The principles of Jesus have been forgotten. We forget there is an unseen Judge who will punish us for our misdoings. We do not take our faith seriously enough. The people seem to be confused, unhappy, not knowing where they are going. The task of our church is to bring faith back to them. Masses of people in all countries of the world are yearning for a more abundant living. God demands that the whole church send the whole gospel to the whole world. "Ye shall go into the whole wide world." We must turn again to Christ. When we find Him we cannot help but share, we are anxious to share, in our very nature we will want to tell others. Missions is not just the isolated activity of the church. Missions is the vital part of every church and every Christian. Christianty is missions. We cannot share our faith by just contributing, as if it were just a worthy charity. A few cents a week is just playing at missions and we cannot afford to play. It's going to demand more and more of our lives. Today is the day of young people in Japan. They are eager. Japan should be a democratic country. Democracy is a child of Christianity.

"We know that to save the world the gospel of Jesus Christ must come. Religion has a way of conducting like electricity. If we have this message and want to send it, it must first be vital in our own lives. We can advance, we can go forward more than we have gone. In the power of our ord we can go further and forward. We cannot say we have even tried the possible until we have tried the impossible. Attempt the impossible and then you will see what is possible. Put your whole hearts in our society. We have the dream of the world for Christ, so let us do everything in our power, even our talents are small. We must advance. Let us share sacrificially and give more so that the Kingdom of God may come and so that all men everywhere may enjoy the blessings that we enjoy."

The guest speaker, Miss Annie Bishop, was introduced by Mrs. Ralph Sills, who told the assembly that Miss Bishop was supply secretary of the Dominion Board, and had come back to a former residential city her father having been minister of Bridge Street Church in previous years.

Great Responsibility

Miss Bishop came to share some phases of the great work and some messages from the Dominion Board which met in September in conjunction with the General Council. She said "We came away from that meeting very conscious of the fact that as W.M.S. women we have a great responsibility in the world today." She asked the delegates to let their minds wander around the world and catch the vision of our great task in today's world. When Mrs. Hugh Taylor presented to the Board her report she emphasized the fact that this not the same world, even if she had reported last May she would have found a different world since then. There is a great change and we must be adaptable and alert to meet that great change. Miss Bishop asked us to remember China in its suffering, its upheaval, its war and always the utter poverty of the millions of peasant folk. But we still have some workers in China and we have a great indigenous church. Simple folk they may be but they are earnest Christian people. Let us keep that church in our hearts.

"In Korea we see suffering. Thousands and thousands of refugees, mothers and children, thronging the hillsides today.

Doors Wide Open

"Japan is a country today with its doors wide open for Christianity. Let us remember our Christian church in Japan as they look to us for greater leadership these days.

"One thing I do want to leave upon your hearts—we do need new workers in Africa. A minimum staff should be 25 and we have 17 on the field.

"India with her millions. With the drawing of her people to Christianity we lack workers.

"Trinidad. In every field we lack workers. All across Canada we lack nurses. Are we offering our young people the grandest future that could ever come to them—the privilege to serve. In every country today, in the midst of war and uncertainty we have a Christian church. And we are a part of that great on-going Church of Christ throughout the world.

"Last year our motto was Advance. Miss Bishop said, "You made sure each one took it home to your local auxiliaries. You laid your plans and you advanced. You increased your membership and givings. You met your allocation and went over the top and you had the privilege of sharing in the gifts for building advance. Unless our presbyterials do go over their allocation and have some money, for our allocation just maintains our work, if we are going to build and keep up the repairs of our buildings, give our worker a car to help her cover her hundreds of miles, we have to go over the top and have money to give the gifts for building advance.

"There is something very very contagious about the enthusiastic woman. Have we in our own hearts the deep conviction of why we are W.M.S. women? Have we in our lives the deep and undying love for Jesus Christ and the realization of what He means to us and the urge to share this message with others?"

Dealt on Supply

In her afternoon address Miss Bishop dwelt on supply work. The largest portion of our supply work is done in our western provinces. But we also have a project in Canada sending toys to Halifax where families enter our country. This is in no particular allocation but she asked for extra toys that children can take away with them when they leave the depot (to save some tears).

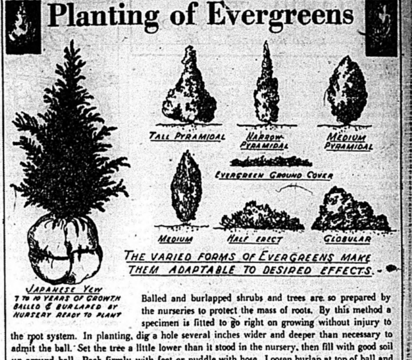
Other projects are clothing for 900 boys in three church-schools in Greece and 900 girls in church-orphanges in Germany. Clothing and bedding for the families of 200 Protestant pastors in Italy. Warm clothing for Korea's need which is very great.

During the day beautiful solos were rendered by Mrs. F. Houston and Mrs. Morley Davidson. Mrs. M. P. Duff presided at the organ for the accompaniments and offertories.

Finally the Tabernacle Mission Band captivated the hearts of everyone present with their skit, "The Old, Old Song with a New Meaning", which climaxed the entire day's messages and reports.

Reverend F. R. Harback pronounced the benediction.

Planting of Evergreens



THE VARIED FORMS OF EVERGREENS MAKE THEM ADAPTABLE TO DESIRED EFFECTS.

Balled and burlapped shrubs and trees are so prepared by the nurseries to protect the mass of roots. By this method a specimen is fitted to go right on growing without injury to the root system. In planting, dig a hole several inches wider and deeper than necessary to admit the ball. Set the tree a little lower than it stood in the nursery, then fill with good soil up around ball. Pack firmly with feet or puddle with hose. Loosen burlap at top of ball and roll back or cut off. Complete filling the hole with good soil, pack firmly and leave the top of ground covered with loose earth. A mulch of peat moss or well rotted manure will conserve moisture.

Consult nursery catalogues for proper varieties to fit all types of evergreen plantings.

"Mary, remember the discussion we had when we opened our Savings Account at the Victoria Trust? ... Well I was in there yesterday talking to the Manager, and he drew my attention to the fact that we now had several hundred dollars in our account, earning 2 per cent interest. He suggested that we take some of this money and buy Guaranteed Investment Receipts or as he explained them .. Term Deposits, which run for five years and pay 3 per cent interest. These Guaranteed Investment Receipts have coupons attached which can be cut every six months, or if we wish can be left attached, and we draw interest on our interest. Should we need extra cash, we can cash these Term Deposits at any time ... they are as good as gold ... backed by a company, which has assets of over $20 millions, and has been in business for over 56 years. ... Now Mary, I suggest we go to the Victoria Trust tomorrow and buy Term Deposits. We can have them registered in both our names."

"John, I think that's a splendid idea."

The change in the closed season for Lake Trout which became effective in Haliburton County and certain townships in Hastings County this year, that it will be no longer legal to angle for this fish through the ice or attempt to take them by any means during the winter as the season for lake trout is now closed from October 6 to April 30.

Fishing through the ice has been a contributing factor in reducing the lake trout population in the waters of Haliburton County by exerting pressure on this fish almost continuously.

The townships in Hastings County affected by the change in regulation concerning the closed season on lake trout are Bangor, Carlow, Cashel, Dungannon, Faraday, Herschel, Limerick, Mayo, McClure, Monteagle, Wicklow and Wollaston.

Closure of these waters was provided as a result of biological investigations, the prevailing conditions and the resultant repports in connection therewith.

Fishermen and other residents of these districts should not protest this move on the part of the Department of Lands and Forests. The Department, by closing these lakes, is not creating any hardship on the good people of the north. Rather it is doing them a favor. Fishing is one of the main attractions to tourists, and "fishless" lakes would divert American and other vacationists to other parts of Ontario.

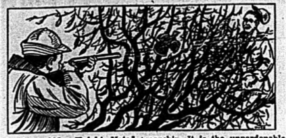
Hunting Accidents Can be Prevented



By John Alden Knight, Noted Sportsman, Author and creator of Solunar Tables.

Hunting season is not far off. In fact, woodcock, dove and rail have been legal shooting for some time in many states and the duck season has opened in many provinces in Canada. At the risk of being repetitious, let me once again bring you this reminder:

Always remember that your gun—any gun—is a death-dealing weapon.

Why or how people can forget this simple truth, even for a moment, is something that I can't understand, but they do and the annual toll taken by shotguns and sporting rifles make grim reading.

Consider for a moment the experience of just one man—myself. Disobedience of the rules of gun handling on the part of others has cost me three close friends, men whom I knew from boyhood. There was one not so many years ago. He had shot grouse in the hills of Pennsylvania for at least thirty years. Yet while he was making his way through a difficult gully he neglected to throw open the breach of his shotgun.

Found Dead

He stumbled and the gun accidently discharged. The other members of the party found him a short time later with the lower part of his face blown completely away. He died two days later.

There was another who failed to keep in touch with his shooting partner while hunting grouse. A bird flushed and flew toward him, he was standing where he should not have been. He, too, is dead.

A third failed to impress upon his son that a twenty-two rifle can kill. The boy and a friend went hunting. In play, the youngster aimed his "empty" gun at his friend and pulled the trigger. You know the result.

A fourth, while shooting ducks in Florida, pulled his gun toward him by the muzzle, dragging the trigger guard over the seat of the boat. He never knew what hit him.

These things are so easy to avoid. Henry Davis of the Remington Arms Company, has put together some rules of conduct with guns. Here are some of them.

Always remember to NEVER point a gun at anything you do not want to shoot. Never leave your gun unattended unless you unload it first. Never climb a tree or fence with a loaded gun.

Rules to Remember

Simple, easy to remember and easy to follow rules, these, but so very, very important to your own safety and that of your companion.

Carry only empty guns, taken down or with the action open, into your automobile, camp or home. Whenever you pick up a gun, whether you are indoors or outdoors, ALWAYS first point the muzzle of the gun in a safe direction and examine the piece carefully to make sure whether or not it is loaded.

The pointing of a loaded gun toward a companion is a violation of every principle of good sportsmanship. It is the unpardonable sin of shooting ethics. Do it just once and you have lost the respect and comradeship of your companion, and branded yourself as either a thoughtless novice or a careless, dangerous shooter with whom it is unsafe to go afield. WATCH THAT MUZZLE! Never indulge in 'horseplay' with firearms. This foolhardy practice has caused many fatal and near-fatal accidents.

The leaving of loaded guns unattended is extremely dangerous. A companion may pick one up thinking it to be unloaded. If it is propped against a tree, car or post, a frisking hunting dog may bump against it, knocking off the safety and stepping on the trigger. These things have happened!

When you are resting or having lunch in the field or woods, open the breech of your gun and draw the shell or shells from the chambers. Then lay the gun flat on the ground, preferably under the protection of a convenient bush to avoid having it stepped on. Check the breech and the muzzle thoroughly before reloading to make sure that they are free of obstructions.

Falls Can be Dangerous

In climbing over fences or obstructions, always first pass your gun over to your companion, or pass it through the fence and lay it on the ground. A stumble or fall might prove disastrous.

Before loading your gun, always make sure that the barrel and action are free from obstructions. Foreign matter in the barrel causes more 'blown up' guns than any other factor. Should you stumble badly or fall and your muzzle touch the ground, always unload and look through the bore to be sure that it is not clogged with mud, snow or other substance

If you are walking single file, keep your muzzle pointed forward. If you are walking behind your companion, see that your gun points away from him at all times. It is best to walk abreast in the field or woods, but in doing so, see that your muzzle is always pointed away from your companion. Never crowd your companion in a duck blind. Be sure that each of you has plenty of room in which to shoot safely.

Never, never pull a gun, loaded or unloaded, toward you from a boat, car or through a fence. You are flirting with a date with the undertaker when you do this.

Always see that the safety is on until you are ready to shoot. Sudden jars and brushings against twigs or brush can release the safety catch without your knowing it. Examine it frequently.

Always Unload Gun

When you approach camp or your automobile, always unload your gun. Take it down or open the action before putting it away or setting it aside.

Always make sure of your target before pulling the trigger. Take a good look . . . and then look again! Never fire in the direction of a sudden sound. It may be caused by some farmer's livestock, or, worse still, another hunter.

Today the youth of the nation is being schooled thoroughly in gun-handling. By and large, the younger gunners are safer gunning companions than many of the oldsters. Yet we have always the careless and thoughtless.

Even at the fear of making enmities, never fail to correct a man or a boy for unsafe gun handling. You may save your life if you do.

A Weekly Peek At The Soccer Picture

BY ELDEE

Last Monday afternoon Belleville United trekked to Kingston to take on a strong Kingston United contingent on their own bailiwick. This was the last Eastern Ontario fixture for the Belleville boys and they lost by seven goals to two in what turned out to be a very fast game. Kingston United had already won the league championship, having obtained a full quota of points to date and Belleville unfortunately have finished up in the cellar. The Belleville squad are a very game crowd and have fulfilled all their commitments in their first season in the newly formed Eastern Ontario loop.

This afternoon Belleville finish off their schedule in the Bay of Quinte Soccer League when they take on Trenton Merchants at the Fairgrounds in Belleville. The result of this game will decide the third position in the local league table. Belleville are at present in this position with Trenton in the fourth spot so a win for the Merchants could reverse the position. This is the last game scheduled for the Bay of Quinte Soccer League leaving just the Trenton Challenge Cup final to be decided next Saturday between Trenton Flyers and Trenton Merchants at Bain Memorial Park in Trenton next Saturday afternoon.

This afternoon the second leg of the Ontario Intermediate Championships is called to be played off at Kingston between Kingston United and Camp Borden Army. This game was postponed last Saturday as the Army team had difficulty in arranging transportation for the holiday weekend. Kingston won the first game by three goals to nothing and should have no difficulty in considerably increasing their quota of goals in the second leg today.

There are still a few tickets left for the Bay of Quinte Football Association second annual banquet and dance to be held at the Queensway Hotel in Trenton on Friday 27th October. These tickets priced at $2.00 each are available from any club secretary or from any member of the Football Association executive. From all accounts this function looks as if it will be a real gala occasion.

Sports Shorts From Britain

By EDWIN S. JOHNSON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Oct. 14 — (CP) — Charges of corruption, trickery and flagrant defiance of recognized rules of sportsmanship, are being tossed in the general direction of an almost sacred British institution — professional soccer.

'Trafficking' in high-class player talent, which critics say is threatening the very foundations of the sport, is the cause of it all. They admit it's a severe indictment involving as it does a game which over an eight-month season attracts more than 1,000,000 spectators every weekend.

Leading the attack is veteran Bob Smith, chairman of the Second Division Club, Manchester City, who for more than 40 years has been actively associated with the development of professional soccer in the country.

"I have heard of men boasting openly of the tainted money they have made out of the transfer racket — and of how they knew that certain panic - stricken clubs could do nothing about it," he said.

He charged that not more than one out of every four clubs affiliated with the Football Association stood firmly behind the rules they themselves had helped to draw up to govern player transfers.

"The black market in transfers, the under-cover 'drops' of substantial sums of money to players as inducements to join a club, grows worse every season," Smith said. "Today it is threatening the very foundations of big football."

Players Demand Share

Players, he said, sometimes demanded and got as much as $3,000 as their share of a transfer deal, when the competition between the clubs was particularly keen.

Smaller cash payments, gifts of cars, furniture and free - rent homes, had also been offered to players, either to change clubs or to remain where they were instead of insisting on a transfer.

When Manchester City last season faced the prospect of losing its place in the first division, the manager had been instructed to strengthen the team regardless of cost. Overtures had been made to several clubs for reinforcements, but nothing had come of the negotiations when the players held out for a "handsome cut" of the transfer fee.

An Easy Matter

"Believe me, it would have been an easy matter for a rich club like ours to buy or bribe its way out of trouble," Smith declared. "But we preferred to sink honorably to the second division, rather than keep our heads above water by dealing dishonorably."

Unless the clubs agreed wholeheartedly to put a stop to the practice, and action was taken by the Football League to enforce existing rules, the future of the game, he said, would be seriously undermined.

As a remedy Smith suggested an amnesty, covering past offences, should be declared, permitting players and clubs alike to start again with a clean sheet.

"With the amnesty", he added, "I would issue a warning to clubs and players that future defaulters will be dealt with in such a way that none would ever be likely to offend again. I appeal to the league authorities to put the house in order now, before it is too late."

Fans in Four Cities Provided With Free-Scoring Affairs As Junior 'A' Season Opens

(By The Canadian Press)

The curtain went up on the 1950-51 Ontario Junior A hockey season Friday night, providing fans in four cities with some fairly free-scoring affairs.

Guelph Biltmores got away on the right foot in defence of their title, although they found it anything but easy going against the league's new entry, Waterloo Hurricanes.

The Bilts won 5-4 before a home-town crowd.

At St. Catharines, the Teepees blew a 3-0 lead on Toronto Marlboros but eventually triumphed 4-3 in overtime. Barrie Flyers pleased their home town supporters by toppling Galt Black Hawks 6-3, and Stratford Kroehlers edged Toronto St. Michael's 7-5 in Stratford.

All 10 teams in the loop are in action today—Windsor Spitfires at Waterloo; Barrie at Oshawa; Guelph at Galt; Stratford at Toronto Marlboros and St. Catharines at St. Mike's.

In Guelph Friday night, the battling Hurricanes matched the champions goal-for-goal through the first two periods but were blanked in the finale while Herby Dickenson potted the winning marker for the Bilts with less than two minutes of play remaining.

Willy Marshall for Guelph and Benny Cardas for Waterloo shared sniping honors. Each had two goals. Other marksmen for the Bilts were Ed Kulik and Chester Koneczny. Charlie McDonald and Gordon Boniface got singletons for Hurricanes.

Don McComb was the white-haired boy of Teepees victory, potting the winning marker at 1:58 of the extra session.

Goes Into Overtime

St. Catharines moved into a two-goal lead on markers by Wayne Brown and Gord Lomer in the first period only to drop behind 3-2 in the second as Marlboros took over the offensive. Bill McFarlane, Tom Fyles and Neil McDonald bagged the Toronto tallies in the middle session.

Ted Powers sent the contest into overtime by clicking for the lone counter in the third session, setting the stage for McComb.

Reale Chevrefils almost single-handedly accounted for the Barrie victory, scoring three times. Jerry Toppazzini shared the scoring spotlight, notching two for the victors whose other marker was fired home by Freddy Fletsch.

Pete Conacher tallied twice for Galt. Ken Wharram got the other Hawks marker.

At Stratford, the Kroehlers staged a garrison finish, out-scoring St. Mike's 3-1 in the final session after having lost the lead in the second canto.

Ray Ross scored three for the victors whose other tallies were fired home by Larry Lemenchick, Harold Emple, Bob Bailey and John Zood.

Fred Sandford, Weldrake, Bill Lee, Harold McNamara and Bob Sabourin tallied for the losers.

Waterloo Tigers One Game Away From O.B.A. Title

Waterloo, Oct. 14 (CP) —Waterloo Tigers within a game of the Ontario Senior Baseball championship.

Sporting a three-game lead, they meet Niagara Falls Fords in Niagara Falls today in the fourth game of the best-of-seven series for the title.

Al Dumouchelle, Intercounty League strike-out king, handcuffed the Fords Friday night as Waterloo swept the third game 5-0. Dumouchelle scattered nine hits, fanned nine and left 10 runners stranded.

First baseman Auggie Herchenratter tripled in the first inning to give Dumouchelle two runs to work on. The triple drove in Jim Muldoon who was walked and Don Obertoltzer who tripled.

Singles by Johnny Fornari and Joe Yosurak and a walk to Bob Fisher gave Tigers another run in the fourth. They added two more in the eighth on a wild pitch by Russ Worrall and singles by playing manager Alex Kvasnak, Yosurak and Herchenratter.

At the end of the first inning, Kvasnak was presented with the Intercounty League's most-valuable-player award by treasurer Norm Parker.

STRUCK BY MOTORCYCLE

Stroud, Oct. 14— (CP)—Joseph Bowman, 76, was killed yesterday when struck by a motorcycle, said by police to be driven by a soldier. His name was not disclosed.

Proximity Only Finishes Fourth In $25,000 Trot

Chris Spencer from the Bostwick farm, Shelburne, Vt., closed with a rush in the final yards Friday night to beat out Pronto Don by a head in the $25,000 Gotham trot at Yonkers raceway. Proximity, the all-time top money winner, finished fourth.

The favored Proximity finished behind Martha Doyle in the 1⅛-miles event after going into a break in stride a quarter of a mile from home. It was one of the few times that Proximity, driven by her regular pilot, Clint Hodgins of Clandeboye, Ont., had broke during a race.

Chris Spencer, driven by Willie Haughton, had beaten both Pronto Don and Proximity this summer at Goshen, N.Y. through a disqualification. But that was the closest the 14-1 shot had ever come to the big names of the trotting business.

Pronto Don, owned by the Hayes Fair Acres Stable of Du Quoin, Ill., had defeated Proximity in the $50,000 Roosevelt trot last month, but the crowd of 19,101 still made Proximity the odds-on choice at 3 to 5. Pronto Don was 9-5 in the mutuels.

Chris Spencer was clocked in 3:10 1-5.

Baseball Commissioner A. B. Chandler split up the players' share of the receipts from the world series yesterday.

The world champion New York Yankees gave full shares of $5,737.95 to 32 players, coaches and others. Thirteen others received partial shares.

Philadelphia Phils, National League champs and losers to the Yanks in four straight games of the world series, allotted full shares of $4,081.34 to 32 members of their roster. Nine others came in for partial shares.

In a wild free-swinging brawl, Nick Barone of Syracuse, N.Y., used a 14-pound advantage to carve out a unanimous 10-round decision over dead-game Jimmy Beau of Norwalk, Conn., last night at the St. Nicholas arena. Barone, a 5-8 favorite, weighed 174 1-4; Beau 159 1-4.

Oklahoma City Indians of the Texas League have broken off a baseball working agreement with the American League Cleveland Indians.

President E. J. Humphries of the Oklahoma City Club said last night that Cleveland's failure to put a winning team here and its policy of calling up top talent in mid-season were reasons for the break.

Stymie is going back to the farm in Kentucky, his plans for a comeback to racing abandoned by trainer Hirsch Jacobs.

The nine-year-old chestnut stallion, retired last year as the world's greatest money-winning horse, had been brought back to Jamaica this summer to train for a comeback. The action was taken after Citation passed Stymie this year in money earnings.

Jacobs, who trains the horse for his wife, Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs, said Stymie injured himself slightly in his stall a few days ago.

New Westminster Adanacs Defeat Owen Sound, 13-9

Toronto, Oct. 14 (CP)—A substitute forward, who had begged for a chance to play, sparked New Westminster Adanacs to a 13-9 upset decision over Owen Sound Crescents here last night in the third game of the Canadian Senior Lacrosse finals.

Stan Tyson, a 20-year-old lightweight who didn't get onto the floor as the Western champions lost the first two games, fired two clutch goals and assisted in another as Adanacs roared back to a fighting-chance spot in the Mann Cup series.

"I told the coach that if he gave me a chance, I would give him a good game," young Tyson said after the game.

And the kid kept his promise, with a job that ignited Adanacs and sent them to victory.

New Westminster was three goals behind in the second quarter when Tyson, who had been driving steadily, got his first counter. Then just before the stanza ended, the sophomore forward made the play that lifted Adanacs into an 8-8 tie.

By the time Tyson got his second goal midway through the third, New Westminster was on fire and the western champions didn't stop. They outscored Owen Sound 4-1 in that quarter and 5-1 in the fourth quarter.

Crescents Still Head

Despite the loss, Crescents still lead the best-of-seven series 2-1 and Coach Doug Gillespie predicts the eastern champions will bounce back to take the fourth game Sunday afternoon. The fifth game will be played next Wednesday.

After Owen Sound had won the first game 8-7 and drubbed Adanacs 13-6 in the second, only 1,888 fans paid to see last night's heavy-checking game.

Bob Bremner was top New Westminster scorer with three goal while Alf Wood, Reo Jerome and Jack Northup and Tyson all counted twice with Mike Munro and Jake Proctor getting one apiece.

Owen Sound Snipers were Arnold (Onions) Smith wtih three, Russ Slater and Grant Gillespie with two each and Doug Gillespie and Jack Foote.

Coach Bob Lee of Adanacs was pleased with the victory.

"That was the big one," he said. "We had to win it. We were running with them for the first time."

New Westminster changed its system for the game, alternating two complete forward lines instead of using only ten players as in the first two games.

Coach Doug Gillespie of Owen Sound said the loss "would do the boys a lot of good. We weren't driving and getting those loose balls."

Joe DiMaggio Not Sure About Return to Yanks

New York, Oct. 13 — (AP) — Joe DiMaggio, who finished the 1950 baseball season in a blaze of glory, is not sure he will return to the New York Yankees next year.

DiMaggio, discussing his ailments of the past season, said yesterday: "I finished strong, felt better than I had all season and really felt great in the series.

"But I can't be sure about next year. I'd like to know how my health is going to be. I don't want to go through 1950 all over again."

The Yankee star, who earned $100,000 this year, also said he sees no reason for taking up contract negotiations at this time.

DiMaggio, who wound up with a .301 mark, plans to leave soon for his native San Francisco.

Whip and Tim Get Revenge Over the Leer and the Mask But There Was No Unveiling

Well, that's that. Wrestling bowed out of the 1950 season picture here last night in a blaze of glory.

And it went out to the shrieks and yells of the largest crowd in the wrestling history of this city.

Always a hotbed for the pachyderms, the city gave it a seasonal send off that must have had Marse Tunney twiddling his thumbs all night.

Biggest Crowd of Season

Upwards of 2,000 of the faithful passed the turnstiles to bid goodbye to pachydermia and incidentally to see the Whipper and Timmy turn the tables on their foemen Lee (the Leer) Henning his partner in rasslin' crime the Masked Marvel and the man of mystery the "Wasp" who hangs around for his ten per cent as the "brains" of the Marvel menage. Next time they had better bring in the secretary.

Yup, Marse Whip and his likeable pal Timothet the Geohagen had their revenge last night, but alas and alack rules and regulations, probably dug up and formulated to suit the occasion forbad the unveiling of the Mask.

Wise Guy?

"Tut, tut" smole Bunny the Dunlop, when this reporter quizzed him as to why the Mask should not reveal his ugly or handsome puss to the public gaze. "Its again the rules."

That was one for the book. It was the first time such a tome was known to be in existence. But the Bun was insistent.

Prodding a large hamlike thumb into the reportorial chest, he dislocated a couple of ribs trying to make his point. And it was boxcars."

"The rules sez" sez he, "that a masked wrestler can be unveiled only when he meets defeat at the hands of a lone opponent. In a team match… Nnnn..Nnnn… (whatever that means).

No Looksee

In any event the estimable Bunny, who is by far the most colorful arbiter to make mistakes here in many a moon, refused to let the faithful have a peek at the plug-ugly mug and the matter rested at that.

In the ring the free-for-all lacked a lot of the color that characterized the hot session of a week ago. True the Mask and the Leer aided and abetted by their agent gave the Whip-Tim duo a run for their money but the handsome phiz kids were masters of their foemen almost throughout the match.

And the crowd howled its delight as the Whip took on all comers and cleared the ring with sweeps of his mighty fists. It was a good show all round and in all probability the Whipper who has once again parked the bauble of the British Empire wrestling championship atop his handsome locks will re-open the season next year.

Tussle of the Muscles Ends In Virtual Draw, 'We Are The Goats' Say Spectators

Quebec, Oct. 14. (CP)—The wrestling honor of both the Delamarres and the Baillargeons emerged unscathed last night from Quebec's big tussle of the muscles.

The Battle of the Century between Victor Delamarre, Jr., upholder of the finest name among Quebec City strong men, and Antonio Baillargeon, one of half-a-dozen famous weight-lifting brothers, was inconclusive—except, perhaps, for the fans.

One paying customer shouted after the bout was halted with each man winning a fall and Baillargeon retiring because of injuries:

"Les chevaux danes ca c'est nous autres!"

That might be translated:

"The champeen goats, they're us!"

Nevertheless, last night's principals will have to be rematched in the old lower town gas-house to decide if Delamarre can outwrestle Baillargeons.

Last night's encounter between Delamarre, son of Quebec's most renowned strong man of recent times, and Baillargeon, youngest of the six muscle-bound brothers, went entirely according to the best traditions of wrestling.

Delamarre, 28 and a lean 175 pounds, took the first of three falls with a headlock in seven minutes, eight seconds.

Baillargeon, 18 and bulging with muscles as big as ship's cables, took the second in eight minutes, 12 seconds with some kind of double armlock plus a knee on the head.

That's when the comments of a spectator after first fall came to life.

Lost His Balance

"Keep your eye on Baillargeon after he wins the second fall," said the whisperer.

What happened brought the crowd of 2,000 or more to its feet with a gasp.

Baillargeon, stepping from the ring, lost his balance and toppled to the concrete floor among the ringsiders.

Big Brother Paul slung poor Antonio over a shoulder and hefted him away to the dressing room.

When the bell clanged for the third and deciding round, Delamarre entered his corner and stood waiting.

The loudspeakers announced that Baillargeon wanted five minutes more before he reappeared.

Then the loudspeakers announced that Baillargeon had only 50 second longer to recover from his injury.

Referee Jack Adams put on a severe frown, then stood before a neutral corner and dramatically counted the absent Baillargeon out.

Delamarre refused to let his arm be raised in victory.

The loudspeakers made sure everyone recognized "What a gentleman" Delamarre was to refuse that kind of decision in his favor.

SARNIA HORSE WINS

Toledo, Oct. 14 — (CP)—Grattan Volo, nine-year-old gelding owned by L. O. Charlesworth of Sarnia, set a track record at Fort Miami Raceway Friday night, winning the one-mile free-for-all trot.

Grattan Volo's time of 2:06.2 eclipsed the mark set by Lindo Direct in 1947 and equalled by Silver Faith in 1949.

Driven by J. Edwards in its first start at Fort Miami this year, Grattan Volo paid $15.40, $9.40 and $4.40.

Brown Bomber May Take Another Shot at Title

New York, Oct. 14 — (AP) — It seems that Joe Louis is going to keep on fighting until he gets one more shot at his old heavyweight title.

From reliable sources it was learned today that the Brown Bomber is planning a series of big bouts which he hopes will earn him another crack at champion Ezzard Charles.

If all goes well, the 36-year-old Louis may take on Argentina's Cesar Brion in Chicago in late November or early December, followed swiftly by appearances in Detroit and New York.

In Detroit, his probable opponent would be Lee Oma, the veteran contender from Buffalo. In New York's Madison Square Garden he might face Rocky Marciano, the undefeated Brockton, Mass., slugger.

Then, if victorious in all three, Louis would be primed to face Charles again in an outdoor fight in Yankee Stadium. The prospects of a huge television - radio fee, far surpassing the $146,000 shelled out for last month's Charles - Louis scrap, is one of the tempting lures for a Louis return. Other possible foes include Lee Savold, British - recognized heavyweight champion, and Tommy Farr, the comebacking Welsh old-timer.

Signed to Meet Brion

Louis was not available early today for his say on these reports, which came from those usually in the know.

But welterweight champion Ray Robinson, a close friend of Joe's, told the press at a Boston luncheon yesterday that Louis has been signed to meet Brion in Chicago Stadium Nov. 29. Sugar Ray said an official of the International Boxing Club had shown him a signed contract for the fight. Louis, incidentally, is a partner and director in the I.B.C.

Robinson's statement that a contract had been signed brought vigorous denials from Harry Markson, managing director of the I.B.C.

Louis has changed signals on himself often in the past. His latest shift came after he had lost a 15-round decision to Charles in Yankee Stadium Sept. 27. Right after the fight he said: "I'm through. I won't fight again. I done the best I can."

A few days later he indicated he might fight again.

Prompting his urge to return is that old income-tax trouble and a desire to earn some more of the big dough. The Bomber received about $100,000 for the Charles scrap. He had owed the government a sum reported to be about $250,000. So he's not out of the woods by far.

Still another consideration is his pride and a belief that he was not really ready for Charles.

LEADER WON'T BE ALONG

Toronto, Oct. 14 — (CP) —The Morning Glory Club makes its semi-annual, 25-mile walk to Oakville today, but for the first time its leader and founder, Charles Priestman, won't be along. The 84-year-old Mr. Priestman, who inaugurated the walks on his birthday — today — and on St. Patrick's Day some 20 years ago, is in hospital.

Bruins and Leafs Make Their Bows In N.H.L. Opener

(By The Canadian Press)

Boston Bruins, mystery men of the National Hockey League, and the rookie - coached Toronto Maple Leafs make their 1950-51 NHL debuts tonight.

Brig. John M. Rockingham, commander of Canada's special army brigade, will drop the first puck of the season in Toronto's Maple Leaf Gardens when Leafs meet Chicago Black Hawks.

The youthful Bruins barge into Montreal to meet the Canadiens, who pleased Montreal fans by holding Chicago to a 3-3 tie Thursday.

All six teams are in action Sunday—Toronto at Detroit, Montreal at Boston and New York at Chicago.

Toronto will also be watching the debut of Joe Primeau, a hockey great of more than a decade ago, in his first league game as an NHL coach. He'll be facing another rookie coach—Ebbie Goodfellow of Chicago, former Detroit Red Wing star.

The Montreal-Boston game will be a battle of rookies.

With a new and youthful team and a new coach — Lynn Patrick—Boston is the unknown factor in the league. Manager Art Ross said in Peterborough, Ont., this week that his young players will "show much improvement this year" and "they'll surprise a lot of clubs in the National League before the schedule ends.

Canadiens, too, are banking heavily on rookies to compensate for the retirement of goalie Bill Durnan and defenceman Ken Reardon.

Veteran Elmer Lach still was their star man in the Chicago game Thursday and the line of Ken Mosdell, Floyd Curry and Cliff MacKay may yet turn out to be Montreal's big scoring punch.

Goaltender Gerry McNeil showed well Thursday. He moved up this season to replace Durnan.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Oct. 14 (AP) — A bunch of reporters were formulating plans for National Oblivion Week.

"This would be a week to get rid of all those things that have seen too much use in Hollywood" proposed one of them. "For instance, I nominate for oblivion all short subjects and newsreel clips on water skiing."

"Excellent," said another, "and how about pictures that open up with a New York skyline? Then a pompous voice says, 'this is New York!'

"I think we should set aside a special little oblivion for certain movie characters," suggested another. "The slick lawyer who juggles the water rights in westerns. The callow young cavalry officer who was thought to be yellow, but who gallops into the fort with news that the Apaches are coming. He has an arrow in his back, of course."

More Beefs

The suggestions began streaming in.

"Can't something be done about press agents who want you to interview dogs, horses and infant actors?"

"I'd like to put a stop to all pictures that end with the hero or heroine playing a piano or violin concerto for 15 minutes Meanwhile. we see close-ups of members of the cast under emotional strain."

"And how about that 'cute ending for comedies and musicals? The one with the couple going into a clinch and then a fadeout of their dog looking quizzically and cocking one ear."

"I think we should have a newsreel division. Why does every other newsreel have to show bronco-busting at the rodeo? What about springboard diving shots that are run backwards so the diver jumps out of the water? Not to mention the ski-jumping at Lake Placid."

"I'd like to nominate the scene in which somebody parks in front of a house or apartment and says, 'this is the place'."

Are there any further nominations from our fellow-sufferers?

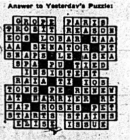
Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle:



Little Benny's Note Book

Ma was opening her mail at breakfist, saying to pop, Well, here's a special notice from Slawters to their charge customers to give advance notice of their annual half price sale. Their annual sale is famous, William, she said

Yes, you mention it annually, pop said, and ma said, Imagine, every shoe in the shop slashed in half.

It sounds almost destructive, pop said, and ma said, Everybody knows Slawters shoes are the best value in town, even at full price. It really comes under the head of news, she said.

Especially, if you happen to need shoes, pop said, and ma said, But I dont, that's the difficulty. Slawters shoes hold their shape like new even when there's practically nuthing left of them. My last pairs are weeks and practically munths old, and yet everybody thinks I just bawt them. My, they're selling out their famous satin evening slippers as low as 8 dollers. If my evening slippers showed the slightest sines of wear, I'd really be tempted, she said.

It seems a shame that all your shoes aren't in rags, pop said, and ma said, It would be another story if the new stiles were different, but Slawters shoes are always in advance of the populer stiles, and that's why it's so economical to buy there. My, alligator walking shoes, 13 dollers. I almost wish I needed a pair, but fortunately, I dont, she said.

Why dont you get a pair anyway, just to encourage them for reducing prices in these times of inflation? pop said, and ma said, Why William, do you really meen it?

My dear, it would be a public service, pop said, and ma said, Well, if you really feel that way about it, I'll drop in to show my appriciation, and if the values are really overwhelming, I may get 2 pair.

Which she probably will.

Conservatives May Withdraw From Coalition

Winnipeg, Oct. 14—(CP)—The Progressive Conservative party will probably withdraw from Manitoba's coalition government at the end of this month, it was learned Friday. Presumably it will take over from the C.C.F. as official opposition.

Premier Douglas Campbell's administration is not endangered. Two of his cabinet ministers and several other members elected as Progressive Conservatives have said they will stick with him. But even without them he would have a working majority. The Progressive Conservative decision will be made at a convention in Brandon Oct. 27-28. Already 11 of the provinces party associations have indicated they favor withdrawal from the coalition.

Mr. Campbell's Liberal-Progressives now hold 28 seats in the 57-seat house. They would have an over-all majority with the support of several Independents.

DEDUCT FOUR YEARS

From time to time in the past I've had some blunt things to say about Canada's commercial or "independent" radio stations. This comment was rather confined since it was based largely on monitoring western stations.

Now I've had a chance to listen to these voices across the land and to discover how wrong I was in accusing them of catering to customers with the minds of a 14-year-old.

I find that, taken on a national scale, I was approxrimately four years too generous and that commercial or Love-That Soap, radio in Canada is just about perfectly in tune with a mentality of 10 years.

I say this without fear of contradition, as the saying goes, because for the past four months I have been in almost constant contact with a well-developed, fully-matured 10-year-old mind; indeed, my very favorite of all.

This 10-year-old mind revolts at the thought of the CBC. It commands a groan and a plea to switch the dial whenever there's a commentary, a symphony, a talk, a play, a program of genuine jazz, a newscast, an actuality or a Canadian artist other than Yodellin' Wilf Carter. It tolerates the CBC for the Happy Gang and its soap operas and very little else.

But this 10-year-old mind (and a splendid one it is, too) loves commercial radio. It yearns to find out if the housewife is going to win two dollars and a box of Fuzz for answering a question perfectly suited for 10-year-olds. It has an insatiable appetite for western music or, as second choice, Vaughn Munroe or Spike Jones. It can hear "Goodnight, Irene" 40 times a day and want more. It loves the labored jokes and whimsy of local announcers.

Now, my complaint is not with my daughter's tastes but with the stations themselves which seem determined to cater exclusively to her age group. And I never felt more strongly that something ought to be done about it.

For Two Bucks

Since these stations continue to operate and are loaded with commercials (in many cases more than the Broadcasting Act allows) we must accept the fact that people listen to them in quantity.

That in turn, brings us to a consideration of the Canadian housewife.

We should assume, first, that a lot of people listen to radio just because it makes a noise or for the same reason that a baby shakes a rattle. Christine Leslie, in a discussion on radio from St. John the other day referred with some wisdom to this type.

"They are the kind who turn on the radio in the morning and let it blast all day long as a steady background", this critic suggested adding the obvious fact that "if we soak ourselves in radio we get the minimum nourishment out of it."

So much for that type of listener, allowing for some overlapping, the other bulk listener is presumably the housewife. During the daytime, at any rate, everything is addressed to this lady, known to radio as Mrs. Home-maker ("Ah, there, Mrs. Home-Maker. . .") And it makes us wonder about the kind of gals we married.

Certainly I must confess to being dumbfounded at the performance of a large number of housewives in the city of Halifax. One of the commercial stations there not only telephones housewives, but has an arrangement so that you actually hear the "homemaker" in all her embarrassment and agony of brain power.

I am only reporting fact when I record that these women could not say what had happened at the Island of Bikini, could not define the words "tabloid" or "mural" and fell giggling before similar posers, which also stumped the 10-year-old at my side.

My first reaction was to wonder, sadly, if this was really a cross-section of Canadian women. Then the announcer cleared things up for me. These were housewives who had written in to have this chance at a prize (two dollars). These were commercial station listeners.

One Voice

I have had a lot of fun writing about commercial radio, the kind you have with any sitting target, and I expect to have more. But it ought to be a serious subject in this country. By rights it ought to be the study of a Royal Commission to see if this form of radio has lived up to its promises.

One could forgive the independents' shortcomings if they were vigorous reflections of their cities or communities. They are not. The station in Chilliwack, B.C. makes almost exactly the same noise as the station in Campbellton, N.B. Both noises are 90 percent canned in U.S.A.

The development of local talent seems to be virtually nonexistent. The exception I can think of at the moment was a children's program in Moncton, but here the kids were put on the air without rehearal or without regard for talent and merely as an added attraction to a give-away show. Children collecting the largest number of bottle tops of a certain soft drink got their bonus from the sponsor. A lot of gassy 10-year-old being taken in there, too.

News broadcasts, on the whole, are well written and valuable for the local news, but in nine out of ten cases read by youths who clearly have no understanding of the words or the meaning of the news they are reading and often sound merely comic.

Most Men Afraid When They Do Heroic Work

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

As stories of gallantry pour back from the Korean battlefields one often hears it remarked of a hero "he is absolutely fearless."

Actually in the great majority of cases that characterization is far more accurate, for fearlessness is a rare human attribute. Most acts of extreme heroism are performed by men whose hearts are in their mouths—but who have the guts to go through with it.

In two world wars I've encountered just one man whom I knew to be among those strange personalities who not only are fearless in face of personal danger but who love the thrill of it. He was the late C. E. Montague, famous British writer, with whom I was associated on the British front in France in the first conflict.

When the war broke out Montague was 48 years old. However, he was fit enough to risk his life constantly in dangerous mountain-climbing, and he was determined to go to the front.

For a year and a half Montague served in the front-line trenches, and three times was cited for bravery. Finally he was transferred to war correspondents' headquarters, and that's where I met him.

A Typical Day

I recall one typical day during the Passchendaele show in Flanders. We slogged through deep mud up a ridge towards the German line. The enemy was shelling that area heavily and to me it was, to say the least, uncomfortable. But Montague was in his glory.

I watched him with absolute fascination. I'm not sure he knew I was there. Certainly his spirit was far away from the battlefield. We kept on up the ridge until we got near the crest beyond which the Germans were shooting shrapnel with open sights, and Montague didn't come to earth until a piece of shrapnel hit my tin hat and rang like a bell.

Then the captain stopped and looked worriedly at me as though trying to figure out just what had happened. Then he came to earth and remarked soberly:

"I think perhaps we have come a bit too far, Mackenzie."

He was thinking of me—not of himself. He never went too far—this man who, I am sure, was utterly fearless in the matter of personal safety. However, he undoubtedly was disturbed over the safety of his friend—thus displaying another side of his character.

Of course there are "fearless" folks, but they are few and far between. Anyway, it doesn't take fearlessness to do the heroic acts which allied soldiers are performing daily in Korea. They have the same courage that the fearless man has.

Alouettes Face Elimination If They Lose Game

(By The Canadian Press)

The chips are down in the Big Four today when Toronto Argonauts invade Montreal for Eastern Canada's headline football clash.

Montreal Alouettes, who won the Canadian championship last season after a slow start, are facing elimination if they lose. But a loss for Argos will dump them into a first-place tie with the winner of the Ottawa-Hamilton game in Hamilton.

First place is at stake, too, in the senior Ontario Rugby Football Union. Toronto Balmy Beaches can take first place away from Sarnia Imperials by beating the Imperials in Sarnia today and in Windsor tomorrow.

In the west, Edmonton Eskimos are at home to Calgary Stampeders, knocked out of the running by two defeats last weekend. If Edmonton wins, Winnipeg Blue Bombers must beat Saskatchewan Roughriders in Regina to hold first place. If Edmonton and the Roughriders win, it's possible for the three teams to finish the season in a three-way tie.

Today also sees the opening home games for the Universities of Toronto and Western Ontario in the east's senior intercollegiate circuit.

The inexperienced Varsity Blues are at home to the powerful McGill Redmen in a game that will decide first place in the league. Queen's University Gaels invade London for a game with the Mustangs.

Both Argos and Alouettes will be strengthened by the return of injured men for the game. The Lark will have Pete Thodos, speedy back and kicker. Argos will have Buckets Hirsch, bulwark of their line. But the Toronto club will be without outside Rod Smylie.

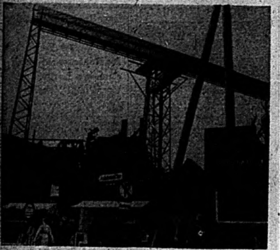
PROPAGANDA WEAPON IN BERLIN



Berliners behind the iron curtain in Soviet sector of Berlin are reading the flash bulletins beamed to them over this electrified news board, erected on the Russian sector border at Postdamer Platz. The U.S. high commission has built the scaffold to flash information to the people of the East. And while the 2,400 bulbs of the sign carry a continuous flow of news, loudspeakers from the Russian side blare red propaganda and news often in direct contradiction to the words on the sign. — Central Press Canadian.

Blood on the Stars

By Brett Halliday

Shayne opened the thick envelope and counted the twenty-dollar bills swiftly and carefully. He then opened the drawer of the table in the centre of the room, took out a thick sheaf of pieces of paper cut the same size as the bills. He placed the sheaf of papers and the stack of bills side by side, pressed them down to more accurately gauge their depth, then lifted off enough of the paper to make it the same thickness as the bills. He placed the paper in the envelope Randolph had given him.

He then opened the other envelope and took out sixteen crisp thousand-dollar bills. Six of them went on top of the thirty thousand in twenties on the table, the other ten he returned to the original envelope, and put them in his inside pocket. He stuffed the thirty-six thousand dollars of reward money carelessly in the drawer, closed it, and went out with Randolph's envelope in his hand.

Randolph was waiting for him in the lobby. Shayne nodded and said "everything is fixed. We're due on the other side of the bay in fifteen minutes."

They went out to his car and he drove swiftly across the bay, turned sharply south at the end of the Causeway, following a winding street along the bayfront for several blocks, thence left half a block where he pulled up to the curb and cut off the ignition.

"End of the line," he told Randolph, thrusting the bulky envelope of paper clippings down behind the seat cushion so that only one corner of it protruded.

As Randolph got out, he said doubtfully, "I'm always afraid one of these things will misfire. That's a lot of money to leave in an unlocked car."

Shayne shrugged, leading the way back toward the bayfront and a small bar on the corner. "Honor among thieves," he reminded Randolph ironically. "We have got to trust them to leave the bracelet in place of the envelope if we hope to get it back at all." He looked at his watch as they entered the bar. It was exactly 2:28. They sat at a booth against the wall and ordered beer.

"My throat feels as though it had been dried out with an electric wire," he explained. "The cold beer might relieve it."

They sat in the booth for 22 minutes making desultory conversation and sipping their drinks. Thre were a few fishermen at the bar a scattering of tourists and occasionally a clerk or workman from the neighborhood would slip in for a quick snort and then dart out again.

At 2:50, Shayne gulped down the last of his drink and said. "Let's go."

Randolph paid the bill and they went out. Shayne's car was just where he had left it. Randolph started walking rapidly, but Shayne restrained him with a hand on his arm, and the insurance man slowed to fall in step with his long slow strides.

They reached the car together and Randolph jerked the door open. The envelope lay on the front seat and clippings were scattered all over the seat and the floorboard. He stared at them disbelievingly, picked up a couple and let them flutter away in the breeze. "I don't understand this, Shayne," he exclaimed nervously. "These slips of paper cut to look like bills. The bracelet isn't here! Did you try to pull a fast one by substituting this paper. . ."

Shayne shoved Randolph aside and stuck his red head in the door. "Wait a minute," he said roughly. "That's what they want you to think. It looks as though they had a bundle of this stuff made up, brought it along, and left it lying here to give you the idea I'd done it. An excuse for not returning the bracelet."

"Oh, Shayne!" There were tears of rage and disappointment in Randolph's bulging and murky eyes. "I trusted you to arrange this. I gave my personal word of honor to the main office that this wasn't a gyp game and that we'd get the bracelet back."

"Stop your yapping." Shayne moved back and said, "Get in," and went around to get under the steering wheel. He slammed the door, started the motor and roared away eastward. His face was gaunt, his jaw firmly set, and his knobby hands gripped the wheel as though they would tear it apart.

Randolph slumped beside him, flacid, unnerved and inert. All life seemed to have flowed out of his body.

When Michael Shayne pushed the button of the Mark Dustin suite at the Sunlux hotel, Peter Painter opened the door at once and demanded officiously "what's this all about Shayne?"

Shayne looked over the immaculate little man's head. Mark Dustin was the only other occupant of the large living room. He sat in a deep chair near the open east window, his face bandaged and his right hand in a plaster cast. He was hollow-eyed and wan, his torso caved in, and it was as thought the death of his beautiful young wife had been more than even his splendid physique could endure.

"Timothy Rourke said I was to meet you here at 3," Painter snapped irritably. "Where is he?

Shayne moved past Painter, saying "I imagine Tim will be along. Have you got anything more on the jewel theft?"

Randolph followed Shayne into the room, his shoulders slumped and his eyes bewildered.

Painter said "nothing definite," strutting along beside them. "We're following out several leads." He touched the insurance man's coat sleev and asked. "Anything from your end Randolph?"

"Not a thing," said Shayne swiftly, forestalling an answer from Randolph.

The buzzer sounded again, and Shayne swung around, stalked to the door and opened it. "Oh, here you are, Tim. . .and Voorland. Come in."

Painter whirled and went back to meet the newly arrived guests He said "you wanted me here, Rourke," impatiently. "What for?

Timothy Rourke looked around the room, his eyes burning and his nostrils twitching. "It was Mike's idea," he said, and grinned.

"If I'd known that. . ." Painter began angrily.

"You wouldn't have come Shayne cut him off sharply. "That's why I had Tim issue the invitation. Now that you're here you might as well stick around and make an arrest."

The five men in the room reacted accorded to their instinct. Voorland fumbled in his pocket and brought out a stick of gum, unwrapped it slowly and put it in his mouth. Mark Dustin lifted his bandaged head and let his miserable eyes roam over the men standing around him. Timothy Rourke's eyes burned eagerly in their cavernous sockets as they roamed from one face to another. He nervously took notepaper from his pocket and fumbled for a pencil. Painter darted his black and angry eyes at Shayne and then thumb-nailed his neat black moustache as his gaze went slowly from Voorland to Dustin and finally came to rest uon Randolph's big round face. Randolph stammered. "I don't understand. Are—you—expecting someone else, Shayne?"

"No one else." Shayne's eyes were very bright. "I think we can settle the whole thing just between ourselves. Why don't you all sit down and we'll examine the remarkable coincidences I've discovered in connection with the sale of the fabulously expensive star rubies from Walter Voorland's jewelry store on Lincoln Road."

Painter's black eyes snapped and he took a few steps toward Shayne. "Look here, Shayne, you can't. . ."

"Sit down," Shayne said quietly.

The others moved across the carpet soundlessly and found chairs. Painter looked at Shaynes gaunt face and set jaw, then sank into a chair close by and sat with his small feet planted on the carpet and his body erect. "You'd better make this good, Shayne." he warned "and quick."

Shayne stood. He said, "first we have the curious fact that from right here in one retail store on Miami Beach during the past five years star rubies have been sold for a price totalling $405,000. . .though perfect rubies are the rarest of stones, and only happen once during many years—perhaps many ages. I know the reason for this, and I offer it only as the first of a series of remarkable coincidences.

BICYCLE DAMAGED BY MOTORIST

A ten-year-old Belleville boy today is wondering just where he is going to get the necessary funds to repair his bicycle which was damaged by what he must consider a thoughtless motorist.

Walter Richards, MacDonald Ave., left his bicycle in the alleyway at the local YMCA and when he returned found that a motorist had driven over the front wheel damaging it extensively.

But what worries Walter is that the motorist drove away apparently without any effort to find out the owner of the bike. And Walter has no way of finding the name of the driver responsible.

Upwards of 180 all ranks swung behind the kilts of the 9th Anti Tank Kilties under Pipe Major Browning in an ordered rehearsal march past following the general salute.

New Electric Stove Damaged By Short Switch

A young baby was indirectly responsible early this morning for a fire at the Purdy Street residence of Fred Archer, which almost drove the family from the house and caused considerable damage to a new electric stove.

At four o'clock this morning a member of the household had got up to heat a bottle of milk for the baby. When the stove was turned off the switch shorted with result that the house filled with smoke as the wiring and insulation burned.

Firemen made a quick run to the residence and reported practically all the damage had been confined to the stove. There was slight smoke damage to the house.

LONGEST SUMMER HOLIDAY

South Amboy, N. J., Oct. 16 — (AP) — The longest summer vacation they ever had is over today for about 500 public school children here. They got a reprieve from the usual September call to readin' and writin' because last May's disastrous munitions blast here, which killed 31 persons, so damaged the city's two elementary schools as to make them unsafe.

Holloway United Church Holds 77th Anniversary

Congregations that filled the church to capacity greeted the minister, the Rev. Sidney E. Larman, as he conducted the second anniversary in succession. Mr. Larman was the preacher for the anniversary last year and has since been called to the pastorate of the church.

Taking for his morning subject, "I cast my vote to close the church", the minister referred to country churches that have closed and some now struggling, not by consent of the Conference or Presbytery, or by the will of the faithful few who struggle to keep the congregation alive, but because of the indifference of those whose names are on the rolls of the church.

Taking for his text: "And Thomas was not there when Jesus came", the minister pointed out that the indifferent church member votes to have all services of worship cease, the minister ceases to preach and the choirs to sing, that all faithful workers in the Sunday School cease their work.

Indifference Closes Door

The vote is not placed in a ballot box maliciously, but by indifference to church attendance and work generally. Like many today, Thomas was absent from his church because of an eclipse of faith. This 'eclipse of faith' was recognized and honored by Jesus when He said "Be not faithless, but believing". Jesus understood and welcomed honest convictions and took them to make men strong in the faith. The speaker quoted Lord Tennyson who said, 'there lives more faith in honest doubt than in half the creeds.'

Rev. E. F. Church, interim minister of the Bridge Street Church, assisted during the evening service, when the minister preached on the subject, "Jesus Christ as found in the Translations." In speaking of the evolution of language as found in the Biblical Translations, it was discovered that Jesus Christ is to men and nations, inexhaustible, invincible, indispensable and adaptable, and that life always tapers to its supremacies. Men usually call upon the 'Indispensable' Christ when the hurricane is about.

Fine Choral Music

Mr. Maurice Sinnett, the director of the choirs, led both choirs in selections and Mr. Harold J. McNish presided at the organ. The junior choir sang Mendelssohn's "O for the Wings of a Dove" with Miss Suzanne Cavers taking the solo. The senior choir sang, "The Lord is My Shepherd", also written by Mendelssohn. The guest soloist was Mr. John Deacon, who presented his subject, "The Voice in the Wilderness", with fine interpretation.

During the evening service, Mrs. Rogers Riedel was the guest soloist and presented a number titled, "Come ye Blessed", composed by John Pringle Scott. The senior choir sang Stevenson's "I Sought the Lord" with Miss Rosaland Robertson taking the solo part, and by request repeated one of the morning selections titled, "The Lord is My Shepherd".

Flowers were placed in the church by Mr. and Mrs. Garnet Dobbs, in memory of their son, Bob, who passed away suddenly one year ago, and by Mrs. Earl Fox, whose husband passed away suddenly a few days ago.

POLICE BLOTTER

Little more than routine matters occupied the attention of the local police department over the weekend with no serious accidents being reported by either the city or provincial police.

A two car clash at the corner of Victoria and Bleecker resulted in roughly $150 damage. Wm. Graydon, Pine Gardens, was driving south on Bleecker with H. Elmer Wagar, proceeding east on Victoria. The cars collided at the intersection with about $75 damage to both vehicles.

A Queen Street resident complained that $23 had been stolen from his residence. He admitted to police he had forgotten to lock the door when he went out.

Stresses Value Of Scout Training In Boys' Lives

On Friday the thirteenth the Optimist Club held their bi-monthly meeting at Lattimer's Town Room and sat down thirteen to dinner defying the age old superstition. The meeting was chairmaned by President Harold Bankier. Optimist Frank Clark acted as Sergeant of Arms and Optimists Grant Badgley and George Moore conducted the sing song.

The guests speaker for the evening was Angus Duffy, district director of the Boy Scouts. Mr. Duffy in his address said that the boy scout training was a good preparation to make the world a better place to live in. The scout learns obedience, loyalty, trustworthiness, cheerfulness and cleanliness of mind and body. In Belleville there are 195 scouts and 365 cubs. In a city this size Mr. Duffy felt there should be a much larger number and urged the local organizations to consider sponsoring a pack. The local group is handicapped by lack of leaders, and the fact that they have not their own land for training, but Mr. Duffy hoped to see this situation corrected in the near future. He stressed that the scouts try to supply adventure to the young boys at the same time giving them a worthwhile training.

The speaker was introduced by vice president Frank Clark and appreciation was expressed by president Harold Bankier.

These places would share in any emergency relief.

Wholesale Prices Of Gas, Fuel Oils Are Reduced

Toronto, Oct. 16. (CP)—Imperial Oil Limited today announced reductions in the wholesale prices of gasoline, kerosene and light fuel oils due to the increased foreign exchange value of the Canadian dollar.

Gasoline and kerosene wholesale prices were cut seven-tenths of a cent in Ontario and the Prairie Provinces, and four-tenths of a cent in Quebec, the Maritimes and Newfoundland.

Furnace, stove and other light fuel oils were reduced half a cent a gallon in Ontario and the Prairies and two-tenths of a cent in Quebec, the Maritimes and Newfoundland.

The company said appreciation of the Canadian dollar in terms of other currencies resulted in lower costs for crude oil and imports. Higher ocean freight rates necessitated the small reductions in Quebec, the Maritimes and Newfoundland.

W. H. Rea, president of Canadian Oil Companies, Ltd., said his company would make similar changes. He assumed that retail prices would be lowered but noted that individual operators set the retail price.

A Cities Service official said fuel oil prices would be lowered because contracts with householders are on a cost-at-date-of-delivery basis.

Douglas J. Fletcher, Ontario secretary of the Retail Gasoline and Automotive Service Association, announced that the retail price of top-grade gasoline in Ontario will drop to 42.4 cents a gallon from 43.2. Second grade will sell at 40 cents instead of 40.8 almost everywhere in the province.

He said that while the oil companies have reduced the wholesale price 7-10 cents a gallon, the reduction passed on to the motorist will actually be 8-10 cents, with the service station operator hoping to make up the difference through increased sales volume.

CAMPBELLFORD

Accident Victims Much Improved

Campbellford (Special) — The six victims of Friday's head - on collision near Campbellford are all reported to be out of danger by authorities at the hospital this morning. Three of the most seriously injured victims, Mrs. Samuel Gifford, of London; Mr. James Hardy, of London and 15 year old Lionel Gray, of Bonarlaw, were all reported to be much improved, although their stay in hospital will be a lengthy one.

Doctors said an operation to remove the pressure on the brain of Mrs. Gifford, who suffered a severe depressed fracture of the skull, would not be necessary now as her conditions was much improved. Mr. Hardy was still in an oxygen tent, but was also reported to be much improved.

Lionel Gray, the youngest of the accident victims, has not yet been told of the death of his companion, Garland Huff, who was driving the car in which Gray was a passenger. Huff, the seventh victim of the accident, died in Belleville Hospital on Friday evening, following the crash.

News Reporter Called to Court To Explain Report

Quebec, Oct. 16 (AP)—Patrick Sawtell, Chronicle-Telegraph reporter, today was ordered to appear before Judge Fernand Choquette to explain a report published by the daily newspaper that a "pyromaniac" is believed responsible for a fire aboard the cruise ship Quebec.

A story by Sawtell, appearing in the Chronicle-Telegraph Saturday said:

"High provincial authorities are inclined to believe a pyromaniac set fire to the Canada Steamship Lines' steamer Quebec Aug. 14 in which seven persons lost their lives.

"Intensive investigation during the 1st two months by Quebec provincial police uncovered many strange co-incidences which support the 'pyromaniac' theory and eliminated all other possible criminal motives."

Provincial police declared they knew nothing of the story which went on to say a crew member of the burned ship was under surveillance.

Woman Prisoners Board Train Minus Clothes

Nelson, B.C., Oct. 16 (CP)—Fourteen women Doukhobor prisoners being transferred to Kingston, Ont., penitentiary were nude when they boarded the east bound train last night.

They had refused to sign pledges to obey Canadian laws and carried their clothes in boxes and bags.

The train stopped behind the provincial jail to take the women aboard a special coach.

Last month, 395 Doukhobors serving sentences for nude parading were released. They agreed to behave themselves.

Motorcyclist Hurt in Collision

David Kouri, 59 Hillcrest Ave., was rushed to Belleville General Hospital shortly after noon today with lacerations of the head and face and a badly fractured left ankle after his motorcycle and a panel truck came into collision.

The accident happened at the corner of North Front and Harriett Streets, about 12:25 p.m., and Kouri was speeded to hospital in Bush's ambulance. Dr. R. M. Anderson attended Kouri after the accident and Police Constable Balyx investigated.

Driver of the panel truck was James Moore, 26 Boswell Street.

INVITING ATTACK

London, Oct. 16. (AP)—Prime Minister Attlee said last night that countries without adequate defence forces are practically inviting attack by aggressors. "We all know from experience—and events in Korea are the most recent example—that an attack by the strong on the weak may take place suddenly and without warning," Attlee said in a country-wide radio address. He urged Britons to join civil defence groups.

City Purchasing Agent Did Not Know of Interest

Windsor, Oct. 16—(CP)—Douglas S. Whyte, city purchasing agent, today assured the Windsor police commission that he had not known of the financial interest held by Deputy Police Chief W. H. Neale in a company selling supplies to the city police department.

Mr. Whyte appeared before the commission, which met today after a 10-day adjournment, to discuss matters of policy in the purchase of police supplies.

Mr. Whyte told the commission, which is investigating law enforcement in Windsor that fingerprinting equipment was available from only one firm in Windsor—the Police Equipment Company of Canada, Ltd.—and asked whether tenders on such equipment should be taken from outside firms.

(Deputy Chief Neale told the commission at an earlier meeting that he was formerly president of the company, a family concern, and owned one-third of its stock.)

At Mr. Whyte's request, the commission confirmed the present policy of making routine purchases under $500 without asking for tenders. The commission also approved of Mr. Whyte opening tenders and preparing tabulations of figures before submitting them to the commission.

Frank Phillips, a Windsor auto worker, also appeared before the commission to complain of police handling of a charge of assault which he laid in August last year against Alex Borshuk, former Windsor prizefighter.

Phillips said the case was delayed until January of this year and the charge finally dismissed for insufficient evidence.

"When I ask for police protection, I want to get it," Phillips said.

Judge Archibald Cochrane, commission chairman, asked him to return later when records of his case against Borshuk could be obtained.

Hearings were to continue this afternoon with a review of police morality squad records since 1946.

MR. CHURCHILL'S VIEWS

Winston Churchill who has been led to play one of the greatest roles in world history with his long service in Parliamentary life of Britain and his never-to-be-forgotten leadership in the Second World War, is playing a role today for the preservation of democracy and liberty.

In his address on Saturday at Blackpool, England, he cautioned the United Nations not to be lulled into a sense of false security by the great successes of the United Nations in Korea with the liberation of South Koreans from domination by the North Koreans.

His championship of the United Nations cause was a factor at the end of the Second World War. He sees in the recent action of the United Nations in the liberation of South Korea, evidence of the lasting good that this organisation can achieve in international affairs. North Korean aggression has shown the danger to which aggression will go, he said. The former War Prime Minister of Britain expressed the view that the achievement in South Korea has set the peace of the world on a stronger foundation of peace.

Mr. Churchill sees a great improvement in the situation of the free nations. The events in Korea had made people realize "the perils which menace us and all that is left of European civilization."

His appeal Saturday was for a realization of the need of building up an European army.

His view was marked by hope, as he declared that "I do not believe that war is inevitable. On the contrary I believe that hopes of reaching a peaceful settlement with Russia have been improved by what has happened in Korea." He spoke of measures of defence and diplomacy "to establish that peace and freedom arising from moral and material strength which is our heart's desire."

Mr. Churchill's long experience in international affairs, knowledge of history and human nature and public men and his practical experience as a former soldier stand behind the hopes which he expressed at the meeting at Blackpool.

WAGE FIGURES FOR CANADA

Canadian pay envelopes contained more than ever on August 1st of this year. Bureau of Statistics figures showed that average weekly wages in the non-farming industries hit $45.15, an advance of eleven cents since July 1st, and $2.20 more than August 1, 1949.

The peculiar part of the figures is that the eastern provinces seem to lag behind their Canadian brothers in the wage schedule. Of the eastern triplets — Prince Edward Island, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia — the latter had the highest average at $39.77.

Prince Edward Island, the junior in size of them all, had the lowest across Canada. The average was $35.29, almost $10 below the national figure. New Brunswick was a little higher up the scale, with $38.87, and no figures were quoted for Newfoundland.

Quebec jumped up the scale to $43.15, and Ontario went still higher to $47.07. The high, however, went to British Columbia with an average wage of $48.53. In between, the figures for Manitoba were $44.25, Saskatchewan $43.14, and Alberta $45,87.

On the overall, the provinces advanced with regard to wages. But on the other hand, successive rises in the cost-of-living index have offset any increase in wages over the past year.

Possibly one of the most interesting points about the wage figures is that industrial Ontario lags behind British Columbia. We didn't know that B.C. apples and salmon had that much power.

TIME

With maturity, a man begins to feel the force of a sterner motto. Hours to be counted are no longer always sunny. The pressure of hours already wasted prods his conscience. The second-hand on the electric clock, sweeping as inexorably and silently as Time's scythe, mows down the minutes as he watches. A slave to clocks and calendars, he hears the motto continually, "It is later than you think."

Old age, retirement or a change of occupation may deliver a man from the bondage of time. Age, whether or not it brings wisdom, usually brings a philosophical acceptance of the inevitable. Retirement to the country, where the sun rather than the clock is the measurer of time, has sometimes been found a releasing process. Some civil service positions can be filled without any unpleasant sense of urgency.

Compromise between the two mottoes is possible and desirable. Normal life in a mechanized age cannot proceed without a sense of time, but it should not be allowed to dominate all waking hours. Hobbies can make sunny the hours spent away from office or shop. Some freedom from slavery to time in working hours might be gained by removing the second-hand from the clock. — The Printed Word.

SUMMER COTTAGE CLOSING

The ancient chairs on end stacked,
The iron cots are bare.
We've put away the dishes cracked.
The tarnished silverware
Is in a shoe box neatly stored,
And every window wears a board.

We've left the red geraniums
Defenceless soon to die,
Unless a friendly native comes
Who loves them as do I.
The hornets now untroubled stay
Within their curious nests of clay.

The friendly lamp no more will shine
Beside the cottage door,
Nor can I write that I repine
To be at home once more.
"Closed!" as the winter months go by.
"Open for business next July."

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Truck drivers know all the good places to eat along the highways. When it comes time for lunch or supper time, all you have to do is keep your eye peeled; and where a number of trucks are parked outside one of those wayside caravanseries that are combined service station and restaurant, you may be sure the food is good.

To the lady who operates one of these, with the help of all her daughters and sons and husband, I mentioned the fact.

"Yes," she said, "and it is tough on the truck drivers. They find out and advertise the good eating places. Then you people come along with your fine clothes and your families all dolled up. Aud the poor truck drivers are made to feel self-conscious in their old driving clothes. If a place like this becomes too fashionable, the drivers abandon it and go and find another spot where the food is still good, but where there aren't so many fancy people. That is bad for us, because the drivers are pretty regular and good customers. You people are just casuals. The drivers are regulars."

"Are the drivers good eaters?" I enquired.

"Yes, they don't stint themselves," said the proprietress. "I like to see a bunch of the boys going real hearty into my cooking, better than some of the nifty types who drop in, acting as if they were judges tasting the cookery exhibits at a fall far."

She accepted the suggestion that she put a sign up outside the door: "Remember, your clothes don't matter in here." That will not be for the truck drivers, but for the nifties, if they are capable of catching on.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

ONE OF HISTORY'S HEROES

The story has been told of how David Livingstone, the great missionary of Africa, died on his knees praying. The natives found him in the morning, removed his heart and buried it at the foot of a great tree, and then carried his body 900 miles to the coast. The body was shipped to England and buried at Westminster Abbey.

Punch, the British humorous magazine, paid one of the highest tributes to Livingstone. Across the cover of the magazine they emblazened these words: "Open the doors of the Abbey. Marble will crumble, but this is living stone."

It has been the lot of few men to be so honored as Livingstone was during his useful and sacrificial life. He established Christian missions in Africa. He discovered the Victoria Falls and made scientific studies which caused him to be ranked among the leading scientists of the world. He struck a death blow to the slave trade. On his tomb are inscribed these superb words which he wrote just before his death: "May God's blessing come down to everyone, American, Englishman or Turk who will help to heal this open sore of the world."

His tomb in the Abbey is the one most frequently visited by tourists from all countries.

PITCHING HORSESHOES

By Billy Rose

THE MUSIC GOES 'ROUND AND 'ROUND

A couple of years ago one of the staff musicians at NBC—a trombonist I'm going to call Charlie Michaels—decided he was finally in a position to realize his two big ambitions: one, to marry the swing harpist he had been keeping company with, and two, to buy a house and a piece of land in New Jersey.

For the first year everything was peaches and grade-A for the Times Square tots—there was a garden to putter around in, a house to do over and the neighbors to get acquainted with. Charlie got quite a kick out of telling the suburbanites what an artist his wife had been, and showing them a studio picture of her seated at a harp with a big Spanish comb in her hair.

But last January, when TV started using a lot of live music, their marriage ran into its first snag. Charlie, who had been doing an afternoon stint on radio, was shifted to one of the TV motor car programs, and a few weeks later was assigned to two other video spots. These involved a certain amount of late rehearsals, which meant that several nights a week, instead of catching the 5.15, the trombone player didn't arrive home until after midnight—that is, when he managed to get home at all.

His city-bred spouce, of course, didn't take kindly to this routine —the country without a fella around the house wasn't much fun—and when it became clear that Charlie was going to be spending more and more of his evenings at the studio, she suggested selling the house and moving back to town.

"I'd hate to give this place up," said the trombonist. "I get a big kick out of it, even if its only weekends. As for an apartment, they're pretty tough to find right now but I'll see what I can do."

For the next couple of weeks Charlie answered ads and talked to real estate agents but without any luck—either the rent was more than he could afford to pay, or it involved plunking down a couple of thousand dollars for a few sticks of furniture.

When he told his wife what the situation was, she said, "I know it isn't easy but you've got to do something. I can't take it out here any more."

One evening not long ago, while grabbing a sandwich during a rehearsal break, Charlie picked up a paper and an item caught his attention: A young woman had commited suicide by throwing herself out of the window of a midtown apartment house.

On the spur of the mood and moment, the musician hopped a taxi and went around to the address mentioned. "I understand you've got a vacancy," he said to the superintendent, "and its worth a couple of hundred to me if I can have first crack at it."

The super took him up in the elevator and showed him the apartment—four cheerfully furnished rooms.

"It's hard to believe anyone with such a lay-out would jump out the window," Charlie small-joked. "Did the woman live here alone?"

"Just between us," said the superintendent, "I think some guy was paying the bills. He leased the place in her name about two months ago and at first used to show up pretty regularly. Lately he hasn't been around, and I guess that explains why she took the dive."

"Was she as good looking as the papers said "

"She was quite a looker," said the super. "There's a picture of her on her bureau.

Charlie went over and examined it.

It was a photograph of a girl seated at a harp with a big Spanish comb in her hair.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

KOREA

I wonder how many people who read this newspaper, about what is going on in Korea, know what it is all about? For years I had read bits of things in the newspapers and magazines, but never have I had a clear idea until I recently read a most absorbing and enlightening book entitled "Why Came War in Korea", by Dr. Robert T. Oliver, a man who has been a student and expert observer, as well as friend and trusted adviser, of President Rhee, for many years.

After reading this book you will look in clearer fashion upon the struggle that is being experienced in that four thousand year old country, and the efforts of its people for a free country. The book is not a study of the war that is now going on, but its background, and the dream of Koreans for security and happiness among the useful nations of the world.

Dr. Oliver, who spent many years in Korea, tells you of the country, its people, its resources, its advantages and disadvantages, and the courage with which its people have looked and worked toward freedom, and independence. And he reviews the many instances of power politics that have had so much to do with the present situation, with its tragic toll of the brave lads sent there to stem the tide of communism.

I was impressed by a quotation to a news service by the Korean Ambassador to the United States, in which he said: "I have been awesomely conscious that here is no fight to be won by man alone. It is a fight to be won by the prayers and faith of all men, if it is to be won at all. * * * We need many prayers—many more prayers than we need bullets. We need a vast voice, rising to heaven, reaffirming our faith in God and entrusting to Him our most sacred hopes."

This book by Dr. Oliver is one that should be read by every intelligent reader today. It is forthright and revealing, and would open the eyes of many a legislator. The author has written this book from his heart. Read it and learn something of the meaning of the tragic sacrifices being made now in Korea to strike the bonds of slavery from a brave people—and perhaps from a world as well!

France Facing Grave Crises In Indo-China

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

France is facing a grave crisis in her war with the communist guerrillas under Gen. Ho Chi Minh in Indi-China, one of the Asiatic hot spots.

The seriousness of the position is reflected in the recent urgent appeal to Washington to speed up American arms deliveries to the hard-pressed French forces. This request is said to have come from the French Defence Minister Jules Moch, who now is in the United States seeking aid for his country's rearmament program.

The matter of immediate concern is the threat of a fresh red offensive in two or three weeks. The French army of 150,000 has been suffering serious reverses, and arms are needed for this approaching emergency.

Serious Situation

This creates a serious situation because it leaves about 300 miles of frontier open to Ho Chi Minh's guerrillas. They thus have easy access to supplies and other aid from communist China.

And behind China is Russia, which has a vital interest in the outcome of the struggle. Indo-China, like Korea, is of great strategic importance to the Soviet bloc in the offensive to communize Asia. Apart from other considerations, Moscow gains by keeping a large force of French troops tied up there, weakening the French defences in France and forcing the Paris government to make huge military expenditures.

As a matter of fact, the Indo-China which once was a source of much wealth for France has become a millstone about her neck. The riches have dried up, and she not only is pouring out money to maintain her position but is said to have suffered close to 100,000 casualties during the fighting of the last three years.

Not All Communist

The Vietminh guerrillas under Ho Cho Minh, while receiving backing from China and Russia, are not all communists. Some of them are Republicans bent on ejecting the French from the country altogether, and the fighting has been going on since 1946.

The French have maintained that with material support they can handle the trouble in Indo-China. It remains to be seen whether they can do so or whether another "Korean situation" is developing which will call for outside intervention.

PREVENTABLE IF TAKEN IN TIME

Many readers have informed me there is no such word as preventative (noun) in their dictionaries, and that preventative is the correct spelling for the adjective. At my right elbow as I fuss and fume at this so-called silent, noiseless or quiet machine (oh, well), maybe I do pound a bit too hard on it when I'm het up) stands Webster's New International Dictionary, second edition, unabridged—as close as possible which leaving room for me flail my arms about when I'm stuck for a word or even a synonym which might tell me where in Roget to find it. The present Roget's Internationl Thesaurus is the third I have worn to tatters. If some malicious wretch were to make off with Webster and Roget I'd probably go completely off my rocker. Once and for all, for the benefit of readers who try to get by with something less than the best, let me say that both Webster and Roget recognize the word p-r-e-v-e-n-t-a-t-i-v-e, Webster as a noun, Roget as a noun or an adjective. So, if any of you poorly equipped students object to the use of the word in this column, kindly take it up with my friends Noah and Pete. Anyway when I need a word that is not ready made I make one for myself—vite, for instance, or cri—and this being a free country Webster and Roget may remain pedestrian or ride with the brass.

Rows of hemlock trees Beautify a street in this residential neighborhood—for perhaps ten days or two weeks in the year. They reach the peak of green about the end of June and ten days or two weeks later their leaves begin to turn brown and fall. It seems they begin to die the instant after they have attained full development each year. It keeps the Japanese gardeners busy for months tidying up—disposing of the dead leaves that litter the lawns. At first I inferred that the trees were affected with some kind of blight, but old residents assured me that they were healthy trees and early dropping of their leaves is their natural habit.

I was leased to learn that the trees are normal, yet I still avoid the street when I go out for a walk. Somehow it gives my thoughts a melancholic tinge. I do hope that the ideas set forth in this column have no such effect on you poor geeks. Especially the teaching that we grow and develop until we reach the peak and without appreciable pause take off immediately on the long slide down to — the moment we reach full maturity we begin to degenerate, to retrogress, to decline, or, to make no bones about it, to die.

Whether anything could or should be done to keep the hemlocks green all summer, I do not know. But I believe a good deal may be done to prevent at least premature aging of people, and in numerous recent talks here I have told how to do so. In deference to the squeamishness of the untutored I call natural death physical degeneration — and knuckleheads who happen to read this may learn something to their advantage by reading the biological and medical definitions of degeneration in Webster.

There is no doubt in my mind that some of the simple suggestions offered here and in the pamphlets and booklets that supplement this health service prevent premature aging in a great many instances. One of these suggestions is that it pays to keep all 28 to 32 teeth (your own or dentures installed by your dentist) in good functioning order. Obviously this precaution must be taken in time. If you are so preoccupied with the rite of brushing your teeth with the latest germ-killing dentrifice that you think you can worry along without the bother or expense of replacing two or three lost teeth with suitable dentures, you are going to be old young—even if you think you can hold your mouth so the missing teeth will not show.

One of the pamphlets to which I refer is titled The Iodin Ration —it tells how growing children, youths and mature adults may get theirs. Another is titled Young Folks and Old Folks. For either of these send a stamped self-addressed envelope and name the one you want. Do not use a clipping. If you ask for two inclose ten cents in addition.

One of the pamphlets to which gives an outline of the basic health, corrective, protective, regeneration diet on which you may build your own every day diet, is titled The 7 Keys to Vite. For a copy send twenty-five cents and stamped self-addressed envelope, and again, no clipping please. Incidentally, the basic health diet as it stands is an excellent reducing diet. It yields about 2200 calories a day—most adults require perhaps 2800 to 3000 calories a day just to maintain normal nutrition and functional well being, and for the extra calories plain wheat is ideal. Wheat to Eat is the title of still another pamphlet available on written request (no clipping) if you provide stamped self-addressed envelope.

Six Red Mines Fortunately Explode Selves

Tokyo, Oct. 16 (CP)—A "fortunate accident" observed by British and Canadian warships off Korea's West Coast, was reported in the Allied naval war communique Saturday.

The release said "six mines off Fankochi Point, on the southwest extremity of the Ongjin peninsula, countermined themselves, resulting in the destruction of all six."

It did not specify what caused the first mine to explode, detonating the other five. Communist-laid floating mines—illegal under international conventions—have been reported in Korean waters for several weeks.

The release did not indicate which of the three Canadian destroyers in Korean waters was off Fankochi Point at the time, but it was possibly the Sioux which is known to have been operating on the west coast.

The other two—Cayuga and Athabaskan—are believed to have been operating with a United Nations task force on the east coast.

British Seaman Jailed Pending Hearing Oct. 26

Lndon, Oct. 16 (AP)—Douglas Monro, 25-year-old British seaman, was jailed Sat., pending a hearing Oct. 23 on a charge of breaking into Buckingham Palace.

A Scotland Yard inspector told a judge in famed Old Bow Street court that Monro was identified by two persons as the man they saw early yesterday with a dispatch box stolen from the Royal residence.

Judge Bertram Reece asked Monro if he had anything to say.

"Not guilty," said Monro.

The judge explained that this was only a preliminary hearing and that the time to plead would come later.

The hearing lasted about three minutes. Monro was led away to a cell without asking to be admitted to bail.

Monro is formally charged with "burglariously breaking and entering" the palace and stealing a dispatch box, containing correspondence.

The box was taken from the room of Maj-Gen. A. G. Salisbury-Jones, marshal of the diplomatic corps.

Meanwhile, high-level investigation was under way at Scotland yard to determine how the burglar penetrated a screen of detectives, army sentries and alarms which is supposed to protect the Royal family from intruders.

Minister Deplores Drift of Africans From the Land

London, Oct. 16—(CP) — Rev. Kenneth Prior of Picton, Ont., principal of a rural training school in Asaba, Nigeria, told a press conference Friday some means must be found to check the drift of Africans from the land.

Dr. Prior said a shortage of food is Nigeria's chief problem, and will become serious if natives continue to drift to the towns in quest of higher wages.

He outlined the functions of the school he heads in Asaba, which has just started training 23 native boys in elementary forestry and selected rural crafts. A second class will start in January and later girls will be admitted.

The training centre is set in 1,850 acres of land and is run by a team of missionaries, including another Canadian, Rev. P. A. (Lex) Rutherford of Saskatoon. It is hoped to open a model agricultural village, embracing some 20 selected African families, next yar.

Dr. Prior is a graduate of the University of Alberta. His wife, the former Pearl Mahaffey, of Vegreville, Alta., instructs African girls in domestic science.

WEDDINGS

KLINE—DONALDSON

Before a background of white chrysanthemums, ferns and tall, white tapers, in Bridge Street United Church, Belleville, on Saturday, October 7, at 11 a.m., a pretty wedding was solemnized by the Rev. E. F. Church, B.A., B.D., when Fay Lola, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Donaldson, of Barry's Bay, was united in marriage to Lewis Robert Kline, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Kline, of Belleville.

Mr. Alec Gordon, church organist, provided the wedding music, and the soloist, Miss Maryln Eggleton, sang before the ceremony, "The Lord's Prayer", and "I Love You Truly" and during the signing of the register, "Because".

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was a charming picture in her bridal gown of white nylon net and lace over satin, featuring a molded bodice, and Queen Anne collar, with lace peplum at the back. The bouffant skirt ended in a slight train. The sleeves were long and tight-fitting ending in lily points over the hands. Her three-quarter veil of tulle illusion, edged with matching lace was held by a coronet of seed pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of red roses.

Miss Luella Donaldson, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, becomingly gowned in pink, cut organdy over satin with black velvet sash and matching poke bonnet. The bodice was tight-fitting with puff sleeves, and the skirt gracefully full. She carried a shower bouquet of blue carnations.

Miss Doreen Donaldson, and Miss Betty Bly were bridesmaids, gowned in blue cut organdy over satin, fashioned on similar lines to that of the maid of honor. Both wore matching poke bonnets and carried shower bouquets of pink carnations.

Little Wanda Lee Donaldson, was flower girl, wearing a pink floor-length frock similar to that of the bridesmaids with matching bandeau of blue. She carried a cascade bouquet of blue carnations.

Mr. Ruben Kline, of Belleville, was groomsman, and the ushers were, Mr. Colon Burnham, of Belleville, and Mr. Earl DeMille, of Flint, Mich.

Following the reception which was held at Tobe's County Gardens, where the bride's mother received in grey crepe with navy accessories and corsage of yellow rosebuds and navy ribbon, assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who was gowned in brown crepe with green accessories and corsage of Talisman roses, the young couple left for Ottawa, and "Sunny Brook Lodge", Barry's Bay, the bride travelling in a navy suit with green accessories and corsage of red roses. Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Kline will reside in Belleville.

The bride's table was centred with a three-tiered, pillared wedding cake, topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom, and surrounded with white pom-pom chrysanthemums, while the guests' tables were centred with pink snapdragons and white pom-poms.

Mr. and Mrs. George Spencer, Everett Street, Celebrate 50th Wedding Anniversary

Feted by members of their family and by approximately 100 friends who called throughout the afternoon and evening, Mr. and Mrs. George Spencer, 56 Everett Street, on Saturday celebrated the 50th anniversary of their marriage. The happy couple were "at home" to their friends at a reception held at their home.

Natives of the Havelock district where they farmed for a number of years, Mr. and Mrs. Spencer have lived retired in this city for the past eight years. They also farmed in the Brighton district.

It was just half a century ago that George Spencer, young Havelock district farmer and the girl of his choice, Miss Rose Lewis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Lewis, took their marriage vows before the late Rev. J. W. Bunner, Methodist minister of that area. The couple were married at the home of the bride's parents.

Now living retired in the city, the couple are members of Tabernacle United Church, where their son, Rev. Ralph Spencer, some years ago was minister. Both are great church workers, Mrs. Spencer being a member of the W.M.S. and also of the W.A., while Mr. Spencer's big interest is also in church work. Mr. Spencer is 75, while his bride of 50 years is 68.

A large floor basket of flowers the gift of Tabernacle W.A. graced the living room at the Spencer home on the occasion, while they were also remembered by the Prince Edward Club and by a host of friends. Members of the immediate family served during the reception.

Mr. and Mrs. Spencer have two son, Rev. R. E. Spencer, of Montreal, and Bruce Spencer, of Colborne, also one daughter, Mrs. Wm. C. (Winnifred) Brown, of Cobourg. There are 11 grandchildren.

Christ Church A.Y.P.A Entertains Group At Fireside Hour

Christ Church A.Y.P.A., were hosts to St. Thomas' A.Y.P.A., at a 'Fireside' held in the Parish hall following Evensong, Sunday evening

The program, in the hands of Doug. Tufford, assisted by Ron. Lane, started with a rousing singsong. A humorous debate on the pros and cons of fiction provided fun for all with laughs coming in carload lots.

The main feature of the evening was the "Truth or Consequence" program. This is a blending of the "Fun Parade" radio program and a "quiz" show. Contestants are selected and asked hand-picked questions. They never seem to be able to answer the questions correctly, which is strange, because there are answers. Therefore they have to take the consequence which provides the audience with plenty of laughs at the expense of the contestant.

To complete the evening, refreshments were served under the supervision of Mrs. Doug. Tufford and Mrs. Ron Lane.

Fashion Flashes

MATCHED UP accessories are much in demand. A glove of rayon jersey with the back of velvet in rich Fall shades is teamed up with a matching flower in velvet, usually a shaggy chrysanthemum. In orange, royal blue or coral, it affords a nice color accent with gray or black.

RAWDON

River Valley W.I. Holds Afternoon Tea

Rawdon.—The spacious home of Mrs. Percy Utman was festive with lovely Autumn blooms for the successful afternoon tea sponsored by River Valley Women's Institute members on Thursday afternoon last. Despite the rainy afternoon and all the activities of the Thanksgiving holidays, there was a good attendance and the ladies added a nice sum to their treasury.

The guests were welcomed by the president, Mrs. Don Donohoe, and the hostess. As they entered the living rooms, they paid their twenty-five cents to the financial treasurer, Mrs. J. L. Donohoe. Here they were entertained during the afternoon with piano selections contributed by Mrs. Ralph Utman and Mrs. Harold West. The Misses Helen and Joan Stapley sang three selections which were well received.

The dining room table with its lace cloth, vase of flowers, two silver tea services, and plates of varied sandwiches and cookies looked very attractive.

During the first hour Mrs. Clarence Holmes, Trent Road, Belleville, who is a provincial officer of the W.I., and Mrs. Roy Bush, president West Hastings District W.I., poured, and those who served were Mrs. Jack Sager, Mrs. Harold Morgan, Mrs. Gerald Richardson and Mrs. Jack Donohoe.

At the second hour, Mrs. John Kane, district director, and Mrs. Edgar Morrow poured.

Honored Guest

Mrs. Will Hanna, who has been a continuous member for 40 years was an honored guest of the afternoon.

The tea plates were attractively arranged with white doilies trimmed with gay seals and an assortment of small sandwiches and dainty cookies with accessories of cheese, carrots, olives and celery. This plate arrangement was a new idea and several visitors thought it an excellent plan. The plates were arranged by Mrs. Hugh Jones, Mrs. Roy Irven, Mrs. Harry Vandervoort, Mrs. Fred McDonnell, Mrs. S. McIntosh with other assistants for brief periods. Mrs. J. Donohoe was in charge of serviettes and doilies while Mrs. Ross Bush prepared the tea.

In a side room Mrs. Alex. Bush and Mrs. John Kane sold over $23 worth of home-cooking. There was an abundance of iced layer and square cakes, chocolate, raspberry and spice, cup cakes of all descriptions and a variety of drop cookies, buns and rolls, luscious pies, tarts and tartlets; several varieties of home-made candy; fresh eggs, pint sealers of jam and jars of jelly.

Picture of Loveliness

This long table was a picture of mouth-watering loveliness and practically everything was sold to eager buyers. Several town ladies telephoned their orders for special articles which were delivered later.

At another table in this room Mrs. Percy MacMullen and Mrs. Stanley Irven, were in charge of a "hidden bargain table", which netted $11.50.

The buyers found plenty of mystery as they handled the various parcels and tried to figure out the contents. After they purchased their parcel at 25 cents each Many were opened in the room which revealed towels, baby clothes, plastic dishes, wall ornaments and a large array of miscellaneous articles including a box of apples.

Several members came early with their cooking, but were unable to stay for the afternoon; while other members unable to assist handed in a donation. The total receipts were over $49.

There were seven members of Bay of Quinte W.I.; one from Stirling W.I.; five from Uniondale W.I.; and three from Pinegrove W.I. in attendance.

The River Valley W.I. members are grateful to the hostess and all who assisted in any way to make the afternoon a success.

[illegible] ast part of the reason, I ink, why human beings so often ake disastrous choices of con- ct, is because right and wrong, od and bad, have never had the ht kind of publicity.

Somehow, there's something out these very phrases that's t to get a person's back up. To l him that he's "bad" if he does and so, or that it's "wrong" to something else, almost always rks instant antagonism. He els that somebody else is try- to boss him, and he resents sometimes even to the point going right out and doing the ry thing that's been frowned on.

If, however, different ways of having were effectively pub- ized as mature or immature, [illegible] or unwise in their result [illegible] ndividual himself, people take a more thoughtful titude toward them. Sensible or t, human nature has a tend- cy to confuse being "good" with ing stuffy, and to shy away om the word accordingly, hereas "mature" is a word by hich it sets great store. Similar- to be thought unwise some- hes seems to us more of a slap our ego than to be regarded having done something really ad". For the former reflects on r sophistication, something that ten seems to loom far larger in r self-esteem than does simple tegrity.

Moreover, if we think there's chance that something we con- plate doing may bounce back watch our step. Anything that wate hour step. Anything that ght adversely affect our repu- ion, our career, our future hap- ess, touches us where we live d gives us pause.

In other words, more [illegible] us uld probably be kept fr[illegible] ething we'd ordinar[illegible] ll [illegible], if it were only label- erently. If, for instance, saw it, rather, as "unwise". wise because of its possible aring on the future. Unwise be- se it might eventually hurt me one in no way involved in r original action.

To get down to specific cases, have before me a letter written a wife who has suddenly been nfronted by the aftermath of r husband's past indiscretion. "I have just discovered," she ls me, "that before our mar- ge my husband had a child by other woman. He is the chief pport of the child, which is be- brought up by his mother. My husband now wishes to bring s child into our home, feeling t it would be more advantage- financially to do this, rather n to go on maintaining what tually amounts to two house- lds. He tells me that if I really ed enough about him, I would willing to do it.

"Do you think he is fair about is? Do you think it is my duty [illegible] responsibility he brought on [illegible] mself by his own wrong- ing and bring this child up as own?"

Now here, without doubt, is a n who well knew that, by the ndards of the world in which lives, sexual experience out- e of marriage is wrong. This, wever, did not deter him from -marital adventure which left n with the responsibility of a ld on his shoulders. It did deter him, because he regard- doing wrong, or not doing it, as rely a matter of personal oice; something that concerned n alone. It might have deterred n, had he seen it as something ceedingly unwise because its nsequences might reach far be- d anything he could foresee; mething whose burden might ntually be cruelly thrust upon shoulders of a wholly inno- nt person, as has now hap- ned.

Things having turned out as y did, his wife's life is now [illegible] be overshadowed by the [illegible] t caught up with him. To ke things more bitterly ironic l, he is trying to force her accept responsibility for that t; to make her feel it is her fely duty to tax herself to help its debt. "Is this fair?" she s in her agony of indecision. Of course it's not fair. Nothing ld possibly be more unfair. By possible stretch of moral obli- ion can it be considered this man's duty to take into her me her husband's child by other woman and be a mother it.

But—and here is the point und which her thinking must volve—her decision should not, st not, be made on the basis what is fair or unfair. What will have to decide is whether wishes to hold her marriage ether, or let this matter be rock on which it breaks up. f she decides to start from the premise that she wishes to keep the marriage together, then, as I see it, she has only two real alternatives.

The first is to explore the possibility that the child's own mother might take it to live with her while its father continues to support it. The second, predicated on the assumption that the first is not feasible for some reason, would be for her to do as her husband wishes and take the child into their home, in which case, the chances of working the thing out successfully would depend entirely on her own attitude.

To keep reminding herself of the unfairness of the situation would doom it from the start. She would have to wholeheartedly accept the child's coming as a choice she made of her own free will and by so doing, strip it clean of the bitterness and resentment with which her emotions have wrapped it round.

Mary Stuart's Bonnets

By PRUNELLA WOOD

THOSE pretty bonnets of Mary Queen of Scots come back into fashion this year: odd how they get back so often, when you come to think of it, since the lady lost her head early in life and had, therefore, little need of hats.

In this latest revival Lydia takes liberties with the more usual, strictly balanced silhouette, as even as an ace of hearts. As in the model above, the coif line curves attractively and on a whim.

This hat is peacock blue soleil, with a band of folded mauve-pink lame brocade draping its edge.

A jewelled motif accents the centre front drapery.

MARIO . . . in his distinctive feature about Food . . . What's Cooking ?

Steaks and sex are in the news together.

Veterinarians have recently announced that the best cattle, yielding the plumpest beef, often lack the ability to reproduce. In breeding such prize specimens, stock producers, over a period of years, sometimes eliminate cows with good calving records.

Gland injections and dieting are prescribed to keep the bovine population at its peak.

There seems to be no thyroid injection to check present runaway beef prices. Fortunately the cheaper cuts of beef lend themselves to a greater variety of preparation than the tender and more expensive cuts.

Beef rolls or beef birds are thin pounded slices of beef, filled with a stuffing, then cooked slowly with tomatoes until tender.

Either beef or veal may be used in this recipe. When ordering thin slices of beef, explain to the butcher how they are to be used so that he can cut them all of uniform size. The meat should be lean and free from gristle or waste.

Braised Beef Rolls
4 Servings

Have 4 pieces of top or bottom round cut into thin slices 1-4 inch thick and about 4 by 6 iches long. Have the butcher pound the meat to tenderize it.

Mix 1 cup cooked rice with 2 tablespoons grated onion, 1-2 teaspoon powdered sage, 1 tablespoon melted butter or margarine, 1-4 cup chopped green pepper, 2 tablespoons grated cheese and salt and pepper to taste.

In a lightly greased frying pan brown meat about 3 minutes on each side.

When meat is cool enough to handle, put the rice mixture on each piece. Roll up meat. Fasten with toothpicks to hold filling securely.

Place beef rolls in a saucepan. Add a number 2 1-2 can of plum tomatoes, chopped fine, together with juice, a 6-ounce can of tomato paste, 1-8 teaspoon chopped thyme, 1-2 teaspoon salt and 1-8 teaspoon pepper.

Cover pan with a lid. Simmer slowly over a small flame for 1 1-2 hours or until meat is very tender. Remove toothpicks.

Spoon tomatoes over meat in serving dishes. Sprinkle with chopped parsley.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

Plans for homecoming party should be made after son returns

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Our son served overseas for two years in World War II, then came home for several months, and went abroad again as a civilian employee. During this time he married an American girl, a government employee. Now they are returning home and are to visit us for a while. We would so much like to give them a home-coming party, so that we may introduce our relatives and friends to his wife, and also to show our appreciation to his friends and our friends for their kindness to him during and after the war. But he has always been self-conscious, hates parties, and my husband and daughter think I'm making a mistake to make this plan. What is your advice?

Mother

Please, please be so considerate of him and sensitive to his reactions that you will make no welcoming-home-party plans until he returns and you can talk this party-idea over with him. Otherwise you might spoil the joy of his homecoming. Happily he may have changed, and you can have the joy of giving this party. Or his bride may persuade him that this is just what "we" want!

Is it proper for girl to visit man's family?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

As a mother, I would like to ask you this question: Is it considered proper for a 20-year-old girl to visit (long weekend) the family of a young man friend of hers? They are just good friends—are not engaged, and are not even considering becoming engaged.

Wondering

Yes, such a visit is proper (1) If the girl receives a direct invitation . . . by word of mouth, by telephone, or by note . . . from the young man's mother or whoever is hostess of his home, and (2) if you and your husband approve of the friendship and the visit.

Blowing your nose at table

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

If one has to blow one's nose at table, should one apologize?

Claire L.

No! Get the unpleasant procedure over as soon as possible, and as inconspicuously as possible. Don't apologize and thus call attention to it.

Girl gives tickets to boy when he calls for her

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

The other day in your column you told a girl reader that when she invited a boy as her guest to a dance or any other kind of occasion given by her school or club, to which tickets must be bought, she must buy the tickets in advance and tell him that she has them. This answer applies to my school dance coming soon, and Dad is giving me the money to buy the tickets. (I read him your advice!) I'm wondering when I am supposed to give my escort the tickets. When?

Betty L.

Give the tickets to your beau-of-the-evening when he comes to your house to take you to the dance. A man, of any age, just doesn't like to have the girl he is taking to a dance (or to the theatre or concert) take charge of the tickets and hand them in when they arrive at the entrance of the hall or theatre. It embarrasses him that the girl doesn't know that she should turn over this responsibility to him even though, as hostess or co-hostess, she bought the tickets.

BEAUTY

Reconditioning the complexion.

Now we are in for a change of face. That golden glow of the summer season will gradually give way to the paler tones of autumn and winter. It is wise to aid this period of transition if one is to appear top-notch, up to pulchritude par. The skin is grateful for attention at all times, but needs it most when the leaves begin to fall, especially if you happen to have been a sun-worshipper.

The skin is likely to be drier than usual. While we hear mournful yowls from women and girls who have oily skins, surveys show that the majority have dry ones. When the powder pad gets in its work, there are patches of scales and roughness on the nose and cheeks. Make-up doesn't achieve the glamorous effects that are expected from it. Rouge shows up plainly.

The obvious thing to do is to use creams freely. That does not mean applying a thing film and removing it with tissues. Put it on a clean skin surface and work it into the flesh. Make your skin lap it up. You lose out on your efforts, miss half the value of the cosmetic, if you just slither it over your face and let it go at that. It won't soak in of its own accord. It must be forced in by the manipulations of the fingertips.

Start at your collar bones and work upward. Necks may grow old before faces; that is because they get practically no cosmetic attention. Place all your fingertips on your chin and sweep along the jawline. Do circles around your eyes, rotary movements over your forehead. Work on the soft tissues in front of the ears. Make fists and do little upward thumps over your cheeks with your knuckles.

Necks may grow old before faces.

Pat, knead, mold and stroke, using more cream all the time. Something more than a smooth surface will be accomplished. Massage brings the blood rushing to the tissues, so the skin will be nourished from within. Let the cream remain on over night; the longer it stays on the better. In the morning it will have disappeared. Then all you do is to dash cold water over your face to bring good coloring. If the flesh is soft, or there is a tendency toward blackheads, use a skin tonic or astringent.

Don't forget that the skin is something of a health barometer. It cannot remain of fine texture and fair coloring unless one has regard for the laws of physical well-being. One should have food that does not overtax the digestive motors. One should drink plenty of water. Lack of water will make the skin arid. The daily bath has cosmetic value. Deep breathing brings the carnation bloom to the cheeks.

THE COMMON BOND

They were a happy couple when they walked down the street in Mapleville, people smiled and said "Don't they look happy!" He wasn't making much money but he was ambitious, and a hard worker. They spent modestly, saved a little for the time when a young 'un would arrive. Then one day he got a raise. That was the day when he had to make a decision.

There were so many things they wanted, a house, a car, and the little luxuries that made life worth living. But Junior—they had to think of his future, too. That was what got them interested in Canada Savings Bonds. They were the ideal way to make that extra savings and they could be bought at the Branch of the Dominion Bank for cash, or... under a Monthly Savings plan... such a small amount each month, too... meant that they could start on a bond and still have some left over for themselves. So they kept adding to their savings... and bought themselves a Canada Savings Bond and some day... they'll be glad.

Sewer and Water Pipelines Above Ground One of Novelties at Flin Flon

Flin Flon, Man., (CP)—Residents of this northern Manitoba town claim the place is like nothing else in the world. They're probably right.

The main section of Flin Flon, where older houses and most business premises are built, is perched on the hard-rock surface of the pre-Cambrian shield. Construction is a nightmare.

Most basements are above ground level.

Sewer and water pipelines run above the ground—some of them over the heads of pedestrians—instead of being buried.

Street lights burn night and day.

If you die in winter, your body goes into cold storage for burial in the spring when the ground thaws.

There are proportionately more children of pre-school and school age than in any other town of the same size in Canada.

But for all its oddities, Flin Flon (on the Saskatchewan-Manitoba border 400 miles northwest of Winnipeg) is going ahead.

The original above-ground sewer and water system was built in 1932 and services what now is only one-fifth of the town. Under way in suburban sections is a program to extend these services to the rest. Mayor Cyril Stevenson said the scheme will cost $1,315,000 "for a starter".

Workmen are enjoying the novelty of putting pipes underground in residential areas where there is enough soil on the hard rock.

Hudson Bay Mining and Smelting Company, lifeblood of the town, is paying 55 per cent of the initial cost.

The Flin Flon terrain is so hilly that some houses have a 30- to 50-foot difference between back and front yards. Others are perched on the rock with wooden stairways to the street.

Some residents can walk in their front door at ground level and look out their back door to a street 30 feet below.

Stairways are a big part of the Flin Flon sidewalk system. One winds up a hillside with almost 100 steps and several platforms.

The boxed-in sewer and water pipes, packed with sawdust to prevent freezing in Flin Flon's severe winter, are used unofficially as sidewalks. But signs warn residents they navigate them at their own risk.

Typical of the odd location of the town is its baseball park. There is a natural grandstand—a huge rock outcropping at least 100 feet high which can accommodate a sizable crowd of spectators.

Errol's Princess Spills Few Tears As Romance Ends

Paris. (AP)—The pretty blue-green eyes of Princess Irene Ghika are spilling no tears over the bust-up of her romance with actor Errol Flynn.

She still carries her head high with regal bearing, and she has not soured on movies or movie actors. But she hasn't yet sorted out her ambitions after the collapse of her romance with the swashbuckling screen lover.

Meantime, she's spending her time about like any 20-year-old member of the post-deb or country club set. There have been trips to Deauville and Biarritz. Last month she went to London for a week.

Turns Down Offers

All the while she's waiting for what he calls the "right" movie offer. The princess says she has turned down several movie offers including one from Flynn.

Flynn wanted her to play a small part in the movie "Bloodline" which he has been shooting on the Riviera. Costumes were made and the role held open for several weeks. But Princess Irene said "It seemed best not to take the part."

As to the reasons for the break-up of the announced engagement, there were conflicting versions.

Flynn gallantly said, "We parted on a most friendly basis. When a lady breaks an engagement she knows what she is doing." At almost the same time he announced his engagement to 21-year-old American actress Patrice Wymore.

Princess Irene's mother, Mrs. Paul Zanesco, said "I thank the stars he has made this announcement. . . .I opposed the idea but Mr. Flynn's insistence led me reluctantly to give my consent."

The princess says "we just agreed that we were used to different kinds of life and that it would be better to call it off."

Princess Irene, who is retiring almost to the point of shyness with strangers, said she met Flynn through mutual friends in May 1949. Flynn was on vacation in Paris.

Their engagement was announced unofficially in London last November. Flynn was there to appear at the royal film show featuring the "Forsythe Saga" in which he starred. The princess was there, too.

Flynn soon returned to the United States. When the princess tried to go there to visit him she was rebuffed at the Paris Embassy on her request for a visa.

"It was just a question that I was born in Romania," she said. "If I had been born in Paris I could have had the visa without any trouble. After all, I came to Paris when I was 13 and I don't see what difference it makes where I was born."

Got Visa in Jamaica

Finally, she went to Jamaica and was able to get the visa there. She was in the United States from May 15 to July 7, spending most of the time in Hollywood. She visited Gallup, New Mexico, for two weeks but had only four or five hours in New York.

Princess Irene lives with her mother in a modest apartment. Her father, Prince Jean Ghika, died when she was one year old. Her mother married a Romanian diplomat who was assigned to Paris in 1944. Her stepfather later was killed in an accident.

The Princess was educated in Romanian and French schools and attended the Sorbonne for a year and a half—"just general education". She has no plans for returning either to school or modeling.

Princess Irene wears her title lightly. She says quite frankly that it means little in present circumstances. Most of her friends usually refer to her as Miss Ghika and she says that she uses the same form for workday purposes.

Top Executives Of Consumers Gas Local Expelled

Toronto, Oct. 16 (CP) — Three top executives of the Consumers Gas Local of the International Chemical Workers Union (AFL-TLC) were expelled from the union Sunday on the grounds of communist affiliation.

International President H. A. Bradley of Akron, O., said he expelled the president, Reg Wright; an executive board member, William Johnstone and Charles Manser, former secretary.

The expulsion came after Mr. Bradley's investigation Saturday into charges against 12 members of the union accused of violating a section of the constitution which refuses membership to communists.

He reserved judgment in the cases of the other nine.

Mr. Wright said he refused to recognize the expulsion. He said he will act as chairman of the regular meeting of the local Tuesday night.

He indicated, too, there might be a move to pull the 800-member local out of the union and affiliate with the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers, suspended from the Canadian Congress of Labor on the grounds of communist affiliation, or with the United Mine Workers (CCL).

There appeared to be a possibility the three men might lose their jobs with the gas company under an open shop agreement which makes membership in the union a condition of employment.

Mr. Wright, local president for six years, has been with the company for 25 years. Mr. Manser has been an employee for 15 years and William Johnstone for nearly 30.

Philippe Roland, 21, and Michel Martineau, 22, were killed when their light motorcycle hit a truck Saturday night near Piedmont, 40 miles north of Montreal.

Struck Down by Bus

In Saint John, N.B., Arthur Harper was killed when a car driven by his brother overturned and Helen Foster Coles, 45, a school teacher, was struck down by a car as she left a bus.

At Lindsay, Ont., 49-year-old Vance Daynes was run over by a passenger train and killed and John Martin, 27, died while being rushed to Hamilton after his head was trapped in the crotch of a tree by a falling limb.

Isaac Brighton, 70, was hit by a car at an intersection in Kitchener, Ont., and killed; Garry Falers, 6, was struck down by a car on the highway near his home at Peterborough; Gordon Murphy, 22, lost control of his motorcycle and crashed into a telephone pole near Galt; Ronald Moore, 5, was hit by a car at Newtonbrook, a northern suburb of Toronto, and killed; and Duncan Horne, 86, died of injuries he received in the collision of two cars near Stratford.

Nudists and Irate Citizens Among Hazards Faced by Game Warden

North Bay, Ont., (CP)—It takes courage and presence of mind to make good as a game warden.

Joe Carswell, R.C.A.F., veteran who joined the Lands department after his discharge, has both. The presence of mind was evidenced when he retreated from two pairs of running shoes and a pair of spectacles.

Joe was stationed at nearby Widdifield, and was taking a routine patrol to acquaint himself with the area. Climbing down towards a lake, he found himself confronted by a pair of sneakers and a pair of spectacles, with nothing but man [illegible] between.

As the man berated Joe for charging in on a nudist camp, the young warden was aware of other naked bodies among the trees. And when a blonde young woman emerged from the lake, dressed herself in a daring pair of running shoes and started towards them, Joe thought it time to call a halt.

"Listen you," he said. "I'm here legally. I'm a game warden. If you people lived like other folks, you wouldn't worry about anyone walking in on you."

With that, he made a dignified exit, looking back to see that they weren't setting out fire without a permit.

Later, he got himself transferred to the Temagami district, where he found packs of half-starved Indian dogs were slaughtering deer.

When his orders for tying up the dogs were ignored, he shot every dog running loose. He bagged 27 before the owners got the idea. He half-expected a bullet in the back, but emerged unscathed.

Some of the folks at nearby Redbridge have a grudge against him, too.

The farmers in the district had been plagued with elk ruining their crops. So the Lands department pronounced an open season on elk this year and allotted 200 licences to the North Bay district.

Somehow, all the licences were handed out free with deer permits before the residents knew about them, and not a single farmer got one. They felt Joe was responsible, but he couldn't do a thing about it.

"It looks like the hunters will be shooting the elk and the farmers will be shooting the hunters," he says.

"Fortunately for me, I'm going to be stationed away from here during the season."

Russian Army Said to Pack More Fire Power Than U.S. Forces but Has Less Mobility

Frankfurt, Germany, Oct. 16. (AP)—Russia's army packs more fire power than the American army—man for man. Russia has the best tank and the best self-propelled big gun in the world.

These are the admissions of the U.S. Army itself—what American troops in Germany are taught. The estimates are based on detailed reports.

In its analysis of these reports, the U.S. army pulls no punches but offers this consolation:

The Soviet army pays a high price for its heavy fire power. It loses staying power, balance and mobility. A U.S. division can maintain itself in combat longer, move faster ,and keep better communications.

The U.S. army recently announced a big increase in the fire power of its infantry division. But apparently the new Soviet rifle division still outguns it, on a man-for-man basis.

Although it contains only 60 per cent as many men as the U.S. Infantry division—11,000 Russians to 18,800 Americans—the Russian rifle division is credited with having 75 per cent of the shock power of its larger American counterpart.

The Soviet mechanized division has about 13,000 men, yet it is called roughly comparable in fire power to the U.S. armored division of 16,000 men. So is the Soviet tank division of 10,300 men.

The Russians gain this impressive punch partly by sacrificing service units and other personnel not essential to actual combat.

No Match For Stalin Tank

Other points in the army appraisal:

The U.S. has no match for the 51-ton Russian tank, the Joseph Stalin III, with its 122-millimetre gun and its heavy armor. The biggest American tank, the 46-ton Pershing, carries only a 90-M.M. gun.

The Russians' medium tank, the T-34 of 35 tons, weighs about the same as the U.S. Sherman tank. But it mounts an 85-M.M. gun to the Sherman's 76-M.M.

The red army proved the superiority of its mortars in the Second World War. These simple, rugged weapons took terrific toll of the Germans in the Soviet counter-offensive.

Artillery is the traditional strong point of the Russian army. It has been since Peter the Great.

The biggest Russian weakness appears to be in the generally-poor quality of ammunition—especially for light arms and automatic weapons. Here the Americans are vastly superior.

U.S. army reports also say the Russian communications and transport equipment are inferior, and that American divisions are better balanced, more easily manoeuvrable, and more nearly self-sufficient.

TO BUILD MONUMENT

Niagara Falls, Ont., Oct. 16. (CP)—The Niagara Parks Commission will build a monument in honor of John Graves Simcoe, First Governor of Upper Canada, at Niagara-on-the-Lake, the site of Ontario's first legislature. The Niagara Parks commission said Elizabeth Wyn-Wood, Toronto sculptor, will design the monument.

BERRIES PLENTIFUL

Grindstone, Magdalen Islands—(CP)—Blueberries and cranberries were abundant this season. Thousands of gallons of blueberries were picked for home consumption while several hundred barrels of cranberries will be exported to the mainland.

Mammoth's Tooth Unearthed in Pit

Victoria, B.C., (CP)—A big tooth belonging to a prehistoric mammoth has been discovered in a gravel pit near here.

Weighing several pounds, the molar of the hairy elephant which existed on this continent several thousand years ago, was turned over to the provincial museum it measured about 10 inches long and five inches thick.

Dr. Clifford Carl, museum director, described discoveries of this kind as "rare" on Vancouver Island.

"We have found remains of mastadons," he said, but we have discovered few bones of mammoths."

The discovery did not mean that hairy elephants once roamed Vancouver Island. His opinion was that the bones were carried in the ice field during the glacial period and deposited in a bay near here when the ice melted. The mammoth was the only elephant to adapt itself to the cold climate.

A LUCKY DAY

Drayton, Oct. 16. (CP)— Last Friday was Friday the 13th and it was the luckiest day of his life for Reeve W. R. Potter. He was making the draw at a Service Club raffle—he drew out a ticket and won his granddaughter a suit of clothes. Embarrassed, he tried again and won his wife a radio. The reeve returned the prizes then won another prize for himself. A few hours later, his daughter-in-law's sister, Yvonne Wark, was chosen Miss Drayton in a beauty contest.

Woman Legless For 57 Years Returns North With Limbs Supplied by Flyers

Written For The Canadian Press

By WALTER SHAVE

St. John's, Nfld., Oct. 16 (CP)—Mrs. Elizabeth Kirkina Mukko, legless for 57 years and without artificial limbs for the last 27 of them, is returning to her nursing duties at Rigolet, Labrador, with new limbs—thanks to RCAF and United States flyers at Goose Bay.

The 59-year-old mother sailed from here for her Labrador home during the weekend aboard the coastal vessel Kyle. She's returning north "to answer any cell I get to act as mid-wife and nurse."

She was two years old when her trapper father, worried about his sick wife, left the family cabin at Winter's cove, near Rigolet, to get a doctor. Caught in a blizzard, it took him four days to make the trip, and when he returned it was to find a new baby dead and Elizabeth on the floor with both legs frozen. Gangrene had set in.

He cut off her legs below the knees with an ax, then stood her in a flour barrel. The flour stemmed the bleeding.

Three years later the famous Dr. Wilfred Grenfell took her to his hospital at St. Anthony, Nfld. He had tiny artificial limbs made for her. Later the doctor took her to New York, where Dr. John McTavish, a Scottish surgeon, performed 18 operations on her legs and named her Kirkina.

Married a Trapper

Later she married a trapper. By then Dr. Grenfell was dead, and having no money for legs, she hobbled about on stumps protected by pads.

She raised a family of seven—until 1918, when an influenza epidemic killed her husband and six of her children.

She dug the graves and buried them all, performing the funeral service, as she was the only one in the settlement who could read or write.

Life became tame for Mrs. Mukko so she studied nursing at the St. Anthony Hospital, then served as nurse and mid-wife for anyone within 35 miles of her home.

"I brought 32 children into the world," she says proudly, "and never lost a mother or baby."

Recently Dr. Tony Paddon, in charge of the St. Anthony Hospital told RCAF and American flyers at the Goose Bay airbase about Mrs. Mukko. They chipped in and sent her to St. John's for new artificial limbs.

"It's nice to have legs again after being without them for 27 years," she said as she walked aboard the coastal vessel, bound for Labrador and more service to others.

Nickel's working on the railroad? ... Sure!

In the new diesel electric locomotives Nickel Steel gives greater strength with less weight. Steam locomotive boilers are made of Nickel Steel—tough, strong and durable at high temperatures.

Frames of modern locomotives and railway cars are made of Nickel Steel—stronger, lighter in weight. Springs and roller bearings are of tough, long-lasting Nickel Steel. Many modern trains are largely built of Stainless Steel, containing a high percentage of Nickel.

Back in the dining car kitchen those gleaming surfaces where food is handled are "Monel"—a sanitary, rust-proof, Nickel-Copper alloy.

"The Romance of Nickel" a 60-page book fully illustrated, will be sent free on request to anyone interested.

Forty-three years of research have uncovered hundreds of uses for Nickel in the United States and other countries. Now Nickel exports bring in millions of U.S. dollars yearly. These dollars help pay the wages of the 14,000 Nickel employees in Canada and also help pay Canadian railwaymen, lumbermen, iron and steel workers and other men and women making supplies for the Nickel mines, smelters and refineries.

Carrier Boys and Girls Return Home Tired but Happy After Enjoyable Trip to Falls

Sixty-eight Ontario Intelligencer boy and girl carriers rolled into the city Sunday evening tired but happy after a highly enjoyable two-day holiday in Niagara Falls, Ont.

Loaded with "souvenirs" of the Canadian and American border cities, the carriers, who were the guests of the newspaper recounted a thrill-packed trip after they debussed here shortly after six o'clock. Some of them were too tired to talk, but all wore smiles of appreciation albeit they were mixed with yawns.

There was not a dull moment for the youngsters from the time they left the city at two p.m. Friday until their return last night.

The cavalacade paused at Welcome, Ont., for soft drinks and other refreshments en route to the Falls and had the evening meal at the King Street, Toronto branch of Bowles Lunch. They reached Niagara Falls at 9 p.m. and spent a few minutes in wide-eyed wonder looking at the illuminated Falls. Later they checked it at "Uncle Tom's Cabins" where they stayed during the trip.

Still later they converged on Hope's Restaurant where the management did a thriving business for the next two or three hours.

Taken on Tour

Saturday morning the carriers were taken on a tour of Niagara visiting the Burning Springs, negotiating the tunnel under the Falls and cruising on the "Maid of the Mist".

The highlight of the tour came at 12.30 Saturday, when the carriers along with those from Kingston and Peterborough were the guests of Chairman Robert Saunders of the Ontario Hydro Commission at luncheon in the main dining room of the General Brock Hotel.

Chairman Saunders spoke to his young guests for ten minutes in serious and lighter vein. He pointed out what an important job they were doing and the large number of successful men in Canada who started as newspaper carriers. He had himself carried papers, he said in order to finance his education. Mr. Saunders humorous remarks were greeted with vociferous acclaim by the carriers, who also offered sustained applause at the conclusion of the address.

During the afternoon, the carriers were taken on the Spanish Aero Car; up the 235 steps to Brock's Monument; to the Laura Secord Monument and to the Queenston plant of the Hydro Commission, where they saw a motion picture film depicting hydro operations. Later they were taken to the water level of the Gorge.

Went to U.S.

Following supper at Hope's Restaurant they visited Niagara Falls, N.Y., where they equipped themselves with all varieties of souvenirs including rubber masks, water pistols, spring knives, wallets and other gadgets attractive to their age.

Back to the cabins at 10 o'clock where the majority went to bed after a tiring but highly enjoyable day.

They embussed for Belleville at 10 a.m. Sunday, stopping for dinner at Bowles Restaurant, Toronto. On their way home they paused at Welcome for drinks and refreshments, arriving here in the early evening.

Fifty-five carriers from Kingston and thirty-five from Peterborough made the trip, joining the Belleville carriers at Niagara Falls.

An unexpected treat came to the youngsters on Friday night, when an unknown admirer purchased chocolate bars for each carrier on the Belleville buses.

The party was in charge of Dick Cowan, circulation manager, William O'Brien and Miss Florence Walden.

Woman Kicked, Beaten, Dies In Hospital

Hamilton, Oct. 16 (CP) —Beaten and kicked into an unconscious condition Friday night, Alberta Stone, 30, died early today in hospital without regaining consciousness.

Saturday police arrested Thomas Burnham of Beamsville and charged him with assault but today the charge was changed to murder.

The woman staggered into an east end taxi office and collapsed. She had been seen shortly before on the street engaged in a violent argument with a man whom the police allege was Burnham.

An unidentified person telephoned the hospital Saturday asking for the condition of the woman and said Burnham did not injure the woman.

Police said she had been knocked down and then kicked repeatedly in the head by her assailant.

Sandsucker Sinks In Erie, 19 Safe, Captain Missing

Lorain, O., Oct. 16. (AP)—The John M. McKerchey, a 161-foot sandsucker, sank in Lake Erie 2 1-2 miles northwest of here early today. Lorain is on the lake's south shore 60 miles from Chatham.

Nineteen of its crew were rescued, but the captain, Horace Johnston, 46, of Monroe, Mich., is missing and is believed to have gone done with his ship, the coast guard reported.

The McKerchey, loaded with 700 tons of sand, was owned by the Kelley Island Lime and Transportation Company of Cleveland.

Five crew members were fished out of the cold water and 14 others were taken off a life boat they had launched from the McKerchey.

They said the vessel sprang a leak on the way into Lorain last night, started taking water, and capsized when only about 15 minutes from port. The sandsucker had left Lorain last night.

Accepted Speed Of Light Said Out By Eleven Miles

London, Oct. 16 (AP) —A British scientist said today he has confirmation from United States and Swedish experts of his discovery that the accepted speed of light is in error by 11 miles in 186,000.

The scientist, Dr. Louis Essen of the government controlled National Physical Laboratory, said his figure for the speed of light is 186,282 miles a second. The accepted figure since 1935 has been 186,271 miles a second.

Essen said independent experiments by Carl. Aslakson of the U. S. Coast and Geodetic Survey and Dr. Erik Bergstrand, Swedish government geodesist, have confirmed his findings.

U.N. Warships Destroy 2 Mines

Tokyo, Oct. 16 (AP) —British and Canadian fleet units patrolling off Fankochi Point on the southwest extremity of the Ongjin peninsula on the west coast of Korea destroyed two mines today, a naval release reported.

The Canadian ship or ships in the action were not identified, but the destroyer Sioux was operating off the west coast last week. The two other Canadian destroyers with the United Nations naval forces— the Athababskan and Cayuga— took part the big bombardment of east-coast communist ports last week.

Mexico City, Oct. 16 — (AP)— A mass attempt to climb lofty Popocatepetl volcano during the weekend resulted in two deaths, 10 serious and 400 minor injuries, the Red Cross Alpine Squad reported today. Some 5,000 mountain climbers planned the mass ascent of the 17,887-foot peak to attend a religious ceremony. A blinding snowstorm hit the peak while the climbers were on it.

280 Members Of Long Branch Plant on Strike

Toronto, Oct. 16. (CP)— Some 280 members of the United Mine Workers (C.C.L.) today staged a one-day strike at the suburban Long Branch plant of Canadian Arsenals' Small Arms division in protest against federal government refusal to recognize the union. The Long Branch Workers also seek a general wage increase of 15 cents an hour.

Pickets from the Union's Local 13524 marched in front of the gates when the 8 a.m. E.D.T. shift was due to report for duty. Col. J. W. Leavens, manager of the government-owned plant, said later that some workers, especially toolmakers and office clerks, crossed the picket lines

An additional 50 workers assembled near the gates but did not try to cross the lines.

Eight Toronto Township police watched proceedings.

Harry Hill, president of the Union Local, said the union negotiated for four months without obtaining recognition at the plant, which now produces shotguns. The union was told in a letter from Trade Minister Howe last week that workers with grievances could take them up individually with the plant management.

The plant was exempted from provisions of the federal labor code by an order-in-council passed three years ago.

In a statement issued two hours after the strike started, Col. Leavens said that 60 per cent of the hourly-rated employees were at work and that the entire staff of the tool room was on the job. He said production was only slightly reduced but not interrupted and "everything is quiet and peaceful."

Britain Denies Allegations Made by Russia

London, Oct. 16 (Reuters) — A foreign office spokesman today denied Russian allegations that Britain deliberately let two German battleships through the English Channel in 1942 so they could be used against Russia.

He was commenting on an article in the Soviet navy journal Red Fleet which claimed the German warships Scharnhorst and Gneisenau had been let through as a result of a deal.

These allegations appeared to be a deliberate attempt to create ill-will, the spokesman said. It was a matter of great regret that Russia should elect "to besmirch our wartime record."

In fact, every effort was made by the RAF and the navy to intercept the two German ships and had one had been heavily damaged.

More Than 98 Per Cent of East German Voters Endorse Single Red Ticket Under Troops' Eyes

Berlin, Oct. 16 (AP) —Pledged to unswerving loyalty to Moscow red leaders were swept back into office by more than 98 percent of the voters at Sunday's election, it was officially announced today.

The communist government said it had been confirmed in power by 12,088,745 votes against 51,187 invalid and opposition votes. Authorities said 98.44 per cent of all enfranchised east Germans had cast their ballots.

The unopposed triumph of the communist led "National Front" made secure politically a Russian bastion in the centre of Europe that only war or internal Russian revolt might conceivably destroy.

It was engineered by the most fantastic German voting since Hitler claimed 100 percent endorsement for his Nazi Reichstag in 1936.

Russia's 20 occupation divisions were on the alert and 195,000 communist-offered German police stood guard to assure unmolested victory.

But nowhere in the Soviet zone, as about 13,000,000 citizens virtually goose-stepped to the polls, was there a single verified case of resistance.

Even the western powers dropped their anti-vote campaign, fearful of police terror against east Germans who attempted to dissent.

Counsel Beamed to Zone

"Deceive your deceivers—vote for the National Front" was the despairing counsel beamed to the Soviet zone populace by the official American radio station.

The capitulation was complete. Among those who obeyed the communist order to cast open, unmarked ballots on which appeared only the red parliamentary list, were thousands of Protestant pastors and Roman Catholic priests and nuns.

Like automatons, the east German masses paraded past the election boxes, dropping in unfolded scraps of paper which sealed their political fate.

American sponsored German broadcasters asserted today that in actuality "90 percent of the east Germans are enemies of the red police state."

But it was ballots, not words that were counted in Berlin headquarters of the Soviet zone regime.

By mere decree Russia's most trusted German agents set up a "German Democratic Republic" just a year ago. Their government had never been put to a popular vote until yesterday.

Backed by the nearly unanimous votes of their countrymen—regradless of election chicanery—the east German government will stay in office until at least 1954.

The regime's admitted ambition is to become the keystone in Russia's bloc of satellite states.

Rock Hits Boy Who Slides Down Bluffs 125 Feet

Toronto, Oct. 16 — (CP) Hit on the head by a rock believed thrown by another boy, Harold Hamilton, 12, staggered and slid 125 feet down Scarboro Bluffs just east of here yesterday. He reached the beach below without further injury. Four stitches were used to close a gash in his head.

The boy was climbing down to join two companions who planned to build a bonfire on the beach. He said that when he was half way down the cliff, two boys whom he did not know started throwing stones at him from the top.

Rumor Russ Mass Troops on Turkish Iranian Frontiers

Istanbul, Turkey, Oct. 16. (AP) —Unconfirmed reports received here last night said Russia is massing troops on her frontier with Turkey and Iran. The reports came from Kars, a Turkish town near the frontier.

These reports said six divisions from Leninakan in Soviet Armenia are drawn up along the Turkish border just east of Kars. Four of the divisions, all trained in guerrilla fighting, and one company of light artillery, were encamped at Yerivan near the triangle where Russia, Turkey and Iran come together.

The reports said the Russians have been instigating revolts among the Kurdish tribes in Iran.

Parents Awake To Learn Son Is 'Night Owl'

Tulsa, Okla., Oct. 16 (AP)— Mr. and Mrs. K. D. Simmons really have a young night owl on their hands.

They awoke yesterday to find their two-year-old son Kenny, missing from his bed. They searched the house —but no Kenny. Frantically, they called police headquarters.

"Yes, we've got a little boy here in his night clothes," the desk sergeant answered.

Officers Lozier Brown and Dick McCully said they picked up the young wanderer about 1 a.m.

The parents said the boy apparently unlocked the front door and walked out. They are going to hide the key after this.

French Forced to Abandon Another Post on Indo-China Frontier, No Loss Recorded

By. SEYMOUR TOPPING

Saigon, Indo-China, Oct. 16 — (AP)—The French today announced abandonment of still another post on the China-Indo-China frontier—the small outpost of Nacham.

A military spokesman said the Nacham garrison had withdrawn nine miles southeast of Dong Dang, last major French position before the frontier headquarter fortress of Langson, six miles further to the southeast.

The spokesman said evacuation of Nacham had been accomplished without important fighting. Other French sources said communist-led Vietminh troops had occupied Nacham following the French withdrawal.

The report of the abandonment of the post came as French officials said privately it soon might be necessary to withdraw French forces from all posts on the Chinese frontier. In the last month the French have abandoned the posts of Dongkhe, Caobang, and Thatkhe, leaving about 300 miles of the Chinese frontier open to traffic by the Vietminh to and from supply and training points in communist China.

As the fall of frontier positions continued, a spokesman said some civilians already are evacuating Langson by air and road.

However, Associated Press correspondent Kenneth Likes, in censored dispatches from Langson itself, said most of the population of 10,000 is remaining voluntarily.

Langsen guards the main invasion route from China and has the only French air base along the north Indo-Chinese border.

The spokesman said he had no further information on the status of the Thatkhe garrison. The last official word was that the garrison's rearguard was under sporadic attack but that the bulk of the withdrawing force had reached its objective, which was presumed here to mean Nacham.

The Thatkhe evacuation took place last Tuesday. The spokesman said he thinks withdrawal from Nacham was completed by Saturday.

United Nations' Week

(By Charles Andrew Tupper)

The 16th to 24th of October, 1950, will mark, "United Nations Week", and Tuesday, October 24th will be celebrated as "United Nations' Day". On Saturday, October 21st, a huge United Nations' parade will proceed amid gala bunting and ticker-tape down Broadway, New York City, U.S.A. to hail United Nations' success in Korea and to make the general public aware of this great world - organization's aims for universal justice, freedom and honorable peace!

In suggesting that a celebration along similar lines during United Nations' Week in Belleville would be appropriate, it is interesting to note that the originator and creator of the first League of Nations for Peace, was the Mohawk visionary, Dekanaweda, "a local boy" so to speak born on the shores of the Bay of Quinte (Kente) about 1370 between the sites of present-day Deseronto and Belleville, Ont., Canada; so that Belleville could very properly lay claim to honoring his achievement by proxy of being the nearest city to his birth-place!

What were the achievements of Dekanaweda? In a recent Globe and Mail, Homemaker Page, Mrs. Purser quotes from a communication received from The Polaris Foundation, an organization which concerns itself with personnel, group, community and world inter-relationships. Among general information, the following appears worth repeating:

Confederacy of Iroquois

"The Confederacy of the Iroquois was the most important Indian grouping on the continent, north of Mexico, from the very beginning of European conquest on through and after the American Revolution. It is the opinion of many that no institutional achievement of mankind exceeds it in either wisdom or intelligence, accepting the limits of its time and place. The Confederacy's plan was to renounce warfare, between one another and to present an alliance against a warring world. It sought universal and perpetual peace and for more than two centuries was completely successful."

"The Confederacy was one of delegated limited powers. It was build so that authority flowed upward from the smallest and most organic units, not downward from the top. This gave the League its stability during the two and one half centuries when all the maddening stresses of white contact were focussed upon it as upon no other Indian grouping. The Confederacy was a nation which enhanced the liberty and responsibility of its component parts down even to the minutest member. The simpler units surrendered part of their autonomy to the next higher units in such a way that the whole was closely interdependent and cohesive. The establisment of the higher unit created new rights, privileges and duties for the lower units. New rights, privileges and duties were also created by this for the higher units since power (but not all initiative and responsibility) always flowed from the base to the summit."

First League of Nations

This gives a general picture of the frame-work of the first League of Nations for Peace but much could be written of the finer rules, laws and fabric that blended together to make a constitution of such unquestionable value that many prominent statesmen of today still refer back to it for inspiration!

Director Hugh W. Wolter of the Polaris Foundation gives Dekanaweda's name as "Deganawida", but as the Red-man then had no alphabet or written language—(except that of the wampum belts, another creation of Dekanaweda), Dekanaweda's name has been transcribed into the English tongue by sound and has been written slightly different in three or four variations, but it is not the spelling that is important, but the man and "Dekanaweda" appears to be the simpler rendering of the sound into the English language.

At any rate, the Polaris Foundation's secretary, Margaret S. Roe notes: "'Deganawida' was the motivating force who went to each of the five nations who had so long warred with one another. He was thought to be a spiritual genius endowed with an inner power stronger than the natural powers of man."

Dekanaweda Plants Tree

To use the figurative Red-man phrasing Dekanaweda first "planted the Tree of Peace" in Onondaga country to the south in the year 1390, (now New York State), that very approximate territory that today plays host to United Nations' headquarters, qualifying him for the title of "The Father of United Nations". This "Tree of Peace" was symbolical, spiritual tree which would be cut off from its roots and apparently dead for a time, but would flourish at a later date. Perhaps in that almost hidden-by-time ceremony, an actual tree was planted in the earth to drive home the idea to the vast assemblage of Red-men gathered from far and near. "And he bade the Eagle guard the Peace!" Of course, this referred to The Thunderbird the Red-man's symbol of Divinity, but it seems a powerful coincidence that the United States, whose national emblem is the American bald eagle, possesses in reserve the over-riding scientific force to guard the Peace and rights of United Nations against attack.

Dekanaweda's Birthplace

In timing with United Nations' Week, the October 1950 issue of New York State's regional magazine North Country Life, will feature a 32-line poem entitled, "The Stone Canoe", which acclaims Dekanaweda as a very great statesman and creator of the first League of Nations for peace. Accompaning editorial, explanatory notes cites his birth-place as in vicinity of Belleville, Ont., Canada, and delineate the significance of the ensuing results even to this day of that primary establishment of a League for peace!

Dr. Arthur Pound in his book "Lake Ontario' (1945)—"The American Lake Series", makes mention of Belleville vicinity on the Bay of Quinte, birthplace of Dekanaweda where he and his lieutenant-in-execution-of-plans, Hiawatha—in Mohawk, "Ah-yon-wa-tha" conferred and worked together to carry out and to put in practice the great visionary's project during a period of five years.

The (Rev.) Dr. A. Leon Hatzan in his book, "The True Story of Hiawatha" (McClelland and Stewart, Toronto, 1925) writes on page 45 as follows: "This — 'The Iroquois Confederacy' was a model upon which the British colonists based their provincial government and it supplied the basic idea upon which rests the foundation of the present system of political government of the Great Southern Republic (U.S.A.) also the constitution of the Canadian Provinces with the central power at Ottawa."

Franklin on Red-Man's Confederacy

Benjamin Franklin, who took a prominent part in the deliberations and framing of "The Declaration of American Independence" of the United States had this to say concerning the Red-man's Confederacy: "It would be a very strange thing, if Six Nations of ignorant savages should be capable of forming a scheme for such a union and be able to execute it in such a manner, as that it has subsisted ages, and appears indissoluble, and yet that a like union should be impracticable for ten or a dozen English colonies to whom it is more necessary and must be more advantageous and who cannot be supposed to want an equal understanding of their interests."

A prominent man of Mohawk-descent of today, Brig. O. M. Martin, York county magistrate, addressed the Imperial Daughters of the Empire convention at the Royal York Toronto earlier this year, and among his remarks under the heading, "Peace Contributions Overlooked", he said: "The Indians' contribution to peace had been neglected by history-books: North American Indians in 'The Iroquois Confederacy', had formed the first working model of United Nations!"

From these aforementioned references, it is easy to discern the impact and far-reaching effects of Dekanaweda's successful work in organizing and promoting, "The League of the Five Nations", effects and results still living and vital as strong, reverberating tones of wisdom and truth, sounding in and through existing fabrics of the governmental institutions of Canada, the United States and United Nations!

Would Honor Native Son

Thus it would be fitting that Belleville get into line with the League of Nations' Celebration spirit this "United Nations' Week", and give a grand gesture that will place Belleville. (as of yore) right in the van of the leading forces for peace! Belleville owes it to herself to thus lay claim to fame as the centre of the Kente, "The Bay of Quinte" district, birthplace of Dekanaweda, the creator of the first League of Nations for Peace!

In order to honor her native son, Belleville could act on one or several of the following proposals:

(1) That Belleville rename Bridge St.—Dekanaweda Way."

(2) That the bridge be called "Dekanaweda Bridge."

(3) That the new plaza along the river be named, "Thunderbird Drive"—or Boulevard: honoring the Red-man's symbol of God's might and power, a supernatural eagle with the striking force of lightning!

(4) That Front St., be renamed, "Kente Street".

(5) That the upper bridge be named, "Moira Bridge".

(6) That the Government be petitioned to return the river's proper name, "The Sagonaska".

Ultimately Belleville will do these things, so why should she not honor herself now?

Toronto, Oct. 16 — (CP)—Billy Bass, Toronto Argonaut backfielder, was in a walking cast today and finished with football for the season.

Bass, formerly with Chicago Rockets, was injured in a Saturday game against Montreal Alouettes.

Dr. T. E. Flommerfelt said x-rays showed four small vertebrae fractures. There would be no permanent affliction, he said.

R. Gladwell Signs Contract With N.Y. Theatre

New York, —(Special)—R. L. Gladwell, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Gladwell, 107 Lingham Street, Belleville, has signed a contract with New York's famous Henry Street theatre. Mr. Blair Cutting, former director of the Playhouse, was drafted last week.

Mr. Gladwell is a graduate of Belleville Collegiate, where he appeared in the school's plays for five successive years. As Robert Kent, (his professional nom-de-plume,) he has established an outstanding reputation in Toronto theatre. He was director of the Community Theatre Association during the past season and is a member of the Central Ontario Drama League. His production of Patrick Hamilton's "Rope" proved to be the most controversial play in Toronto last year. Together with Gordon Leggat of Belleville and Gordon Kelly of Toronto, he adapted Stephen Leacock's novel "Sunshine Sketches" into a musical play. This was originally scheduled for amateur production, but has aroused the interest of three professional groups who are currently negotiating for production rights.

Vineland Station, Oct. 16 (CP) —Four masked men Saturday night held up Mr. and Mrs. Arthur W. Smith at gunpoint, smashed open a safe in their home and stole $800 in cash. A fifth man remained on watch outside the home.

As one of the gunmen was binding Mrs. Smith's ankles together she asked him if he would like his mother to be treated that way. He made no immediate reply, but when she was securely fastened, he leaned over, kissed her on the forehead and said "good night mother."

After the gunmen left, Mr. Smith was able to free himself and his wife.

Life Insurance Dollars AT WORK!

Will they ever strike oil in your back yard?

An exciting thought, isn't it?

But of course you know the odds are hopelessly against your being that lucky. In fact, you don't expect life to hand you even a very small fortune on a platter. Or do you?

Take old-age benefits, for instance. Undoubtedly many older people really need help. But no over all security plan is going to provide all the income you and your family will ever need in the future. Things just aren't going to be that rosy.

Five million Canadians, among whom you are probably one, want and expect security and independence in their later years. And they are planning for it now, in a way that suits their own individual and family needs.

These far-sighted men and women are enjoying more of the good things of life than ever before, and at the same time protecting their loved ones now and building security for their old-age with life insurance.

Surely you want to help build this kind of future security for yourself and your family. Nearly 5 million Canadian life insurance policyholders are doing it now!

Each year over 200 million life insurance dollars are invested for policyholders in government and industrial securities. Result: new schools, roads, power plants and many other vital projects that promote progress and create jobs throughout the nation.

Thus while life insurance helps build security for you and yours, it also helps to raise your living standards!

Senior and Junior 'B' Groups In O.H.A. in This District Will Consist of Six Teams

Two six-team senior and junior 'B' hockey groups in the district emerged from the meeting of O.H.A' representatives held in Memorial Arena Sunday afternoon.

Under the chairmanship of O.H.A. executive member, Frank Buckland, Peterborough, and convener Lorne Cook, Kingston, senior and junior groups after some discussion especially in the junior section laid the foundation of what should be the most attractive schedules in years.

In the senior section the teams are Belleville; Kingston Nylons, Queen's University; Peterborough Eagles, Peterborough Hockey Club and Gananoque. Gananoque faced stiff opposition in effecting an entry with the Peterborough squads standing out for a five-team senior group. However it was decided to allow the Gananoque team, an intermediate "A" entry to play home-and-home games with each team in the group.

Schedule Opens Oct. 30.

The remaining five teams will play a quadruple schedule with the group scheduled to open on October 30th when the Petes visit Queens and the Peterborough Eagles entertain Kingston Nylons. The Belleville team, which has yet to be named will open the season on November 1st at Peterborough against the Petes. The opening game here sees the same teams clash on November 3rd. The same night the Eagles will visit Kingston.

The schedule proper will be drawn up this week and published as soon as released. Officials for each game will be a visiting referee and local linesman.

Play For Allan Cup

The group will be designated as "Senior" and not Senior "B" and the winner will qualify for the Allan Cup playdowns.

Belleville Rockets, Kingston Vics, Peterborough Oddfellows, Oshawa, Lindsay and Queen's University will form the junior "B" group. The group will consist of two sections with Kingston, Queens and Belleville in the eastern group and Lindsay, Oshawa and Peterborough in the other.

The teams in each section will play a 28-game schedule with four games with section teams and two with other section squads.

Lengthy discussion took place before it was decided on the six team sectional group. Kingston and Queens were in favor of playing in a group, which would include Gananoque and Brockville and Belleville, with Oshawa Lindsay and Peterborough playing in a group of their own.

Would Need Permission

Permission of the Ottawa Valley League and the OHA would be necessary before such a group could be formed, executive member Buckland pointed out. He emphasized the fact that a group of a permanent nature would be more acceptable to the OHA and the teams also. The eastern set-up would probably be a temporary one or at least of a year's duration.

The motion by Ken McNaught, Belleville that the two-section six-team group as originally suggested be adopted carried.

The junior schedule will be drawn up as soon as that of the senior group is completed. Full schedule arrangements will be made at a meeting to be held here next Sunday in Memorial Arena at 2.30 p.m.

Four of the six teams will enter the group playoffs with the first meeting the third-place team and the second team, playing off with the fourth place squad. The finals will consist of the best of seven games and the semi-finals the best-of-five. Alternate choices were both finals and semi-finals being the best of five and the semi-finals the best of three and the finals the best of five. If an odd game decides a series, the gate will be split between participating teams.

Delegates Present

Representatives present in the senior group were Belleville, H. McElrath, John Dall, Frank Grandame; Queen's, John Carr-Harris, Roy Dougall; Kingston Nylons, D. L. McKnight; Peterborough "Petes" Eddie Foley, Bus Phelan, Fred Scate; Peterborough Eagles, Horace Guppy, Robert Parnell, B. Swartz; Gananoque, Dr. J. C. Gray.

Junior representatives were Belleville, Dick Beare, Bill Cook, Ken McNaught; Peterborough Oddfellows, Len Symonds; Kingston Vics, Max Jackson; Queen's University, J. S. MacDonell; Oshawa and Lindsay were represented by proxy of Frank Buckland.

Adanacs Defeat Crescents 7-5 To Even Series

Toronto, Oct. 16 (CP) —With the Mann Cup lacrosse series all tied up, New Westminster Adanacs are starting to live up to those nice things coach Bob Lee said about them after they dropped the first two games.

The western champions, clicking smoothly as a unit all the way, yesterday squared the best-of-seven Canadian final at two games each by overpowering Owen Sound Crescents 7-5.

Thus the British Columbians lived up to Lee's predictions early in the series that his charges were bound to cut loose some time and that they were capable of playing a better game.

The Adanacs started to click last Friday when they won their first game—the third of the series—13-9.

In yesterday's match, played before a Maple Leafs Gardens crowd of 4,775, the Adanacs continued their dashing play by racing into a 3-1 first quarter lead, and the champions of the Ontario Lacrosse Association never could catch up.

Owen Sound, winners of the first two games on cagy defensive play, were met by a new Gordon Pogue in the Adanac nets. The big goalie's work was only so-so in the early games, but yesterday he turned in his best display of the series.

Proctor Outstanding

Also outstanding in the western win was Jake Proctor, a rearguard who scored three goals.

Russ Slater, 150-pound forward scored four goals for Owen Sound.

The fans howled about the refereeing as the eastern champions got four penalties to one for New Westminster in the rugged game. But coach Doug Gillespie of Owen Sound said after the game that he was not going to complain or ask for new officials for the fifth game Wednesday.

In the New Westminster dressing room, Lee said his Adanacs got no breaks from referees Joe Murphy of Toronto and Max Peart of Port Colborne.

"They (Owen Sound) had an extra man on the floor for two minutes," Lee declared. "When one of their men returned from serving a penalty, they had two extra men on. I kept shouting at the referee but he didn't pay any attention to me."

LAWS RELAXED FOR VET

Toronto, Oct. 16 (CP) — An inquiry from a paraplegic veteran in Port Arthur has led to a relaxation of hunting regulations by the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests.

The Port Arthur man, whose name was not disclosed, wrote the department that Ontario game laws which forbid the carrying of loaded firearms in autos and shooting from highways was preventing him from hunting—his favorite sport.

"I'm quite sure that a man injured in fighting for his country should not be prevented from enjoying this sport," Lands Minister Scott said.

Batawa Defeats Oakville 6-1 To Even Series

Behind the six-hit hurling of young Art. Wright the Batawa Shoemen evened their Intermediate "A" baseball semi-finals series with Oakville on Saturday winning by a 6-1 score.

The third and deciding game of the series was played this afternoon in Oshawa, the winners moving in against Strathroy for the championship.

The Batawa bats, paced by Red Carson's stinging triple in the first innings got the M. Pollock Oaks hurler in the first innings for three hits and as many runs, and were never headed. They scored two more in the fourth and the last tally in the sixth.

Wright was master of the situation throughout scattering the half dozen blows, striking out eight and walking five. Pollock yielded eight clouts, Carson's three-baser being the only extra base hit of the game. The Oakville hurler whiffed three and walked two.

Bill Rankin paced the Batawa offensive with a pair of singles with Carson, Spencer, Bush, Bridgman, Watson and Wright accounting for the remainder. Galbraith was good for two of the Oaks six clouts with Patterson, Languay, Gillian and Milne getting singles.

Oakville scored its lone run in the fourth when successive hits by Patterson and Gillian plus a Batawa error accounted for the tally.

Trenton Gridders Defeat St. Mikes By 11-6 Score

Trenton defeated St. Michael's Friday in their first game together in the 1950 COSSA senior B rugby 11-6. Both teams showed good spirit and drove hard the full sixty minutes of play.

In the first quarter Trenton scored two touchdowns. The first was an end run scored by Smith; the second, a completed forward pass.

Lally Injured

In the second quarter Trenton succeeded in scoring a safety touchdown. Lally of St. Michael's was injured and compelled to leave the field. From the beginning of the game up until halfway through this quarter, Trenton seemed to be able to run through the St. Michael's line, whenever and wherever they wished but for the last eight minutes of play in this quarter, St. Michael's line held like a brick wall and continued in remaining that way until the end of the game.

In the third quarter Donovan of St. Michael's caught a long forward pass from Garvin and scored a touchdown. This was quickly followed by Fox nailing one of the Trenton players behind his opponent's goal line for a safety touchdown.

In the last quarter St. Michael's frantically took to the air, trying desperately to score the winning touchdown, but Trenton succeeded in holding the visiting team off.

St. Michael's: Green, Garvin, Lally, Donovan, Garvin, Fox, Hughes, Johnson, Lynch, O'Sullivan, Greenfield, Foley, Kvarda, Cushing, Meagher, Burke, Vallance and Finnegan.

Trenton: D. Beale, K. Beale, Beattie, Cauquey, Scott, Hill, Lefeare, Valiquet, Smith, Woodward, Mueller, Crawford, Parks, Cellar, Campbell, Kirk and Lonergen.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

A GOOD START!

The familiar roar of the hockey crowds will soon be heard in arenas of the district. Here it is expected the first Ontario Hockey Association games will get under way around the first of November, following the confab of OHA teams representatives here yesterday. Two six-team groups, senior and junior "B" will dish up the hockey fare to the faithful of the district this winter in two attractive schedules, in fact the best to be drawn up in some time.

* * *

Peterborough Eagles, the Petes, Kingston Nylons, Queen's, Belleville and Gananoque will comprise the senior group, the winners of which will be eligible for Allan Cup playdowns. There was plenty of discussion before the troops finally got down to business with the senior reps in one place and the junior brains in another. The junior mentors had a long and argumentative confab before the original idea of sectional three-team-groups with interlocking games was adopted. It was the same old bugbear, heavy travelling expenses that stood in the way of early meeting harmony with the Kingston and Queens reps favoring an eastern group with Smiths Falls, Gananoque and Brockville. However it was finally decided to adhere to the original idea and everything was hunkey dory. The junior schedule will be drawn up this week.

* * *

The senior, not "senior B" setup is also a good one with Gananoque which will play Intermediate "A" playdown hockey, being admitted after somewhat strenuous opposition from the Peterborough representatives. However a compromise was reached when the motion that the Gan team play home and home games with each team in the group carried. Other teams will play a quadruple schedule. So it looks like plenty of good hockey here come winter with colorful teams in action in both groups.

* * *

Belleville senior hockey club was represented at the meeting yesterday by H. McKirath, John Dall and Frank Grandame who, it is understood will get the team underway. The senior entry which will carry the Belleville colors will be sponsored independent of any commercial enterprise, it is stated, and a general open meeting has been called for Wednesday night at the Arena starting at 8. All interested in the senior club are cordially invited to attend, and it is hoped that a large representation will be out.

* * *

Opposition in the senior as well as the junior series will be plenty tough this year, as it is understood all the squads will present a stronger front than a year ago. There is nothing definite as yet as to the formation of the Belleville team, but all efforts will be made to ice the strongest team possible. Wednesday night's meeting will iron out a lot of organization wrinkles.

* * *

ALL TIED UP AGAIN

Young Art. Wright came through with another neat hurling effort for the Batawa Shoemen here on Saturday afternoon. He held the Oakville Oaks to six hits, all singles and won by a 6-1 score. The Shoemen banged out a trio of clouts for as many runs in the first innings and were never headed. Pollock of Oakville also fashioned a good mound effort, holding the Batawa bludgeons to eight hits, one a smashing triple by "Red" Carson, that scored two runs in the first. The victory evened the two-of-three Intermediate "A" semi-finals series Oakville having won the first tilt by an 8-1 score.

A GRAND FINALE

Knives and forks, not to mention a few tongues will rattle tonight at Tobe's County Gardens when the Commercial Softball League writes a fine finale to a successful season. The loop officials with the team managements and players will grace the banquet board in the league's last 1950 gesture. Festivities get under way at 7:30. Bill Durnan, late of Canadiens, and now Ottawa Senators coach will be the guest speaker and with others will present the various trophies and individual prizes. It looks like an enjoyable evening and anyone connected with the league should not miss the party.

Wildest Rhubarb in Boston Gardens Hockey History Seen As Canadiens Take 1st Place

(By The Canadian Press)

Tempers are flaring early in the young National Hockey League season, judging from the action last night in Boston—whose teams down through the years have been noted for their ruggedness.

A crowd of 10,894 fans saw the wildest rhubarb in Boston Gardens hockey history as Montreal Canadiens edged the Bruins 2-1 and vaulted into undisputed possession of first place.

Action also was rugged in Detroit, where the champion Red Wings blew a 4-1 lead over Toronto Maple Leafs, who staged a third-period blitz which netted them three goals within four minutes to end in a 4-4 tie.

In other weekend games, New York Rangers spoiled Chicago Black Hawks' home opener by recording their first triumph, 3-2, Sunday; Canadiens and Boston tied 1-1 in Montreal and the Hawks won 2-1 from the Leafs in Toronto Saturday.

Maurice (The Rocket) Richard scored both Montreal goals in Boston. It was just after he'd rapped in the clincher that Habitants' Cal MacKay started the Donnybrook by boarding little Kenny Smith of Boston.

Johnny Peirson, who scored the line Bruin counter in the third period, went to Smith's rescue, and soon three pairs of rival players were clawing and punching at one another.

Penalties were imposed wholesale once officials restored order. Six players—three from each team—drew majors, Boston defenceman Eddie Reigel, a 10-minute misconduct, and captain Butch Bouchard of Canadiens a match misconduct plus an automatic $50 fine.

Defence Crumbles

At Detroit, the Wings appeared headed for their second straight victory when 11,726 stunned spectators saw their defence crumble before the Leafs' withering late drive.

Rookie goalie Terry Sawchuk had a nightmarish four minutes in the Detroit net when Joe Klukay started the Leafs' big rally by potting their second goal 6.24 of the third period.

Fleming Mackell added another nine second later and Max Bentley tied the score at 9:31. Gordie Howe, Leo Reise, Sid Abel and Marty Pavelich scored for Detroit.

A short fist fight by the Wings' Ted Lindsay and Toronto's Bill Barilko highlighted the action.

Broda Cut

Goalie Turk Broda of the Leafs suffered a cut over his right eye early in the game and three stitches were needed to close it.

A disputed goal by Don Raleigh late in the third period at Chicago gave the Rangers their first victory of the season, spoiling the Hawks' homecoming after they had picked up a win and a tie on the road.

Rangy Vic Stasiuk shot the Hawks into the lead early in the first period, rapping in his second major-league score on assists from Pat Lundy and Hugh Coflin. Jack McLeod got the equalizer for rangers in the second, and Pete Babando regained the advantage for Hawks in the third. Ed Slowinski tied it again, setting the stage for Raleigh's effort.

Goal Allowed

The goal was allowed over protest by the Hawks, who insisted that Raleigh's shot hit a corner post and veered off. A crowd of 13,776 saw the game.

The Hawks, who seldom have dropped an opener to the Leafs on Toronto ice, won Saturday night on veteran right-winger Adam Brown's two goals.

They came from behind after spotting the Leafs a first-period goal by Tod Sloan before 13,686 fans.

In Montreal, meanwhile the Bruins and Habitant put on a rugged, close-checking game before 14,253 which probably left tempers frayed for their return meeting Sunday.

Kenny Smith got Bruins lone marker in the first period, and goalie Jack Gelineau kept the Montrealers at bay until rookie Vern Kaiser found the range more than half way through the final period.

Johnson Fires Home Four Goals To Help Spits

(By The Canadian Press)

Ed Johnson personally saw to it Saturday that Windsor Spitfires got away winging in their first start of the new season in the Ontario Hockey Association junior A circuit.

The flashy left winger fired home four goals as the Spits sent Waterloo Hurricanes down to their second defeat.

All 10 teams saw action Saturday. Guelph downed Galt 4-2; Barrie edged Oshawa Generals 4-3; Toronto Marlboros trimmed Stratford 4-1, St. Michael's College and St. Catharines tied 1-1 and Windsor trimmed the Hurricanes 6-3.

At Waterloo, the Spitfires fashioned their victory on a three-goal rally in the third period. Al Arbour and John Offidani potted singletons. Centre Bud Evans tallied all three goals for Hurricanes.

Guelph Biltmores, defending champions, and Barrie each won their second straight to share the league lead. The Tee Pees are right behind with three points fashioned from a victory and a tie.

At Galt, the Bilts marksmen were Herb Dickenson, Andy Bathgate, Ken Laufman and Wilf Marshall, while Pete Conacher and Bill Wharram connected for the losers.

Hurst Paces Marlies

Ron Hurst paced Marlboros attack with two goals while Charley Lumesden and Dan Poland potted the others. Gordie Myles tallied for Krohlers.

In the other games at Toronto, St. Catharines and St. Mike's battled through a scoreless first period. Ted Powers scored for the visitors in the middle session and Fred Sandford equalized for the college in the third.

The Flyers, perennial nemesis to the Generals, spoiled the home opener for Oshawa. Doug Towers, Jerry Toppazzini, George Stanutz and Paul Emms dented the twine for the visitors. Alec Devecchio potted two for Oshawa and Bobby Attersley got the other.

Here are Wednesday's scheduled games: Barrie at Windsor; Galt at Waterloo; St. Mike's at Oshawa and St. Catharines at Stratford.

Peter Pan Cleaners Defeat Guelph In Third Game

Toronto, Oct. 16 — (CP) —Toronto Peter Pan Cleaners beat Guelph Regents 4-1 Sunday to take a 2-1 lead in the best-of-five series for the Ontario Junior base ball championship.

The fourth game is scheduled for Guelph Tuesday.

All Toronto runs came on Guelph's three errors.

Guelph's only run came in the third inning when a walk and two singles sent Toronto starter Joe Solsky to the showers. He was replaced by Moe Garland who gave up only three hits for the rest of the way and scored the tying run in the fourth when Guelph catcher McNamara dropped the ball when Garland raced home after a triple.

A walk and another single by Garland in the sixth brought in two more runs when shortstop Nick Decarlo bobbled Red Slack's single. Slack singled again in the eighth and came home when the ball was muffed in centre field.

Waterloo Tigers Win O.B.A. Title In Five Games

Niagara Falls, Oct. 16—CP—Waterloo Tigers are the 1950 Ontario Senior Baseball champions.

They won the title Saturday night by smashing Niagara Falls Fords 11-4 in the fifth game of the best-of-seven series. Fords had edged Tigers 1-0 in the afternoon to force the fifth game.

Southpaw Cy Bricker blanked Fords for five innings in the night game, then coasted comfortably behind the big lead. Tigers knocked Gordie Johnson from the Niagara Falls mound in the fourth with a four-run drive and Lefty Presutti went the same way in the four-run fifth inning.

Jack Simpson was hit for three more runs in the eighth.

Tigers had a lot more trouble in the afternoon game when Jiggs Rufrano held them to three singles. Joe Yosurak on the Waterloo mound had the Fords handcuffed until the ninth when a single, an error and Charlie Rienzo's fourth straight sacrifice pushed home the winning run.

Big Four Race Wide Open; Winnipeg Bombers Cinch First Place in West Loop

By The Canadian Press

The Big Four football race is wide open today.

Toronto Argonauts, who appeared a few weeks ago to have the league all sewed up, fell apart Saturday before the mighty wing line of the Montreal Alouettes.

Alouettes' 24-16 win over Argos in Montreal and Hamilton's 32-0 drubbing of Ottawa Rough Riders in Hamilton put the Tiger-Cats and Argos in a first place tie, a scant two points ahead of Ottawa and Montreal.

In the West, Winnipeg Blue Bombers are sure of first place in the Western conference after a two-year absence But they still have to win the playoffs before coming east for the Grey Cup finals.

Winnipeg gained first position by beating Saskatchewan Roughriders 22-0. Edmonton Eskimos fell back to second place after a surprise 19-12 loss to Calgary Stampeders.

Toronto Balmy Beach won its second victory over Sarnia Imperials in the Ontario Senior Union 24-11, and then lost 12-11 to Windsor Rockets in Windsor Sunday, the Rockets' first win in six games.

McGill Redmen blasted Varsity Blues 25-0 in Toronto before 25,153 fans—largest crowd to see a game in Canada. That established McGill all alone in first place of the league. Varsity went into a second-place tie with Queens which defeated Western 13-7.

Bass Lost For Season

Montreal's victory meant, for other coaches, grim memories of the Alouettes' performance last year when they got off to a feeble start and wound up with the Canadian championship.

For Argos, it meant the loss for the season of halfback Billy Bass who went off with an injured back. Coach Frank Clair said: "This injury, coming on top of the way we played, makes us definite underdogs from here in."

Frank Filchock tossed two touchdown passes to Ralph Toohy and one to Virgil Wagner during the game. Wagner went through the line for another and Nick Scollard converted all four of them.

Argos roared back in the last quarter when Al Dekdebrun twice tossed touchdown passes to Ulysses Curtis, both converted by Nick Volpe who has kicked 32 converts this year in 38 tries. Joe Krol booted two singles for Argos.

Hamilton struck for three touchdowns against Ottawa in the first six minutes on forward passes. Stan Heath threw two of them — to Vince Mazza and Edgar Jones. Then Jones passed to Heath for a touchdown. Jones converted all three of them, kicked a field goal in the next quarter, went for an unconverted touchdown in the third quarter and booted a single in the final.

Also cheering news for Hamilton was the announcement that the United States draft has deferred halfback Bill Gregus until next spring. Gregus went for an unconverted touchdown in the last quarter.

Third-Quarter Drive

Winnipeg fashioned its victory on a furious third-quarter drive which sent Tommy Ford, Tom Casey and Jack Jacobs across for touchdowns. Ford had gone across in the second on a pass from Jacobs. Joe Aguirre kicked two singles and Jacobs added a single.

Speedy Chuck Feneboch led the Stampeders to their triumph—third in thirteen games. He went for touchdowns in the first and third quarters while Harry Hood went over for another in the fourth. Vern Graham converted three of them and Keith Spaith kicked a single. Halfback Doug Pyzer and quarterback Lindy Berry scored the Edmonton Majors with Annis Stukus converting both of them.

Had Little Chance

The inexperienced Varsity team had little chance of stopping the powerful McGill squad. Ken Wagner broke loose for a 60-yard touchdown run in the first few minutes. Fred Wilmot converted it and kicked a field goal a few minutes later. Wilmot went over himself in the third quarter and converted it while Harry Irving and Bob Stanley each scored touchdowns.

At London, the Mustangs fumbled time and again while on the offensive. A blocked kick set up the first major by Jack Roberts and a fumble in the third quarter set up a touchdown by Don Griffin. Tip Logan converted it and Billy Bell kicked two singles in the first quarter.

Jerry Fitzgerald powered over for Mustang's lone major in the final quarter. Bob McFarlane converted.

Well Ahead

Beaches ran the score up to 24-0 before Sarnia could reply. Gerry Tuttle went for one major for Toronto and threw passes to Art Scullion and Tom Harpley for two more. Billy Haddleton got the other and George Watson converted all of them.

Jack Knowles got one Sarnia major on a pass from Jack Bell and Johnny Chorostocki took a pass from quarterback George Curtis for the second one.

But against Windsor, Beaches were held scoreless for three quarters by the Rockets, bolstered by nine new players from Detroit. Meanwhile Bob Bear passed to Lyle Ross for one touchdown and Bill Gignac picked up a Toronto fumble to go 55 yards for another.

Len Wright kicked a single in the final quarter to keep Windsor ahead despite the last minute drive that sent Carl Galbraith and Harpley across for touchdowns.

Louis Hoping To Get Another Shot at Title

(By The Canadian Press)

James Norris, president of the International Boxing Club, confirms that Joe Louis plans to keep on fighting with the hope of getting another shot at the heavyweight title held by Ezzard Charles.

Norris said in New York Saturday that Louis telephoned him from Norfolk, Va., where he is making a public appearance.

The I. B. C. chief said Louis told him he was disappointed with his showing in the title bout he lost to Charles recently, and wants another bout with him.

Wednesday, Norris said, Louis plans to apply in Chicago to the Illinois Athletic Commission for a renewal of his boxing licence.

He plans to resume training next week at West Baden, Ind.

Libertine from the Medway stables and Little Secret, a 50-to-1 shot, won the two divisions of the 14th running of Canada's richest horse race — the Cup and Saucer Handicap — at Long Branch race track Saturday.

The race was split into two divisions, the total pot of $26,490 being divided equally between the two races. An unprecedented entry of 23 horses forced the division.

O. B. (Pop) Keeler, Dean of American golf writers and the equal of any character he ever wrote of, died early Sunday in Atlanta, Ga. He was 68.

Keeler spent more than 41 years in harness as a reporter, most of it in sports and a good portion of that covering the career of grand-slam golfer Bobby Jones. Every time Jones appeared in a major tournament, Keeler was there.

Since last summer, Keeler's health declined rapidly. A liver ailment kept him in hospital most of the time. He died at 2:40 a. m. Sunday after being taken to the hospital again Saturday following a severe attack.

Three Canadian records were set at the Ontario junior cross country championships in Toronto Saturday.

Rich Ferguson, 18, did the 2½-mile grind in 12:22 — 43 seconds under the Canadian record. Paul Vamplew sliced 57 seconds from the Canadian juvenile record of 14:03 and Dona Aitken, 15, bettered the midget record of 14:18 by 15 seconds. All are members of the Toronto Track and Field Club.

John Bell, 24-year-old quarterback for Sarnia Imperials, suffered a broken neck in the Senior O.R.F.U. game with Toronto Balmy Beach Saturday.

In St. Joseph's Hospital at Sarnia last night, Bell was reported to be in "very serious condition," partially paralyzed.

Bell, who was injured after being tackled by Balmy Beach's Carl Galbraith, is attended by Dr E. H. Botterell, a specialist in spine surgery, flown to Sarnia from Toronto.

Boston Braves have asked waivers on outfielder Pete Reiser, a 10-year major leaguer, to pave the way for his unconditional release.

Cincinnati Rolls Into Top Spot American Loop

(By The Canadian Press)

Cincinnati Mohawks, who couldn't get out of the American Hockey League's cellar last year, have rolled into a top spot in the infant 1950-51 season. In five starts, coach King Clancy's team hasn't lost a game.

Last night the Hawks edged Pittsburgh Hornets 5-4 in overtime to run their string to three victories and two ties. A hometown crowd of 6,600 saw the Hornets threaten several times as penalties endangered the Cincy victory parade.

In other Sunday night games, Buffalo Bisons blasted Indianapolis Capitals 8-3, Cleveland Barons beat New Haven Eagles 3-1 and Hershey Bears outscored Providence Reds 6-3.

Jackie Gordon's goal at 8:25 of the extra session broke the Cincinnati-Pittsburgh deadlock. Gilles Dube got two goals for the winners while Rudy Mogay connected twice for the Hornets. Bob Solinger and Stan McLellan counted singletons for the losers and Jack Evans and Tod Campeau the other goals for the winners.

The veteran Ab Demarco scored twice for Buffalo. The big line of Demarco, Paul Meger and Grant Warwick accounted for five goals, with Meger getting a pair. Sid Mcnabney was the third Bison to count twice and Stan Maxwell got the eighth goal.

John Wilson, coach Ott Heller and Larry Wilson counted the Indianapolis markers.

Les Douglas, Steve Wochy and Ken Schultz gave Cleveland the edge over New Haven, which has dropped three in a row. Johnny Holota scored for the Eagles.

In Providence, Johnny Mahaffy, Frank Mario and Sylvio Bettio bunched three Hershey goals in the second period while Red Sullivan got a pair and Arnie Kullman one.

What is the Miracle of Canada?

The miracle of Canada is the reward of its thrifty people; it is a standard of living wrought by men and women who believe in spending and saving wisely. The average Canadian, for example, owns his own car and his own home. He pays his bills when due. His pattern of living is excellent.

When the pattern breaks

But unexpected emergencies do break the pattern. Usually the emergency requires more money than he has available. This can happen to anyone. Then help must come from a dependable outside service.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

The playing of a single suit in bridge should be considered in two methods. One is the rule play. The other is the safety play. If this does not make sense, hear me before you turn your back.

A rule play is based on the most expected distribution of the opponent cards. That which happens most often: An even number splits unequally; an odd number divides as equally as possible.

A safety play is guided by the most unexpected pranks of the unseen cards held by opponents. The worst that could happen: All or most unseen cards concentrated in the hands of one opponent.

Review this deal:

♣K 9 5	♣J 10 8 2

SOUTH
♠7 5
♥K 4 2
♦A 7 4 2
♣A Q 7 3

South is declarer at a contract of three no-trump and the lead from west is spade king. The nine needed tricks are easy with spade ace, two top hearts, five diamonds, club ace.

The main concern is to keep from losing a diamond trick. Because the spade ace is being knocked out. Loss of a diamond will also give the opponents three spade tricks and later a trick in clubs.

Rule says: Holding two tops in one hand and one top in the other, lead first one of the two touching tops. Safety play says: With nine cards in both hands, first lead the lone top. Absorb the reason.

If either foe holds one or two diamonds, whichever top you lead first will lose no tricks. And if east holds all four unseen diamonds no play will prevent the loss of a diamond trick.

Therefore, the safety play is to prepare against a holding of all four outside diamonds in west. Because if west holds all four of them, leading first the south top will help capture them.

When the south top is led east will show out. This spots all the remaining diamonds in west. Finesses through the west hand will pick off all that west holds. Take your percentage.

Movie Column

BY BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Oct. 16—AP—Elizabeth Taylor says she is determined to make her marriage stick despite the Hollywood gossips.

The local gabbers have declared open season on luscious Liz' marriage to hotel heir Nick Hilton. She wrinkled her lovely brow when I told her the latest rumor: that the union wouldn't last another six months.

"That's very nice of them to give us that long," she replied.

Then she teed off on the gossipers: "Don't they realize what reports like that do to the people involved? Or don't they care?

"When two people read they are separating—even though they are happy—it places a strain on the marriage. Pretty soon the story might come true, only because of the doubts that were raised by the false rumors."

Liz added that she and Nick are trying to avoid that by disregarding the gossipers.

Capsule Reviews

"Jackpot" pokes delightful fun at the radio giveaway shows with generally hilarious results. James Stewart plays a small-towner who wins $24,000 in prizes—and a king-sized headache. His troubles provide a lot of laughs and he is aided by Barbara Hale, Alan Mowbray, Fred Clark and a swift script.

"The Miniver Story" strives vainly to recapture the drama of the wartime hit, "Mrs. Miniver." It just can't be done and as a result makes you wonder why they try. There are some good scenes and a few touching moments, but the original film set too high a standard. Greer Garson and St. John's Walter Pidgeon are again the sentimental couple.

Fancy Haircuts Will Cost Buck In Toronto

Toronto, Oct. 16 — (CP) Some Toronto barbers, like those in Sudbury, have decided to charge extra for fancy haircuts.

Most barbers here charge $1 for crew cuts, Robert Mountjoy, treasurer of the Ontario Barbers' Association, said last night. Some fancy jobs — duck, crew or zoot haircuts — are said to run to $1.50.

Barbers say the duck cut is probably the acid test of their professional ability. Worn by youthful gang members, it leaves the hair just long enough above the ears to achieve a streamlined effect while the hair on the dome is cropped to less than a quarter-inch in length.

The general price here for ordinary haircuts still is 75 cents.

The Sudbury "Barbers" Association announced during the week end that all fancy cuts are to be boosted from 75 cents to $1, effective today. Children will be required to pay the same price as adults for ordinary haircuts — 75 cents.

DRIVE-IN THEATRE

Social Drama Rooted Deep in the Facts of Life

Commencing today a gripping, vitally dramatic story, rich in acting performance, the epic of a brave and unselfish woman, faced with the bitterest dilemma that the institution of marriage ever confronted modern woman with; arresting drama; gripping reality; amusing light little comedy touches to relieve the gravity of the story.

All this is nothing

All this is less than nothing.

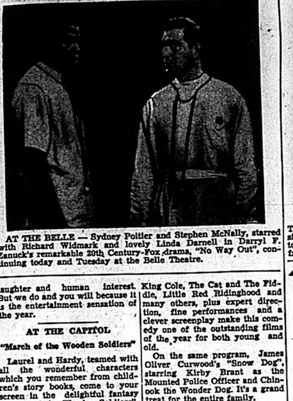
All this is less than less than nothing.

This is merely an idyll of thwarted hopes, youthful misunderstandings, unrevealed yearnings, soft sidelong glances, a quick turning away of the head in an effort to hide the tears of an easily wounded girl's feelings—a girl that was to become a bride in June—with picture hats and organdy bridesmaids.

But we have come to talk about disease.

What? Disease and June weddings and organdy bridesmaids. Certainly, disease is no respector of persons, no respector of social stations, money or levels of idealism. Disease is a respector of enlightment. Bear that in mind, enlightment. For twenty-one years now the Health League of Canada has been hammering away trying to bring this enlightment to all and everyone so that we can build a generation clean in health and sound in body Many of us are. Most of us are. But disease is nevertheless rampant and rife and even the innocent suffer, as the innocent young man with his mind full of adolescent whims and fancies in the motion picture "No Greater Sin" suffers. It is to be hoped, nay it is confidently expected that fewer innocent girls and fewer innocent men will be thoughtless and careless in real life as a result of the sufferings of this innocent girl and boy in a motion picture

The Health League of Canada is happy. They know that with the opening today of "No Greater Sin", at the Drive-In Theatre the finest type of social enlightment will be started on its way of fruitful dissemination in Belleville. They don't care a thing about its being one of the tensest dramatic productions in years elaborately woven, subtly unfolded and interspersed with laughter and human interest. But we do and you will because it is the entertainment sensation of the year.



AT THE BELLE — Sydney Poitier and Stephen McNally, starred with Richard Widmark and lovely Linda Darnell in Darryl F. Zanuck's remarkable 20th Century-Fox drama, "No Way Out", continuing today and Tuesday at the Belle Theatre.

AT THE CAPITOL

"March of the Wooden Soldiers"

Laurel and Hardy, teamed with all the wonderful characters which you remember from children's story books, come to your screen in the delightful fantasy "March of the Wooden Soldiers", released by Lippert Productions and opening Thursday at the Capitol Theatre.

Laurel and Hardy, dressed in medieval costumes, are a pair of toymakers who are determined to straighten out some of the difficulties which have beset the Widow Peep who lives in The Shoe with her pretty young daughter Bo-Peep. Their efforts to stop the evil Barnaby from forcing the young girl to marry him, get them into all kinds of trouble and only in the last minute do they manage to save themselves, Toyland and the beautiful Bo-Peep, turning this operetta into a screamingly funny comedy backed by delightful music and song.

The familiar antics of such characters as Jack and Jill, Mother Goose, Simple Simon, Old King Cole, The Cat and The Fiddle, Little Red Ridinghood and many others, plus expert direction, fine performances and a clever screenplay make this comedy one of the outstanding films of the year for both young and old.

On the same program, James Oliver Curwood's "Snow Dog", starring Kirby Brant as the Mounted Police Officer and Chinook the Wonder Dog. It's a grand treat for the entire family.

Little Benny's Note Book

[illegible] was looking at the headlines on his way to the sporting page, and ma said, Really, William, I mean really,, sometimes I feel like absilutely resigning from my own sex.

Dont do anything hasty, my dear, pop said. Remember how comparatively few sexes there are to choose from, he said, and ma said, The prices of food and clothing and everything elts are shooting up sky high, perhaps never to retern, and why?

Because you dont approve of women as a sex, pop said, and ma said, Because 9 out of every 10 women are hoarding everything they can lay their silly hands on. They've been warned repeetedly that there's no reason for it and no excuse for it, so why do they do it? she said.

Because they're hoarders, pop said, and ma said, Exactly, you've hit the nale on the head, and that's where every hoarder awt to be hit personly. Thank goodness some women have sense and r feeling of responsibility. We discussed it at the bridge game this afternoon, and all 4 of us decided to keep rite on limiting our buying to our daily needs. The trubble is, not enough women are setting a good example, that's the trubble, she said.

Say, by the way, I happened to open a cupple of the kitchin cubberds, and we seem to have enough canned goods to go underground with indefinitely, pop said. What's the idea? he said, and ma said, Now William, you didn't see a thing that wasn't in plane view and absilutely open and above bord, and no fair minded person can call that hoarding. They're just odd exter cans that I pick up for day to day emergencies, and the other bridge ladies are acting on the same frank principal, with nuthing to hide, she said.

Yee gods, I thawt for a minute you were hoarding, pop said, and ma said, Dont be silly.

Being the end of the subject.

Former Chairman Finance Com. Of G.M. Dies

Centreville, Md., Oct. 16 (AP)—John J. Raskob, who helped teach Americans how to buy automobiles on the instalment plan and onetime Democratic National chairman, died early Sunday. He was 71.

The former chairman of the finance committee of General Motors and one of the country's industrialists suffered a heart attack at his eastern shore estate near here.

Raskob, who began his career as a financial wizard as secretary to Pierre S. Du Pont in 1900, had been in retirement since 1946. He and Pierre Du Pont, close associates for half a century, moved into General Motors together and gained control in 1915.

Raskob stepped out of his industrialist role in 1928 to help Al Smith in his unsuccessful campaign for president. Raskob remained a power in the Democratic party—and to a great extent its financial angel—until 1932.

Although his country-wide fame came because of his connection with the democratic high command, Raskob was a giant in industry long before then.

He was credited with being the author of the plan whereby automobile manufacturers would finance car purchases on the instalment plan. For a time he served as vice-president of the General Motors acceptance corporation, which financed automobile sales.

Pipe Smokers' Clubs to Hold Convention

Montreal, Oct. 16 — (CP) — If this Canadian metropolis is shrouded with smog Oct. 28-29, blame it on the International Association of Pipe Smokers' Clubs.

During Hallowe'en weekend, the Association will hold its second annual convention here with more than 200 delegates from Canada, the United States and European countries.

Regular business sessions will be held — with occasional recesses to allow delegates to take a puff or two. There also will be a pipe-smoking contest for the world championship.

One of the major highlights will be addresses by women delegates from U. S. pipe - smoking clubs who will take part in all activities — including the puffing.

Leslie Greene, president of the Montreal Club and executive vice-president of the international body, said he is hoping to get a few Iroquois from the nearby Caughnawaga Indian Reservation to lead a peace-pipe-smoking session.

Opening the convention will be the trooping of the U. S. and Canadian flags to the head table in convention chambers at the Canadian Legion's Memorial Building. The flags will be placed alongside emblems of all United Nations member countries to amplify the non-sectarian, non-political policies of the Association.

Higher Taxation For Canadians Seen Next Year

Whitefield, N.H., Oct. 16 (CP)—Prospects of higher taxation for Canadians next year were indicated today by Finance Minister Abbott.

Federal expenditures in the next fiscal year will be "considerably greater" than this year, Mr. Abbott said in an address prepared for delivery before the Savings Bank Association of Connecticut.

The minister referred only briefly to the budget prospects, declaring he hopes the tax increases in his baby budget of Sept. 7 will put the government in position to "take whatever further steps might be necessary" to meet the expected higher expenditures next year.

Dealing with Canada's remaining import restrictions, he said Trade Minister Howe now is previewing them to determine the extent and timing of further relaxations in the entry of capital goods.

"I do not think it will be long before the whole structure of restrictions has been dismantled," Mr. Abbott said.

ave High Priority

Of Canadian exports, he declared goods produced for sale to the United States will continue to have a high priority in the Dominion. He hoped the U.S. would increase the volume of its Canadian purchases.

Mr. Abbott, describing government exchange measures including the recent freeing of the dollar, said Canada is maintaining exchange control as a defence againsct possible future adverse conditions.

But actual restrictions would be few and would consist largely of maintaining control over export of capital by Canadian residents, and over security transactions between residents and non-residents.

The minister also took occasion to reiterate the Canadian government's anxiety to see a start on the St. Lawrence seaway project.

The Canadian and U.S. governments have signed a treaty for construction of the seaway, but its implementation has been held up for several years by failure of the U.S. senate to ratify it.

5 Goose Hunters Missing on Flight Over Alberta

Edmonton, Oct. 16—CP—The fate of five goose hunters who disappeared Saturday on an airplane flight over Alberta's wild timber and muskeg country remained a mystery today as the R.C.A.F. sent up a squadron of 12 search planes.

The missing plane, piloted by Harry Pennington, 33, of Vancouver, left Grand Prairie, Alta., on a 250-mile non-stop flight to Edmonton which was to have taken two hours. After it failed to arrive, an immediate communications check of points along its intended route revealed no one had seen it.

A daylight search yesterday by five planes and a night sweep by another two looking for flares or camp fires gave negative results.

Also aboard the twin-engined civilian aircraft were Harry Morton, about 40, of Vancouver; and Joseph Dory, 42, James Mulcahy, 31, and Stewart Reid, 30, all of Edmonton. The hunters were well-equipped with sleeping bags, clothing and rifles. They were returning from a hunting expedition.

Two-thirds of the country along the plane's route is unsettled. Scrub timber, muskeg and rolling hills abound.

Today's search by the 12 R.C.A.F. planes—six of them arrived from Vancouver last night—was concentrated on a "high probability" area 128 miles long and 80 miles wide, starting 64 miles northwest of Edmonton.

At the time the civilian twin-engined Cessna was airborne, low clouds hung over this region and icing conditions prevailed from 1,000 to 7,000-foot altitudes.

Clear, sunny skies cover the area today, making searching conditions good.

MARGARINE SALE

law."

The court took the case under consideration in July, 1948. It was asked by the government to declare its opinion as to whether section 5 (A) of the Dairy Industry Act, 1927, was within or outside the jurisdiction of parliament.

Section Contested

This section, contested by Senator Euler and consumers organizations, stated specifically that no person "shall manufacture, import into Canada, or offer, sell or have in his possession for sale, any oleomargarine, margarine, butterine, or other substitute for butter, manufactured wholly or in part from any fat other than that of milk or cream."

Seven justices of the court heard argument and by a majority of five to two held that parliament had the power to control the import of margarine but not the manufacture, sale or distribution in Canada. That was a matter for each of the provinces to decide under jurisdiction over property and civil rights under the Canadian constitution.

Industry Develops Rapidly

The decision of the court, handed down Dec. 14, 1948, saw the almost-immediate development of a rapidly-growing margarine industry in Canada. Within a year, the industry had grown strong enough to pull down butter prices at a time when prices of other products were steadily climbing.

Concerned over the impact of the dairy industry, the 400,000-member Canadian Federation of Agriculture, supported by the federal government, appealed the court decision to the Imperial Privy Council.

In the London hearings, supporters of the ban were opposed by legal counsel for the margarine producers, Senator Euler and the Canadian Association of Consumers.

TRUMAN FLYING

The statement gave no hint of any far-reaching new decisions such as many had speculated might grow out of the 14,000-mile round-trip flight.

In fact, one top policy adviser of Truman's said the President primarily "wanted to talk to General MacArthur face to face" about Far East problems and added: "After all, he had never seen the General and thought he should."

Complex Situations Involved

But some unprecedented and complex situations are involved in the "steps necessary to bring peace and security" to Korea which Truman says he and MacArthur discussed.

For the first time, a segment of the communist empire is being removed from Russia's grasp. The procedure followed in North Korea may become a pattern should the fringes of the Russian empire start crumbling elsewhere.

The surrender and occupation problems in Korea are only some of those which Truman presumably laid in MacArthur's lap during the few hours the two men talked on Wake Island.

Apparently the president impressed upon the far eastern commander the necessity for plans to shift some of the military power built up for the Korean war to the United States and to the menacing situation in Europe.

Truman is reported anxious to build up strong American support for the spending necessary to keep defence appropriations moving after the Korean emergency ends and to rehabilitate and reconstruct Korea as an example to all the far east that the United States and its associates want only peace and stability for the world.

That thought will underline not only his San Francisco talk but the one he will make to the United Nations General Assembly in New York Oct. 24.

Whatever others may speculate about the Wake Island meeting, the president and his advisers exude satisfaction over its results.

12 Candidates Seeking Office In By-Elections

Ottawa, Oct. 16—(CP)—This is election day in one of Ontario's and two of Quebec's federal constituencies.

In the Ontario constituency of Welland and in the Quebec constituencies of Rimouski and Montreal St. Mary's the voters will elect men to fill three of the four existing vacancies in the House of Commons.

There are 12 candidates seeking office in the by-elections—four in Welland, five in Montreal St. Mary's and three in Rimouski.

The polls will be open from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. EST. Montreal is still on daylight saving time and polls there will be open from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m.

The seats all returned Liberal candidates in the general election of 1949, when the Liberal party gained an overwhelming majority of the Commons' seats.

The present standing of the Commons is:

Liberals, 184; Progressive Conservatives, 43; C.C.F., 13; Social Credit, 10; Independent, five; Independent Liberal, three; vacant four, total, 262.

The fourth vacancy is in the Prince Edward Island constituency of Prince. A date for a by-election there has not yet been fixed.

The Progressive Conservative and C.C.F. parties have candidates only in the Welland seat. The Liberals are contesting all three by-elections and are opposed by a variety of Independents in th Quebec constituencies.

Tin Miners Don't Get Pimples

Because Cornish tin miners appeared to avoid skin blemishes, British chemists suggested the use of tin in treating Boils, Acne, Pimples.

Now convenient, tasteless tablets containing 42.5% metallic tin are available under the brand name "Tinoxid." Rapid, satisfactory results are claimed for this inexpensive treatment.

Tinoxid Tablets are sold without prescription at all drug stores, 75c.

Blood on the Stars

By Brett Halliday

"The second is that in each of these instances the jewels have been stolen soon after their purchase—and none of them have ever been recovered — even though star rubies are the most difficult of gems to fence to advantage.

"Add to this," Shayne went on, "that the first two purchasers, namely: James T. King and Roland Kendrick apparently disappeared from the face of the earth immediately after collecting insurance on their stolen rubies. There is absolutely no trace of these two men."

Painter bristled and got to his feet. "How do you know there's no trace of them," he snapped. "You're just putting on a. . ."

Shayne said "sit down. I've a couple more coincidences before I'm through. The second and third purchasers, Kendrick and Dustin, are curiously similar, in that neither of them has any past life that can be traced through friends or relatives. In the space of two years, each of them wandered into Walter Voorland's exclusive jewelry store and laid large sums of money on the line for his latest in star rubies.

"Another final similarity is that the wives of both Kendrick and Dustin have been murdered."

Mark Dustin interrupted with an angry shout. "See here, Shayne. What are you trying to get at. Quit beating around the bush and tell me who murdered Celia."

Shayne's wide mouth relaxed into a smile. "I'm pointing out a lot of coincidences," he said equably. "Give me time, Mr. Dustin and we'll see if they all add up to something we can use in solving your wife's murder."

"None of them are so very remarkable," Earl Randolph broke in nervously. He was sitting on the edge of his chair, and his eyes still murky appeared to stand out on stems. "I've explained to you. . ."

"I know," said Shayne. "A lot of people have wasted a lot of time during the past eighteen hours giving me reasonable explanations for one or more of these coincidences," Shayne admitted. "They all have to be added up to get anywhere." His grey eyes were bleak as they travelled over the group.

Painter jumped up and demanded "Where? Where does it get you?"

"To the bottom of one of the most ingenious insurance frauds ever conceived in a man's mind. Murder was only a sideline in this business. Money was the first consideration and murder came afterward."

Painter was still standing. "If you know so much about Mrs. Dustin's death, let's have it. And quick."

Shayne ignored him and turned back to the others. "I think most of you know," he said, "that Celia Dustin was murdered because she telephoned my apartment and made a date to meet a man who impersonated me. I think we have all assumed that when we have discovered exactly what she meant by what she said over the phone, we would know who killed her to shut her up."

Silence was thick in the room until Painter said doubtfully. "If you can produce the man who talked to her from your apartment. . ."

Shayne moved back to a chair near the door. Before he sat down he said "I'll let Earl Randolph take over."

Randolph had been sitting in a deep chair, his body relaxed and his legs sprawled, his eyes sleepily half closed. He bent forward at Shayne's words. His face contorted with fear and anger when he said "curse you, Shayne, you promised. . ."

"That's right," said Shayne glibly. "I forgot to tell you one small detail. Randolph gave me a bribe to keep his part in this quiet. Ten thousand bucks." He took the envelope from his pocket and sailed it over to Randolph. "That squares me. Count the money and start talking."

Randolph said thickly "why did you let me. . ."

"Because I wanted you to feel perfectly safe and stick around long enough to get the insurance reward for me."

"You're responsible for that money," Randolph roared. "I intend to hold you responsible. . ."

Painter was on his feet again. "I warned you Shayne, that if you stuck your gimme fingers into this deal I'd slap you in jail. What's the meaning of this?"

Shayne ignored Chief Painter's interruption. He said to Randolph "I accept the responsibility. If your company has to pay one dime on the Dustin policy I'll refund every penny. Tell them exactly what Mrs. Dustin said when you answered the telephone in my apartment."

Randolph gulped swallowed his Adam's apple, and said in a choked voice "she said she had some information. . ."

Wretchedly he told the story he had told Shayne earlier. When he reached the point where he admitted hurrying to the Beach to keep the appointment, Dustin leaped to his feet with an oath. He had to be held back by Painter while Randolph stumbled on with his story.

"I swear she was dead when I reached there," he said in an agonized voice. "I don't know how I can prove it, but it's God's truth." Shakily he raised his right hand. "I defy anybody to prove differently." He turned his murky eyes toward Shayne and sank back in his chair.

"There you are." Shayne stood up said, "sit down, Dustin. That's only one man's story for whatever it's worth." He waited until Mark Dustin sank back into his chair and Painter had resumed his stiff position on the edge of his chair.

"If we accept Randolph's version," he continued quietly and firmly "we have to conclude that Celia Dustin somehow learned something of importance in connection with the ruby bracelet which she wished to tell me."

Shayne paused and once again his gray eyes went over the group. Timothy Rourke had his noetpaper on his knee, but his pencil was idle in his right hand which hung loosely at his side. His eyes were half-closed, and there was a look of extreme boredom on his face.

Shayne said "I think all this brings us to you, Voorland."

Timothy Rourke came alive with a start.

Voorland said "To me? I do not see what. . ."

"To you and one more coincidence. This time, the case of the great ruby expert who gave me all the inside dope on the manufacture of synthetic gems without even mentioning the earliest experiments by a German chemist, and a man named Michaud. Remember those two gentlemen now, Voorland?"

Voorland appeared unperturbed. He fished out a stick of gum, unwrapped it, and popped it into his mouth before answering. After he methodically masticated it for a time he said. "Naturally I know about those experiments. But the Verneuil process. . ."

"Is the one in general use now," Shayne said. "I know all about that. Yet I wondered. . ."

Shayne suddenly turned away from Voorland and addressed the others. "You see," he said, "we come back again to the curious fact that during the past several years Voorland has apparently succeeding in cornering the finest star rubies in the world. From the beginning, I toyed with the possibility of those gems being spurious.

"I know," he went on wearily as both Voorland and Randolph raised themselves partially from their chairs "it simply can't be done. And you, Randolph, appraised the ring purchased by King. Also you appraised the Dustin bracelet, while another insurance man appraised the Kendrick pendant. Still. . . I wondered."

Shayne hesitated for a moment. The lines of his gaunt face were drawn, his brows knitted, but his gray eyes gleamed.

"If they were artificial. . If Voorland had actually discovered some secret process of manufacturing star rubies, I could see a profit in it for him. But I couldn't see how that hooked up with their sudden theft and complete disappearance. Not until I read a few paragraphs in an old encyclopedia and found out about the earliest known process of making artificial rubies. They didn't call those gems synthetic, but reconstructed gems. That's because that is what they were Reconstructed from a number of smaller stones. The reason that original process was discarded was two fold. It was almost impossible to completely eradicate t' faint lines of fissure where the smaller stones were joined, and they were very brittle and likely to burst asunder from interior pressure at any time.

Three Seriously Sick Eskimos Brought Out

Montreal, Oct. 16 (CP)—An RCAF plane landed here Sunday night after a 3,000-mile mercy flight to Frobisher Bay, Baffin Island from Greenwood, N.S. It picked up three seriously sick Eskimos but one was dead on arrival at Montreal.

Two Eskimos, both women, were reported in "advanced stages of tuberculosis" and the other passenger was a youth acsidentally shot in a hunting accident.

Three hours after take off from Frobisher Bay, one of the two women Eskimos died, FO L. B. Pearson of Woodstock, Ont., pilot of the Canso aircraft, reported.

Sqdn.-Ldr. E. Purchase, medical officer who accompanied the 11 man crew, said the other woman and the youth were both in "serious" condition. The young man was injured when an ejected rifle cartridge struck him in the eye.

28 KILLED WHEN BRITISH AIR LINER CRASHES

Allies 12 Miles From Korean Capital

Fall of Pyongyang Will End Major Operations of War

Enemy Leaving Equipment And Weapons Along Roads

Tokyo, Oct. 17 — (AP) — American and South Korean columns slashed tonight through shattered communist remnants within 12 miles of the communist Korean capital, Pyongyang.

Just over a month after the Allied tide turned on the landing at Inchon, the war was running swiftly toward victory for the United Nations.

The U.S. 1st Cavalry and the Republic of Korea (ROK) 1st Divisions were racing each other for the red capital. An official ROK spokesman said he believed the Republican troops would reach the communist capital tomorrow.

AP correspondent Don Whitehead, with the Americans, reports the capital is certain to come within range of allied big guns in 24 hours or less.

Military circles in Tokyo say the fall of Pyongyang almost certainly will end the Korean war except for mop-up operations against guerrilla forces.

Capture Sariwon

Behind the Americans, British and Australian Commonwealth brigade troops sped 31 miles to Sariwon and captured that highway city.

Doctor, Wife Rescued From Crashed Plane

Barrie, Oct. 17—CP—A Toronto doctor and his wife were rescued Monday from the icy waters of Lake Simcoe after clinging for three hours to an overturned plane which crashed on a flight from Toronto to their summer cottage.

Dr. and Mrs. W. Easson Brown were rescued by a lakeshore resident, Joe Smith, who first thought the floating plane was a boat. He found Mrs. Brown, wearing a life jacket, sitting on the plane, her husband clinging to the aircraft with part of his body in the water.

Dr. Brown, a flyer for more than 20 years, rented the single-engined plane from Lome Airways, Toronto.

Nude Doukhobor Women Taken To Penitentiary

Medicine Hat, Alta., Oct. 17—(CP)—The puritan calm of this peaceful prairie city was shattered yesterday by the arrival of a trainload of nude Doukhobor women.

The 14 women prisoners, wearing little more than an occasional smile, spent most of Monday aboard a tourist coach in the station yard here waiting a connection which will take them to Kingston penitentiary. They are being transferred from the provincial jail at Nelson, B.C., after refusing to sign pledges to obey Canadian laws.

Scores filed by the coaches or paused to watch four women playing Russian rummy.

Two guards and their wives are in charge of the women. They said their greatest concern is trying to talk them into dressing before they reach Ontario.

"It will be most embarrassing if they attempt a nude protest parade in Toronto Union Station," a guard said.

A Negro porter moved among the women serving sandwiches and milk. He appeared unaffected by the dishabille as he carried out his duties.

THE WEATHER

Toronto, Oct. 17—(CP)—Synopsis: The weather was mild for this time of year throughout Ontario last night. In many localities temperatures rose slowly after midnight. Scattered showers and thundershowers were reported in central sections, and more continuous rain in the northeast.

Sunny weather will predominate in southern Ontario today, with afternoon temperatures around 70, well above the seasonal average. Cooler air will push southward into northern Ontario and the shower activity will peter out, except for a few scattered showers or snowflurries in the eastern part of James Bay region.

Four Fishermen Use Overcoat for Sail

Crystal Beach, Ont., Oct. 17—(CP) —With an overcoat for a sail and only one pair of oars, four fishermen reached shore last night after drifting for six hours in a small boat on storm-swept Lake Erie.

Howard Mathes, Roy Cudney, Scottie McKenzie and Roy Mathes said high winds almost swamped the boat. After rowing without much success, Cudney rigged his overcoat as a sail. They landed at Point Abino, near this town 15 miles south of Niagara Falls.

Poisoner at Work

Owen Sound, Oct. 17—(CP)—At least 20 dogs and cats have been poisoned recently in Meaford, Midland and Owen Sound, police said today.

At Midland, 50 miles east of here, 12 dogs and two cats were killed. Police Chief C. C. Ford at Meaford, 20 miles east, said three dogs and "the odd cat" have been killed and at Leith, near Owen Sound, three dogs were poisoned within 12 hours. Police said there was no evidence that the killings were the work of the same person.

Russian Claims Red Scientists Find Means to Harness Atomic Power

Moscow, Oct. 17 (AP) — A Soviet professor said today that Russia's scientists already have discovered a means of transforming atomic energy into electricity.

Atomic energy specialist V. Goldubstov claimed in the Literary Gazette that Soviet scientists "have found other technological schemes and other technical possibilities for the peaceful use of atomic energy— transforming it into heat or electricity.

(Direct conversion of atomic energy into electrical power would be one of the greatest developments in harnessing the atom for commercial use. But Goldubstov doesn't give any hint of how the Soviets would do it.

(The United States Atomic Energy commission is working on the problem of developing power from atomic reactors. But all U.S. projects on this line are based on taking the heat from atomic ovens and using it to operate turbines or other devices to get electrical power, said Corbin Allardyce, director of the A.E.C.'s information service in New York.)

Goldubstov said his observations at the World Power Conference in London in July had shown him American, Swedish, and other scientists are thinking only in terms of replacing existing steam boilers in steam electric power stations with atomic boilers.

This, said the Soviet scientist, is like installing a powerful gasoline motor in a horse carriage.

"By putting such a motor in a horse carriage, one may be able to make it move. . .but it is unlikely it would develop more speed than the horse," the article said.

LIBERALS LOSE TWO QUEBEC SEATS TO INDEPENDENTS

Liberal Candidate Wins in Welland

Ottawa, Oct. 17—CP—Independent Liberals scored upset victories yesterday in two Quebec constituencies as official Liberal candidates went down to defeat in two of three Federal by-elections.

The Liberals retained the Ontario constituency of Welland in the third by-electon, but in Montreal St. Mary and Rimouski the Independent Liberals defeated candidates backed by the Liberal party and its organization.

In Montreal St. Mary, a seat that had consistently returned Liberal members to the Commons since it was established in 1896, Hector Dupuis, a civil employee, won over four opponents. Although he ran as an Independent Liberal, he said in his campaign speeches that he is a "straight Liberal."

In Rimouski, a seat that had returned 19 Liberals and four Conservatives in elections since 1897, the winner was Joseph Herve Rousseau. Like Mr. Dupuis he opposed an official Liberal candidate but still designated himself as a Liberal.

In Welland, a seat held by the Liberals since 1935, Dr. W.H. McMillan, 57-year-old physician from Thorold, retained the seat for the party by defeating Progressive Conservative, C.C.F. and Labor-Progressive candidates.

In 17 by-elections since the general Federal election of 1949, the Liberals have retained eight seats. They lost four to Independent Liberals, three in Quebec and one in New Brunswick. They lost two to the Progressive Conservatives, one in Ontario and one in Nova Scotia. They lost another to an Independent in Quebec. The Progressive Conservatives retained two Ontario seats.

Fire Guts Pavilion

Gravenhurst, Ont., Oct. 17 — (CP) — Fire last night gutted a dance pavilion and destroyed 30 boats at the Muskoka Beach Inn here.

Damage was variously estimated at between $40,000 and $100,000. Boats valued at $75,000 had been removed from the building Sunday.

The blaze, believed started by lightning, was fanned by strong winds and swept through the building in less than an hour.

Charges Russia in Last War Refused Ample Protection For Supplies on Way to USSR

London, Oct. 17 — (Reuters) — Western Allied convoys carrying supplies for Russia during the Second World War were refused adequate protection by the Soviets, the British government charged tonight.

The allegation was made in the official story of the Murmansk-bound convoys, written from the dispatches of Admiral Sir John Tovey, then commander of the home fleet.

Lack of Co-operation by Russia

Despite the fact Russia at the time labelled the convoy link "a northern saga of heroism, bravery and endurance," the Tovey picture is one of uneasy partnership and general lack of Russian co-operation.

Throughout the operation Russia declined to give the Western allies adequate facilities to establish air bases or to organize effective cover for the aid-bearing ships, the dispatches indicate.

The report came 24 hours after publication of a dispatch from the Soviet Navy Journal Red Fleet which claimed the German warships Scharnhorst and Gneisenau had been allowed to go through the English Channel in 1942 so they could be used against Russia. A foreign office spokesman categorically denied the allegations.

An admiralty foreword to the Tovey dispatches recalls that Britain and the United States lost 90 merchant ships and 829 men from the North Cape convoys to German air or submarine attack. The convoys took in $1,198,400,400 worth of aid to the Russians.

The Royal Navy, which had the main responsibility for the convoys, lost 1,840 men, two cruisers, six destroyers and 11 other warships.

Admiral Tovey reported in 1942: "The Russians' long-range fighter escort, expected up to a distance of 200 miles from the Murmansk coast, failed to materialize."

On another occasion, he wrote, "The Russians promised to cover the passage with a big-scale offensive by 200 army bombers on the airfield of North Norway, but unfortunately were only able to deliver one small attack which took place after the enemy's main attack on the convoy had been completed."

Report as to Hospitals

The Admiral also reported he received "a disquieting report about conditions in Russian hospitals in which the seamen from the convoys and escorts were treated."

Attempts were made to rectify these matters. Two squadrons of British torpedo aircraft were flown to North Russia and the U. S. cruiser Tuscaloosa carried their ground crews and stores. The Tuscaloosa also took personnel and stores for a British medical unit. Moscow refused permission for the medical unit to land, but kept the stores, the dispatches said.

East-bound and west-bound, the convoys were slashed by land-based German torpedo bombers and by submarine attacks out of the storms and fogs of the Arctic.

In July, 1942, direct orders from the Admiralty — apparently based on wrong information — made a convoy scatter and disperse to Russian ports. It was evidently feared that the German battleship Tirpitz would attack. The attack did not come, but U-boats picked off the dispersed and unprotected merchant ships and sank 21 of the 34 in the convoy.

In spite of such disasters, only 300,000 of the 4,000,000 tons of material dispatched was lost on the way.

Truman's Speech is Expected To Force Russia into Talking Peace Terms With UN Powers

By ERNEST B. VACCARO

San Francisco, Oct. 17—(AP)—President Truman today took extraordinary precautions to provide a completely non-partisan backdrop for his major foreign-policy speech tonight.

Closely following his momentous mid-Pacific conference with Gen. MacArthur, the speech is expected to reopen a concentrated campaign to force Soviet Russia to talk peace in realistic terms.

Every effort was made by the president's aides to keep democratic candidates away from his hotel after his arrival last night aboard the presidential plane, "The Independence," from Honolulu.

Truman apparently is operating on the theory that no politics is the best politics for the administration during this critical period in world affairs.

His major pronouncement is scheduled for 8:30 p.m. (11:30 p.m. EST) in San Francisco's opera house—where the charter of the United Nations was drafted.

The president spent a good part of last night in conference with top officials on the wording of the address, which will be amplified in a talk before the U.N. general assembly in New York Oct. 24.

Conference Background

Truman's weekend conference with MacArthur on Wake Island furnishes the background for the address which will be beamed by the voice of America throughout the world and carried by the major radio networks in the United States and by the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation.

These points are expected to be emphasized:

1. The U.S. is primarily interested in bringing to the Korean people something of the living standards of the American people—by reconstruction and rehabilitation;

2. Improvements advocated for Korea, will serve as a pattern for what the U.S. would like to do for other countries in need of American aid.

3. The U.S. wants neither special administration nor military installations in Korea and would like to get its troops out as soon as it is safe to do so; and

4. There must be no let-down in congressional support of heavy spending for defence at home and for allied countries abroad so long as the threat of communism imperils any spot in the world where an invasion could explode into another world war.

Truman showed unusual care in the preparation of tonight's speech—expected to be the opening of an intensive drive to counter Russian propaganda which tries to picture the U.S. as an "aggressor."

The president calls it a great 'campaign of truth" aimed at dramatizing his country's peaceful intentions throughout the world.

WEDDED BY S. A. OFFICER

Windsor, Oct. 17 — (CP) — A Salvation Army major performed the first marriage ceremony in the Windsor police station yesterday.

Robert Griffiths, 23, and Ruby Morris, 20, from the Rondeau district in Kent county, had expected to be married by a magistrate in a civil ceremony. When neither the city nor country magistrate was available, Maj. R. M. Ramsey performed the ceremony.

R.C.N. DESTROYERS SEE WIDE VARIETY OF KOREAN ACTION

Neither Casualities Nor Damage Suffered

Ottawa, Oct. 17. (CP)—Canadian destroyers have been engaged in many-sided roles with the United Nations naval forces in Korean waters.

Their tasks have run the gamut from action-filled work such as softening-up bombardment for the Inchon landings to lending a cigaret lighter to a lighthouse keeper so his beacon would be kept going.

In between these extremes, the three warships have taken on such routine but vital work as convoy escort, blockade patrol, reconnaissance sweeps along the destruction of floating mines and enemy-held coast.

Neither casualties nor damage have been suffered by the Canadian craft in their exploits on the other side of the world, though they have often been within range of enemy guns. In one case the Athabaskan anchored within range of shore batteries to pound them with shell fire.

In the 2 1-2 months they have been attached to the U.N. forces, the destroyers—Cayuga, Sioux and Athabaskan —have not exchanged shots with any enemy war craft. However, the Athabaskan fired shots in a chase to capture a pair of North Korean junks fleeing from the Inchon Landing area.

The more workaday tasks of the 807 men in the flotilla—reconnaissance and blockade patrol —have been carried out, respectively, along the west coast of Korea and between supply bases in Japan and the South Korean port of Pusan.

Two are Injured As Car Hits Rear Of Transport

London, Ont., Oct. 17 — (CP)—Two persons were injured when a car and a transport collided on No. 2 Highway east of Delaware early today.

In hospital here are Robert Smith, 22, of London, Ont., possible internal injuries, and Mrs. Anna Mae Park of Chatham, extensive face cuts. Mrs. Park was a passenger in the Smith auto.

Police said the car ran into the rear of a transport which was stopped because of tire trouble. Driver of the transport was Harold Hemsworth of Woodstock. Total damage was estimated at $800.

DOLLAR UP FRACTION

New York, Oct. 17 (CP)—The Canadian dollar was up 1/16 of a cent at a discount of 5 1/4 per cent in terms of United States funds in noon foreign exchange dealings today. The pound sterling was up 1/8 of a cent at $2.80 1/4.

Brighter Future Looms for Sisters After They Leave Hospital

Union City, N.J., Oct. 17. — (AP)—For 55 years, Minnie and Emma Ringer lived in a two-storey frame house in a nice neighborhood.

For the last ten years they have lived in seclusion.

Today they were in hospital recovering from infected cat bites and malnutrition. They kept six pet cats in their home.

The case came to light after health authorities investigated the elderly Ringer sisters, Minnie is 66 and Emma 63. Neighbors complained about the cats. The authorities took the two women to hospital Thursday and ordered the junk-filled house cleaned out from to top bottom.

Today the first truck load of junk was carted off—newspapers and magazines dating from 1900, bags of refuse, the accumulation of 55 years,

The owner of the house, Kran Paul Shabazian, a retired embroidery manufacturer, said he let the spinster sisters stay there rent-free. He explained that their father had once done him a "great favor" which enabled him to get started in business.

Shabazian said when they recovered sufficiently he will bring them back to a spic and span house, with a complete new paint job.

One Report States Aircraft Caught Fire and Exploded

Only One Man Survives Crash in London Suburb

London, Oct. 17 — (Reuters) — A British air liner crashed today at Mill Hill, North London, with 29 people aboard. It was feared there was only one survivor.

The Press Association reported that the plane was believed to be a British European Airways liner.

The Civil Aviation Ministry said the plane was a British European Airways DC-3 which had left Northolt Airport, Middlesex, for Renfrew, Scotland, but was forced back through failure of one engine.

The plane burst into flames as it hit the ground.

Police, fire trucks and ambulances rushed to the scene, in a residential suburb in northwest London.

Engine Failure

British European Airways said an engine failed shortly after the plane took off from London for Glasgow. The plane, a Dakota, was attempting to return to London.

The air line said it carried 24 passengers, including one infant, and a crew of five.

"As far as we know all have been killed except one adult, either pasenger or crew," a spokesman said. "The aircraft was completely burned out."

The survivor, a man was taken to Edgware General Hospital.

One report said the craft caught fire in the air, hit a house top, then plowed through a wall into a garden. One wing still teetered atop a house.

The crash was in suburban Mill Hill, a middle class residential area.

Tanks Explode

One eye-witness expressed belief the fuel tanks exploded. He said:

"No one could get near the plane, it was burning so fiercely, but I understand some of the passengers must have been thrown out because some bodies were taken away.

"As it sailed over the houses one wing came off and struck a house. The plane crashed across the narrow road—Highwood Ash —and landed in the garden of another house."

A large open space adjoins the crash scene, and the pilot may have been attempting to make a forced landing there.

Airport officials said shortly after the take-off a message was received saying that one engine was out of order and that the pilot was trying to get back to base. Nothing further was heard from the aircraft.

B.E.A. officials said no passenger list would be released until next-of-kin had been informed.

Avondale School Area Parents F[illegible] Association

[illegible]ents in the Avondale school area, who organized themselves into an association two weeks ago, held their inaugural meeting last night. The purpose of the group is to adopt the aims and objects of a regular Home and School Association and eventually become organized under that body.

The executive elected two weeks ago is as follows: President, Ralph Knowlton; vice president, Jack Parsons; secretary, Mrs. H. E. Parks, and treasurer, Cecil Ling. Three committees were organized, under the following heads: building committee, Jim Musgrove; membership, Mrs. Ken Bird and Mrs. Art Daniels; and program, Mrs. Jim Musgrove.

Present name of the group is the Avondale Parents Association, and will remain that until a move is made to bring it under the H. and S. organization. Officials hope that the organization will serve to determine the feelings of parents for the guidance of the trustees.

Last night's meeting was attended by more than 35 people. A business session was followed by a citizenship quiz, a sing-song and refreshments. The organization meets every third Monday in the month at 8 p.m. in the Avondale School.

David Yeddeau To Speak on "Ballet In Canada Today"

Mr. David Yeddeau, who will address the Women's Canadian Club in St. Andrew's Church, Wednesday evening, on "Ballet in Canada Today", organizer and manager of Canada's First Ballet Festival, brings to the lecture platform, a first hand knowledge of Canadian Ballet.

As scenarist, designer and business manager, and close associate of Gweneth Lloyd in the founding and operating of the Winnipeg Ballet for ten years, he has been responsible for helping the Winnipeg Ballet bridge the gap between amateur and professional standards of production. He has organized and promoted three eastern and three western tours of ballet in Canada and is known in all the principal cities for this interest in the creative work being done today.

Mr. Yeddeau, prior to his ballet work, was director of dramatics for the University of Manitoba and adjudicator of Provincial and Regional Drama Festivals in the Prairie provinces, as well as teaching drama in the technical schools in Winnipeg.

When he speaks on "Ballet in Canada Today", Mr. Yeddeau speaks not only with authority but with a great love for his subject.

Abitibi Raises Price of Paper

Toronto, Oct. 17. (CP)—An increase of $10 a ton in the price of standard newsprint, effective Nov. 1, was announced today by the Abitibi Power and Paper Company Limited.

Abitibi now charges $96 a ton in Canadian funds, and $100 in New York in U.S. funds. The increase will make the basic Canadian price $106 and the American $110.

A company official said "increased costs" necessitated the boost. The company's price had been unchanged since 1948, and costs had risen since then.

Audience With the Pope Features European Trip of City Resident

The charm, color, and historic background of the Old World especially continental Europe and Britain, opened a vista of enjoyable surprise and wonderment to members of a Holy Year Pilgrimage recently returned from a 54-day tour of Italy, France, Belgium, Germany, Switzerland and Britain.

Miss Stella M. Ford, 4 Alexander Street, a member of the pilgrimage with twenty others including the Misses Dorothy and Patricia Quinn of Tweed, gives a colorful word picture of her experiences during the tour which included an audience with His Holiness Pope Pius XII.

The pilgrimage conducted under the auspices of the Canadian Federation of Newman Clubs travelled approximately 10,000 miles, 5,500 of which were covered by bus. It sailed from Quebec on the R.M.S. Samaria on August 15th and returned to the same port on Oct. 7.

In Rome Four Days

Following a three-day tour of Paris, the pilgrimage journeyed by bus to Rome where it remained four days. During the stay the party went to the summer home of Pope Pius called Castle Gondolfo where they were received in audience.

His Holiness was dressed in cream trousers with a white ermine cape, white cap and bright red slippers trimmed with gold. Speaking in several languages, the Holy Father conversed with each member of the pilgrimage later presenting them with a special medal as a memento of the audience. Nearby were the colorful Swiss guards who are changed every two weeks, dressed in uniforms of red, blue and yellow strips with steel helmets of an ancient period.

While in Rome Miss Ford with other members of the pilgrimage stood in packed St. Peter's Square and watched the Holy Father being taken from his residence to St. Peter's Church. The square was black with packed humanity.

In Rome noted for its richness in monuments and art treasures, they saw St. Peter's Church, the Vatican; Sistine Chapel; the Forum; the Colosseum and the Catacombs and later enjoyed a special trip to Tivoli to see St. Hadrian's Villa.

Belgium Looks Prosperous

Belgium, Miss Ford said, was by far the best country visited insofar as scars of war and recovery is concerned. Here she saw the best-dressed people, the best restaurants and hotels, in modern towns and cities working at capacity. In rural Belgium, sleek cattle grazed in rich pasture. Hedges were clipped and well kept. There was little or no rubble. Homes were well kept and modern automobiles were seen everywhere.

Paris was a trifle disappointing to her, Miss Ford said. It was not the city she visited 18 years ago. The average Parisian is poorly dressed and the service is far from good.

It takes nearly two hours to eat the conventional five-course meal in France. Coffee and tea are served separately and cost 30 cents per cup. Soft drinks sell at 14 cents the bottle. A steak dinner averages three dollars. No fruit juices are available.

Miss Ford was impressed with the rock terraces seen on Italian mountain sides on which grapes are grown. These terraces extend up the mountain side as high as you can see, and are covered with grapevines. Olive trees are planted in avenues. Strangely enough the party could not procure an olive in Italy nor cheese in Switzerland.

Currency Rates Puzzling

Monetary changes kept the pilgrimage scratching its figurative head. In France 1,000 francs was the equivalent of $3.33. The Italian lira brought 1,000 for $2. The Swiss francs were the equal of 1,000 to $2.50; German marks of 1,000 denomination were worth $2.50. The English pound was worth $3.19.

They saw the four largest cathedrals in the world during the tour. These are: St. Peter's, at Rome; St. Paul's, London; the Milan Cathedral and the Florence Cathedral.

While in London, the Rev. Father J. Carley, formerly of Belleville, visited Miss Ford and her party from this country. He spent three days with them while they were in the British metropolis.

While in Paris, Miss Ford visited the tiny cemetery in Jouey-en-Joses, eleven miles from the French capital where are the graves of the late Arthur Doran, her nephew and his companions who were killed in action and buried there.

The graves are well kept, and receive weekly attention. Wreaths of entwined roses lay on each, while simple black crosses are placed at the head of these last resting places of Canada's dead. An ivy-covered wall surrounds the cemetery.

While Miss Ford says the pilgrimage was one of the outstanding events in her life she "would not exchange Belleville's little toe for anything she saw in the Old World."

Cheese Hints From Culinary Experts

For centuries, cheese has been one of the standbys of cooks. In fact, cheese has played more than one vital role in the making and breaking of empires. An example is Welsh Rabbit, born of a total absence of game when the menu of an ancient baron in Wales called for rabbit at a banquet of political importance. His chef, extremely clever, melted cheese and served it on toast, christening it Welsh Rabbit.

Canadian Cheddar cheese can be put to advantageous use on today's menu. For instance, with an almost universal taste for cheese with apple pie, the culinary experts of Canada's Kitchen (the ladies of the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture) suggest adding cheese to the pastry or laying thin slices over the top after the pie is baked, letting it melt as the pie re-heats just before serving.

The Consumer Section specialists continue with these cheese suggestions: grated cheese in cream of potato, onion and corn soups; cheese bread; cheese muffins; cheese mixed with breadcrumbs to top a vegetable casserole or a fruit crisp; grated cheese with grated raw apple for a sandwich filling; a sprinkle of grated cheese on scrambled eggs;

Cheese with cooked white navy beans made into a loaf as a meat alternate; spread grated Cheddar mixed with a little salad dressing, on half-inch-thick slices of red-skinned apple, and serve as an appetizer; stuff big, plump prunes and use as an appetizer; open-faced sandwich— on toast place a thick slice of tomato, pour on hot cheese sauce; use cheese in tomato jelly for a luncheon salad; potato cheese puff— add cheese to fluffy mashed potatoes and brown in the oven.

Add grated Cheddar to salad dressing for tomato or plain lettuce salad; add grated cheese to beef stew; sprinkle top of baked apple with shredded Cheddar, return to oven until cheese melts;

These are only a few suggestions. For more details and actual recipes for cheese dishes, an application to the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, will bring copies of booklets and folders covering the subject thoroughly.

Portion of Road Will be Closed For One Month

That portion of No. 2 Highway extending from the Ontario School for the Deaf road west of the city to Highland Avenue will be closed for the next month, City Engineer Charles Mott said today.

Starting from today, east-bound through traffic will be diverted up the O.S.D. crossroad to Marshall Road, and along Marshall Road and West Bridge Street to Highland Avenue.

West-bound traffic will be diverted from the top of the West Bridge Street hill to the Marshall Road to the O.S.D. crossroad to the highway.

The detour is to be used by through traffic but milk, bread and delivery vehicles can get through as far as Parker Street.

Widening and resurfacing of the West Dundas Street pavement is the reason for the diversion of traffic.

1,400 Fowl Lost As Barn Burned

Bridgenorth, Ont., Oct. 17, (CP) —Two calves, several pigs and 1,400 fowl were lost last night in a fire which destroyed a barn on the Fife's Bay farm of L. Meenhardt.

Meenhardt, whose farm is about a half mile from a narrow bay off Southern Lake Chemong, said he spotted a red flash in his hay mow and telephoned the Bridgenorth fire station.

Twenty-two firefighters from Bridgenorth and Smith brigades responded but the barn was almost burned to the ground when they got there.

Meenhardt said he had no idea how the fire started.

Mr. and Mrs. Meenhardt and their 14-year-old son were able to save three sows and 37 pigs.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Oct. 17 — (CP) — Steady buying over a broad front boosted industrials with fractional gains into new high ground as the session progressed on the Toronto Stock Exchange today.

Papers, utilities, banks, foods, and refining oils directed the advance in an otherwise mixed board. Steels, manufacturing companies and liquors were mixed. Agricultures and constructions declined.

The rest of the market went lower with base metals leading. In a sharp reverse from yesterday's big gains base metal leaders like East Sullivan, Falconbridge, Labrador, Sherritt Gordon, Steep Rock and Waite Amulet showed losses up to 35 cents. Consolidated Smelters and Quemont bucked the trend gaining fractions along with MacDonald which traded heavily for a gain of 13 cents at 93 cents.

Western oils also declined with losses up to 20 cents. National Petroleum helped to drag the list down, trading actively for a 19 cent loss. Trading throughout the entire group was very brisk.

Golds weakened quietly. Senior producers were mixed while junior producers showed a majority of small losses.

Community Makes Presentations To Departing Neighbors

4th Sidney — Sunday School held a social evening on Friday night in the Community Hall. Progressive Crokinole was enjoyed and a short program was presented by the school.

The chairman Rev. C. W. Neelands asked Mrs. Edna Wright and family to take chairs at the front and Mrs. O. Chisholm read an address and on behalf of the community, Mrs. J. Detlor and Mrs. F. Tucker presented a nice table lamp to Edna, boudoir lamps to the girls and books to the boys. Mrs. Wright graciously replied and invited all to come and visit them in their new home in Stirling.

A silver collection and refreshments served by the ladies brought an enjoyable evening to a close.

REALISM IN BATTLE PRACTICE

This might well be an authentic battlefield scene, but the photograph actually was made at the Warminster training grounds in England, where British army recruits get their basic training under realistic conditions. This trainee is moving forward under the protection of a tank gun towards an "enemy-held" pill box shrouded in a pall of smoke after a treatment by a flame-thrower. The compulsory training period for Britain's national service inductees was recently increased from 18 months to two years. — Central Press Canadian.

FALL OF

AP correspondent Hal Boyle reported the Americans might reach Pyongyang by Wednesday.

Rok officers had trouble restraining the weary but eager south Korean troops from running along the road to Pyongyang. Many of them had not stopped to rest for two days.

The south Koreans Tuesday drove from Suan to Sangwon, only 20 miles southeast of Pyongyang.

They smashed through the town another two miles, after linking up with another south Korean column.

In airline distance the gain was 28 miles. But it was much farther actually along the winding mountain road.

Advance 29 miles

The U.S. 1st Cavalry Division smashed nearly 30 miles from its kickoff point at Sohung. It bypassed Sariwon, 35 miles south of Pyongyang, and drove over a secondary rood into Hwangji, only 23 miles south of the red capital on the main highway.

The 1st Cavalry rammed up a secondary road leaving Sariwon, a key city 35 air miles south of Pyongyang, for British and Australian troops to mop-up.

The Commonwealth troops fought their way into the city after a 31-mile dash.

The South Korean 1st Division, in another driving gain, entered Sangwon, 20 air miles southeast of Pyongyang. It, too, was rolling out of the hills into open country.

Correspondent Whitehead said red troops were throwing down their arms and fleeing into the hills or surrendering.

Forsake Equipment

A cavalry spokesman said the enemy was leaving heavy weapons, anti-tank guns and other equipment beside the road.

The South Korean 1st Division raced into Sangwon along a winding mountain road. Republican troops were so eager to enter the red capital first that their officers had trouble restraining them from running along the road to the red capital.

"No doubt we will be there in a week," Lt.-Gen. Walton H. Walker, U.S. Eighth Army Commander, told war correspondents.

The commander of the Korean 1st Division was more optimistic. If all goes well, said Gen. Piak Sun Yup, the South Koreans will be there in three days.

"We don't intend to stop now," Paik said. "The men are tired but they don't care as long as they move fast.

"When they get to Pyongyang they can sleep for a week . . ."

AP correspondent Jack MacBeth, with the Korean 1st Division, reported that the South Koreans drove 20 miles in 24 hours without resting. So eager were the troops that they ran along the road and only walked uphill or when ordered to do so.

HIGHWAY TOLL

Any reduction in the toll on the motor highways is to be welcomed. Ontario has had in the first three quarters of this year 51 less deaths than in the same period last year, according to Highways Minister Doucett.

But the toll was still very heavy in that first three quarter of this year, no less than 543 persons falling victims of traffic on the roads and highways to the end of September as compared with 594 this year to the end of the same month last year.

There will always be room for improvement while there is a fatality. Authorities are doing their utmost to make the highways safe for travel and will continue their effort until there are many fewer deaths.

Totals of 594 traffic deaths or even 543 are very high. With the constant stress upon the need for care made by the Highways Department and reiteration of the causes which may lead to accidents of a non-fatal and fatal character, the death list is ever with us — one of the things which cry for improvement. Mechanically motor vehicles and highways as constructed today are the last word and yet there is a terrible slaughter year after year which indicates the need for constant warning. The personal element counts large.

DISCOVERY OF COINS

More than a century before the mighty Julius Caesar became dictator of ancient Rome, coins were circulating in the commerce of the state of Rome. Somehow and for some reason 99 of them were placed or hidden in an earthenware pot found in what are now the environs of modern Rome.

That 2,100 years has covered a great portion of the time of civilization of the world. Mighty events have taken place. Rome still had to grow to her full stature as the capital of the ancient world, and then through the course of ages her power was to decline.

What happened these pennies or other coins of early Rome in the intervening years no one knows. The possessor of them cannot be guessed and no one will ever know. For twenty-one centuries the world has gone on its mission expanding. The empire of the Caesars was yet to rise. Then centuries later Rome was to fall and the world to settle in the so-called Dark Ages. In due time there was to come the Renaissance era, then the revival of the world which followed the discovery by Columbus and other explorers. Ages of discovery followed for time moved slowly in that period of history, full of the record which tell of the change from the ancient world to the renascent world of the thirteenth to the sixteenth centuries.

Now somehow the ruins of antiquity have yielded this treasure, ninety-nine coins. In all the turmoil, the marching and counter-marching of armies and conquerors, the pot of Roman coins was undisturbed in spite of the changes of time. Then at last outside the city which was once the world's capital, it fell to a group of Italian lads at play to find these coins, wealth of a long past era. Not a conqueror, but a little Italian lad and his companions made the find, proving once again how often as it were by chance ancient things are found and brought to light.

These coins can tell little of the vicissitudes through which they have passed. But on their face they bear the impress of the leaders of a day long since gone, when the world was much younger. Rome had yet to reach the zenith of her power. These coins were lost or hidden before the name of Caesar was known.

Could they but tell, they might reveal facts of history hidden forever from man through the course of events.

CABINS IN WOODS

The news columns of this newspaper on Thursday told of the finding of a lost hunter near Lake Deschesne, and related the story of how he found an abandoned cabin where he stayed for two nights.

The report places emphasis on recent editorial comment in which we spoke of the code of the North, urging those travelling in the bush to have respect for cabins in the bush.

We mentioned that the code of the North insists that food stocks found in a cabin be replenished, and that a dry pile of wood be left for the next person who may require the shelter.

The cabin at Lake Deschesne where the lost hunter stayed for two nights had been abandoned, but it nevertheless provided shelter against exposure. Although food was lacking, the lost hunter did not suffer unduly from the elements.

Thoughtless hoodlums who travel in the bush should learn a lesson from the thankfulness expressed by hunters and others who have found shelter in isolated cabins in time of need. The wanton destruction of property may some day boomerang to the disadvantage of the despoilers. — Sudbury Star.

There is no man suddenly either excellently good or extremely wicked, but grows so, either as he holds himself up in virtue or lets himself slide in viciousness.—Sir Philip Sidney.

Morris Callaghan, George Kiser and Frank Kelleher can probably lay claim to the record catch of "lunge" in a four day period. Hearing the many stories that were emanating from Muscote Bay regarding the many lunge being taken and their large size, these three anglers decided to take a hand in the proceedings. Equipped with plenty of tackle they trolled Muscote Bay and at the end of four days had nine lunge in the creel, from 11 lbs. to 28 lbs.

The Wardens of Christ Church, Hillier, St. Mark's Church, Gerow Gore and St. Andrew's Church, Wellington, have purchased the fine residence of Mr. K. B. DeMille, in Wellington, which will be used as a rectory for the incumbent of the three parishes.

40 YEARS AGO

Oct. 17, 1910

That Belleville will be blessed with an up-to-date street railway in the near future seems altogether likely. Some time ago a syndicate of local men obtained a charter from the government to operate a street railway system in Belleville. It is reported now in well-informed circles that the Electric Power Company, Limited, has taken over the charter or are about to do so, with the object of building and operating an up-to-date line. It is further stated that on Jan. 1 or thereabouts, the Electric Power Company will seek from the city, through the introduction of a bylaw, the necessary concessions to enable them to build and operate here. It is also understood that it is proposed to run a line from the station to the wharf at the foot of Front Street. It is believed that the company also intends to run a line over the east hill to Point Anne and that when the city line is completed, to extend the line to Trenton and later to Tweed.

50 YEARS AGO

Privates Charlie Gibson and Edgar Geen, late of D Company, first Canadian Contingent to South Africa, arrived home today noon and received the same reception tendered to their comrade Jack McNair, three weeks ago. They were received at the station by the Bugle Band and comrades in uniform; the school children lined the streets and cheered, the bells rang and the whistles blew. The veterans were there with their medals on. A procession was formed at the station, composed of the officers of the 15th Battalion, A. L.I., the returned soldiers and city officials in carriages and headed by the bugle band the procession came down Front Street and great scenes of rejoicing. Enthusiastic boys drew the carriage containing Privates Geen and Gibson.

Europe Not Asia Presents Greatest Danger to Peace

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

While we still await details of the Truman-MacArthur conference, it seems clear that an important—perhaps the most important— issue revolved about the relative strategic values of Asia and Europe to the defence of democracy.

That is to say, if both theatres couldn't be fully defended at the same time—and they couldn't—which must be taken care of first?

There are two schools of thought in this matter. High quarters in Washington, although recognizing the threat in Asia, maintain that Europe presents the greater immediate danger. MacArthur, while not disputing the European menace, has emphasized the gravity of the far eastern threats.

Churchill's Views

Britain's wartime prime minister, Winston Churchill, summed up a widely-held western viewpoint a couple of days ago in addressing his Conservative party. He bluntly warned the west not to get too deeply involved in Asia's difficulties because the danger from communism in Europe is much greater.

Apropos of this Korean angle, President Truman has stated that he and MacArthur "discussed the steps necessary to bring peace and security to the area (Korea) as rapidly as possible in accordance with the intent of the resolution of the United Nations General Assembly and in order to get our armed forces out of Korea as soon as their United Nations mission is complete."

Shift in Strength

Apparently it was agreed that most of the American strength in the far east shall be shifted to western Europe as soon as the Korean job is done. John M. Hightower, AP diplomatic expert in Washington, says it isn't questioned in the capital that the withdrawal from Korea will result in a European build-up.

Well, now, just what is the significance of all this? Just why should it be thought better to concentrate defences in Europe rather than in Asia? Doesn't the far east present a grave danger to the democracies?

You can bet your last dollar that Asia presents a terrific menace. However, the far east is, relatively speaking, a long-range threat as compared with western European possibilities.

His entry also won the class-B first prize. The winning picture snapped by remote control shows Wasilauskas blowing smoke rings for his infant daughter.

OUR TOWN

By JACK SCOTT

KIDDIES' WAR

Sort of surprises me that no one, so far as I know, has made a motion of mild protest about the current shennanigans in the Joe Palooka comic strip.

In this country we have a rather vocal group on the subject of comic strips and their emphasis on crime and, if you'll pardon the expression, sex. Seems to me the Palooka sequence now unfolding, deserves some of their attention.

The strip offers nothing objectionable in terms of crime or sex, and never did, but as an elementary primer in hate there's never been anything quite like it in the juvenile world.

I expect there's a natural reluctance to look askance at this since it involves Russia. Temptations these days is to pedal swiftly away from any stand that might establish you as pro-Communist or, in the more classic phrase, as a fellow traveller.

Still, lonely as it may be, I propose to take the stand that Ham Fisher's ordinarily enjoyable "comic" is, at the moment, yellow journalism at its worst, a dangerous poison for immature minds, and that the publishers and editors of those Canadian newspapers in which it appears are doing a disservice to their readers.

I take the stand as a parent who knows the kind of impact the comic strips have on the thinking of kids and who wants that power for good or evil handled with some intelligence and caution.

• • •

As this is written, the action in Joe Palooka concerns a large, lovable, red-blooded American boy named Humphrey Pennyworth. Humphrey set out to swim the English Channel, strayed in a fog and was given up as lost. Subsequently plans were made to erect a statue of Humphrey and we were taken up to the point where President Truman had embarked on his dedication speech, flanked by our old friend Palooka.

At this point we learn, gratefully, that Humphrey is not at the bottom of the Channel, at all, but swam blindly to some coastal point of Russia. Pravda announces his capture as a spy. Soon there is a Soviet propaganda broadcast that Pennyworth has confessed. The scene then switches to Russia where efforts are being made to justify this by having Humphrey sign on the dotted line, a chore which falls to a gent named Popovich. All Popovich has to do is get Humphrey's signature since, as his "Commissar" puts it, "you write in the confession later."

Through this sequence Popovich uses the phrases " a vicious, filthy free, scummy, capitalist reactionary" and "a dirty capitalistic, free-speeching dog." The Commissar, on learning that Popovich has got the signature, asks, "How did you get it? Torture? You will be decorated!"

Humphrey is fed on cabbage soup and black bread, which causes one of the guards to exclaim, "Phooey! Why does the State waste quantities of our food on this ogre?"

Again we see the Russians feeling a disloyalty to their country when Pennyworth describes "lunch in America" consisting of a large cantaloupe, chicken soup, roast beef, half a turkey filled with chestnut dressing, sweet potatoes, candied, lettuce, cucumber and tomato salad, and so on.

• • •

This is surely harsh medicine for young and impressionable minds by any kind of standards.

Let me put it on a more personal basis. My 10-year-old daughter is an avid reader of the comics and as much a slave to their mores as any kid. When she's ready to develop an interest in the shabby state of the globe I want her to have a realistic view based on the evidence of events and history and not some manufactured hatred stemming from a comic creation.

Couple of months ago I reported on the students in the town of Loyalty, Alberta, who are getting a grasp of world affairs through a make-believe United Nations' Security Council. Talked to the kids in Regina and found them to have a marvellous grounding in world affairs.

These youngsters, one of them my daughter's age, were proof that children and 'teen-agers may be educated intelligently in world affairs.

I think it's valid to compare that kind of education with the Ham Fisher brand and, since we parents have some control over the comics, to ask ourselves whether we approve.

Do we think it's wise, for example, to suggest (and quite wrongly) that a fundamental difference between east and west is that the Russian starves on black bread while the American gorges on cantaloupe?

Is it wise to portray to our fledglings a Russian burlesque type of a viciousness and bestiality unequalled even by some of the Dick Tracy characters?

Is it sensible in a time of great issues between Russia and the West and with peace as the prize to make up an issue just for the kiddies?

• • •

It would be simpler—and oh so much safer—to make out a case for Fisher and his American-ism. Everyone will concede that it's no longer sensible to hope that a be-nice-to-Russia attitude will bring rewards. Even those of us who persisted in the hope that the manoeuvres of great powers would work out must acknowledge that Russia's behaviour has been unforgivable. Fisher, too, has certain precedents for his make-believe.

Yet, all these things considered, this comic sequence is a crude distortion and over-simplification of today's no-so-cold war, is as much in the realm of propaganda as the Russian press we deplore.

I don't believe it's the kind of education in world affairs that most Canadians would want their children to have. In most cases it is the only kind they are getting.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Within our generation, there have been no really great natural disasters such as earthquakes, tidal waves and other eruptions that shake the very soul of little man. All the disasters of a very disastrous half-century have been man-made. The two gigantic wars, the great depression in between, the famines of Asia—all were largely to be credited to man himself, his folly and his greed.

Instead of shaking us, these disasters, by some queer trick of human psychology, merely increased the sense of power and authority with which humanity has vested itself in our colossal half-century. We now think we rule this little planet.

And this little planet has been suspiciously, dangerously docile for fifty years. There was a Japanese earthquake, it is true: but where is Japan And who, pray, the Japanese? It is true there was a whopper of an earthquake in San Francisco near the start of the century. But California always was a bit flamboyant.

Yet in the long past, there were enough eruptions of nature somewhere in what then was the heart of civilization to keep man humble. There were volcanoes blowing their tops, earthquakes, tidal waves that bereft whole nations of their shipping, storms of unsurpassed violence, dreadful plagues, bubonic and cholera, that swept the world; fires.

Any vanity that man at large allowed himself was always confined to a narrow field. Nature all-powerful lorded above him everywhere. It could be that much of the evil of our time comes out of our infernal if unconscious vanity.

Three More Regular Baptists Fined, Jailed

Val d'Or, Que., Oct. 17—CP— Three more Regular Baptists were sentenced Monday to two-month jail terms and fined $40 and costs when found guilty of illegally holding street meetings.

Sentenced were Helen Hall, 19, of 107 South Oval, Hamilton, Maurice Boillat and Eileen Veals, both of Noranda, Que.

In line with recent similar cases here, if court costs are not paid at expiration of jail term, the three will serve an additional two months.

All three pleaded innocent.

Before passing sentence, recorder J.L. Baillargeon noted that insults had been hurled by a crowd gathered about the speakers who were rushed to police station to avoid possible injury.

This is the first time that the crowd had been hostile but "I warn you and others that on another occasion, Val d'Or police may not be able to control the crowd . . . I give notice that the town of Val d'Or will not be responsible for accidents that may happen to you.

"The police will do all they can to protect you against mob action but it is you who collect the mob."

SMOKING AND CANCER

The specific cause of cancer is as yet unknown. It would seem that several factors may play a part. Irritants of various sorts, both mechanical and chemical, have long been known as factors in the production of cancer. Certain chemical substances can be depended upon to cause cancer in animals when applied to the skin.

The effect of smoking tobacco on health has frequently been investigated. The results of these investigations have been variable. One is sometimes almost forced to conclude that the result of the investigation depends upon what one is trying to prove.

You may be interested in the figures that resulted from a recent study based upon over six hundred cases of cancer of the bronchial tubes.

About 95 per cent of the men who were found to have cancer of the bronchial tubes were smokers. Cancer of the lung in men who did not smoke was found in only 2 per cent of the group under study. Cancer of the lung may occur as late as ten years after the patient has stopped smoking. About 95 per cent of the patients with cancer of the lung were cigarette smokers. 4 per cent were pipe smokers and 3½ per cent were cigar smokers. (Some smoked all three).

Now mind you, I do not say that 95 per cent of all cigarette smokers are doomed to get cancer of the lungs. I merely quote figures which showed that of 600 persons who had cancer of the lungs, about 95 per cent of them were cigarette smokers.

These figures are significant. Why should anybody want to gamble on their chances?

To the smoker, smoking is a pleasant habit, however offensive it might be to the non-smoker. Everyone who has had the experience knows that it is difficult for a confirmed smoker to give up the habit. The easiest way to stop smoking is to never commence. There seems very little justification for the necessity of a young person to take up smoking.

To the middle aged or elderly person an occasional smoke may seem to supply a type of comfort not otherwise available by equally harmless means.

It is a common experience among physicians to find that smoking produces a number of undesirable effects. There are those persons, for example, who appear to be somewhat "sensitive" to tobacco and who react very badly to it every time they smoke. Others commonly suffer from chronic cough, lack of appetite, "dopiness," nervous instability and symptoms resembling those of peptic ulcer.

Commonly, all these symptoms disappear upon cessation of smoking, in persons who have the symptoms because of smoking. To be sure, some persons have these symptoms who never smoke. (I have to watch everything).

It is bad enough to run the risk of acquiring cancer of the lung at some stage in life as the result of smoking. In fact it would be hard to think of anything much worse. But regardless of that possibility, why should a young person acquire the habit anyhow? Certainly no one would suggest that smoking enhances or improves health!

Parents would serve their children's welfare mightily by constantly and assiduously discouraging them from adopting the habit of smoking.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

School Books

Our 6th grade class is studying communicable diseases such as measles, scarlet fever and common cold. If you will please send us some pamphlets on these we will appreciate it very much. (C. M.)

Would you send me some pamphlets on the common cold and other diseases. (W. A.)

Answer—Write your state department of health for such pamphlets. I'm afraid neither your local health authorities nor your teachers would thank me for putting unconventional ideas in your young mind.

Painful Cramps Relieved

I suffered a great deal with painful leg cramps at night, especially when I was pregnant. But since religiously following a high calcium diet and supplementing it with calcium and B as described in your booklet I have enjoyed freedom from such trouble. This is only one of many blessings I have to thank you for. (Mrs. B. L. M.)

Answer—And you, Ma'am, are one of the few who bother to write a word of thanks. For copy of booklet The Calcium Shortage send 25c and stamped self-addressed envelope.

ORCHESTRAL AUTUMN

The beauty and fascination of Autumn lie in its orchestration and myriad movements. Driving over our beautiful highways and noting this Autumnal glory of the trees, we cannot help but feel its composition of soft and soothing music. Not the mixture of colors as the sun bathes the leaves of some and almost hides others, into softening shadows.

The heart bears even though the ears do not. These wonderful sights are spiritual pictures that easily inspire ectasy and wonder. As John Muir has so beautifully written: "We hear only woodpeckers and squirrels and the rush of turbulent streams. But imagination gives us the sweet music of tiniest insect wings, enables us to hear, all around the world, the vibration of every needle, the waving of every bole and branch, the sound of stars in circulation like particles in the blood."

Walk into the forest at this seasonal section of the year. Sit upon a high rock or hill. Look about you. Listen! You will not only experience the thrill of colorful music, but inhale fragrance as well. I wonder why all this Autumn change? How intimate it is to the melodious mellowing of our lives as human beings, as we enter into the experience of this Autumn celebration!

The leaves change into their most extravagant colorings; the apples ripen and smile out from loaded trees. Other fruits do the same. How luscious the tightly packed bunches of grapes. And the golden grain — wheat, corn, rye, readied for man's sustenance and life. Who wants to remain forever young, save in spirit and enthusiasm? Life's great beauty is born as the colors change!

Listen to the wind, as this orchestral Autumn moves the leaves, distributing and tossing them to their mother earth, with sounds like the rustling of silken gowns at a wedding ceremony. Later how gentle is the movement of these fallen leaves, as the greater winds sweep them across the ground, distributing them to their final nests in sleep, completing the symphony of our orchestral Autumn days.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

THE PAPER AGE

Thomas Carlyle called the age just previous to the French Revolution "The Paper Age." If there were ever an unrealistic lot of thinkers they were the men of the eighteenth century, who talked about liberty, equality, and the social contract and then lived to see their ideals lead to servitude.

Our own age today might be called a paper age. We read more books, magazines and newspapers in a day than our forebears read in a decade. There are theories galore today explaining what is the matter with the world, how we can avoid trouble and gain happiness, how we can develop scintillating personalities, how we can rise from poverty to power. Of course, people have been achieving all these things in every age by the very simple method of achieving them without much thought about the matter, one way or the other. This age must have some tremendous theory to explain everything. We know all the euphemisms by which we can rebaptize vices and call them virtues, drag discredited social panaceas from the grave and set them up as the most recent evidence of progress.

And still our problems remain with us. A paper age never solves anything, because life is, at one and the same time, too complex and too simple to admit of such solutions.

"He keeps telling me that be- re he married me I must have n around with everyone," she rites, "and although our first by is just the picture of him, e says it didn't belong to him. him I always stayed at and never went out with yone but him. He says that's lie, and he goes around giving e mean looks and calling me mes. Every time he drinks, he en beats me up. He says that ts of times he doesn't even feel e coming home, and that he esn't feel toward the children e way he should.

"I have told him I was sorry, at I shouldn't have done what did, but no one ever explained ything to me. He always tells e how stupid I was. I said that would see that my daughters e told things before they start oing out, things that every other should tell her girls.

"How can I make things hap- er in our home?"

I wish I could tell this abused ife what she could do to bring bout a different atmosphere in er home. Unfortunately, this ould involve a complete change f character on the part of her usband, something that is most nlikely to occur. Any man who keep insulting his wife be- of an incident for which he as almost entirely to blame is ot a person with any basic de- ncy on which to build.

According to her own story, hich I believe to be completely ue, she was unusually inno- ent for a modern girl. The man ith whom she has the misfor- une to fall in love took advan- ge of that innocence. Now he erates her for his own treachery.

Why should she have apolo- ized to him for the error of dgment into which he deliber- tely led her? Why should she ave been made to feel that she, nd she alone, was to blame for hat happened? It's hardly like- y that it's a sense of his own uilt that makes her husband try o convince her that she is the ulprit, and so rid himself of re- ponsibility. Rather, it's because is mind is so warped, and his orale sense so distorted, that e's incapable of seeing anything s it really is.

Quite obviously, this young has been a faithful wife devoted mother ever since er marriage. I think it would be great mistake for her to go on aking undeserved abuse, par- icularly when physical violence nters into it.

I think she should go to whatever social agency there is in her town and tell her story. It may be that arrangements could be made to have her young children cared for temporarily in a foster home or something of the sort. Then, after the child that is on the way is born, plans might be made for her to go to work, and gradually she could develop for herself a new and happier way of living. There is no reason in the world why her whole life should be ruined because of the contemptible meanness of the man who betrayed her.

MARIO . . . in his distinctive feature about Food . . . What's Cooking?

U.S. soldiers are not content with just a stack of bread and meat. A hundred years ago, American soldier were issued 1 1-4 pounds of beef a day, 18 ounces of bread and no vegetables. Fruits such as peaches were considered poisonous. Eating tomatoes was considered fatal.

There were few green vegetables grown because the word vitamin was not yet a part of language. Such things as spinach and string beans were classified as good food for rabbits but of not much use for human beings.

Even in those days, however, a meat stew included vegetables, even if they were only such flavoring vegetables as onions and carrots.

A good stew does not invariably have to consist of meat, carrots and potatoes. Breast of veal with celery and mushrooms is a savory combination as irresistible as any of the old standby stews.

The breast of veal contains large bones which are somewhat wasteful, but they give the gravy its incomparable flavor.

Breast of Veal Stew—Serves 4.

Order 2 to 2 1-2 pounds breast of veal cut into squares about 1 1-2 inches.

In a stew pot or saucepon melt 2 tablespoons fat. Add 1-3 cup onion chopped fine and 1-4 teaspoon chopped oregano. Simmer slowly until onion turns yellow.

Add meat. Stir well. Cook slowly until meat loses red color. Add 2 tablespoons flour mixing well. Add 2 tablespoons finely chopped parsley.

Add 3 cups water, 1-2 cup chopped, canned tomatoes, 2 bouillon cubes, 1 teaspoon salt and 1-8 teaspoon pepper. Bring liquid to a boil. Remove scum.

Reduce flame so that liquid merely simmers. Cook until meat is almost tender, about 2 hours. Skim fat from stew.

Cut 1 cup celery into 1-2 inch squares and 1-4 pound mushrooms into 1-4 inch thick slices. Add celery and mushrooms to stew. Cover with a tight lid, and cook until celery is tender. Add salt and pepper to taste.

In a separate saucepan cook 1 package of frozen peas until tender. Spoon peas over veal on serving plates.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

It's as easy to write 'and' as it is to write '&'

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My sister has volunteered to address my wedding invitations when they arrive, and I am delighted, because she has a beautiful handwriting. But we are at odds about using the sign of 'and' (&) for the word and. She has always had the habit of abbreviating 'and' in all her notes and letters, and always addresses an envelope to husband and wife as "Mr. & Mrs. ———." I think this is very poor form and poor taste, and I am unwilling to have this done on my wedding invitations. But my sister says I'm being extremely fussy, that either form is correct, and that she's sure you will agree with her. So, Mrs. Beeckman?

Dora M.

Not so, Miss Dora M.; definitely not so. Your sister is absolutely wrong . . . I don't agree with her, and I feel as you do, that this blatant error of using the sign of and (&) on such formal and dignified items as wedding invitation envelopes would ruin the appearance of the envelopes, no matter how handsome the handwriting. Abbreviations are out of place on envelopes, really on all envelopes, but particularly on envelopes containing invitations and announcements. . . the only allowable ones are the necessary ones—"Mr." or "Mrs." or "Jr.". Give your sister a pat on the back. . . enthusiastically assure her that it is a shame to waste her beautiful handwriting on abbreviations! Please don't abbreviate 'and', dear sister, or "Street" or "Avenue", or the name of the city or the name of the state.

Two wedding attendants to attend their silver anniversary

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Soon my husband and I are to celebrate our Twenty-fifth wedding anniversary, and we are planning to give a reception at our house, on the day, four to seven o'clock. We have two children, a son and a daughter. At our wedding my husband's brother was best man, and my sister was maid of honor—and, fortunately, these two are to be present at the celebration. How should the receiving be done at the reception? What part should our children take at the reception? And what about the two wedding attendants?

S. L. W.

You and your husband (you at the right of your husband) stand together just inside the door of the living room, or whichever room you are to receive in. I think it would add charmingly and significantly to the occasion for you to have the two attendants receive with you. And it would be helpful and co-operative for your children to circulate among the guests, making necessary introductions, seeing that guests are directed (or that elderly ones are escorted) to the dining-room for refreshments, and seeing that everyone is made comfortable and happy. I also suggest that you invite several decorative-looking women relatives or friends of yours to preside over the tea-table, two for each hour or half hour of the reception.

Bride informally-dressed may carry Bible

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

(1) At a small informal church wedding, the bride wearing a beige dress, would it be correct for her to carry a Bible with an orchid on it, instead of carrying a bouquet?

(2) If this is correct, what would the maid of honor carry?

T. S.

(1) Yes . . . it would be correct for the bride to carry a Bible with an orchid on it, preferably a white orchid.

(2) The maid of honor might carry a small old-fashioned nosegay, or, if her dress is very informal, she might wear a corsage.

The Case of the Unopened Letter

Although she put it out of sight when it arrived, the unopened letter worried her all day. And even when she came home from work again, she couldn't bring herself to open it immediately.

She knew who the letter was from. She knew it contained the bills for little Judith's illness. But what she feared to know was the amount of this new debt, the size of this added threat to the family she was now solely responsible for.

Jim had always said that the last act of his life would not be that of going into debt. And it wasn't. But there was so little left over now—no fund for the unexpected emergencies that had arisen during the difficult first year of adjustment.

And now faced with this latest emergency Mary was afraid. Afraid that her family's slender thread of security would snap under the strain.

Think. Could this happen to your wife?

English Star Jean Simmons Bans Bathing Suit on N.Y. Trip

New York, (AP)—Jean Simmons, the stunning English movie star, upset the traditional arrangements when she reached New York. It's almost an unwritten law for overseas movie stars en route to Hollywood to pose in bathing suits—and say anything that might make the newspapers.

Miss Simmons didn't even bring a bathing suit. And it's not because she hasn't the figure for it. At 21 she's played everything from Ophelia in "Hamlet" to a 19th century juvenile delinquent in "Great Expectations".

She'd fill a bathing suit very nicely. But, she says, "we don't go in much for cheesecake over there. We're more subtle about sex appeal. I think it's more effective that way. We don't throw it at them.

"It isn't that our men aren't interested," she hastened to add. "They're human. But sex appeal doesn't always consist of showing as much as possible."

"It's not that Jean isn't constructed along cheesecake lines. She's afraid that if she starts climbing into skimpy swin suits and starts posing sitting on cakes of ice, she'll be doing it at the expense of more serious roles.

"Besides, the people in England would be quite surprised to see me in a bathing suit or a filmy negligee. Because I started in films at such an early age, they still think of me as a baby. There was quite a furore when I played my first romantic scene. It was something like what happened to Shirley Temple over here."

No Drama Training

Although the lovely and versatile Miss Simmons played Ophelia at the age of 18—"it's every actress' dream"—and has portrayed an amazing variety of roles, she has never had any real dramatic training.

"My sister and I were in dancing school in London when the studio asked the school to send over some girls to try out for a small part," she explains. "I got the job and I've been in movies ever since. I've done one play, but all I know about acting is what I've learned from actual experience and watching others."

Under personal contract to J. Arthur Rank, Jean would like to make a movie in Hollywood if it can be arranged. "Any part will do if it's good," she says.

Later she intends to marry and raise a family, despite the fact that her cooking talents as of today consist of the ability to make "a pretty good cup of tea. I can fry an egg. Scrambling is a little harder."

The hazel-eyed beauty came to New York for the premiere Oct. 9 of her newest film, "Trio", a collection of three Somerset-Maugham stories.

Trend Changes to Low Heels, Plainer Shoes in U.K. Footwear

London—CP—Medium heels and "flatees" are this year's choice in British footwear.

"Shoes will be smart, but plainer than they have been for 15 years," said one leading manufacturer.

The latest in heels is 1 1-2 to 2 1-2 inches for styles which formerly called for greater height. Simple and well-made in good leather and reptile skins, the Louis-heeled numbers with plain narrow fronts, may become a popular choice.

Reptile skins include the exceptionally hard-wearing armadillo and latest skin innovations are cod fish and catfish.

For a dull-surface, grey-black shoe, cod is suggested. If, however, you desire more color, the catfish is striped with the markings of a tiger.

Flatees are now correct with any costume, including evening and formal wear. Simply-styled, weighing as little as five ounces, they have a soft pliability which makes them generally useful.

"Our claim is absolute comfort from the minute you first wear the shoes," said a Norwich maker of suede, tartan lined ballerina slippers with wedge sole and tiny heel.

Highlighting the evening range are strip sandals with interlacing forming vamp and back. Slim, slender and feminine, with a "naked" look to the front, they will be on sale by Christmas priced around $8.50

One gold-kid style with asymmetrical strip-front has a wedge heel with cut-away back for lightness, giving it the look of a Louis heel.

A favorite evening choice will be one of three velvet styles ranging from 38s 11d (55) to 48s. Velvet is in high demand especially with jewelry embroidery. Another choice is black gabardine with black brocade embroidery.

Winter bootees are slimmer and more elegantly styled than in previous years. Colors are bright, with a good selection of tartan. A pretty "Annie get your gun" style, in brown suede lined with sheepskin, has slim, pointed toe and high heel. The calf-length top is decorated with hand-sewn daisies.

Reduction in Charges Made At Request of Crown Attorney Says Morality Squad Head

No Good at School But Earns His Degree

In Copenhagen, Denmark, Winston Churchill received an honorary degree of doctor of philosophy. Commented Mr. Churchill: "I was never very good at school examinations, but now I have more degrees than examinations I have passed. And now I am treated as if I were a learned man." — Central Press Canadian.

Windsor, Ont., Oct. 17 — (CP) — Windsor's new police commission today continues its investigation of law enforcement here following a review of case records of persons arrested by the police morality squad.

The three-man commission met behind closed doors for an hour after yesterday's open meeting. The chairman, Judge Archibald Cochrane, declined to say what was discussed or what would be dealt with at today's meeting.

Judge Cochrane sifted a stack of records of liquor, gambling and bawdy-house cases handled by the morality squad during the last 3½ years, and questioned Sgt. Browne, morality squad head, regarding a score of them.

Two of the cases were of Windsor women who had escaped trial on serious liquor counts and were instead convicted on lesser charges.

Sgt. Browne told the commission that the reduction in charges had been made at the request of the Crown Attorney's office. Original charges laid by police against Edna White and Edna Cobb of keeping liquor for sale, which could have brought jail terms on conviction, were dropped, he said. The women pleaded guilty instead to illegal possession of liquor and were fined.

Of other cases checked by the commission — some given only passing notice — Judge Cochrane noted 11 in which bootleggers were convicted and sentenced to jail terms.

Refused to Sign

Another case was that of Catherine Walika, acquitted on a charge of keeping liquor for sale when the court found insufficient evidence. Sgt. Browne said the woman admitted being in charge of premises where his squad seized 174 bottles of beer, but had refused to sign a statement admitting the fact.

Judge Cochrane, noting the lengthy liquor records of a Windsor couple, Delmar and Kate Hoobler, asked why they had not been charged as second offenders. Conviction as such carried a jail penalty.

Sgt. Browne said he did not know why such charges were not laid.

Hoobler was jailed for two months last year, but other liquor convictions against him and his wife resulted only in fines.

"Quite obviously the imposition of fines isn't sufficient to keep these people from their activities," the judge remarked.

The case records of Albert Begin and Harry Mayville, jointly charged this summer with keeping a bawdy house, were also reviewed. They were acquitted on that charge, but Begin was convicted and sentenced to four months in jail for keeping liquor for sale. He is appealing the case.

Had Lot of Trouble

Sgt. Browne said a young auto worker, Mike Nidoff, was wounded at the premises run by the two and added that police had had "a lot of trouble" with Mayville.

The commission's present investigation was begun last month, following publication of a report by two provincial police inspectors who said they found widespread gambling and vice in Windsor with the apparent knowledge of local police.

Judge Cochrane and Magistrate Roland A. Harris were named to the commission to take the place of two members who resigned following the provincial police disclosures. Mayor Arthur J. Reaume continues as the third member.

E. C. Awrey was dismissed as Crown Attorney at the same time as the commission reorganization.

London Council Votes For Hearing By Commission

London, Ont., Oct. 17 (CP) — City Councillors Monday night re-affirmed their request for a police commission hearing on the dismissal of detective Allan Rush in the face of a strongly worded letter from Ontario Attorney-General Dana Porter.

Ald. A. M. Towe accused Mayor George A. Wenige, chairman of the police commission which fired the detective at the end of 16 years on the police force, with attempting to get the attorney-general to protect him.

The council chamber area of city hall was packed as council voted eight-one to approve the decision to request a hearing made last week in committee sessions.

Mayor Wenige alone voted against the proposal.

A resolution from London Labor Council asking city council to "demand" that the police commission grant the former detective a public hearing, was laid over "temporarily" pending a reply from the commission.

Mayor Wenige was in Toronto most of Monday on a mission that went unexplained at city hall. He returned with the letter from Mr. Porter. It read:

"In our conversation today the general condition of the police force in London was discussed. Apparently there has been some criticism from certain quarters as to certain actions of the police commission which have been causing you and others in London some concern.

Lies With Commission

"As you are fully aware, the full responsibility for the discipline and the administration of the police force in a municipality is in the hands of the police commission. The commission must use its own judgment with situations that arise and in the hiring and the appointment and dismissal of members of the force. Unless the commission may freely exercise its best judgment in these matters it is quite obvious that the discipline and the morals of the force could not be maintained.

"I may say, without hesitation, that I have complete confidence in the police commission of the city of London. The high quality of the London police force and its reputation for discipline and efficiency is the best possible evidence of the good judgment and fair dealing of the London police commission."

The letter was addressed to the mayor.

COUGHS UP PIPE STEM

Perth Australia, Oct. 17 — (Reuters) Twenty-eight years ago Arthur Bradley Gardiner, pipe in mouth, tried to recharge a lighting plant with carbide when it exploded, injuring him. His pipe bowl was found on the floor then. Now he has found the stem. He was coughing and it "came up."

Even Bartender Entitled to Drink At End of Night

Newark, N.J., Oct. 17—AP—Even a bartender is entitled to a drink after a hard night's work, a magistrate decided today.

Bartender Arthur M. Rogers, 51, was brought into court on a charge of setting up a drink of gin after legal hours.

Rogers said he was merely taking a drink himself after the bar was closed.

The judge peered at the law which prohibits "selling or serving of intoxicants after 2 a.m."

He decided Rogers was neither selling nor serving, but just helping himself.

Member Meets With Opposition From Indian Chief

Sarnia, Oct. 17—(CP)—J. W. Murphy, Progressive Conservative member of parliament for Lambton West, said Monday he will urge the federal government to transfer the 40,000-acre Sarnia Indian Reserve south of the city for use as an industrial area.

Mr. Murphy said he understood only about 300 of the reserve's 4,000 acres are under cultivation and the whole area is sparsely settled.

The idea met immediate opposition from Chief Telford Adams of the Ojibway Indians. He said the band would fight any attempt to expropriate the reservation.

"J. W. Murphy betrays ignorance of both history and of the provisions of the Indian Act when he advocates expropriation of the Sarnia reserve for industrial purposes," said Chief Adams. "Section 52 of the (Indian) Act provides that Indian lands may be expropriated by the crown 'when such land lies within or adjacent to any town or city with 8,000 or more inhabitants.'"

"I should like to remind Mr. Murphy that the Sarnia reserve does not touch the boundaries of the city of Sarnia at any point. It is bounded on the north and east by the township of Sarnia; on the south by the township of Moore and on the west by the St. Clair River.
